The dead boxer was one of the leading bantamweights in the country and was a favorite among New York fans who knew him as the "Bronx Spider". He had fought a large number of bouts both here and throughout the country and was regarded as a dangerous contender for the title held by Joe Lynch.

His bout with Taylor, which was held at Madison Square Garden, was arranged to help him in his advance toward a meeting with the titleholder. The Terre Haute boxer turned out to be one of the most aggressive and hardest hitting men for his weight that had exhibited in that boxing ring in a long time and severely pounded his opponent from the opening until he knocked him out in the 12th and last round.

Jerome was knocked down in the eleventh round and appeared very groggy as he sat in his corner awaiting the call for the twelfth. Taylor scored a knockout before the end of the first minute of the last round had expired, hurting the Bronx boxer so badly that he had to be carried to his dressing room. It took ten minutes there to bring him to consciousness.

Jerome was taken from the garden to Bellevue hospital in a taxicab. After a preliminary examination surgeons said that although they could find no evidence of a blow, they believed he had a compound fracture of the skull. Later the surgeons said he was suffering from complete exhaustion and would recover.

Early today, however, he grew worse and it was decided to operate. When this decision was made known to him, he was conversing with Tex Rickard, who promoted the fight, and Billy Gibson, his manager. As attendants came to take him to the operating room, he turned to his friends and said: "Well, boys, I guess this is my last fight."

Rickard appeared very much perturbed when he learned of the boxer's death. "I am very, very sorry," he said. "This is the first time that anything like this has happened in a fight that I promoted."

LARGE FIELD FOR GOLF TOURNEY AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13. — Two hundred and forty golfers are entered in the California open championship tournament, which will open a three-day session at the Los Angeles Country club tomorrow.

The schedule calls for 18 holes medal play Monday, and Tuesday, with the low sixty-four competing in the 36 holes final round Wednesday. The opening round will find several leading players pitted against each other. Joe Kirkwood, former Australian open champion, and present California open champion, will meet Fred Wright of Los Angeles, member of the Walker cup team which successfully invaded England in 1922. Gene Sarazen, national professional champion, is pairwith Johnny McHugh.

Arthur Havers, open champion of Great Britain, will meet Arnold Stats, Chicago, Cub outfielder, who also is a leading local amateur golfer. John Black of Wichita, Kansas, runner-up to Sarazen in the national open championship of 1922; James Cokenden, open champion of France; Willie Hunter, former British amateur champion; George Von Elm, former transmississippi champion, and MacDonald Smith, of San Francisco, has as opponents players of lesser renown. Eddie Loos, high ranking professional, will compete against Maurice E. McLoughlin, former national tennis champion.

VEACH WILL QUIT BASEBALL UNLESS DEMANDS ARE GRANTED

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 13. — Bobby Veach, for the last 11 years a member of the Detroit Tigers, today declared he was standing by his ultimatum announced yesterday that unless he received $1,000 above his salary from the Boston American league club to defray moving expenses, he was through with baseball.

What inducement the Boston club had offered Veach for his services could not be learned from either Veach or the Tiger officials. Veach declared that unless the Boston club "came through" with the sum he had demanded, he would remain in Detroit and devote his time to his automobile business.

"It was not my fault that I remained on the bench the greater part of last year", Veach said. "I was willing to play, and was sure I hadn't slowed up to any appreciable extent. I gave the Detroit club eleven years of good service, and when I came here from Indianapolis, it cost them nothing to have two broken down baseball players. I was given an unfair deal and there will be no compromise."

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 13.—The Gordon international medal competition, the blue ribbon event of the curling world, will be staged in this city February 1. Leading rinks of the United States and Canada will compete. It is expected Canada will send 10 or 12 rinks for the competition.

The national Gordon match will be played at Schenectady, January 29, and the annual Mitchell medal and Allen memorial competitions will be staged here January 31 and February 1. Leading eastern curler will visit Saranac Lake February 4 to compete in the Peterson memorial match play.

PRINCETON HOCKEY PLAYER DIES OF INJURIES

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 13.—Harold S. Reese of Cedarhurst, L. I., a member of the Princeton freshman hockey team, died in the McCosh infirmary today from an injury, which he received yesterday when he was struck in the head by a hockey stick in the course of a game between the Princeton freshmen and a team representing the New York branch of the Canadian Royal bank.

ARMY-NAVY TEAM TO PLAY SO. MANCHESTER "RECS" AGAIN

On Tuesday evening at Parish hall, the Army and Navy quintet will try to stage a come-back against the fast "Recs" five of South Manchester. The Manchester team trimmed the Taftville team last week and the boys are out for revenge. The beating was the first that the Army-Navy team has suffered this season and will try and even up matters on Tuesday evening.

ANDERSON WILL COMPETE IN 1924 DAVIS CUP PLAY

New York, Jan. 13—Despite his announced retirement from International competition for business reasons, James O. Anderson, Australian tennis star, may again represent the antipodes in the 1924 Davis cup contest.

The United States lawn tennis association has received advices that virtually a National movement among Australian court enthusiasts is on foot to have Anderson named for the 1924 challenging team, particularly because of a feeling on the continent "Down under" that there is a bright chance of lifting the historic trophy from the United States next season.

So far, Australia's team plans have made no mention of Anderson but named Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, the 1922 challenging team, as probable competitors with Norman E. Brookes, wizard of former days, as likely captain.

RIVERVIEW INDOOR BASEBALL TEAM AT ARMORY TONIGHT

The Riverview indoor baseball team, led by Joe Faber, International league star will meet the Battery B team tonight at the State Armory in what is expected to be the toughest game of the indoor season. Battery B has won the indoor league title and Faber's huskies are challengers for the title The game is slated to start promptly at 9 o'clock.

Faber has picked his team with care and expects to have the best indoor aggregation that has yet played at the armory. His lineup will be as follows: Manchester, c; Faber p; Coullard1b; West ss; Mills 2b; Shaffrick ss; Sank 3b; Leo lf; Dennison cf; Murphy rf. This is only a tentative lineup and maybe changed by Captain Faber before the game starts. Faber, who pitched the last game for the Nuggets set a record for strike-outs and in this one game proved himself to be the best underhand hurler that has yet worked in the box this season. Manchester is rated as the best catcher of the league and this battery should work well this evening.

RED SOX GET FIVE PLAYERS IN TRADE

Boston, Jan. 13.—President Robert Quinn of the Boston American league club last night confirmed reports of two deals which he said would "materially strengthen the Red Sox behind the bat in the infield and in the outfield."

To the Boston club will come Bobby Veach, outfielder, from the Detroit club, and Catcher Steve O'Neill, Second Baseman William Wambsganss, Pitcher Boone and Outfielder Connolly. George Burns, first baseman; Wilson (Chick) Fewster, second baseman, and Al Walters, catcher, leave the Boston club for Cleveland.

Veach in Cash Deal.

President Quinn in his anouncement said that the acquisition of Veach was through an outright cash deal with the Detroit Tigers, but the amount of money involved was not made public. The Cleveland deal, he said, was a trade with no cash figuring in it, merely an exchange of three Red Sox players for four from Cleveland.

FIRPO STARTS TRAINING FOR LODGE AND SPALLA

Buenos Aires, Jan. 13.—Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight fighter, has started training for his coming fights with "Farmer" Lodge and Erminio Spalla. Tomorrow he is to have his first workout with the negro, Calvin Respress, who was brought to Buenos Aires from the United States by Firpo.

According to the present arrangements, Firpo will meet Lodge during the first fortnight in February and Spalla during the second fortnight.

AMERICAN SKI TEAM PICKED FOR OLYMPICS

New York, Jan. 13.—The American Olympic committee today announced that the American ski team to compete in the Olympic contests will consist of: Ragnar Omtvedt of Grand Beach, Mich., Sigurd Overby of St. Paul, Minn., John Carleton, formerly of Dartmouth; Anders Haugen of Minneapolis, Lemoine Batson of Eau Claire, Wis., and Harry Lien of Chicago.

The committee decided to enter six skiiers, including Haugen and Overby, whose eligibility was questioned this week, so in case there were any disqualifications a team would still remain.

"After a thorough investigation of the cases of the men whose elegibility was questioned," said Mr. Rubien today, "the American Olympic authorities are convinced that they are entitled to compete as amateurs, the alleged connection of these men with professional ski jumping was misconstrued, and the term 'professional' does not apply to them in the generally accepted sense.

"This opinion is strengthened by the fact that Omtvedt, when he competed in amateur events in Norway last year, was assured by Roald Amundsen, noted explorer and ski authority, that there was no question about his amateur eligibility."

DEMPSEY AND GIBBONS TO SIGN WITHIN TWO WEEKS

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 13.—Articles for a return match between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons probably will be signed within two weeks, Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, stated upon his arrival here today.

"We haven't signed up to this time," Kearns said, "but I expect all details will be taken care of when I get back to New York. The bout probably will take place the latter part of May or early in June."

"There is also a good prospect for another bout with Firpo a little later."

FOHL BELIEVES RED SOX WILL FINISH HIGH IN PENNANT RACE THIS YEAR

Cleveland, Jan. 13.—With the acquisition of Second Baseman Wambsganss and Catcher Steve O'Neill from Cleveland in yesterday's trade, Manager Lee Fohl declared tonight that he expects his Red Sox to finish high in the pennant race this season.

"Wamby" and O'Neill went to Boston with Pitcher "Dan" Boone and Outfielder Joe Connolly in a trade for First Baseman George Burns, Catcher Al Walters and Infielder "Chick" Fewster.

The Red Sox infield more than likely will line up with Joe Harris on first base; "Wamby" second; Dudley Lee, formerly with the St. Louis Brown, at shortstop, and Norman McMillan on third base. Fohl said. Howard Shanks will again be utility infielder.

Fohl will choose his outfield from seven men. He is of the opinion that Bobby Veach will report.

O'Neill, Devormer and Picinich will form the catching staff with Emke, Quinn, Ferguson and Piercy forming the nucleus of his pitching staff. Under the tutelage of himself and O'Neill who will be the Red Sox mainstay behind the bat, Fohl believes that Murray and Fullerton will show improvement. Others he expects much of are Pitchers Fuhr, who won 23 games with Mobile last year; Marshall, a big right hander from San Antonio, and "Dan" Boone.

A stirring, gripping romance of the screen has been made from Arthur Somers Roche's powerful story of humanity.

And above the turmoil of modern life a message of faith and kindness is heard. Here is a truly great film!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"THE DAY OF FAITH AT THE BREED

A motion picture which is entirely out of the ordinary was shown last night at the Breed Theatre, which interested the audiences which saw it immensely, and made a profound impression upon them. It is called "The Day of Faith" and was made for Goldwyn Pictures Corporation by Tod Browning from Arthur Somers Roche's novel.

Jane Maynard, believing that the burglar whom she holds responsible for her old father's death, was shielded from proper punishment by the idealist, Bland Hendricks, who promulgated the doctrine, "My neighbor is perfect," throws herself unreservedly into an attack on his standing in the community that he has spurred and feathered, dying from his injuries. In her remorse and horror, the girl embraces the doctrine of perfection which Hendricks had been preaching and through her espousal of that cause, is drawn into an intensely dramatic and highly emotional and spiritually significant story, which includes Michael Anstell, the richest man in the world, John Anstell, his son, who falls in love with Jane, and Tom Barnett, a reporter whom Anstell engages to hold Jane up to the public ridicule, but who is converted to her way of thinking and then falls in love with her. The story ran serially in Collier's Weekly and was then published in book form; it aroused a great stir in the literary world and judging from the screen production shown last night, it will make an equally big stir among motion picture patrons. It is capably directed by Tod Browning with an excellent cast which includes Eleanor Boardman in the leading role, with Tyrone Power, Raymond Griffith and Wallace MacDonald in other important parts. The cast is a lengthy one and contains many other well known names such as Ford Sterling, Charles Conklin, Ruby Lafayette, Jane Mercer, Edward Martineau, Winter Hall, Jack Curtis and Henry Heuard.

The production is one that can be unhesitatingly recommended to those who care for a motion picture which has intellectual content and spiritual significance, in addition to telling an intensely moving and very dramatic human story.

"The Day of Faith" will be shown at the Breed theatre again today and tomorrow and the Pathe News and an Educational comedy will make up the remainder of the bill.

MONSTER SHOW AT THE BROADWAY

Words fail to describe the wonder show of B. F. Keith Vaudeville that is scheduled for the Broadway Theatre the first half of this week.

Cannon & Lee offer a novelty.

Welch & Hazelton in "Somewhere in Town".

Dancing in a stationary skirt! In a court scene which was filmed for Pola Negri's new star picture, "The Spanish Dancer," produced for Paramount by Herbert Brenon, twenty girls perform a ballet without a single movement of the skirt being visible. The entire ballet was done with motions from the waist up. Their feet remained motionless.

The girls appear in costumes of black velvet. The skirts are spread outward from the hips with the enormous panniers popular in the early part of the seventeenth century. Across the front of the velvet skirt run two broad bands of silver. These bands are waved and as the girls stand hip to hip with swaying shoulders, the silver bands appear to flow like running water. The ballet dance is part of elaborately costumed court scenes, which take place in the throne room in the royal palace in Madrid.

"The Spanish Dancer," which the Broadway theatre is now playing is one of the most dramatic stories ever filmed. It is the first costume-picture in which Pola Negri has starred since she came to America. Featured opposite Pola Negri is Antonio Moreno with Wallace Beery, Kathlyn Williams, Gareth Hughes, Adolphe Menjou and Robert Agnew heading a strong cast.

AT THE PALACE

The vaudeville bill at the Palace Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is without doubt one of the best that could be arranged, headed by an all feature program is the Oriental Fantasies, a pretentious novelty replete with mysticism, charm and surprises. Jack Conway & Co., offer a mirth provoking number which they have entitled in the Cellar, which judging from its title will produce many a laugh. Whalen & McSheen in Two Genial Sons of Old Erin are also carrying many rounds of laughter as has Tom McRae & Co., in motorboating with gags, mirth and rythm as their offering. Paul Howard in Peculiar Twists and Turns will open what promises to be one of the Palace Theatre's best offerings of high class vaudeville. The feature picture Hope Hampton, Lew Cody, Conrad Nagel, co-starred in "Lawful Larceny". The fifth round of that jammy series Fighting Blood will also be shown, a Pathe News rounds out the program.

Sale of Cottage House.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran has sold for Angelo De F. Lincoln, the cottage house of six rooms located on Summit St., to Joseph H. Riley. Mr. Riley will occupy his new purchase as a home.

Mr. Moran has also sold the two large building lots for the estate of Ellen Connor to John Krucinski and located at the end of the Boswell avenue trolley line. Mr. Krucinski will build two modern houses on his newly acquired property.

The Lines Company Reminder.

The H. Wales Lines company of Meriden has issued its reminder for 1924, a handy book for those fortunate enough to possess it. Buildings constructed in Norwich, New London, Mansfield, South Willington and Rockville are pictured this year.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Real Estate Sold.

Through the office of the Norwich Land Title Company, Lyman L. Chapman has transferred the title of the property at 239 Broad Street to Peter and Apolonia Kolenkiewicz.

This property is a three tenement house and the new owners purchase same as an investment.

Quicker Telephone Service With New London

Beginning today quicker telephone service between New London and Norwich will be provided telephone users in this city. All number calls known as station to station calls, will be handled by the local operators, beginning today, just as a local call is now quickly cared for. Much business is transacted by telephone between these points and the quicker service is in line with the telephone company's well known policy to provide the most satisfactory service possible.

Today and hereafter, it will not be necessary for local telephone users wishing to talk with New London to ask for the toll operator. The subscriber simply gives the New London number that is wanted and the call will go through about as quickly as a local call.

The adoption of this method of speeding up calls between these two cities will undoubtedly stimulate telephone business between these exchanges for the more direct and quicker telephonic communication gradually is superseding letter writing among business men desiring quick action.

The telephone company, by this installation of additional equipment, is prepared to promptly meet the expected increase in the use of this improved toll service.

Telephone calls from here to New London on which a particular person is desired, and known as a person to person call, will be handled by the toll operator as at present, but in most cases a station to station call will serve as well as the person to person call.

AT THE STRAND

It is a source of satisfaction to see upon the screen one's favorites, we remember for some particularly brilliant pieces of work. But among the great stars of the screen there seldom comes an entertainer of more importance to the theatre than Houdini, whose versatility and thrilling, adventurous work gives to this rare artist distinction.

In "Haldane of the Secret Service," Houdini outdoes Houdini, he is disclosed as a plain clothes man, lover, adventurer, dare devil and also is surprisingly clever in the role of a juvenile.

Gladys Leslie who essays the girl in the case proves to be a smart little actress throughout the picture. The story carries the audience through various climes, while the principals unravel the mystic tale amid many sensational situations which nearly resulted in the actual loss of life during the enactment of several scenes before the camera.

Short subjects include a comedy and news weekly.

If a mother has but one boy every time she starts him off to school she imagines that he is headed for the white house.

enteen voting wet; eight or ten from Woonsocket all wet; eight from Central Falls all but two wet and ten from Pawtucket all wet but two. The South County held the balance of power in the state legislature and their support of law enforcement was the hope of Westerly, the hope of Rhode Island and the hope of the world. The good citizen should inform himself of the standing of his representative.

Resigning members of Westerly Fire Police to the Board of Engineers Saturday night, were Capt. John M. Himes, Lieut. J. Henry Burk, William E. Burk, Russell L. Slocum, Joseph Church, Charles Dione, James Brown and Edward Wilcox. A week ago the fire police held a meeting and the above named sent their resignation to the engineer to take place a week later, it being said that dissatisfaction was felt when the engineers named William A. Wilcox and James Hamilton as new fire police without consulting Chief Himes. Members of the police who did not resign were Ralph Spargo and Milo Champlin so that there are now only four fire policemen on the job. The engineers say that they invited the fire police to meet them and submit their grievances which they apparently did not care to do. The vacancies will be filled at a future engineers meeting.

When the Grand Commandery of Connecticut Knights Templar has its annual conclave in Norwich Tuesday, May 6th, Columbian Commandery, K. T., is planning to have as guests from Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T. of the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island and Palestine Commandery of New London.

Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard, "The silver-tongued orator of the Rockies" of the National Reform Association, Pittsburgh, Pa., arrived in Westerly Saturday from New York City. Saturday morning she addressed Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church on "Mormon Misuse of the Bible" and spoke on the same subject at the Pawcatuck Congregational church at 10.30 Sunday morning. "Mormon Temple Secrets" was the subject of her talk at a Women's Union service at the Calvary Baptist church Sunday afternoon. Sunday evening at 7.30 Mrs. Shepard spoke to a large congregation at a union meeting of the churches on "The Mormon Menace."

COLUMBIA

John Michaels has recently been at his home in West street on a four days' furlough from West Point, N. Y., where he has been stationed since his enlistment in the United States army. He is in training for membership in the band at the post, comprising forty-two musicians, the instruments that he is to play being the bugle, cornet, cymbals and drum Mr. Michaels is much pleased with his duties, and the compensation allowed him.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cummings, the teacher of the Pine street school, is urging her pupils to be regular and punctual at the school sessions, offering them a little inducement for perfect attendance. During the fall term Laura, Irwin and Clarence Holbrook, William La Bonte and Alice Faulkner were present every day, and recently with Abraham and Mary Dinner, who had maintained an excellent standing, their accommanied their teacher to the movies in Willimantic.

The ice and snow had made the roads so slippery Sunday and Monday of last week as to make traveling somewhat dangerous, so sand and gravel were spread upon them by the highway department.

By Thursday the weather became so warm that the ice had all disappeared, and the gravel made the roads rough for traveling.

Mrs. Howard Rice, lecturer of the grange, and her assistants held a meeting at Columbia library Monday evening to decide upon the programs to be given at the meeting of the grange during the present year.

The ditches by the sides of the asphalt roads are now as soft as in the spring and automobile drivers who do not avoid them are liable to have trouble.

Asa Wilcox of the borough was at Joseph Noyes' Thursday and assisted him in cutting and removing the two old elms which stood in front of Mr. Noyes' house.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

SATURDAY'S MARKET

New York, Jan. 12.—Today's short session in the market did not differ in any important respect from that of the average session recently. It produced a high degree of strength in some special issues in the main tent, but at the same time there was evidence of substantial realizing going on in the side shows. It is true that public participation in the recent rise has been small, then the impression one would gain from the manner in which the whole market has partaken of the semblance of strength from the action if a few issues taken in rotation is that professionals have taken quick profits without becoming heavily extended in their commitments. News that the advocates of the bonus had received another check in congress yesterday helped to keep Wall Street in cheerful mood, and the usual week-end reviews by mercantile agencies brought out the fact that in most industries some revival from the year end recession in activity had appeared. In the foreign exchange markets another severe set-back in the French francs was the feature, exchange on Paris making another low record at 4.64 1-4 cents, compared with 4.78 cents yesterday. The effect was to depress sterling to 4.26 within a fraction of its recent low and to lower to market for Belgian and the Scandinavian exchanges.

NORWICH, CONN., MONDAY, JAN. 14, 1924

The Bulletin.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

The weather chart of Sunday night showed low barometric pressure off the middle Atlantic coast, relatively high barometric pressure over the interior districts, east of the Rock Mountains, and off the north Pacific coast.

This pressure distribution has been attended by rains along the south Atlantic coast, and on the north Pacific coast, and snow flurries in the region of the Great Lakes the Ohio and upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and the northern Rocky Mountain region. In all other parts of the country the weather continued fair during the last 24 hours.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Monday and Tuesday throughout the Washington forecast district although snow flurries are probable along the northern border. The temperature will be lower Monday in the Atlantic states and it will rise Tuesday in Tennessee, the east Gulf states and the Ohio valley.

Winds.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh and strong north, shifting to northwest, rain followed by clearing weather on Monday.

Forecast.

The following officers were elected: President, Miss Mary Taggart; vice president, Miss Bertha Monty; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Houston; scribe, Miss Helen Akers; treasurer, Miss Sadie Newton; trustee of the camping fund, Miss Nyra Yarrington; program committee, Miss Helen Campbell, Miss Lillian Sticht and Miss Mary Greenhalgh; song leader, Miss Dorothy Wood, assistant song leader, Miss Mildred Kloss.

MISSIONARY TO INDIANS SPOKE AT YANTIC CHURCH

The American Indian As He Was and As He Is, was the subject treated Sunday by Nelson E. Young, of Hartford, at the morning service of the Grace Episcopal church at Yantic. Mr. Young had first hand knowledge of his subject from 23 years' missionary work among the western Indians and brought out many things concerning the history and life of the various Indian tribes from the early discovery of America down to the present, that were received by his hearers in an attitude of earnest attention. The social, political and religious characteristics of the different Indian tribes were presented in an interesting way. That Mr. Young's life among the western Indians and the knowledge he gleaned through his work among them has made him an able defender of these once great people was amply in evidence at different times during his discourse. His earnest plea to remember, the Indian found the solution of his problems in the Bible and demonstrated his faith in the Great Spirit in many ways, which was the lesson the palefaces might learn with profit in seeking eternal life.

Mr. Young also addressed the Sunday school, following the morning service, on the necessity of Bible study and what it meant in the home, the church, the community, state and nation. The Bible school was the vital thing in all of the church activities, he said, and more attention should be given to bringing out the relationship of the characters with the events and stories of the Bible and their influence upon our present civilization. Mr. Young also made a short talk to the teachers of the school after dismissal.

Burglary at Drug Store.

Burglars raised a window and got into the drug store of John A. Morgan at 427 North Main street Friday night and got as their booty about $7 in cash and two boxes of cigars. The burglary was reported to the police on Saturday morning.

Spoke at Open Forum.

Albert Boardman of this city spoke to the open forum, in the hall at 130 State street, New London, Sunday evening at 8. His subject was Labor in the Banking Business.

Reports that were current Saturday in apparently well informed circles were to the effect that Frank A. Munsey, the well known New York publisher and financier, had bought the Dawson property at 260-262 Main street, now occupied by the Mohican Co. grocery and meat market.

Local confirmation of the report could not be obtained, as Norwich representatives of the ownership stated that there was nothing to be said for publication at the present time.

Coupled with the reports of the sale was the price of $65,000 which was said to have been the consideration for this valuable piece of centrally located business property. It is a plot 50x95 feet on the northerly side of Main street at the corner of Myers alley. The entire plot is covered by a building, which is partially two-story. It has been occupied for a number of years past by the Mohican Co. store, one of the Munsey chain. About 1904 when a site for a new post office here was to be secured this plot was one of the parcels under consideration and it was reported at that time that it was offered for between $12,000 and $15,000, but it has shared in the increase in values that Norwich property, particularly in the business section, has been undergoing in that time.

The probability that Mr. Munsey was to become the holder of a piece of business property so eligibly situated for improvement was hailed as good news by Norwich business interests and the speculation was that his ownership would inevitably lead to the erection of a fine building on the site.

NORWICH AMONG LEADERS IN CHRISTMAS SEAL SALES

Between $83,000 and $84,000 will be realized from the recent seal sale in Connecticut, it was estimated at the Hartford office of the state tuberculosis commission, which has directed the sale annually during the sixteen years of its history. This is about $2,000 less than last year, and the decrease is directly attributed to the stopping of the booth sale in the post offices in New Haven, Hartford, Middletown and Rockville, by the treasury department. In Hartford and New Haven each, a loss of fully $1,000 was reported through that cause, while the Bridgeport total was about $1,000 less than last year. The reason assigned for the Bridgeport falling off is that the Community Chest drive was dated for practically the same time as the seal sale. An effort will be made to remedy this condition another year. While the Hartford total will probably be about $12,000, the New Haven about $10,000 and the Bridgeport about $6500, these cities leading the state, it is noteworthy that, although the three largest cities decreased their sales, most of the smaller cities and towns showed a slight increase, indicating that, quite generally throughout the state, the intensive fight against the disease, in the form of tuberculosis nursing, clinics and material aid for the sufferers, can be maintained during 1924. In the three largest cities of the state, unless aid from some private source is secured, it must be curtailed to some extent.

The largest percentage gains were recorded in Hamden which raised its total from $785 to about $1100, Norwich from $2120 to $2600, Moosup from $226 to $340, Middletown from $1975 to $2400, Groton from $70 to $120, Waterford from $65 to $150, Torrington from $1119 to $1200, Stafford from $174 to $300, Sprague from $163 to $275 and Greenwich from $1464 to $1700.

Last year Connecticut stood third in its per capita. Seal sale with a record of $.7, New York and New Hampshire alone surpassing it. Informal estimates indicate that the national total receipts will be about $4,000,000 this year, an increase of about $200,000. Connecticut's per capita will probably drop to about 5.6, which, although one of the highest in the country, will hardly hold the state in third place.

SCHOOL PUPILS LEARN HOW BANKS OPERATE

Pupils from Leffingwell school, Bozrah, with their teacher, Miss Alice A. Bishop, all members of the Chelsea Thrift club, visited the Chelsea Savings bank Saturday morning to see how the banking institution carried on its business.

They were greeted by Treasurer Frank Hempstead on behalf of the bank, and he introduced them to assistant treasurer, A. E. Story, who conducted the men their tour through the bank, explaining the work in detail.

The new vault was visited, filing cabinets explained, bank depositing made clear, and adding machines caused to operate. They were also shown the method by which the Thrift club is handled and were introduced to Miss May L. Bushnell, who has charge of the department.

The last trip was to the directors' room where Mr. Story spoke briefly to the children. The trip through the bank was enjoyed by the children and was a fine educational lesson for them.

The spirit shown by the bank officials and working force in welcoming this little group of depositors is worthy of comment, for in this way the men and women of the future will become familiar with the workings of the bank, and the lesson of thrift learned in this manner will be passed on to future generations.

ASKING THROUGH RATES ON BITUMINOUS COAL

The Connecticut Chamber of Commerce will ask the interstate commerce commission at a hearing to be held in Washington Monday to grant through rail rates on industrial and domestic bituminous coal to New England from the Virginia and West Virginia coal fields. If these through rail rates are granted Connecticut householders will be able to purchase coal at a much cheaper price than is asked by retailers at the present time.

This coal is smokeless and almost odorless and is considered exceptionally good as a substitute for anthracite coal. The fields where this coal is mined are non-union and consequently unaffected by strike influences.

Kenneth P. Applegate, purchasing agent of the Hartford Electric Light company, and John D. Heffernan, traffic manager of the Scovill Manufacturing company of Waterbury, will represent the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce in Washington Monday when the interstate commerce commission will hear arguments in favor of establishing through rail rates.

Of course it is all right for a bride to wait until her husband is sound asleep, then wake him up to ask if he's asleep yet.

AMERICAN LEGION PLANNING STATE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

In the first official announcement made by the state department of the American Legion, from the office of Capt. E. P. Armstrong, for the year 19924, numerous plans are made public, which, when carried out, will bring this state's department among the leaders of such departments in America. These plans touch on the increased membership of the organization, upon compensation, hospitalization, rehabilitation, employment, and many other such matters affecting ex-service men. A very constructive program is planned, and it is thought that when this program is put into effect, not only ex-service men will more vividly realize the ideals of the legion, but the public will also know the organization better.

During the month of January every legion post in the state, under the supervision of the state department, is staging a membership drive, with the object in view of having as many members Jan. 31, 1924, as were in the organization on Jan. 31, 1923. In connection with this drive, it might be said that the Waterbury post of the legion is gaining numerous members during this drive. All the posts in the state are striving for members, with new members to be counted as well as the old ones that are re-enrolled.

The first two posts in this state to report to the state department a full enrollment will be awarded prizes by the state department. With these prizes as incentives, every post in the state is putting forth their best efforts to win them. One of the first posts to report was the Stafford Springs post, where on Jan. 15th, the official of that post reported they had increased membership 100 per cent over last year, this having been done during the first 10 days of the month.

The state department has laid out a constructive program, which program is to be followed out by legion posts in every part of the state. This is one of the reasons of the membership drive, because of the fact that the organization must have numerous members to carry out the program.

During the month of February, the state department will stage a "local post membership drive." This drive will be for new members only, enrollments not to be counted, and it will be conducted by every unit of the legion in the state. It is hoped by the department that this particular drive will increase the membership at least 100 per cent.

During March, a "new post campaign" is planned. This is for the purpose of placing an American Legion post in every town, village, and hamlet, where there is none present. This alone, it is thought, will add at least 20 new posts to the state department of the organization.

The "big doings" will come in April, when, a third campaign is to be conducted, this directly by the state department. During this drive, the state department means, through the medium of publicity, to let the public know what the American Legion is doing, not only in Connecticut but throughout the world. The methods are by means of airplanes, by war tanks, by bands, by numerous other mediums, all of which will go toward making a real live campaign. This campaign, it is thought, will also add members to the American Legion.

One of the big things planned, according to the announcement, is that the department is making plans for a state legion magazine, and when this is issued, arrangements will be made to get it into the hands of every ex-service man in the state. The idea of the paper is to put the story of the legion into the hands of these ex-service men, and also get it to the general public.

The state department of the legion and its auxiliary have each appointed a committee, which is known as the "constructive program committee." These two committees have been meeting frequently in the past few weeks, and are at present laying plans of a civic and community nature.

The social program planned by the state department is also an extensive one. This department now has two minstrel troupes, both of Waterbury, one of these troupes comprising 45 girls, and the other comprises 35 men. The department uses these troupes, both of which are professional ones, for the purpose of staging shows at American Legion posts in all parts of the state, a state field meet, possibly a state fair, and a "French village fair."

Cupid would have a snap if things were so arrange that all the moonlight came in the summertime.

SPEAK ON AMERICANIZATION NEED IN NEW ENGLAND

At the Men's League of the Norwich Town Congregational church J. W. Carlevale, director of the Norwich Americanization Institute spoke Friday evening on the theme: Essential Steps in Americanization in New England. In part he said:

The foreign stock is already in the majority in New England—these strange people from afar are still coming to us in vast numbers, and they are fast buying property intending to remain here. It is folly to say we have no use for them—we will ship them back to the old country. They are here to stay and they will not go back. It is hoped that common sense American citizens will see the necessity of restrictive measures in order that we may be able to set our house in order and seriously and conscientiously set to work to mould the characters of the foreign born already here. If we do not do this there is great danger to say the least that the moral standard of American life will be lowered. We cannot afford to deceive ourselves. When the tide of barbarism rolled over ancient Rome, the dark ages began. It will not do to say that the European brings with him industry, thrift, music, art and what not. These are all valuable elements of human life and we should endeavor to make use of them as we develop the life of America. But no race or nation has even had its future guaranteed because of these qualifications. You know that it is the appreciation of the moral values which is the lasting foundation of any nation. We cannot and must not be blind to the fact that the vast majority of the people who have been coming to us in recent years are not a helpful factor—in their crude undeveloped state, in the establishment of our democratic ideals. It is true that there are many splendid men and women of our newer immigration who have become valuable and honored citizens. But we have too many men and women already here, who have not been touched by the influences of America. We cannot afford to increase this number. I am therefore heartily in favor of the restriction of immigration as it is now carried on by our government.

The speaker then went on and briefly outlined foreign conditions as there are here in Norwich. He told how hundreds of splendid foreign youths who have recently been educated in the Norwich Americanization Institute—who are now making good in almost every line of business which is a great credit to our English community. There are still in Norwich over four thousands aliens who are unable to read and write English. The institute must grow to meet the great demand. It has already become a great center where people of alien birth can go at almost all hours for information and assistance. It is a place where foreigners are treated fairly and their welfare promoted. Classes in English are going on afternoons and evenings. It is hoped that the time will not be long when every foreigner in Norwich who is unable to read or write English will be given a chance to acquire these two important steps in Americanization.

Americanisation is helping aliens or new Americans as follows:

To know America; to know the spirit and hope of America; to learn the language of America; to learn the elements of the American form of government; to learn what it means to be a citizen of the U. S.; to procure citizenship papers; to love the United States; to live for the United States of America.

PRIZES FOR AGRICULTURALISTS AT STATE CONVENTION

During the union agricultural meeting to be held in the Hotel Garde, Hartford, January 22 to 26, experts in agricultural lines from several eastern states will address the meetings of the five state organizations participating in the meeting, and approximately $225 in prizes will be awarded exhibitors.

The meeting takes the place of the annual Connecticut Winter Exposition which has been held in the state armory for several years, and which is to be omitted this year due to complications in the arrangements. The five state organizations participating in the union meeting are the Connecticut Swine Growers' Association, the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' Association, the Connecticut State Board of Agriculture, the Connecticut Poultry Association and the Connecticut Agricultural College Extension Service.

The lists of prizes to be awarded by the various participating associations for exhibits are as follows:

By the Connecticut State Fairs Association; for the best ten ears of Flint corn; first, $25; second, $15; third, $12.50; fourth $10; for the best ten ears of Dent corn; first $25; second, $15; third, $12.50; fourth, $10.

By the State Board of Agriculture: Flint corn, best ten ears yellow: first $5; second, $3; third, $2. The same amounts will be given for the best ten ears of white Flint corn; the best ten ears of yellow Dent corn; the best ten ears of white Dent corn; and the best ten ears of sweet corn.

All corn exhibits should be sent to Leonard M. Healey, Hotel Garde, Hartford, Conn.

By the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' Association; dressed lamb, first, $10; second $5; third $3; fourth $2; fifth $1. The same amounts in prizes will be given for dressed mutton. All exhibits of lamb and mutton should be sent to Swift & Co., care of R. E. Bogy, Hartford, Conn.

The complete programs for the various meetings, all of which will be in the Hotel Garde, will be announced later. The committee in charge of the Union Agricultural Meeting is composed of Leonard H. Healey, secretary of the state board of agriculture, chairman; H. W. Baldwin of Storrs, H. L. Garrigus of Storrs, Paul P. Ives of Guilford, and A. J. Brundare of Storrs.

STATE ADDED 1,503 ACRES TO ITS FORESTS DURING 1923

During 1923 a total of 1,503 1-2 acres of forest land was added to the state forest holdings by purchasing at an average cost of $5.85 per acre, State Forester Austin F. Hawes announced this week. The total acreage of state forest is now 9,124 11-2.

One new forest, the fifth largest in the states, was added during the year. The other three purchases were additions to existing tracts. Connecticut now owns seven state forests, the largest acquisition being the Tunxis in Hartland, bought during 1923, which includes 1,138 1-2 acres.

Other tracts bought were: An eighty acre addition to the Meshomasic forest in Portland, making the entire tract 2,061 acres; an addition of 193 acres to Cornwall forest, making the total tract 1,282 acres; and a ninety-two acre addition to the Natchaug forest in Eastford, making the total 2,316 acres.

State forests acquired before 1923, and to which no additions were made during the year are: Union forest in Union, 458 acres; Simsbury forest, in Simsbury, 130 acres; Mohawk forest in Cornwall, the gift of Alain C. White of Litchfield, 1,374 acres.

If one-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives it's probably because it hasn't any next-door neighbors.

DAWES' ADVISES HELP GERMANY SO THAT SHE MIGHT MEET HER OBLIGATIONS

In Defining Status of America Experts at Committee Meeting in Paris, General Dawes Placed "German Productivity as the Starting Point of European Prosperity"—Flays Demagogues of All Countries Who Would Exploit Their Personalities Out of a Common Misfortune—"No Politics," the Motto of American Members—A Common Sense Appeal for Common Sense—Committee Hopes to Reach a Point Where It Can Proceed to Berlin Saturday.

Paris, Jan. 14.—(By The A. P.)—Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, U. S. A., chairman of the first committee of experts appointed by the reparation commission to consider the resources and capacity of Germany looking to a solution of the reparations problem, delivered a straightforward, hard-hitting speech at the opening of that body today.

He took occasion to declare before the committee that he could speak neither for the government of the United States, nor for the American people, but as an individual, and, after reviewing the situation from the standpoint of an American businessman, made an earnest plea for common sense and practical co-operation among the nations, so that Germany's productiveness could be restored to her that she might meet her obligations.

With characteristic forcefulness General Dawes denounced "the incessant misrepresentations and intolerable interjections of those foul and carrion loving vultures—the nationalistic demagogues of all countries—who would exploit their pitiful personalities out of a common misfortune."

The American plan, as briefly outlined by the chairman consists of stabilization of German currency and balancing the German budget, and he declared: "As the economic progress of Germany, under a stable currency and with a balanced budget, are revived there will be demonstrated the capacity of Germany to pay. Let us first help Germany to get well."

A member of the British delegation of the reparation commission, commenting on the opening of the conference, said: "The experts got off to a breezy start."

General Dawes' "legendary energy," as M. Barthou put it, seemed to send a draft of fresh air throughout reparations headquarters, which never appeared to shelter so much activity since the commission was organized.

The impression made by General Dawes' speech was in every way favorable, inside and outside of reparation circles, excepting in extreme nationalistic quarters, where his reference to "nationalistic demagogues" caused some slight emotion.

One of the British delegates said: "The impression was most favorable; the beginning of the discussions augurs well."

Colonel James A. Logan, American unofficial observer on the reparation commission, expressed himself to the same effect, while M. Barthou, president of the commission, declared that the committee could not have gotten to work under better auspices.

In the course of his speech General Dawes asked: "What is the question of today?" Upon what does the success of this committee depend?" and this he himself answered, saying: "It depends chiefly upon whether in the public mind and conscience of the allies and of the world there is an adequate conception of the great disaster which faces each ally in Europe unless common sense is crowned king."

This was the part of his speech most commented upon. A member of the French delegation, recalling American history, compared this pronouncement with the epigram voiced at the signing of the declaration of independence—"If we don't hang together we shall all hang separately."

Opinions differed as to whether General Dawes in speaking of lack of unity among the allies meant to allude to the attitude of Great Britain or to that or France; some are inclined to think it was meant for both. Although the need of unity among the allies has been dwelt upon constantly in France, as well as in the other allied countries, General Dawes brought it out so impressively these it sank in deeply, as evidenced by the talk tonight in French official circles and around reparation headquarters. That it was meant for some other of the allies than France appears to be the opinion of French official circles.

It is understood that the committee hopes by holding three sessions daily to reach a point where it can leave for Berlin Saturday.

An address of welcome was delivered by Louis Barthou, president of the reparation commission, who promised French co-operation in the work of the committee. "The pacific equilibrium of the entire world," he declared, "depends upon its success."

After a three and a half hour session this afternoon the meeting adjourned until tomorrow at ten o'clock. The committee adopted a resolution providing that the records of the proceedings be kept absolutely confidential. The secretary alone is authorized to give out statements, when approved by the members. The experts themselves have been pledged to give no interviews.

Paris, Jan. 14—(By the A. P.)—The text of Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, address before the first expert committee on reparations at its session today was as follows:

"The difficulties involved in the determination of the allied policy both in time of war and in time of peace are little realized by the average citizen in all countries. To him it seems strange that eventual common sense agreements, which in times of emergency characterise allied policy, come about so slowly.

Barriers Must Be Beaten Down

"He does not realize the barriers which must first be beaten down, erected by national pride and the selfish interest of different allied officials whose powers are affected by any act of coercive interallied coordination, and by the incessant misrepresentations and intolerable interjections of these foul and carrion-loving vultures—the nationalistic demagogues of all countries—who would exploit their pitiful personalities out of a common misfortune.

"What is the question of today? Upon what does the success of this committee depend—upon the powers of persuasion? Primarily, no. It depends chiefly upon whether in the public mind and science of the allies and of the world there is an adequate conception of the great disaster which faces each ally and Europe unless common sense is crowned king.

"A sane American citizen, invited to this place by the reparation commission, I can speak neither for the government of the United States nor for the American people, but as an individual I can say that I have read in shame and humiliation the outpourings of the American Nationalistic demagogues who undertake to lecture Europe in order to lift themselves up to some petty office or to maintain political popularity.

"We know that 1,385,000 of the flower of France's youth, 946,000 of Great Britain's youth, 450,000 of Italy's youth, 40,000 of Belgium's youth and 127,000 of Serbia's youth, together with the precious bodies of our own American youth, lie buried close together here, across the sea. We know that from their sacrifice has come a great desire on the part of all peoples to make it worth while for their sakes as well as for those who live and are to live hereafter in the world.

Aims to be Helpful

"We come only wanting to be helpful to you who with your superior knowledge and longer experience will take the initiative in the search for a common sense agreement. We come determined that nothing shall prevent our full usefulness, if we have any, to you in a work which is yours

"In the last war I was chief of supply and procurement for the American expeditionary forces, under empty hands.

"Our great commander Pershing at the date of our entry into the war was faced with the necessity of building lines of communications and other installations which would care for his eventual army.

"During the first seven months of the time we landed in France there were shipped to us from America only 357,000 ship tons of supplies, yet when the Americans sailed back to the United States the army had required over 17,000,000 tons of which 10,000,000 had been furnished chiefly by France and Great Britain already stripped of their resources by three years of devastating warfare.

"Great Britain furnished us ships to transport the bulk of our troops. We fired only French ammunition carried into action by French horses. We flew French airplanes at the beginning. Belgian locomotives carried our materials. Italy furnished us men to work upon our lines of communication.

Consider the Situation

"Now let us consider for a moment the situation here as it is confronted by two American business men who some three weeks ago were invited by the reparation commission to give detailed attention in connection with the proposed work which we start today. Like the other citizens of our own and other countries, our information consisted of what we had read in the newspapers and gained from conversation with others presumably better informed.

"We had seen the allies finally and really united under a single command obtain the military victory which he had supposed was the precursor of a better world. For five years since that time and the signing of the treaty of Versailles we had seen the allies losing the unity of understanding which is always essential to real peace and progress. We had come to know in common with the citizens of all nations—that at least the lack of power to agree upon a common attitude and common action had brought all Europe to a most critical and dangerous situation.

"With all due respect to the great ability of these experts who wandered through this gloomy labyrinth, they could not have failed to come out in opposite directions. They were confronted with the necessity of finding stable conclusions where no conditions were stable.

Changing Conditions

"In their computations, designed to clarify the mind, they dealt with the mark, the next week the mark was something else; if they dealt with the dollar, the pound, the franc or the Italian lire, there was one value in exchange for each and another in internal purchasing power; if they dealt with gold there were values in pre-war gold and post-war gold to be considered. In general we fail to find much value in economic argumen s based upon what ought to be instead of what it—based in other words upon a constantly changing status quo.

"Meantime, while those immense libraries—for they can be called by no other name—of legal arguments of more or less obsolete statistics and of economic discussion were being laboriously compiled for five years, the foundations of ecenomic Germany have well nigh crumbled away, and with them the productivity of Germany.

Status of Germany

"Again, as the world has seen the economic life of Germany sobbing away, the credit of all the European allies has felt a preliminary shock, because the world realizes that if the German people lose their capacity for work, Germany loses her capacity to pay those reparations which are so great an element in European solvency.

"We are not asked to determine legality of the occupation of the Ruhr. We are not asked to declare the political effects of that prospective act of common sense. We are not asked to give our opinion upon those things which the politicians of all countries have interjected into a situation which primarily demands for its proper consideration business minds uninfluenced by political ambition or thought of personal consequences.

"Upon our report to the reparation commission of a plan for the realization of German currency and the balancing of the German budget it is for them, not us, to be concerned with the political effects. The more I have talked with those here who are nearst th situation the more I have realized the great wisdom the reparation commission has shown in defining the purposes of our convocation, in order to consider, in accordance with the provisions of article 234 of the treaty of Versailles, the resources and capacity of Germany.

"If without fear or favor we suggest a plan for the stabilization of the German currency and the balancing of the German budget which the reparation commission deems fit to ratify, we will at least have done this—we will have suggested that which has enabled the reparation commission to start Germany toward productivity, and the re-establishment of German productivity is the starting point of European prosperity.

Must Stabilize German Currency

"As the economic processes of Germany under a stable currency and with a balanced budget are revived, there will be demonstrated the capacity of Germany to pay. The basic and controlling facts will then appear. Any common sense individual can estimate the distance a well man can run.

"Now that we are members of a committee having a definite and authoritatively defined object in view, we are less concerned for the moment with the present capacity of Germany to pay than with the present capacity and courage of this committee to act.

"Let me make thus early one practical suggestion. Under Presidens Harding I established a system of executive control set up by executive order under which the first budget of the United States was prepared in accordance with our recent budget legislation. I hesitate to call myself an expert on budget matters lest I put my reputation for common sense under suspicion; but how could anyone, expert or non-expert, suggest anything worth-while about the German budget if the money collected through taxes and dispersed under the budget would not buy or pay for anything?

"The first step which we should take, it seems to me, is to devise a system of stabilizing Germany's currency so we can get some water to run through the budget mill. Let us build the mill after we find the stream to turn its wheels."

FRENCH FRANCS LEAD IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE BREAK

New York, Jan. 14—Millions of French francs were thrown into the London, Paris Amsterdam and New ...arkets today by European speculators causing the demand rate to break 38 points to 4.27 cents the lowest price ever recorded. Subsequent rally, covering carried the rate of 4.40 again in the late afternoon.

Short breaks also took place in sterling, guilder and yen exchanges. Demand sterling dropped nearly four cents to 4.22 1-4, Dutch guilders broke to 36.80 and Japanese yen slumped more than one cent to 43.39 cents. All made partial recovery later.

Selling of French francs was based on the unfavorable publicity given French finances and measures adopted by the French government with the announced intentions of checking the decline and general Dawes' admonition to forget politics at the opening meeting of the reparation conference. The threatened labor disturbance in Great Britain also was a factor.

So great was the accumulation of business and so fast did rates drop that many orders were not executed because the market had literally "run away" from the traders.

Much of the business represented arbitrade transactions. Strength of Italian lire which sold above French francs for the first time since the war, was attributed to the heavy purchases by French interests. One banker pointed out that by selling francs to purchase lire a Frenchman would receive approximately the same number of monetary units whereas if he purchased dollars he would receive only one American unit for every twenty two or more French units.

CONVENT IN NEW HAVEN DEFACED BY INTRUDERS

New Haven, Jan. 14.—For the third time, last night, intruders in the school rooms in St. Elizabeth's convent, opposite and belonging to St. John's church, tore down charts and pictures from the walls, opened desks and scattered their contents, wrote on the blackboards and did other annoying acts. The police believe the intrusions were by boys.

Rev. Fr. John D. Coyle later thought that the writing on the blackboards indicated that the person who did it was out of boyhood. The chief message on the board was: "Beware, ye who seek me. (Signed) Fanatic."

The sisters who sleep on the second floor said they were not disturbed during the night.

Although the police reported that the acts of the intruders were of no serious kind it is understood that candelabra and religious emblems which were on shelves were smashed. The police continued to incline to the belief that mischievous boys were responsible for the breaks.

Test of Strength is Likely in House Today

Washington, Jan. 14.—House democrats and republican insurgents, forming a coalition for the first time this session, routed the republican organization today and repealed the Underwood rule which practically made it impossible to offer from the floor important amendments to revenue and tariff bills.

On motion of Representative Garrett, the democratic leader, the rule adopted in 1911 when the democrats controlled the house was repealed by a vote of 208 to 177. The democrats, voting solidly for repeal, had the support of 24 republicans among them the insurgents and three others, while Representative Longworth, the republican leader and Chairman Snell of the rules committee, urged retention of the rule.

After this show-down the first to develop in the rules fight—which will continue tomorrow—the house became involved in a bitter debate over proposals for the discharge of committees from consideration of legislation but took no action. Just before overnight adjournment Representative Crisp, democrat, Georgia, and Fish, republican, New York, indulged in a heated exchange as to which of them deserved credit for drafting the proposal to discharge committees.

On this proposition there is a difference of opinion between the republican organization and the democratic insurgent combination as to the number of signatures which should be required on petitions for discharge. The rules committee in its recommendations submitted today for a general revision of house rules declared a minimum of 150 names should be required while the democrats and insurgents contend the number should be not more than 100 a test of strength on this proposal probably will come tomorrow.

Advocating repeal of the Underwood rule, Mr. Garrett declared it never should have been incorporated in the general rules of the house. As interpreted by various speakers, he said, it served to prevent, during consideration of tariff bills, the transfer of commodities from the free to the dutiable list and vice, versa and had made amendments to revenue bills out of the question by requiring that they had to apply directly to the article under consideration.

Mr. Garrett predicted that the democrats would control the house in the next congress, and members of his party to use caution in amending the rules and have assurance that he would oppose any attempt to re-enact the Underwood rule if the democrats regained control of the house.

POINCARE MOVES TO HALT DEPRECIATION OF FRANC

Paris, Jan. 14.—(By the A. P.)—The frenzied rise in exchange of both dollar and sterling today is causing the government and the public the gravest anxiety. The dollar and sterling were quoted during the market at 42.50 and 96.10, respectively, and continued to soar this evening, 28.27 and 98.20 being offered.

Premier Poincare called the ministers of finance, justice nad the interior into conference to consider measures to defeat all manoeuvres tending to depreciate the franc. The measures will be submitted to a cabinet council tomorrow.

A deputation from the commercial exchange called on M. Dior, minister of commerce, and explained the effect the extreme tension in the money exchange is likely to have on the markets, notably wheat, and therefore in the general interest it had been decided to suspend the question in the cabinet council tomorrow.

The situation was discussed extensively in the lobby of the chamber, and all the deputies agreed that it called for drastic action and that they were prepared to support any plan the government might bring forward to remedy the crisis. Among other measures favored by the deputies is the immediate institution of rigorous control in the use of foreign currencies and centralization of the exchange market by the Bank of France, to whose intervention it is believed the other banks will raise no objection.

On the other hand, the government could, it is contended, find a means to bring back foreign currencies which the French exporters have left abroad. In addition, it is thought it might well consider if, by the imposition of export dues on certain articles according to a sliding scale based on the value of a gold franc, it might not be possible to prevent buyers from taking unfair advantage of the temporary depreciation of the franc.

Hartford, Jan. 14.—There were 30,177 cases of preventable diseases reported to the state department of health during the year 1923, a decrease of 2,090 cases as compared with 1922. Outstanding features of the records, which were made public today by Commissioner Stanley H. Osborn, are the new state record for scarcity of typhoid fever cases and the total for influenza, which is less than one-half that of 1922.

Only 297 cases of typhoid fever were reported last year, which broke the state record for the second successive year. In 1922 the figures were 315 which was the finest report in the history of the department, up to that time.

TOKIO, JAPAN, EXPERIENCES A STRONG EARTHQUAKE

San Francisco, Jan. 14.—A wireless message received tonight by the Radio Corporation of America from its sending station at Tomioka, Japan, stated that a strong earthquake visited Tokio and vicinity at six o'clock this morning." (Tuesday.)

Although no serious damage was reported the message stater tram cars were stopped in Yokohama and on the lines between Yokohama and Tokio. Clocks also were stopped at Funabushi and Chosi. The land lines between Tomioka and Tokio it was said had been interrupted although communication was expected to be restored shotly.

Would Have New York Borrow Gen. Pershing

Alderman Harvey Heading Movement for That Purpose — For a "Purity" Drive.

New York, Jan. 14.—On the heels of a disclosure that 13 district inspectors of police had been cited on charges by Commissioner Enright, 15,000 anxious members of the department learned tonight that Enright, with his deputies, special deputies and honorary commissioners, had been hurriedly summoned to meet Mayor Hylan at the home of Rodman Wanamaker, special deputy commissioner, tomorrow night.

The report was current that Mayor Hylan was a factor in the mysterious charges, in which the heads of each of the 13 police patrol districts are said to have been cited on from eight to 92 counts involving neglect of duty.

The mayor declined to discuss the charges today more than to say he was "greatly interested" in developments.

It is the conviction of every one of the 15,000 members of the force that Enright's action marks the preliminary rumbling of an impending upheaval such as the department never before has experienced. To the premonitions of the men in ranks, from headquarters clerks and traffic cops to patrolmen on beat, were added today unconfirmed reports that the governor's mansion at Albany was responsible for Enright's move; that the anti-saloon league had been gathering evidence of lax law enforcement which it threatened to submit; and that Mayor Hylan, during his long absence from city hall because of illness, had been making a tour of the city, learning things.

Another source of uneasiness throughout the department was the published letter of Alderman George U. Harvey, of Flushing, to Acting Mayor Hulbert, revealing that he was heading a movement to have New York city borrow General Pershing from the army, in imitation of Philadelphia's engagement of General Butler to head a "purity" drive.

CONTENDS HE STILL IS EMPEROR OF THE KLAN

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 14.—Declaring "I am emperor of the Knights of the Ku Kluz Klan," William Joseph Simmons, founder of the organization, tonight in a signed statement called upon fellow Klansmen to pay no attention to the order signed by H. W. Evans, imperial wizard, banishing him and E. Y. Clarke, imperial giant, from the "invisible empire."

The two high officials were ousted from the Klan last week by an edict said to have been signed by the imperial wizard, because, it was charged, they were hostile to the Evans administration. It was claimed that the decision was reached during a meeting of grand dragons in Washington.

"Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans having through pretended friendship to me," the emperor stated, "gained the position of imperial wizard, has issued an unauthorized order attempting to banish me from the Knights of the Ku Kluz Klan of which I am the sole founder. He assigned as an excuse a request from several of his grand dragons, who, under the constitution and laws of the klan, having nothing to do with such matters. The whole act is unwarranted, illegal and beyond his power.

"The klan is my dream child from my youth and I love it for every good impulse of my soul. My feelings towards it is likened to that of a father for his child. He glories in the normal development of the child towards maturity, but he would rather look upon the child dead than prostituted."

AMBASSADOR KELLOGG AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE

London, Jan. 14.—(By the A. P.)—The new American ambassador, Frank B. Kellogg was initiated into the formalities of the royal court today when he presented his credentials to King George at Buckingham palace.

Major General Sir John Hanbury-Williams, marshal of the diplomatic corps brilliantly uniformed, cockhatted and with blaze of medals on his breast, escorted the somberly clad American envoy to the carriage which was followed by two similar conveyances bearing the counselor, Post Wheeler, Secretary Frederick A. Sterling and other members of the embassy staff also the naval and military attaches.

Court functionaries escorted the ambassador's party to the waiting rooms while Mr. Kellogg, with the marshal of the diplomatic corps and Sir Eyre Crowe, representing Foreign Secretary Curzon, went directly to the audience room, where the king, who was in full uniform, met the new ambassador and warmly grasped his hand.

After the formal introduction the officials withdrew and left his British majesty and the representative of the American people alone in conversation for about 15 minutes, after which Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Sterling and Frederic R. Dolbeare and Herbert C. Goodid, embassy secretary, [illegible] to the king. The American then withdrew to their carriages which took them back to the ambassador's hotel.

SUSPENDS INCREASE IN COMMUTATION RATES

Boston, Jan. 14.—The state senate under suspension of the rules today adopted an order introduced by Senator McLane, of Fall River, ordering the department of public utilities to suspend its order of last week approving a twenty per cent. increase in commutation rates on railroads entering Boston, effective tomorrow. In the house the order was referred to the committee on rules and adjournment was taken before the committee could meet to consider it.

ELIHU ROOT COMFORTABLE FOLLOWING OPERATION

New York, Jan. 14.—Elihu Root, who today underwent an operation for removal of a kidney stone was reported to be resting comfortably tonight and his doctors said he would be able to leave the hospital in the course of three or four weeks.

Attending physicians said the operation was performed to correct an old ailment. Mr. Root will be 79 years old next month.

While 1800 persons sat in a darkened moving picture theatre on the lower West Side in New York, two young men arose from seats in the front row followed the assistant manager, as he entered an office underneath the stage, bound and gagged him and the theatre's manager, looted the safe of about $3,500 and escaped.

MOVEMENT FOR AUTOMATIC TRAIN CONTROL DEVICES

Several Inventions Have Been Approved by Commission of Engineers and by Railroads—Prevention of Both Rear and Front End Collisions is Contemplated—Would Make It Impossible For Engineer to Take His Train by a Block or Other Signal Requiring Him to Stop—Every Large Railroad Will Be Required to Provide Equipment Before February, 1926.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Practically every large railroad in the country will be required before February, 1926, to equip substantial portions of its mileage with automatic train control devices under the terms of an interstate commerce commission order issued today.

The length of track on which previous orders of the commission have required such installations is approximately tripled by the step, which was taken as a result of several recent wrecks of a type which the automatic control is designed to prevent, such as that of the Twentieth Century Limited on the New York Central.

The order was addressed to 92 out of the 108 Class 1 railroads in the country, these controlling more than 90 per cent. of the total rail mileage in the United States. Of the 92 roads, 45 are required for the first time to equip one full length passenger division along their lines with the devices. The other 47, which have either installed such devices on one division or are engaged in so doing, are required to make the addition on a second division by the same date.

The only Class 1 railroads exempted from some requirement to install automatic train control equipment are those whose credit or financial situation makes it inadvisable. Officials of the roads concerned are given entire power to select the sections of line which in their judgment should be so-treated.

The automatic train control devices included in the order are intended to make it impossible for an engineer either by intention, neglect, or accident to take his train bi a block or other signal requiring him to stop. Prevention of both rear and front end collisions is contemplated. Several inventions and groups of inventions accomplished the desired purpose have been tentatively approved by commission engineers and by railroads engaged in testing their operation.

NEW HAVEN ROAD MAKES AUTOMATIC STOP TESTS

New Haven, Jan. 14.—Officials of the New Haven road expressed satisfaction in the result of the automatic stop tests made over a ten-mile stretch of electrified track on the Hartford division below Wallingford today.

A special train of 15 cars with a crew of electricians, signalmen and minor operating officials, with a locomotive fitted with special electrical appliances made the test. Ten contact stops were tried with the train running both north and south. A number of other trials will be made. The work is being conducted under the supervision of George E. Terwilliger, general air brake inspector of the system. Several electrical men from New York and from Yale university witnessed the tests.

LEGAL LAPSE MAY COST REMINGTON ARMS CO. $44,000

Hartford, Jan. 14.—Failure by the law firm of Cummings & Lockwood of Stamford to file a judgment lien within a certain period was held to have cost the Remington Arms company of Bridgeport, the effect of a $44,000 attachment against the Gaynor Manufacturing company, of that city, at a hearing in the federal court today.

Major John Buckley, counsel for Robbins B. Stoeckel, federal receiver for the Gaynor company, threw a bombshell in the proceedings when he disclosed that although the Remington company had secured a judgment of $44,000 in the superior court and successfully defended it in the supreme court upon an appeal by the Gaynor company, it had failed to file a judgment lien on the latter's property within four months of the superior court judgment, as required by law. Consequently, the Remington company lost its rights as a preferred creditor, according to Major Buckley, and the property attached by the Remington company is made available to the general creditors, who have claims aggregating approximately $80,000 against the Gaynor company.

It was pointed out by Major Buckley that Cummings and Lockwood, as counsel for the Remington company, did file a judgment lien on the Gaynor company property within four months of the date of the supreme court decision upholding the $44,000 judgment awarded the Remington company by the superior court, but that the law was specific in the requirement that such a lien to be valid must be filed within four months of the superior court decision notwithstanding appeal to the supreme court. He maintained that an appeal did not act as a stay in cases of this nature.

TO EXPLORE PETROLEUM RESERVE IN ALASKA

Washington, Jan. 14.—Plans for another expedition to explore the navy's largest petroleum reserve, located in the extreme northern part of Alaska, were announced today by the interior department. The navy department will pay the expenses of the trip and Dr. Philip S. Smith, a government geologist, will be in charge.

Due to the difficulty of transporting supplies over long stretches of territory, the party will be limited to three technical men, all experienced in Alaskan exploration, and four canoe hands. Dr. Smith's most difficult task will be to transport five tons of supplies and four canoes from the government railroad in Alaska to and across the Yukon-Arctic divide.

SENATE CALLS FOR REPORTS OF CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

Washington, Jan. 14.—A resolution by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, calling on the state department for the text of reports upon conditions in Russia made by various official and semi-official observers within the last six years, was adopted today by the senate.

As chairman of the sub-committee named to conduct hearings on Russian recognition, Senator Borah was notified the state and justice departments that the hearings would begin as soon as those departments were ready to be represented.

U. S. AUTHORITIES LODGE CHARGE OF PIRACY

Boston, Jan. 14.—A charge of piracy on the high seas, the first in the memory of present federal officials was lodged by United States authorities here today when Ray Cass, of Somerville, formerly manager of boxers was arrested in the federal building. The complaint alleged that Cass and others with force of arms did piratically set upon and board; break and enter the schooner J. Scott Hankenson and assault subjects of the king of England in the peace of the United Stated States then and there being put them in fear of their lives and did steal certain money from Frank Moore the master of the vessel."

Cass entered a plea of not guilty and was held for hearing in $500 bail.

CONTEST FOR DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

Washington, Jan. 14.—Democratic councils today developed a real but friendly family row in the rivalry for the city to be given the 1924 national convention.

With the arrival of virtually all national committee members for tomorrow's meeting to choose the convention city, the contest between New York, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco forged into first place in the consideration of party leaders, even above the candidates of presidential aspirants. These, however, were involved directly in the contest, with the friends of William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, claiming a majority of votes in the committee with the power to control committee's choice.

Although the McAdoo forces favored a western city for the convention, with sentiment divided between Chicago and St. Louis, the arrival of New York's large delegation late today gave an impetus to the New York movement. San Francisco also furnished somewhat of a sensation today by a financial offer of $200,000 for the convention award, the largest bid yet brought and one admittedly influential, especially in view of the democratic treasury's present deficit of $180,000.

Isidore B. Dockweiler, California committeeman, exhibited a certified check for San Francisco's bid and declared it would win the convention.

In the selection of the convention city financial considerations promised to play a large part, but not a conclusive one.

It was announced today that Atlanta, Ga., would not present an invitation for the convention and no such move came in behalf of Louisville, Ky., which reported to have an offer under consideration.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house ways and means committee began hearings on the tax bill.

Democrats and insurgents in the house combined and overthrew the Underwood rule limiting amendments to tariff and revenue bills.

"Foreign control" was charged against the Alabama Power company by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, in opposing the bid of southern power interests for Muscle Shoals.

The Teapot Dome oil investigation was debated in the senate, with Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, charging the case constituted the "worst scandal ever perpetrated against the government."

Presidential prospects and choice of convention city were discussed by democratic national committeemen preliminary to the committee meeting tomorrow.

LABOR GOVERNMENT PROBABLE FOR BRITAIN

London, Jan. 14—(By the A. P.)—When the king opens parliament in state tomorrow, the expectation tonight is it will be but a short time before a labor government is installed, the change is not likely to come on January 17, as originally suggested, owing to the fact that a large number of liberals want to speak on the debate, and this may delay the fateful division, which will terminate the Baldwin administration until early next week.

The one and one-half story house owned by Klaus Skarin, near the Chewink cemetery in the town of Chaplin, was burned to the ground and the contents destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. Skarin was alone in the house at the time, his wife and children having gone to visit in Hartford. He was awakened by a crackling noise and when he smelled smoke to rushed for the door leading to the lower floor but was driven back by smoke and flames. Clad only in his night clothes, Skarin ran for the window of his room and dropped from the upper story to the ground. In less than half an hour the building was burned to the ground entailing a loss of about $1,500 on which there was insurance to the amount of $500 carried with a local agency. Skarin was given shelter and clothing by neighbors.

Frank Gervais pleaded not guilty in the police court Monday morning to a charge of keeping a disorderly house. The place which Gervais keeps is one of sixteen tenements, most of them now empty, in the Great Eastern building of the Stone Row, off Main street. The tenement is known to some as the "Gervais Hotel". The accused blamed the frequenters of his place for the trouble in which he found himself. He said that there was nothing he could do to stop them from coming to his flat. If he refused to admit them they would break through the door and after gaining entrance they would start drinking liquor which they brought with them. If Gervais found fault they'd calmly proceed to "rough house" both him and his home. His sole source of income was a pension which he was receiving from the lumber jack's union. Gervais told the court that his visitors had gone so far as to steal a new suit of clothes which he had stored in a satchel under his bed. He then turned to one of the frequenters standing beside him and identified the coat that the man had on as being that belonging to his new suit. He did not know what had become of the trousers and the vest.

Last Friday Gervais came to the police station and complained that a gang of bums had come into his home and were drinking and raising Cain. The police went to the house but the visitors disappeared. Saturday afternoon a complaint was made to the police that Gervais' flat was a veritable hell hole. Chief MacArthur and Captain Grady went to the place and rounded up five men: Louis Jackson, colored of Willington, Albert Perry of Lowell, Mass.; Victor Hamel of this city and Gervais. The first four were booked on charges of intoxication, and all pleaded guilty.

Perry, an auctioneer, was fined $5 and costs amounting to $12.15. The others were assessed $10 and costs amounting to $17.16. In Hamel's case Judge Foss gave his some advice and in addition to the fine imposed a fifteen day jail sentence which was suspended, placing the accused on probation for six months. Jackson paid his fine but O'Brien and Perry were penniless and were taken to Brooklyn jail.

Chief MacArthur testified that he had no definite knowledge that Gervais ever sold liquor at his place, but that he had been the meeting place for "rough necks for a long time and it would be a move for the better to close up the joint.

Gervais remonstrated by saying that early Friday morning he was awakened by someone pounding at the door and when he got there he saw that it was O'Brien, who said that he was sopping wet and wanted some dry clothes to put on. Gervais who is well on in years, answered that it was nothing in his young life." O'Brien and the bricklayer then jumped on him and after handing him a good walloping they left with the new suit. O'Brien was the man who had on the coat. The court continued the case until this (Tuesday) morning.

The Wildcats of the local Y. M. C. A. under the management of W. Krug had an easy time of it on their home floor, Saturday, when they stacked up against the Lyman Memorial High school five of Lebanon, the game winding up with a score of 63 to 13 in favor of the "Y" boys. J. Mandell and Oldershaw and L. Mandell were the brilliant stars for the home team while Starr lived up to his cognomen on the Lebanon side. The lineup and summary: Wildcats—J. Mandell, rf, 9 points; L. Mandell, lf, 3; W. Krug, lf, 4; Oldershaw c, 19; Bretschneider, rg, 8; Counihan, lg, 0; total 43.

Lebanon—Mandley rf, 6 points; Wyman, lf, 2; Bartisek, lf, 0; Starr, c, 7; Watrous, rg, 2; Briggs lg 4, total 13.

Rita Koskie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Koskie, died at the home of her parents, 10 Grove street Sunday after an illness with diphtheria. The child was born in this city August 18, 1921, daughter of William and Yvonne Derochier Koskie. The funeral of Mrs. Mary Riley Cosgrove were held Monday morning from her home on Lewiston avenue. Requiem high mass in St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock was sung by Rev. John E. Clark. Mrs. Henry Mathieu sang "Abide With Me" as the body was borne into the edifice. At the offertory she rendered "O Salutaris" and Arthur Roy sang "Some Sweet Day" as a waiting hymn. There were beautiful floral pieces. The casket was placed in the receiving vault at St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal service was read by Rev. Father Clark. The bearers were, John and James Healy, William Palmer and Joseph Ottenheimer. The arrangements were in charge of Killourey brothers.

Twenty-three members of Willimantic Ministers' Union attended the January meeting held in the Congregational church house Monday. The morning session was opened at 10.30 o'clock with Rev. A. W. Clifford of Windham presiding. After a short business meeting the chairman of the program committee, Rev. A. Avery Gates of Hampton assumed charge of the meeting.

Rev. Charles A. Dinsmore, of the Yale Divinity school, a former local pastor, was the first speaker, his subject being "The Literature of Power". A short review of a book which he has just completed was then given by Rev. Marshall Dawson, pastor of the Storrs Congregational church. The title of his book "Nineteenth Century Evolution and After."

Mrs. Hawthorne Jones, assistant pastor of the Mansfield Center and Spring Hill churches was the next speaker.

A recess was then taken during which lunch was served by Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Norris who were entertaining the union.

At the afternoon session Rev. William Woolworth of the Liberty Hill Congregational church delivered an interesting address on "Missionary Work in Turkey and Egypt."

While engaged in hewing a tree in a wood lot owned by Frank Rockwood, at Williams' Crossing, town of Franklin, Charles A. Nelson of this city, was pinned to the tree by the limb of another tree which had been felled. The limb struck him in the side and held him fast until fellow workers came to his assistance. He was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in this city where he was found to have a badly broken right rib and several cuts and bruises on the body. Later he was removed to his home on Bolivia street.

The finishing touches are being put to the new ice houses at the municipal plant on the short of the pumping station pond in Mansfield. There are three houses, each 33 by 125 feet and they are considered to be about the best in the state of Connecticut. They are firmly constructed of good lumber and are expected to stand without repair for many years. The work of erecting the runway from the pond to the houses has been started and in about ten days the contractor will be able to withdraw his men.

Arthur Caisse, a local young man, formerly employed as a barber, was arrested last week by County Detective William E. Jackson on a warrant charging him with bastardy. The complaint was made by a local girl. Caisse was released on a bond of $200 furnished by his father. The case was scheduled to be heard before Justice of the Peace Samuel B. Harvey Monday morning, but was continued for one week, under the same bonds.

At the age of thirteen, the boys of the Jewish faith are confirmed as an adult of the church and one of the requirements is that the boy express his views of his responsibilities as a Jewish synagogue member. At the services in the local Jewish synagogue Saturday morning, Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe Rosen, of No. 774 Main street, was confirmed by Rabbi Max Levine. The boy received his confirmation instruction from Mr. Greenburg, teacher of the local Hebrew school and the declaration which he made to the congregation after being confirmed follows:

"Dear parents, brothers, teachers and friends: I feel that today is the happiest in my life. I understand that from today on I will be counted as a real Jew. If there are nine people in a congregation I will be counted as ten. I appreciate very much what the teacher has done for me. I am also happy that my mother, father, brothers and grandmother are living to see my confirmation. I, as a member of the community, will try to fulfil the duties of it. I am very thankful to my parents for I realize the various troubles they have been through for me until today. I am also thankful to be under the "Stars and Stripes" under which the Jewish nation is not oppressed." Morris Rosen is now in the seventh grade of the Natchaug Grammar School and is studying advanced Hebrew in the Jewish school. He is Mr. Rosen's fourth son to be confirmed in this city.

Is Backache Keeping You Miserable?

Are You Dragging Around Day After Day, Lame, Stiff and Achy—Tired, Weak and All Worn Out? Then Follow the Advice of These Norwich Folks!

ARE YOU worried all day long with that nagging backache? Do stabbing twinges torture you at every sudden move? Are you lame, stiff and achy, tired, worn out and miserable?

Then you should give some attention to your kidneys! Kidney weakness makes thousands of young people old, and thousands of old folks unhappy.

And the pity is, the cause is so often unsuspected; the weakening of the kidneys so often overlooked.

The kidneys are the blood-filters. They filter every drop of blood in the body every seven minutes. Healthy kidneys do the job thoroughly. But weakened kidneys allow some part of the body-poisons to remain. Blood and nerves are upset by these toxins and the whole system put out of tune.

The back aches, one suffers sharp, stabbing pains and feels dull and "draggy," nervous, irritable and depressed. The head aches, there are dizzy spells and there are apt to be annoying kidney irregularities.

Heed these early warnings! Help your weakened kidneys before serious kidney sickness develops. Use Doan's Pills — a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Norwich Folks:

ALBERT P. DUNHAM, 9 Durkey Lane, says: "Bending and walking so much as I have to do at my trade as a spinner, worked hard on my back until my kidneys gave out. I suffered with constant pains in my back just over my kidneys. When I bent sharp pains shot through my back. I had to get up a number of times to pass the kidney secretions. A couple of boxes of Doan's Pills from the Lee & Osgood Drug Co. cured the trouble."

MRS. E. H. CHAPMAN, Stanton St., says: "I was feeling miserable with my back. I didn't know what caused the trouble but I made up my mind it came from my kidneys. Every move felt as though a knife were cutting into my back. When I moved quickly, I felt dizzy. A friend knew of my condition and told me to try Doan's Pills. Doan's gave me great relief. I have had to use Doan's only once in a while since and they have always given the same good benefit."

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Catching the Mouse With the Cheese

"That's a hard task," answered the old owl when Little Jack Rabbit asked him how to catch the great mouse that lived in the giant's house, as I mentioned in the last story.

"But the little canary bird said you would help me if I came way up here to ask you," replied the little bunny, with a sigh. "Please help me, Mr. Owl."

"Oh very well," said that wise old bird. "Now, listen carefully, for that mouse is as large and as fierce as a dog. You'd have a hard battle, let me tell you if you tried to catch him.

"Oh, dearest me!" sighed the little rabbit.

"You wait here while I fly up to the moon for some magic green cheese. As soon as the mouse eats it, he will go to sleep and become as small as an ordinary mouse. Then you can catch him easily enough!" said the old owl and away he flew up to knock on the front door of the Moon Man's house. "I want a piece of very green cheese, Mr. Man in the Moon, as quick as you please.

'Way down on the earth in a giant's house
Lives a monstrous thief, a gray colored mouse,
And Little Jack Rabbit must catch him tonight
Or the giant will give him a terrible fright."

"Well, if that's the case," said the Moon Man, "I will give you a piece of green cheese. But mind you, don't you ever tell anybody." Then breaking off a piece inside the rim of the moon, so it wouldn't show, he handed it to the Old Owl, who took it in his beak and flew down to earth. Maybe he slid down on a moonbeam, it took him such a short time to get back.

"Here's the green cheese," he tooted.

Softly hopping down the stairs, the bunny boy tiptoed into the room in which the great mouse lived, and, laying the piece of cheese on the floor, hid behind the door.

After a while, the giant mouse poked out his head and looked about. No sooner did he see the cheese than he said:

"Doesn't that cheese smell divine? I know its flavor is mellow and fine. How nice of the giant to place it here, I'll gobble it up while the coast is clear," and taking three bites and a half, he swallowed the cheese. Pretty soon he was fast asleep and as small as any ordinary mouse that runs around grandmother's house.

"Isn't that fine?" he dreamed. "Now I can crawl through the smallest hole in the castle wall." But before he woke up, the little bunny boy had him in his knapsack, and in the next story you shall hear what hapened after that.

Bijou Theatre.

A motion picture which is packed full of human drama, in the tensest and most moving of situations, is The Day of Faith, Goldwyn's picturization of Arthur Somers Roche's novel, directed by Tod Browning, which is the feature at the Bijou theatre today. The film is entertaining in the highest degree, yet manages to give to the world a measure of great spiritual import while seemingly striving only to entertain.

The theme of the picture is summed up in the doctrine promulgated by one of the characters, Bland Hendricks, idealist, "My neighbor is perfect." His belief leads to his death from injuries sustained while being tarred and feathered. The mob has been instigated to this action by Jane Maynard, daughter of Marley Maynard, who had died from excitement when a burglar broke into the room where he laid desperately ill. The burglar receives a prison term instead of being sentenced to the electric chair through the efforts of Hendricks. Jane's horror and remorse at the death of Hendricks causes her to embrace his creed and establish a foundation in New York to promulgate it.

John Anstell, son of Michael Anstell, the richest man in the world, falls in love with her and embraces her doctrine. His father sends Barnett, a reporter, to make her ridiculous and break his son's attachment to her. The reporter is converted to Jane's doctrine and supports her. Anstell himself calls on Jane, believes she is just the wife for his son and declares he will support the foundation financially, seeing in a general acceptance of her doctrine, the chance of gathering all the world's power and wealth in his own hands. The millennium apparently arrives and for eighteen days there is a new world; then the report that the world has been hoaxed by Anstell for his own gain, brings ruin to the experiment. John Anstell is killed by the mob. The grief-stricken father is now really converted to Jane's doctrine and offers to back her again, but she has learned that the world is not ready to live up to Hendricks ideal and she retires to private life to become the wife of Barnett.

The plot sounds complicated when told in words, but the picture made from Roche's novel is human, dramatic, appealing and easily followed. It is one of the big films of the year and should enjoy a great popularity. The cast is one of eminence and of great merit. The new screen star, Eleanor Boardman, does her best work as Jane Maynard. Tyrone Power is seen as Michael Anstell and Wallace MacDonald as his son, John, while Raymond Griffith acts the role of the reporter. Other important parts are played by Ford Sterling, Charles Conklin, Winter Hall, Ruby Lafayette, Jane Mercer, Frederick Vroom, Jack Curtis, Henry Hebert.

The Pathe News and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

At the Palace.

After a week of musical revue the regular high class vaudeville was resumed at the Palace theatre on Monday and proved to be one of the best bills yet played at the popular playhouse. The whole programme is well balanced and every act is one that is exceptionally good. The large audiences at both performances on Monday were enthusiastic in praise of the bill.

The opening number of the vaudeville bill is Paul Howard in peculiar twists and turns. Mr. Howard is an eccentric little chap that does some of the most astounding feats with his flexible body that seems to be absolutely devoid of bones.

Tom McRae and company in a novelty act, Motor-boating, is a nice little sketch with some good dancing and comedy work.

Jack Conway and company present one of the most humorous acts seen here in a long time. There is not a dull moment in the whole 13 minutes that the sketch occupies the stage. There is plenty of fun and barrels of side-splitting comedy.

Whalen and McSheen, two gray thatched old timers of the vaudeville stage, have a neat little dancing, singing and patter act that is well executed and one that pleases.

The headline act is the Oriental Fantasies, a beautiful scenic and novelty number. This act features a clever magician whose work is more than the ordinary run of these kinds of acts.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Washington, Jan. 14.—Dry leaders of the nation, gathered here for the thirtieth annual convention of the anti-saloon league to take stock of prohibition conditions, heard addresses today from churchmen, members of congress and league officials on all phases of the question.

Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal church, sounding a slogan of world-wide prohibition, told the convention the nations of the world cannot "live together half drunk and half sober."

"If the rest of the world will not keep out of the United States," Bishop McDowell said, "the rest of the world has got to be made sober by the United States."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Kara Will Answer Questions Through The Bulletin.

Having mystified, enlightened and delighted thousands in all the large theaters in the west and middle west, Kara will open a week's engagement at the Palace Monday, Jan. 21.

The press has devoted columns of comment regarding Kara's remarkable demonstration of psychic forces, thought projection, or whatever it is that one may care to label his added and unexpected faculty.

He makes no claims to the supernatural and says that what he does is within the scope of anyone and that a life time of study plus a keen training and development of the mind

Any request for private interview or audience will be ignored. This is final and absolutely no exceptions will be made. He will respond to 10 questions a day, and the first questions and answers will be published in The Bulletin starting Tuesday Jan. 22.

The rules that must be adhered to are simple. Write your full correct name and address on a piece of paper and then write your questions as legibly and concisely as possible, seal in an envelope and send to Kara, care of The Bulletin.

In the published answers only your initials will be used, but it is essential that your full and correct name and address should be signed; otherwise your query will not receive attention. While the answers will be frank in all instances, you may rest assured that they will not be embarrassing.

At the Strand

Houdini's remarkably novel and most ingenious photoplay sensation, "Haldane of the Secret Service," scored a great success at the Strand Theatre, where it was shown for the first time in this city yesterday. It was equally a triumph for the picture and the star. The story held everyone in excited suspense, whilst the adroit handling of big situations and ticklish jobs by the secret service detective Haldane, played by Houdini, evoked storms of applause.

The production is lavishly mounted, the internationally taken scenes are unusually beautiful and striking. Houdini receives splendid support from Gladys Leslie, William Humphrey and the other members of a thoroughly competent cast.

The action begining in Washington Square, New York, where Haldane discovers a criminal league with which the innocent Adele Ormsby is unwittingly mixed up, includes the New York harbor, and Atlantic steamship the secret hiding places or bold camouflages of the gang in Glasgow, Hull, London and France, and an awesome cutback of the origins of the conspiracy in Shanghai, China.

Not until the last two or three hundred feet of the picture did last night's spectators penetrate to the secret of the big monetary conspiracy around which the story centers. Indeed the baffling element of the plot is handled with a skill and surety suggestive of Poe, Gaboriau and Doyle. Houdini proves he is as great a mystifier in plots as in self-extrication or in magic.

Short subjects included a very good comedy and an up-to-date news weekly.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Two boys who ran away from their homes in Boston to see the world made what be considered a station stop, when they arrived at the Brooklyn jail Monday, after being presented before Justice C. H. Montgomery at Oneco, in the town of Sterling. The boys, Cyril Ferrari and John Gilles, were arrested on a charge of stealing milk and bottles from Harry E. Hinds of the town of Sterling. The occurrence was on Sunday and the boys afterwards declared that they had stolen to save themselves from starving.

Their thieving even under the circumstances was inexcusable, however, Mr. Hinds said that he would have been pleased to invite them in to breakfast and even to have given them a little money had they but told the story of their plight and asked for assistance.

Frank W. Hazard was grand juror in the case. The fins imposed in each case was $5 and costs, the costs bringing the total up to about $20. Though the boys had a little money they were unable to pay the court assessments and went to jail. It was understood Monday afternoon that Gilles' father, who is a head waiter at a well known Boston Hotel, would come here and pay the charges against his boy and take him back to Boston. Ferrari's people were not so interested in him, and it was understood at Oneco Monday afternoon that he will have a chance to remain in jail and work out his fine and costs.

Two other cases, presented by Grand Juror S. H. Tetrault, were heard before Justice Montgomery at Oneco Monday. Joseph Dukeman was fined $1.00 and costs, total of $17.15, for using abusive language. John Ford, Hartford, for intoxication was fined $5 and costs, a total of $31.75.

Monday, the body of Mrs. Jane O. Lucie, 83, was brought here from Leominster, Mass., for burial in Westfield cemetery, the committal service being conducted by Rev. Walter B. Williams of the Westfield Congregational church. The bearers were John A. Gilbert, Charles F. Austin, O. M. Smith and Frank H. Greener. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements. Mrs. Lucie, years ago, was for a long time resident in Goodyear. She was the widow of John Wesley Lucie. She is survived by two daughters and a grandson. One daughter was Mrs. William Gilbert, formerly of this town.

There were no developments during Monday relative to the breaks made at railroad stations in Wauregan and Moosup and the postoffice at Central Village during the early hours of Saturday morning. There seems to be general agreement of opinion that the breaks were made by the same gang that blew a safe in the postoffice at Georgetown this state during the early hours of Sunday morning and got away with $1,060 in money and stamps.

There were three cases for Judge W. Fennet Woodward to consider, at Monday morning's session of the town court. Homer Bishop was in to answer to a charge of operating an unregistered motor vehicle. He was apprehended during the early hours of Sunday morning when he got out his machine and took a chance on running into Wauregan to carry some of his friends to that place. He was arrested by Night Officer Christopher Andrews. Judge Woodward imposed a fine of $5 and costs.

John McNally and John Gaffney, who have been living in one of the villages of the town, being mill workers, were charged with having been intoxicated and went to jail. McNally was given 30 days. Gaffney, also charged with breach of the peace, was given 30 days. He was released only a few days ago, after doing a period of time at Brooklyn for having been intoxicated.

Observers of bird life have commented during the past few days on the large numbers of starlings that have congregated in Danielson. There are hordes of them, big, sleek, prosperous looking feathered friends—flitting about and apparently enjoying the open season as much as any one. Starlings have been noticed hereabouts for only a comparatively few years. Their numbers have so increased this winter as to attract attention.

PUTNAM

Scarlet fever brought about the closing of what is known as the eighth grade, a section of the common school system of Putnam housed in the high school building. Miss Agnes Young, a teacher, is ill with the disease, so it has been deemed best to close the grade for a period of two weeks, Health Officer Peter Gardner also announced Monday that he will suspend the sessions of a dancing class as a further precaution against the spread of the disease. A number of cases of scarlet fever have developed here during the past two months, several of them originating in the Israel Putnam school.

It was announced Monday evening that the order of Health Officer Gardner had been modified, so that the school will be closed only today (Tuesday) and will reopen Wednesday morning and continue in regular session thereafter.

Checker players here will stand in awe of William P. Warren—at least until they indulge in another test of skill with him—because of the fact that he managed to hold Newell W. Banks, champion checker player of the United States, to a draw game at a tournament in Providence Saturday. Mr. Warren is an enthusiastic member of the Putnam checker club and plays a very strong game. His achievement at Providence is attracting a great deal of attention among followers of checkers in Putnam and earned him prominent publicity in Sunday's Providence papers. Mr. Banks is making a New England tour that will take him to all the large cities in this section of the country.

This week, County Agent F. L. Davis and D. A. Hochbaum, representing the United States department of agriculture extension srevice in the northeastern states, are concerning themselves with the inauguration of what is described by Mr. Davis as a bull campaign. This campaign had its inception in Pomfret, Monday evening, when Messers Davis and Hochbaum met with men of that town owning herds and went into the subject of better bulls and the elimination of scrub animals that are not producing such satisfactory herd results as might be desired. Later in the week there will be another meeting, this with farmers of the town of Windham. Mr. Davis said Monday that he was hopeful of extending the campaign so that it eventually will cover all of the fifteen towns of the county. High grade bulls have been coming into the county in numbers during the past three or four years and the results obtained with them have been one of the inspirations leading to the campaign now underway.

Attorney Irving H. Miron told Monday of a laughable little incident that occurred Sunday evening while with Mrs. Miron, he was visiting at the home of his brother, Charles B. Miron in West Gloucester, just across the border in Rhode Island. The family was getting an evening of enjoyment out of a radio concert being broadcasted from the Capitol theater in New York, when an announcer at that station made some joshing remarks about Rhode Island and the things that can be done over in that state.

This suggested to the Miron party the sending, with humorous intent, of a telegram reading something like this: "Enjoying your concert very much, but please do not roast Rhode Island, for we have company from out of the state this evening." This message was telephoned to the nearest Postal Telegraph station and put on the wire at 8.10 p. m., addressed to the Broadcasting Station, Capitol Theater, N. Y.

At 8.55 the announcer broadcasted the information that "we have a telegram from Chepachet, R. I." (where the message was dated) and, to the amusement of the senders, went on in a serious vein to state that there was no intention of injuring the feelings of any one in Little Rhody or its state pride. Another evidence that New Yorkers do not always get a joke, obvious though it may be.

Indications were Monday that there would be no session of the superior court here today (Tuesday) to which time court adjourned last Friday. Developments over the week-end seemed, Monday, to make it inadvisable to have the jury on hand today, as was the intention, as the promise was that there would not be sufficient business to claim their attention. Sessions of the court will be held later in the week to dispose of cases that are awaiting consideration.

Lack of business in the city court for more than a week is taken as an indication that some New Year's resolutions are being rigidly lived up to and that those who said "never again" are standing by their vows. It was remarked in police circles Monday that the preceding week had been a remarkably quiet one, and the fact is thoroughly appreciated.

County Game Warden Charles M. Letters of this city is giving attention during January to trappers and trapping, seeing that they obey the laws under which the state permits them to operate. As told in the Danielson news Monday morning, Warden Letters and two of his deputies brought about the prosecution of a Pomfret man the past week for irregularities in trapping. Close supervision of trap lines will continue throughout the winter, all through this territory, with a view to obtaining a careful observance of the laws, particularly as to trapping on land without permission and with putting out traps not bearing the name of the owner. All traps must be visited at least once every 48 hours; otherwise another violation of the law will be charged against the trapper.

Judge Mahlon H. Geissler is to leave the latter part of this month for a brief visit to Tampa, Fla., where members of his family are spending the winter. Judge Geissler expects to be away about two weeks.

Miss Rachel Jordan, daughter of George Jordan, is dead at their home in Woodstock. The young woman, who died after a long illness, formerly was a student at Putnam High school.

There was a large attendance Monday afternoon in Odd Fellows' hall at the open meeting of Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R.

Mrs. J. J. Russell will have members of the Drop-In class of the Congregational church at her home for a social hour and the discussion of special business.

Dr. Hugh Baird Campbell of Norwich will be here today (Tuesday) to conduct a clinic at the Day Kimball hospital, in the interest of persons who have tuberculosis or are threatened with that disease.

There is every indication that the annual charity ball of Putnam lodge of Elks, to be held in Danielson this week, will be a highly successful affair.

The Seder building is up practically its full height and is now so far advanced that work upon it, chiefly on the interior, can continue throughout the winter period.

Reports of the officers and church societies will be given this week, at the parish meeting of St. Philip's church.

Motorists who have just come from northern Massachusetts and southern Vermont say there is practically no snow in that region.

William S. Johnson, spending the winter in Florida, has sent copies of newspapers published there to friends in this city. Mr. Johnson has important interests in Tampa and spends each winter season there.

WESTERLY

Edward A. Rouleau of 333 Main street, Norwich, chauffeur for Max Steinlieb, a clothing manufacturer of 223 West Main street of that city, was given a hearing in a special session of Stonington Town court Monday morning, on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna on a charge of reckless driving. On Thursday morning of last week the defendant drove the Buick touring car owned and occupied by Mr. Steinlieb down Liberty street, when they were en route from Norwich to Hope Valley at a speed said to be 40 miles an hour. Nearing the junction of West Broad the auto skidded against the curbstone under the railroad bridge smashing the two wheels on the right side and did not stop until near the traffic beacon. Patrolman Francis McMahon made an investigation at the time and Mr. Rouleau was directed to report in Stonington town court Monday morning, the intervening time being taken up in further investigation.

To the complaint of reckless driving Mr. Rouleau entered a demurrer through his attorney, A. T. L. Ledwidge of Westerly. Judge William A. Wilcox overruled the demurrer found defendant guilty, and fined him $25 with costs of $13.34, amounting to $38.34. The defendant paid.

In the council chambers of the Westerly town hall Wednesday, Miss Marion Powers of Providence, Rhode Island Directors of Mothers' Aid, with offices in the state house is to address a public meeting. The subject of Miss Powers' talk will be Mothers' Aid following which an opportunity will be given for asking of questions along the line of Mothers' Pension bill, introduced into the R. I. legislature several years ago by Representative Davis of Westerly and passed at the last session of the legislature. To receive the benefit of this act it is necessary for the towns of the state through their town council to ratify or accept the help given by the state in the Mothers' Pension act. The Westerly town council several sessions ago voted $100 for carrying out the provisions of the act and directed that the Overseer of the Poor, Oliver P. Crandall, become the local director. Later Mr. Crandall reported to the council that he thought the matter could be handled better by a woman. It may be necessary to carry out the the intent of the act to have a local director, or a local board of directors named. It is the intent of Miss Powers at the 2 o'clock meeting Wednesday afternoon to lay before the voters of Westerly the needs of the act so that a proper appropriation may be voted in the Westerly Financial town meeting held in February.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Washington Trust Co. was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the following directors were elected: Charles Perry, Charles P. Faster Toll Service

TO NEW LONDON

From now on you can make station-to-station calls to New London just as you make a local call in Norwich.

Give the local operator the name of the exchange and number wanted, for example, New London 123, and hold the telephone receiver to your ear until the call is completed or you receive a report.

If you do not know the number ask your local information operator for it.

This station-to-station service applies only to calls for a telephone number. Collect or reverse charge calls are not accepted at the station-to-station rate.

If you wish to talk to a particular person, ask for the toll operator in the usual way. Such calls cost more.

SIGNS AND SIGNPOSTS.

When the mayor of Fitchburg takes exception to the erection of a sign reading "This is Cleghorn" and recommends substituting "This is Cleghorn, a Thriving Community in the Prosperous City of Fitchburg," he may be endeavoring to preserve to Fitchburg a credit which he believes it is entitled to, instead of having it taken away by the magnifying of the respective sections of a city or town. He may be cognizant of the fact that the modest sign confuses those who are not aware of the names applied to certain city districts, but who would be interested in knowing when entrance was being made to the city, made up though it might be of variously termed sections or communities.

The value of such self boosting signs as the mayor of Fitchburg would erect is doubted by the Worcester Telegram, when it declares, "There is really no more call for announcing on a big billboard that a city is prosperous and thriving than there is for announcing that it has people in it."

Prompt endorsement must given to the Telegram's view when it says, "What the tourists and visitors do appreciate is information. A neat, conservative sign giving the name of the place, direction to hotels, the railroad station, directions and distances to other places—a sort of general bulletin board—might advertise a town or city better than many of the 'go-getter' ones now in use."

More and more people are making use of the highways these days and they are needing those signs that will tell them where they are and that will give them aid in reaching their destination. They want to know where roads go quite the same as they want to know the names of streets in a city. The roads that are well posted not only provide information that is desired but they create a favorable impression in the minds of those to whom signs are expected to appeal.

Informative guideposts and signs must be regarded as one of the means of disclosing the progressiveness of a city or town in these days of steadily increasing motor travel.

It is easy to refer to the fact that the United States has held out a welcoming hand to the people of other countries to come here and make their home and to enjoy the liberties provided. Such was the case once but it is not so today. We have gone through years of experience and we have come to the realization of the fact that we must place a check on that flood that would swamp us. We have found it necessary to limit the number who would rush to this country as a measure of self protection, and from time to time the wisdom of increasing the restrictions has been recognized.

IMMIGRATION LEGISLATION.

After having worked under a restricted immigration bill, by which we have seen a marked reduction in the number of newcomers, there is still felt the need of regulating the flow of aliens in such a way that it will result in better material for the melting pot. It is on such lines that the bill prepared for this congress has been drawn. Not only will there be a cutting of the number to be admitted by nearly 300,000 a year, if the two per cent instead of the three per cent quota is voted, but the changing from the 1910 figures to the 1890 figures as a basis for figuring the quota of the respective nationals will have the effect of shutting off immigration from southern and eastern Europe.

Some measure of relief in connection with immigration will be provided for by altering the law so that families of citizens may be admitted, while provision will be made for the examination of aliens at ports of embarkation that needless trips across the Atlantic may be avoided by those who cannot pass the various restrictions.

Presenting an immigration bill doesn't necessarily mean its adoption. It appears to have been drawn, however, with a view to correcting some of the ills that have been demonstrated in the administration of the existing law, and it is from experience that we must be expected to profit.

THE FAMOUS TWO-THIRDS RULE

Just how it came about is not known, but it was recently intimated that William G. Meadoo intended to do his best to bring about a change in the democratic convention rules whereby it would not be necessary for a candidate to have a two-thirds majority. He has been silently at work working up his delegations for some time and the inference has been that he considered that he had the nomination that rests with the democratic convention all secure if the two-thirds vote of the delegates was not required.

Such an attitude, even though it was no more than an inference, has not made a good impression. It has been regarded as a selfish view, inasmuch as others have abided by the requirement since the time of Andrew Jackson he should be willing to do as most assuredly. Whether Mr. McAdoo was committed to any such effort as that with which he was credited, he has seen the error involved, either in making any such attempt or of being credited with it, and caused it to be announced that he has no intention of attacking the two-thirds rule as affecting the coming democratic convention.

What he may do relative to having the rule changed for future conventions is of less consequence, but the intimation that he may seek to have it modified throws no stones in his path. That is the very course that it would be expected to be taken in attacking such a provision. The two-thirds rule is one that has come in for much criticism, but it doesn't aid the prospects of a candidate to have the impression go abroad that he wants the rule changed in order to help his particular candidacy in a convention a few months away. It not only creates a different kind of opposition than might be experienced under other conditions, but it subjects a candidate to the charge of trying to obtain an unfair advantage.

While Mr. McAdoo may be said to have the pole position in the race for the democratic nomination he cannot afford to antagonize by undertaking to control the convention in such a manner.

JUDGE JOHN M. THAYER.

By the death of John M. Thayer, identified for nearly a half century with the bar of this county and the courts of the state, there has been removed one of the city's leading citizens.

During his early days as a resident of this city Judge Thayer made his mark in the legal profession, and recognition thereof continued to the end. Step by step he rose from the attorney at the bar to prosecutor, state's attorney, judge of the superior court and justice of the supreme court and it was with regret that, as is so often the case, that the age limit forced his retirement from the bench when it did. His opinions were always greatly valued, and it was a most creditable service that he rendered to the state during a score and a half years.

Judge Thayer was always a consistent democrat, and was an active participant in party activities during his earlier days before his elevation to the bench placed restrictions thereon. Though often sought he was not inclined to hold political office, but it was a highly creditable service that he rendered to the city as a member of its first gas and electrical commission.

For many years Judge Thayer's activities have been confined to court duties. Though of a retiring disposition he was a man of pleasing personality and was held in the highest esteem by all members of the bar and the community in general. As a public spirited citizen the block which brought such an improvement to Franklin square and which bears his name will long stand as evidence of his desire to do something worthwhile for community betterment.

In his passing the city and the state lose a citizen of the old school whose numbers are all too few.

PROTECTING TRAVELING PUBLIC

Great protection for the traveling public is the aim of the interstate commerce commission when it sets forth that it has given its approval to certain devices for the controlling of trains whereby collisions can be prevented, and requiring the first class systems of the country to become equipped with approved equipment within the next two years.

Under an order that was issued some time ago it is required that a certain percentage of the main lines of the big roads must be equipped with automatic train stops by the first of next year. Steady progress is being made in that direction, both in the trying out of controlling devices and the equipping of certain lines. The new order makes it evident that sufficient progress has been made to warrant full equipment within the next 24 months.

This is going to involve much expense for the railroads, but it is a step in behalf of greater safety that should eliminate many distressing railroad accidents. Repeatedly has it been demonstrated that complete reliance cannot be placed upon the human agent. Sickness, carelessness or disregard of orders have been responsible for many rear-end and head-on collisions which never should have occurred had there been the proper respect for signals.

Devices that will cause trains to respond to signals, whether the engineman is so disposed or not, are intended to eliminate that element of chance that now exists, and though it may be expensive the fact that it means protection for human life certainly justifies it.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—At last two long hanging vexed questions have been settled. The Mellon tax reduction bill will take precedence over the bonus, and a chairman has been elected for the senate committee on interstate commerce. For the first time in the history of congress a man from the minority side of the chamber has been elected to a chairmanship. The first move forea coalition government has been made in the senate, and a bloc of four men has changed the majority into a minority. Its a big responsibility that those men, under the leadership of Mr. LaFollette, have assumed, and it must be confessed that the republicans are not weeping or wailing over the loss of those men from the nominal party position which they formerly held; nor are the democrats rejoicing that the bloc came over to their side of the main aisle. "It's a big white elephant that you have handed us" sighed a democratic leader in commenting on the coalition movement. "We want men who will stand with us, and those men can't be depended on for anything. They will demand a lot from us, but that is about all it will amount to us."

For the first time in the history of the United States congress a minority senator has been selected to preside as chairman of a majority committee; for the first time a coalition move has been deliberately made; for the first time a bloc has deliberately forsaken the party banner under which it was elected in order to show its teeth and growl at those who blocked its path to insurgency. And the funny part of it is that the democratic party which gained the chairmanship, is the least pleased with the move. The republicans preferred Smith, democrat to an insurgent republican; the insurgents have shown their hand; but the democrats, with the responsibility of interstate commerce legislation have got an honor they don't want.

The action of the republican caucus in putting the Mellon tax reduction measure before the bonus seems to meet with very general favor as heard in corridor talk at the capitol. Home folks told their congressmen, during the holidays, that tax burdens were to be first remedied, then let the bonus come up for discussion and action, and the majority of the republican caucus felt that way, so not till some time in February is the bonus likely to get consideration. How congress will vote this time is not certain, but if it passes senate and house it will be by a smaller majority than before. The question of whether or not it could pas over a veto is still undetermined though the senate is said to lack but two votes of sustaining a veto at this moment.

For the first time in modern history Egypt has sent a diplomat representative to the United States, and a foreign legation will soon be opened at the capital.

The new envoy is S. Yousry Pasha. He speaks English fluently, was educated at Oxford, and brings with him his wife and a large suite for maids and servants. As the minister is of the Mohammedan faith he has also brought along Mohammed Tomara, a priest of Egypt.

Photographs of the Egyptian minister show his official robes to be royal in decorations color and much lace, with great sparkling pendants and orders, in which diamonds and rubies hold the first place. Diplomatic court costumes of the men are always striking and of marked interest and official functions, but it is said those of the Egyptian may outshine them all.

Another prohibition row looms in sight stirred by the recent debates and accusations under the name of debates, poured into the ears of the house by Upshaw of Georgia and Hill of Maryland, who are the two extremes of the north and the dry. How a vote to modify the Volstead act would pan out is another of the things too doubtful to forecast.

Senator Fernald chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds is hopeful that even though congress does not pass a blanket public building bill, it will permit the construction of much needed government buildings in localities where the stress is great. There will be no omnibus bill, but each locality would be treated on its urgent needs alone. Chairman Langley of the house committee stands firm for such a precaution against a bill that might develop into a so called "pork barrel" measure. How the New England cities needing new buildings on alterations and enlargements of present buildings to meet the ever increasing bulk of business will fare at the hands of the 67th congress is not known, but the outlook is not favorable to any large projects.

The veteran's bureau will gain by the replacement of temporary hospitals with permanent structures, if the committees having the matter in charge in congress have their way.

The senate experienced a new emotion when Frau Schribner, member of the German Reichtag walked into that august chamber accompanied by Senator Owen of Oklahoma. In fact the senate experienced two emotions that amounted to almost shocks. First, the lady is an advanced member of a group of our late enemy in the war, second she is a woman, and except in the case of the woman senator from Georgia, who held office one day, and the three women members of congress no woman have ever had the privilege of the senate until Frau Schriber was given it this week. It is according to long established custom to grant floor privileges of senate and house to certain properly accredited officials of foreign governments, and Frau Schriber came in on that list.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

In computing net income taxpayers are allowed to deduct from gross income deductions for losses incurred not only in the taxpayer's business but losses sustained in any transaction entered into for profit, or if arising from "fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty." Deductions for losses are allowed only to the extent that they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Claims for losses should conform closely to the wording of the statute. While a taxpayer may feel certain that property owned by him is worth less than the purchase price, he is not allowed a deduction until the loss is made absolute by the sale or other disposition of the property.

Frequent claims are made for deductions for losses in the sale of residence property. A loss sustained in the sale of a residence, which at the time of purchase was bought without intention of selling, is not a deductible item "because it was not a transaction entered into for profit." For the same reason, a loss sustained in the sale of an automobile purchased for personal use may not be deducted. The intent to make a profit must have existed at the beginning of the venture.

A manufacturer compelled to scrap machinery because it has gradually become absolete may deduct the loss sustained if he has sold or otherwise abandoned the machinery. Usually, to be deductible, as a loss, the assets upon which the loss has been sustained must have completely disappeared as a resource to the taxpayer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FACTS TO FACE

Mr. Editor: The Anti-Prohibition Association of America, soon to meet in conference in Washington, announces as its slogan, "Face the Facts." Here are a few facts to face!

Alcohol cannot be made non-intoxicating by act of congress.

No person who values a reputation for intelligence and common sense will rise to defend alcohol as a drink.

It is not a friendly act to command "light wines and beer" to young men and women as safe and wholesome beverages.

In the palmy days of "pure liquors" "before prohibition" even the "well-regulated" saloon did far more harm than good.

Modern science has revealed the physical nature and effect of alcohol in a new light. Even as a "medicine" its value is questioned. Intelligent and responsible physicians prescribe it far less than formerly. No person can take it with a considerable degree of frequency or regularity without damage to his entire being. Alcohol is not fit to drink.

The traffic in alcoholic liquors as a beverage is an unqualified social damage. It has no right to exist under a government proclaiming "the general welfare" as its purpose. It has been well said that "the thirteenth amendment made it forever impossible for any citizen of this republic to claim a legal right to enslave his fellowman." With equal truth it may be said that the eighteenth amendment has made it forever impossible for any citizen of this republic to claim a legal right to debauch and destroy his fellowman. The eighteenth amendment is the greatest bulwark of liberty against tyranny, even enthroned in fundamental law.

Respectfully submitted,
ALLEN B. LINCOLN.

THE FASHIONS

"I've just been reading a short story," remarked Loretta, "that has made me wonder why men don't study up on the fashions before they write about them. For instance, this author says the girl is wearing a tennis blazer. Now, every body that is anybody, knows they haven't worn blazers since long before the war."

"What war" Loretta's brother asked lazily. "Civil, Spanish, Boer or the great?"

"It'd be a family war if you are going to insinuate too much," Loretta laughed. "Anyhow, tennis blazers aren't worn nowadays."

"Yes," and a whole novel can be spoiled just because a writer called a blouse a tennis blazer," said Loretta's brother. So I feel that perhaps it is just as well I didn't keep up my literary work."

"You!" cried Loretta. "What literary work did you ever do?"

"I wrote a story once," said her brother. "All about a bullfight they had in London, and it was some story! Then somebody in the family had to get hold of it and laugh at the very idea of a bullfight in England, and I never touched a pen again."

"If you had continued on your mad path," said Loretta, "you would have made all sorts of mistakes about fashions. It was only the other day you told Minnie that I had a new dress for evenings made out of pink sateen."

"It was Minnie who was telling me a story about a man and the new fashion," said Loretta. "She has a cousin who has just married and is very devoted to his wife."

"Which just goes to show that you aren't up on the fashions, either," scoffed Loretta. "Wives left alone don't pine away any more. They go into the movies. Anyhow, this cousin is devoted to his wife and they go shopping and everything together.

"So Saturday afternoon they went shopping and bought their dining room set. The husband paid for it and arranged to have the firm keep it for them until the house is ready. Then they decided to go up to the park for a brisk walk and the husband discovered that he didn't have enough money left to pay their corfare."

"He wanted to go back to the office and get some money," Loretta went on unheeding. "But his wife said it would be a pity to take all that long walk, as she had her purse with her. She told him to be careful of it because it had $16 in it."

"Women always talk as though men were careless," said her brother, "when, as everybody knows, they handle millions of dollars safely every day of their lives."

"Yes," said Loretta calmly. "The husband paid the fares and they took a long walk through the park. When they started home they went into a restaurant and had dinner. When the check was presented to the husband he asked his wife for her purse and she turned on him with the startling reply that she didn't have it. As a result she had to stay in the restaurant and wait while he hunted up a man he used to go to school with and get some money. The schoolmate was rather grudging and suspicious, but he got it."

"Yes," said her brother. "But what became of the purse?"

"Oh, yes, I forgot," Loretta said with a laugh. "That was why I started this story to show that men ought to study fashions a little. When they were in the park the husband got tired carrying the purse and dropped it in his wife's pocket without her knowing it."

"Yes, yes!" cried her brother.

"Well," said Loretta rising to leave for her room, "he didn't know the styles, so he didn't know that those things that look like pockets are no such thing and whatever you put in them drops to the ground with a dull and sickening thud. That's all."—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

This is the 65th birthday of Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, who has filled the presidency of Brown University for a quarter of a century. The son of a minister, the Rev. Daniel W. Faunce, he is a direct descendant of Thomas Faunce, who was ruling elder in Old Plymouth church for 40 years. Young Faunce was fitted for college in the schools of Concord N. H., and Lynn, Mass., and was graduated from Brown in 1880. Later he took courses in Newton Theological Seminary, and was ordained in 1884. For a number of years after he entered the ministry he occupied the pulpit of the fashionable Fifth Avenue Baptist church, New York City. Prior to becoming president of Brown University, Dr. Faunce was an instructor at Harvard and at the summer school of the University of Chicago. He is an intimate friend of the Rockefeller family and some years ago was prominently mentioned for the presidency of the University of Chicago.

Whiter Teeth in 10 Days

Make this free test. Combat the film

This is how countless people get the whiter teeth you admire. They combat the film that makes teeth cloudy. Millions do it daily. And so will you when you make this test and see what it means to your teeth.

It hides the luster

Film is that viscous coat you feel. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it, so much of it remains. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats. That is how teeth lose their beauty.

Film also ruins teeth. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Now advised by leading dentists the world over

Dental science has now found two ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities have proved these methods effective. A new-type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Now careful people of some 50 nations use it every day.

Watch it act

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Dignity and Honor of Labor.

Secretary of Labor Davis recently stated that 90 per cent of the youth turned out by the educational system of the country are equipped only for the so-called "white-collar" occupations, which can provide jobs for only about 10 per cent of them.

Here, apparently, is a prodigious waste of human energy and opportunity. If anything like 90 per cent of the girls and boys who come from our educational institutions are equipped only for the professions, clerkships and other work of that sort, it means that they are going into the practical walks of life most improperly fitted for their duties. It means that their individual usefulness and earning power are restricted and that an unnecessary burden of inefficient labor is being placed on industry.

According to the census of 1920 there are 38,000,000 persons engaged in productive pursuits in the United States. Who can calculate the um total of waste among this army of workers as the result of incorrect or inadequate educational background?

Fortunately, steps are being taken to correct this misplacement of labor through the establishment of vocational schools under the federal and state vocational education acts, and we are told by Secretary Davis that some 500,000 potential or actual workers are thus being reached.

The root of the trouble lies in popular misconceptions regarding the dignity and honor of labor. There is too much false pride in the matter, too many people who seem to feel that they are above working in field or factory; too many who fail to appreciate the nobility of work well done no matter in what realm of life it is performed.

In the home, in the school, in the church or wherever else influences are brought to bear which affect the mental attitude of youth, deep thought should be given to these problems of practical education.

No graver injustice could be done a young man than to send him forth into a field of endeavor for which he is unsuited both by nature and by educational equipment. — American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

The Lost is Found

It was at an entertainment where candy was being sold. A gentleman passed out a dollar bill and two quarters were handed back. A young woman in moving her arm to facilitate the handling of change to the man, brushed it from the hand of her sister who was passing it.

Much embarrassed, they all scrambled for the money. A quarter was found but no more. The young woman's embarrassment was heightened when at the close a flashlight was obtained and a search failed to reveal the missing money.

Several days later the young woman started to school with her umbrella. It was raining and as she opened the umbrella on stepping outdoors the missing quarter fell to the sidewalk.

The surest a girl is about a man's being in love with her the less sure she is about being in love ....

POETRY

WINTER

Upon the air a solemn stillness broods,
Save where the oaks their naked boughs upreer
Toward the sky in rugged restlessness;
Like to some prisoner, with hands uplifted,
Who strains his iron bands to break, and tugs,
And rails, and chafes at his captivity.
The breast of earth all cold and bare lies;
Grim pines in suits of sombre green, or clumps
Of starved grass, sole witness remain
Of warmth and light and days of golden ease.
The meadow brook a crystal captive lies.
The music of its thousand voices stilled.
No longer leaps 'neath shade of leafy green,
With sudden, silver cleaving of the air,
From quiet pool, the rainbow-tinted trout.
The winged, wandering host of summer's days
Are gone, and scarce a sound is heard, save where
The north wind whispers of the coming storm
That gathers darkly as the night comes on.
The gale more fiercely blows, and cold; clearness
The shimmering silver rays of rising moon,
And, like a mantle of the softest fleece,
The cold earth robes herself in driven snow.
—B. Frank Hays in Philadelphia Public Ledger.

What the Chimney Sang

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew;
And the Woman stopped, as her babe she tossed,
And thought of the one she had long since lost,
And said, as her teardrops back she forced,
"I hate the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew;
And the Children said, as they closer drew,
"'Tis some witch that is cleaving the black night through—
'Tis a fairy trumpet that just then blew
And we fear the wind in the chimney."

Over the chimney the night-wind sang
And chanted a melody no one knew;
But the Poet listened and smiled, for he Was Man, and Woman, and Child, all three,
And he said "It is God's own harmony,
The wind that sings in the chimney."

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

CONTRACT AWARDED AT NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

Bids were opened and the contract awarded for two new wards and a nurses' home at the quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Norwich State hospital Monday. The construction contract for the three buildings was awarded to the low bidders, H. Wales Lines company of Meriden for $460,000, which does not include sub-contracts for heating, lighting and plumbing.

The legislative appropriation was $425,000 for the wards and $145,000 for the nurses' home and the probability is that they cannot be erected inside the appropriation, it is believed now. The new construction work will be started about April 1.

The high bid was $535,000 by Contractor Haggerty of New Haven, and there were bids from The Bridgeport Construction company, Torrington Building company, Tracy Bros. and Peck-McWilliams company of this city, the last named bidding $515,000. L. M. Young of this city put in a bid of $119,000 on the nurses' home.

Costello Lippitt, president of the board, presided, and those present included Judge A. P. Libby, Dr. J. J. Donohue, Charles A. Hagberg, Lucius E. Whiton of New London, Charles B. Pinney of Stafford Springs, Rollin S. Woodruff of New Haven and Judge Hurford of Stamford, former speaker of the house.

The board was entertained at dinner by Superintendent Franklin S. Wilcox.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead neutralise or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little bot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

RUN-DOWN WEAK, NERVOUS

Benefited by First Bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lancaster, Pa. — "After I was married I became terribly run-down and was weak and nervous. My sister-in-law told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My husband got me a bottle at once, and it did me so much good that I kept on taking it. I began to feel well and strong again and was able to do my housework up to the time my baby was born—a nice fat little girl in the best of health. I surely am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends when they have troubles like mine, and I am perfectly willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. —Mrs. FRANK H. GUMBS, 533 Locust Street, Lancaster, Pa.

Women should heed such symptoms as pains, backache, nervousness, a run-down condition and irregularity, as they indicate some form of female trouble. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all these troubles. For sale by druggists everywhere.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Frank P. Flaherty

Following an illness of one year's duration the life of Mary Ann Gorman, beloved wife of Frank P. Flaherty, came to a close Saturday in Boston, where the couple had made their home for about 13 years.

Mrs. Flaherty was the daughter of George and Catherine Mulligan Gorman and parts of her life was spent in this city and in Norwich Town. In Norwich on December 27, 1900 in St. Patrick's church she was united in marriage with Frank P. Flaherty by Rev. Hugh Treanor. Mr. Flaherty had been a Norwich business man for a number of years, being in the livery business with offices on Chestnut street.

Surviving her besides her husband are three brothers, George Gorman, John Gorman and Henry T. Gorman, supervisor of state roads.

Mrs. Flaherty had many friends in this city who learned of her death with sorrow. She was of a kindly and generous disposition, a loving wife and sister.

Mrs. Howard Sherman.

Mrs. Howard Sherman, 38, a former resident of Niantic, died Sunday at Middlesex hospital, Middletown, where she had been under treatment some time. Mrs. Sherman is survived by her husband and three daughters. She was the daughter of George O. Brooks. Mrs. Sherman was admitted to the hospital several weeks ago and about a week ago underwent an operation for appendicitis. Her condition continued to improve until a few days ago when a change for the worse occurred.

JUDGE THAYER, DISTINGUISHED NORWICH JURIST, DIES AT THE AGE OF 76

Judge John M. Thayer, one of the most distinguished members of the legal fraternity in this part of the state, died Sunday night at the Backus hospital, where he had been a patient for about three weeks. Although the end came a little before midnight Sunday, news of his death did not become generally known outside of the hospital until Monday morning.

Judge Thayer was suffering with pemphigus, a very rare skin disease which is almost invariably fatal, and about three weeks ago he left the bachelor apartment which he maintained in The Osgood at 32 Church street in order to go to the hospital for treatment. He failed gradually and his condition had been recognized as serious for several days past. Sunday he grew weaker perceptibly until the end.

John Mowry Thayer, who was the son of Charles Dexter and Lucy Elliot (Nichols) Thayer, was born in New Boston, Thompson, Windham county, Conn., March 15, 1847. He was prepared for college at Nichols academy, Dudley, Mass., entered Yale and graduated in the class of 1869. From Oct. 11, 1869, to Sept. 19, 1871, when he was admitted to the bar, he studied law in the office of Hon. James A. Hovey, in Norwich. He practiced law in Burlington, Iowa, from October, 1871, to August, 1872, when he returned to Norwich and became associated with Judge Hovey under the firm name of Hovey & Thayer. In November, 1876, he withdrew from this firm and began practice in his own office. Some time later he associated with himself his brother, Charles F. Thayer, under the name of Thayer & Thayer. He was appointed by the legislature to the position of judge of the city court of Norwich and held it for two terms from July, 1875, to July, 1877. For several years after that he was state's attorney for New London county. In 1889 he was appointed judge of the superior court of Connecticut. He was reappointed in 1897 and 1905 and in 1907 he was appointed to the supreme court of errors, which office he held until March 15, 1917, when, as senior associate judge, he retired from the bench at the age limit of 69 years. He had since lived a retired life, acting as state referee and filling at times some other positions of honor in the public service, chief of which was as chairman of the federal draft board for this district during the World war, to which he gave much time and attention.

During his active life as an attorney and his years upon the bench, he was immersed in his profession and he had few interests outside of his books and his profession, although he was a lover of outdoor life and sought recreation in walking and later in motoring, which he especially enjoyed.

In his later years he became interested in real estate ownership and he made a most substantial contribution and improvement in the business section when he erected the Thayer building on Franklin square on a plot which had long been occupied by a group of old wooden buildings which were an unsightly object on the principal business square of the city. Another of his improved holdings was The Osgood, an apartment block on Church street, in which he lived, and he also owned a business and apartment block on Shetucket street at the Labrul Hill corner. He has been generally rated as having an estate approaching half a million dollars.

In politics Judge Thayer was a staunch democrat but he had never sought political offices. With John McWilliams and William F. Bogue he was appointed one of the original commissioners of the city gas and electrical department when his brother, the late Charles F. Thayer, was mayor. His ability in this office was readily recognized and since his retirement he had been importuned a number of times to accept another appointment on the board.

Judge Thayer never married and was the last of his immediate family. He had two brothers, Charles F. Thayer, mayor of Norwich for 10 years in two different terms, and David N. Thayer, a newspaper publisher in New York city and other places; also a sister, Mrs. Aurelia Richardson (Thayer) Murdock; all now deceased. His cousin, the late John H. Thayer, was a prominent lawyer of Worcester, a democrat who was three times elected to congress from a strong republican district.

Judge Thayer is survived by three nieces, Mrs. Nelson C. Taintor of Hartford, Mrs. Rachel Thayer Dunlop of Norwich, and Mrs. George Stobbs of Worcester, Mass.

To intimate friends Judge Thayer had declared that it was his purpose to live an honest, upright life, treating all men fairly and discharging with fidelity every trust committed to him. This inward purpose obtained outward expression in every act and thought in his public and private life in the city where his home had been so long. His associates in his profession bear testimony to his notable ability as a jurist and republicans and democrats alike had endorsed him for appointment to the bench.

Out of respect to Judge Thayer's memory, Mayor Milo R. Waters ordered the flags on the court house building placed at half-mast Monday, in which position they will remain until after the funeral.

PEW RALLY CONDUCTED AT MT CALVARY CHURCH

The pew rally at Mt. Calvary Baptist church Sunday afternoon was a wonderful success. Services were conducted by Deacon C. C. Townsel, and the following hymns were sung by the united choirs of Grace Memorial and A. M. E. Zion churches; The Fight is On, Are You Serving Jesus, I Know in Whom I Believe.

Following the choir selections prayer was offered by Deacon Harrison Payne of Grace Memorial church and the scriptures were read by Rev. Mr. Patterson of Grace church.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Dixon A. Brown, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church who took for his subject, The Secret of Assurance. Rev. Mr. Patterson spoke briefly.

Much credit for the success of the pow rally is due to the work of Mrs. Amy Lacy, chairman of the committee. A neat sum of money was realized. The captains of the several pews were: Mary Jane Brown, Mrs Frances Evans, Mrs. Sarah Strong, Mrs. Bessie Greene, Henry Lacy, Nicholas Jackson and Mrs. Annie Drury, church clerk.

COMMON COUNCIL CONFIRMS POLICE APPOINTMENTS

Willimantic, Jan. 14.—Practically all the agitations concerning the city's departments and the officials connected with them were brought to an end and definitely settled by vote, at a lively session of the common council, Monday night. The fireworks were many and varied and the spectators' gallery was crowded in anticipation of the proposed shakeup of the police department.

Action was expected to be taken on the contest for the position of lieutenancy which has been waged for some time past between Frank McLean, who was appointed some six months ago by Mayor Charles A. Gates, and Patrolman Edward Leahy, the senior of McLean in the department by virtue of several years of supernumerary service. The appointments of Chief Allan MacArthur, Captain Thomas Grady and Lieut. McLean had not been confirmed by the past common council, but they were considered legal by Corporation Counsel King. Contrary opinions had been expressed, however, and to clear any existing doubts, Mayor Dion asked that the appointments be voted upon. Alderman Lee was in favor of having the matter deferred until the police committee had conducted a thorough investigation. He later withdrew his resolution and the voting proceeded. Ballots were cast, four votes being necessary for choice. The results follow: Chief of Police, Allan MacArthur; yes 6, no 1; Captain, Grady, yes 7, no 0; lieutenant, McLean, yes 6, no 1. Supernumeries Roderick Laraviere and Arthur M. Hurley were unanimously appointed regulars. The department was substantially reenforced by the acceptance of the applications for supernumaries made by Euclid S. Ledoux and Fred A. Coriaty, both of whom weigh in the neighborhood of 200 pounds. A petition of the city auditors, John M. Bransfield and Heliodore Trudeau for a raise in salary from $150 to $200 yearly, was referred to the finance committee.

The following resolutions were then introduced by Alderman William E. Jackson and disposed of: To install a light on Knight's field, now used as a skating pond on West Main street: resolution adopted. That the salary for the assistant librarian, be paid weekly instead of monthly; adopted. That an expert be secured to examine the footbridge to determine its safety and to make a report; referred to the footbridge committee. That lights be installed on Summit street extension, Montecello street and Trepelld road; referred to light committee. That the salary of the incoming Corporation Counsel Thomas J. Kealy, who takes office today (Tuesday) be increased from $400 to $600 yearly; adopted. That the law be enforced in regard to the paying of water bills; referred to the water committee and superintendent of the water works. That Tingley street be accepted as a city street; referred to street committee.

In regard to increasing the salary of the corporation counsel, Alderman Jackson said the city's attorney labored as hard as the police court officials and that his compensation should be made to compare favorably with that received by the latter. Corporation Counsel William A. King, who was attending his last meeting, suggested that it might be well to increase the pay of his successors. Jackson asked for $800 but this was considered a little high and was later amended to $600.

At the meeting held Dec. 10, a resolution was adopted by Alderman Jackson of the past common council that all delinquent water bills in excess of $300 be paid within thirty days. Jackson's resolution was mainly to secure the payment of a bill of $1300 then owed by M. E. Lincoln. Eight hundred dollars had been paid up to date, leaving a balance of $500 The thirty-day limit has expired and no action has been taken by the superintendent of water works. Jackson asked that the matter be attended to. Through the advice of the corporation counsel, tarme was arrived at and the matter was referred to the water committee.

Another important question which was taken up was the consolidation of the position of superintendent of streets with that of superintendent of sewers. Alderman Lee, chairman of the committee, asked for an expression of opinion and the members voted 5 to 2 in favor of consolidation. Superintendent of Streets George M. Flint, who took office at 12 Monday night was then named as superintendent of sewers at a salary of $10 per week. In past years the sewers superintendent has received $32 a week, but it is not, however, expected that any money will be saved through consolidation, as it will be necessary for the superintendents to hire an assistant.

Charles Ellis and Mr. Mulliga appeared to explain trouble which they are having on Chapman street, where they own property. Ellis started to build a wall and veranda to keep the water from coming into his house and the work was halted by Fire Chief James J. Tighe, who is also building inspector. It was said that the addition projected too far into the street and would become a source of danger to traffic. Ellis did not think that he was infringing on street lines as the street has never been accepted by the city and he had no lines to go by. The street committee and building inspector were given charge of the situation. Mr. Mulliga broke out in a volume of abuses in connection with the present condition of Chapman street. He said that there was a large hole in the road opposite his home and that water ran in a steady stream into his kitchen and cellar. The street superintendent was authorized to make immediate repairs.

Upon the petitions of Albert F. Mastin of Holbrook avenue and Alderman Lee of Chapman street, the committee on streets will investigate the advisability of adopting those thoroughfares as city streets.

Mayor Dion was authorized to borrow $15,000 to defray current expenses.

The meeting adjourned, after being in session over two hours.

KREISLER TELLS OF FAMINE AMONG EDUCATED GERMANS

Because of the concert of Fritz Kreisler, Monday evening, there is Norwich interest in the following from the London, England, Evening Standard, of Dec. 31st:

Kreisler is in London, just for a days, on his way to New York, and this afternoon following lunch at the Savoy, he spoke at length on the subject which at present interests him most.

This was not his music, or his new tour in America, but the extraordinary poverty of Central Europe, particularly of Germany, and there again of the class which is suffering most—the musicians, the artists, the professors, and the rentiers generally.

"I had a month in Berlin," he said, "where I gave one or two concerts. My wife"—Mrs. Kreisler was present—"has had two months there doing relief work. She can tell you what conditions are really like.

"One notices the effects of the famine, particularly among the educated classes—the artists professors, and the rest. It is unheard of. They are absolute beggars.

"One can't really imagine what it is like. Think of it, that the man who had, say, a capital of twenty thousand pounds before the war, with a comfortable income for life, cannot buy a tram fare.

"People of this class are suffering terribly, and they are showing it as little as possible. They are very brave about it. First their objects d'art went. Then their furniture. Then their clothes. Then there is nothing. Then they die.

"I went to see a professor of astronomy who is world famous, and for that reason I won't give his name. I found him in a garret lying on the floor, with nothing to cover him and and no shirt. And do you know what his only clothing was? A ragged old dress suit!"

I asked Kreisler to explain the reports that for Christmas Eve and New Year banquets the Berlin resorts were full of people at 4 pounds a head.

"A lot of that can be explained by the fact that many are Americans—particularly German-Americans," he replied. "I should say that three-quarters of the people who spend money today in Berlin are foreigners. And a great proportion of them have lost the money as quickly as they made it."

"I found Vienna incredibly improved," he went on. "The allied credits have largely done that, of course. But not that alone. Self-confidence has been restored—that is the great thing. All that previous orgy of spending was merely because people were afraid that their money of Monday would be worth nothing on Tuesday. I went through it myself.

EXHIBIT OF SHAWLS WITH INSTRUCTIVE TALK

Members of the Norwich hArt Student's association enjoyed a rare treat Monday evening at the regular monthly meeting when over 100 Cashmere, Paisley, or Chinese silk shawls were placed on exhibition in their room in Slater hall.

The exhibit was without doubt the finest of its kind ever seen in Norwich and comprised several shawls that are priceless. Several of the genuine India shawls bore the trade mark of the maker and had been secured 1 nindia many years ago by relatives or friends of the Norwich families now so fortunate as to possess them.

The shawls were beautiful in design, the India shawls having from 14 to 16 colors beautifully interwoven, the entire garment giving evidence of a most elaborate care given to every detail, requiring sometimes several days for workmen to complete one inch of the design.

The Paisley shawls were more numerous and also showed a beautiful blending of colors, 4 or 5 colors being used to the garment. Besides the woven articles there were several printed shawls which closely resembled the woven shawls, a fine example of the art of dyeing and printing.

The Black lace shawls were more in evidence than those of the white, tan or red and there were also of pretty designs, an example of an art that has made China famous the world over for its silk shawls.

Several other articles on display were dresses and coats made from Paisley or from the real India shawls, and a dress trimmed in the Chinese lace taken from a shawl.

By the exhibit it was disclosed for the first time what the members of the association could produce in rare and valuable shawls, several in the exhibit being worth much over a thousand dollars.

The business meeting preceded the talk of the evening and was in charge of the President, Mrs. W. Tyler Browne who paid tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Henry T. Arnold, an active member of the association for many years.

It was announced that at the next meeting of the association, The Art of Advertising would be the subject of an address to be given by Arthur Pattison, and several Tableaux would be shown in connection with the address. The speaker of the evening was Miss Helen Marshall of Norwich her subject, Rare and Old Shawls.

STORMY MEETING OVER NEW LONDON SCHOOL

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 14—The city council this evening had the longest session it has held since the city manager form of government became operative and one of th stormiest, too. Indeed it was a session in which innendoes were made and replied to with vigor. The members of the board of school visitors were there in force and they wanted the council to authorise the construction of a junior high school building, but after a hot session that body decided to postpone the matter for two weeks that another tussle might be had with the question. As soon as President F. L. Harwood explained, or gave what he said was a statement of what the school board wanted, he was opposed by Councilor Fox, who said it was inexpedient for the council to make the expenditure of half a million dollars for such a building as wass ought. He declared that Dr. Davis of the state board of education was opposed to the erection of the building here until such time as the school board should disclose that it had a definite plan of conducting the junior high school. He said the school board had written to the state board and that the replies they received were not favorable to their scheme. Had they been favorable, the councilor said they would have been published in the papers of the city within two hours. They were not favorable so they were covered up. He said the board was concealing the real plan and not giving the council the information it was entitled to.

Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson took issue with Councilor Fox and accused him of not attending the meetings of the school board while he was a member of it. She said he was the mouthpiece of others. This Mr. Fox resented and declared that Dr. Davis, one of the leading educators of the United Ctates, did not need a mouth piece, Mr. Fox declared that he spoke for himself and that he means to oppose granting the demand of the school board on the ground that Dr. Davis opposed them. He said the building proposed would cost the city $1,000,000 before it was through with it and declared that any such expenditure was unwarranted at this time. He would insist that the matter should be referred to the citizens. Councilor Whiton came to the aid of Councilor Fox by saying that that plan of the school board was not definite enough and that Mr. Fox was justified in taking the stand that he did in the absence of information sought. Mr. Fox declared that letters had been written bwy members of the school board to the state board and that the replies received were not favorable to the junior high school plan as proposed.

A denial came from President Harwood that the letters were concealed, and he said he would be glad to turn over such correspondence as he had with the state board. He did not deny that he had such correspondence. President Harwood said that the borad had received plans and he was ready to show that the building could be constructed within the appropriation of $500,000. Councilor Fox would not accept that statement as sufficient. He wanted to get all the facts in the case and to learn the cost, etc. —including the cubage of the building and learn the number to pupils it would accommodate, the cost of maintenance, and other facts. Mr. Harwood insisted that Mr. Fox should name the educators he had said were opposed to the junior high school and Mr. Fox named Dr. Davis, and Prof. Spaulding of Yale. He declared that there were only three junior high schools east of Chicago that were a success and pointed out that at Fort Worth, the system har been a veritable failure and had been abandoned. Percy C. Eggleton defended the junior high school plan and staid that at the meeting at which Dr. Davis was present, he too attended and that he did not gather from what Dr. Davis said that she was opposed to the "plan."

Engelbert Sauter opposed the plan and said that New London had now three of the eight endowed schools of the state. He went on to name them and to draw comparisons as to the cost of maintenance of these schools when Percy C. Eggleston attacked what he said and called him to task for having the "cheek" to stand before a meeting of citizens and criticise the donors of the New London schools, who he characterized as philanthrop citizens desirous of doing something for the city. He named Leonard Bulkeley, William H. Chapman and Thomas Williams, formerly of Norwich. Mr. Sauter disclaimed any intention of criticising the donors of the schools, but simply cited the fact of the existence of the schools. Mr. Sauter claimed that New London's expenses were running away with us, and cited that Norwich had more business and more banking business as shown by the review published in The Bulletin. He was outspoken in his opposition to the junior high school and to the education of so many pupils from from outside the city.

The result of the meeting was that the whole matter was laid over till two weeks from tonight when another and hotter session is lekly over the matter.

Invisible Light

The use of invisible light for signaling purposes was recently demonstrated before the Physical Society of London. The first machine shown, it appears, was a signaling lamp that gave a beam of light so narrow that in many circumstances it would insure secrecy. When it becomes desirable, as in warfare, to avoid showing any light whatever filters are employed, to cut out the visible spectrum. By day a deep red filter, transmitting only the extreme red rays of light, is placed in front of the lamp. The light is invisible to the observer unless he has a similar red screen to cut out the daylight. With the screen he can see enough to read signals at a distance of six miles. By night a screen is used that transmits only the ultra-violet rays of light.

ARMY-NAVY FIVE GETS ANOTHER CHANCE AT SO. MANCHESTER TONIGHT

The Army and Navy five has its work cut out for this evening when the team meets the South Manchester Recreation Center team at Parish hall in the second game of the season between these two fast basketball quintets. In the first encounter the "Rec" handed the Taftville team the first defeat of the season and their fast floor work completely baffled the local five.

The South Manchester boys boast of one of the leading teams in the state and are confident that they will duplicate last Tuesday's feat. The Recs will have Ballseiper and Agelli forwards, Norris or Benson center, and Bissell and Cerunl guards. Bissell was the leading scorer in last week's struggle, caging thirteen baskets during the game.

The Army and Navy five were handicapped last week by the loss of their flashy forward, Bob Cardie, but will be greatly strengthened for tonight's battle by Lou Mitchell, formerly of the Boston Whirlwinds. Mitchell has been seen in action on the local court this season and fans who saw the game know that he is one of the fastest forwards in New England. For a running mate for Mitchell the management has secured Mondi Normandin of the Willimantic Emeralds, who has a state-wide reputation as a hooopster. Harry Mills will be at his old station in center and is expected to contribute his share of the baskets. Jack Murphy with the Coleman brothers will take care of the guard positions. This is Jack's initial appearance on the local court this season but he is in the pink of condition and it is expected that he will show his old time sensational work that gave him a reputation with the Crescents several years ago. Molleur and Lemieux will be in the role of utility men. With this lineup the local boys are confident of turning the tables on the visitors and even up the series.

For the preliminary game the Army-Navy Seconds will clash with the Y. M. C. A. Seniors. The Seniors have an excellent record so far this season and among their most notable achievements is the defeat of the Baltic Wanderers, one of the leading smaller teams of the eastern part of the state. This encounter should prove a very interesting encounter.

RIVERVIEW TEAM TRIMS INDOOR LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Joe Faber's Riverview indoor baseball team won a close and hard fought victory from Battery B, the indoor league champions, Monday evening at the state armory, by a score of 8 to 7. The game was one of the best played this season at the local drill shed and was a tough fight from start to finish. It was not until Faber fanned Coleman in the ninth inning with the tying and winning runs on base that the game was decided.

It was a sensational finish for a good game and one that is seldom seen in the indoor game. The Riverview club started off with one run in their half of the first inning but the soldiers evened the score in the second. The Riverview team came back into the lead with another run in their half of the second. In the third the Battery again evened the count but only to lose their advantage when the visitors scored one run. In the fourth frame the soldiers scored 3 runs which gave them a two run lead, and then held the visitors scoreless in the fourth. In the fifth the Battery added another tally but their three-run advantage was short lived for the Riverview boys evened the score with three runs in the last of the fifth. The Riverview team then started to play fast ball and for three innings held the soldiers without a score, a double play, Faber to Shaffrick to Couillard, stopping a rally in the seventh inning.

In the seventh inning Riverview broke the tie scoring what proved to be the winning runs. With a two run lead the Riverview team was sitting pretty when they went into the ninth inning. The first man up was an easy out. The next two men were safe and advanced one base when the second out was made at first. Another hit scored a run. With the tying run on third and the winning run on second, Coleman, the mighty left fielder for the Battery came to bat. He fouled the first bal pitched and then took one ball. He swung mightily at the third ball and missed. Joe Faber was pitching as he had never pitched before and on the next pitch he gave Coleman a high outcurve that the mighty hitter missed by a foot, handing the game to the Riverview team.

Jack Sank was the star for Riverview, sharing honors with Bill Denison and Les Manchester. For the Battery Berberick was the star. The score by innings:

Batteries—Faber and Manchester for Riverview; Rousean and Goodrow for the Battery.

TOPPING TIES IN QUALIFYING ROUND

Belleair Heights, Fla., Jan. 14.—Henry J. Topping of Greenwich, Conn., tied with Dr. L. B. Dickerson of Clearwater, Fla., with a 79 for low medal in the qualifying round of the annual January tournament at Belleair Heights today. More than seventy qualified.

Grantland Rice, Englewood, N. J., turned in a card of 84; George Morse, Rutland, Vt., 85; J. D. Standish, Jr., Detroit, 87; Dr. C. H. Gardner, Rhode Island Country club, 91; George Balch, Cincinnati, 91, and Charles L. Fay, Westchester-Biltmore, 87.

SMITH TURNS IN LOW CARD AT LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 14.—Heavy slumping on the part of international stars and consistent shooting by MacDonald Smith of San Francisco, who turned in a card of 68, marked the opening day of the California open golf tournament on the Los Angeles Country club courses here today.

John Black of Wichita, Kas., could do no better than ah 82 on the north course. Sarazen had to be satisfied with 75 on the same course. Gene Sank a beautiful 25-foot putt on the first green and lost his putting eye until he reached the ninth, where he dropped a 20-footer.

ODD LENGTH RACES APPROVED BY ASSOCIATION

Chicago, Jan. 14.—Trotting races at odd lengths today received the approval of the American and National Trotting associations. The joint rules committee of the two associations at its biennial meeting here today having adopted an amendment to the rules providing for them.

The length of the race and the number of heats to be contested shall be stated in the published conditions, the resolution provides, and there shall be at least an eighth of a mile between the length of the races.

The committee also amended the rules so that track manager are prohibited from holding more than 25 days of racing during a season.

Amendment also were adopted defining a public race and setting definitely the number of heats which constitute a day's racing. A public race, according to the amendment, now will include races against time for money. Four heats, it was decided, will constitute a day's racing and when that number is accomplished, no rain checks will be issued.

The authority of judges in regard to suspensions, is to be limited so that no judge may impose a suspension of more than thirty days.

Among those who attended the meeting was W. P. Goecher of Hartford, Conn.

HOPPE TO DEFEND TITLE AGAINST SCHAEFER THIS MONTH

New York, Jan. 14.—Willie Hoppe will defend his title of world's champion 18.2 balkline billiard title against Jake Schaefer, the only man ever to wrest the crown from him in Chicago, January 21, 22 and 23, under the provisions of the annual championship tournament which provide that the players finishing second, third and fourth may challenge the winner.

Schaefer, who finished third in the tournament, today telegraphed a challenge to Hoppe, announcing he had deposited a forfeit, and the champion immediately accepted. The winner of their match, of three blocks of 500 points each, will be challenged by Eduard Horemans, Belgian champion, who finished fourth in the tournament. That match probably will play here in March.

PRESBYTERY EXONERATES REV. DR. HARRY E. FOSDICK

New York, Jan. 14.—The Baptist minister, Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, whose allegedly heretic utterances from his pulpit in the First Presbyterian church have been the subject of investigation by a special committee of the New York Presbytery, was exonerated of the charges today, it holding that Rev. Dr. Fosdick's preachings had conformed to the doctrines of the church.

Just before the Presbytery assembled, with scores of church laymen as a gallery, to receive the committee's report and approve it, a sensation was caused by the announcement that the committee's chairman, Dr. Edgar Whittaker Work, had resigned as pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church.

"Shall the fundamentalists win?" a sermon in which Rev. Dr. Fosdick challenged critics of his liberal interpretation of the gospel version of the virgin birth, was understood to have contained the specific utterances on which the committee based its inquiry.

MEXICAN TROOPS AWAIT AMERICAN AIRPLANES

Mexico City, Jan. 14.—(By the A. P.)—The arrival at Irapuato of the airplanes bought from the United States will be the signal for a general advance by the federal forces upon Guadalapajara, according to special despatches to El Democrata, which quotes President Obregon as expressing a desire that once hostilities are resumed they shall not cease until the campaign against the Jalisco rebels is ended.

Eight bombarding and six exploring airplanes are expected to be used day and night against the rebel forces of General Estrada. Four thousand rifles which arrived at Irapuato were imediately distributed among the federal soldiers in exchange for their Mausers.

General Eugenio Martinez is reported to have advanced his body of federal troops against Esperanza an important junction point which is his next objective. Late Sunday forces under General Almazan arrived at Llano Grande midway between Tehuacan and Esperanza where the rebel General Guadalupe Sanchez has concentrated a large force.

The federal advance guard commanded by General Fausto Topete and Lucas Gonzales has arrived at Rincondaa.

Two strong columns of federal under Generals Espinosa Cordova and Rodolfo Herrero will start from Tampico to operate against the rebels who are carrying on hostilities in several of the oil camps in the state of Vera Cruz. General Espinosa Cordova will lead 1500 horsemen who recently arrived in Tampico from Monterey while General Herrera will command regional volunteers.

MANY PENN. LOCOMOTIVES ORDERED OUT OF SERVICE

Indianapolis, Jan. 14.—A large number of Pennsylvania railroad locomotives have been ordered out of service at regions of the road in Indiana as the result of investigations by inspectors of the interstate commerce commission, it was learned tonight. About fifty locomotives were taken off at Fort Wayne when an inspection by the officials showed them to be in an unserviceable condition. Activities of the inspectors also were responsible for a number being sent back to the shops at Indianapolis and other regional centers of the road, it was said.

A. I. Breed and H. A. Hoffmeister are making inspections of motive power at this point for the commission.

Several of the road's crack trains were held up at Indianapolis today, while changes of locomotives were being made on order of the inspectors here. Among the locomotives delayed were the crack New York to St. Louis train No. 21; Train No. 21, New York to St. Louis Train No. 20 eastbound, St. Louis to New York and an accommodation train, Indianapolis to Columbus, Ohio.

Drums of Skulls Used by Tibetans.

Drums, made out of the tops of skulls, over which is stretched human skin, are used to make "music" in various parts of Tibet. But skulls are not the only portion of their ancestors from which these fascinating people extract melody and rhythm. Many an intriguing tune is played on a native trumpet formed from a human thigh-bone drilled and holed and adapted to the production of sweet sound.

Leader Of Church Modernists

Rev. Dr. Stuart D. Tyson, honorary vicar of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, and Vice-President of the Modern Churchmen's Union, an organization of about 500 Protestant Episcopal clergymen, who recently reaffirmed their conviction that the Bible should be interpreted in the light of science and made a plea for liberal views and freedom of worship. The union has brought Lee W. Heaton, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Fort Worth, Tex., to New York, and is preparing to defend him in his trial on heresy charges. Rev. Mr. Heaton faces the trial as a result of a sermon in which he implied that he did not believe in the Virgin Birth, and did not believe such a belief necessary to membership in the Church.

MEDICAL EXAMINER PLACES NO BLAME ON TAYLOR FOR JEROME'S DEATH

New York, Jan. 14.—The death of Frankie Jerome, New York contender for bantamweight boxing championship honors, who died last night from the effects of his knockout by Bud Taylor, of Terre Haute, Ind., at Madison Square Garden last Friday, was accidental and will result in no criminal action against Taylor or others connected with the fight.

The was made clear today when Chief Medical Examiner Norris rendered a verdict of accidental death after performing an autopsy. The autopsy revealed that Jerome died from the effects of a blow on the right side of the head which ruptured a blood vessel and caused a hemorrhage between the skull and the base of the brain. The medical examiner said he knew of but two similar cases in the past five years.

Jerome's death aroused widespread expression of regret in ring circles where the game and aggressive "Bronx Spider" was regarded as a logical contender for the crown held by Joe Lynch of New York.

'In some quarters there was apprehension that the tragedy might rekindle the hostility of those who have urged anti-boxing legislature, particularly in view of recent agitation over alleged gambling and dissatisfaction with decisions in several prominent contests. There was no definite evidence, however, of any after-effects of this sort.

Assertions that Jerome was not in condition to withstand the beating he sustained at the hands of Taylor, who scored a knockout in the twelfth and last round, were denied late today in a statement issued by the state athletic commission.

The statement declared that Jerome was examined by commissioner physicians Friday afternoon and found to be in fit fighting condition. It also pointed out that commission officials, including William J. McCormack, chairman of the license committee, were the first to give Jerome every attention after he was carried from the ring. He was given immediate medical aid and taken to a hospital at the insistence of Mr. McCormack. It was said. The boxer seemed on the road to recovery until last night when he died after failing to rally from an operation.

Taylor, who, with his bride of a few months, had intended to leave for Chicago today, but when informed of Jerome's death, cancelled this plan in order to attend the boxer's funeral, which will be held Wednesday or Thursday.

Taylor was not told of his opponent's death until today by Eddie Long, his manager. Visibly moved by the tragic climax to one of the most important victories of his career, Taylor visited the state athletic commission's office with Long but was told that no blame was attached to him.

Jerome, who was 24 years old, had engaged in close to 100 fights in five years of professional experience. He enlisted in the army when war was declared against Germany and served eleven months with the A. E. F. in France.

To Question Taylor.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Looking Ahead

LAST Spring a total of 350,000 people were disappointed in not being able to obtain deliveries of Ford Cars and Trucks, as orders were placed faster than cars could be produced.

The demand for Ford Cars and Trucks this Spring, will according to all indications, be far greater than last Spring.

Actual retail deliveries the past 60 days totaled 308,170 Ford Cars and Trucks, an increase of 1,961 a day over a year ago.

Over 200,000 people have already ordered Ford products on our purchase plan, the majority of whom will take delivery in the Spring.

The above facts are given with the suggestion that you list your order promptly with a Ford dealer if you contemplate the purchase of a Ford Car or Truck for use this Spring or Summer and wish to avoid delay in delivery.

Ford Motor Company
Detroit, Michigan

You need not pay cash for your car. You can arrange to make a small deposit down, taking care of the balance in easy payments. Or, you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan. This puts you on the preferred order list and insures delivery of your car at a time to be determined by yourself.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

During the second week in January there were six building permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton which brings the average up to the normal for the first two weeks in the new year. Included in the six permits is one for a house to be erected on Penobscot street, three for new garages, one for a large one-story shed and one for the erection of a piazza. The total valuation as placed by the owners on the new work is aproximately $8,000.

During the week the contract for the building of two wards and a nurses' home was awarded to the H. Wales Lines Co. of Meriden for $460,000. There were seven bidders including two norwich contractors, the Connecticut Engineering and Contracting Company which made a bid of $101,000 on one building, and the Peck, McWilliams Company which made a bid of $505,000 on the three buildings. The subcontracts have not yet been let. The plans for the buildings are by Cudworth and Thompson.

Good progress has been made on local projects during the past week and with very little extreme cold weather more work has been done than in many previous years during the winter months. If the winter continues mild local contractors predict another banner year.

To Delia Dufille to erect a framepiazza on the house at 657 North Main street. The piazza will be 5x26 feet.

To Vincent Strano to erect a garage at 327 Central Avenue. The garage will be of frame construction 17x18 feet.

To D. J. Barry to build a frame garage for Jacob Slosberg on North Main street. The garage will be 18x18 feet and will be finished in novelty siding with composition roof.

To D. J. Barry to build a frame house on Penobscot street for himself. The foundation will be of stone and cement with spruce frame construction. The exterior will be finished in clapboards with composition shingled roof. The house will be 30x36 feet and 1½ stories high.

To L. M. Young to build a one-story frame shed on Broadway. The foundation will be of cement and the size of the shed will be 35x90 feet.

To D. J. Barry to erect a frame garage on Oakridge street. The garage will be 18x18 feet with spruce frame and siding. The roof will be covered with slate-surfaced shingles.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the second week of January there were five sales on real estate as compared to fourteen for the corresponding week in January 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $19,790 and $115,700.

There were ten sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to 7 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $88,060 and $22,200.

The State Situation

The open weather has been favorable for winter construction, and many more projects have gone ahead this season than was possible a year ago. All figures yet tabulated according to the Commercial Record, show that the past year was one of the greatest ever in the building industry, and there is at present every prospect that the year upon which we have just entered will exceed in volume of construction the year 1923. Statistics of building permits issued in the past week show a total in the larger towns of the State of 188, for buildings costing $714,640, against a total of permits for the like week of 1923 of 77, for buildings costing $231,268, and 69 permits in 1922, and buildings costing $203,610.

New London

The permit has been issued to the Dixie Gasoline Filling Stations, Inc., for the elaborate filling station proposed to be erected at the corner of Church and Huntington sts. The cost of the construction will be about $30,000. The building will be 20x20 feet two stories high with a copper dome.

The dwelling on Henry st. for Aaron Barbalate is inclosed. The sub-contract for the plumbing and heating has been awarded to Herbert Barker, Bestview. The house will be 22x24 feet, arranged for six rooms, with hot water heat and other improvements.

Figures will be received for the residence to be erected on Hillside road, for A. T. Keefe, until January 15. The house, as described before in these columns will be of hollow tile and stucco, arranged for 14 rooms. There will be furnace heat, hardwood floors and trim, tile baths and other improvements.

Bids have been received for a residence to be erected at the corner of Hillside ave., and Jerome pl., for James F. Sullivan, 73 Church st. The house will be 32x50 feet, with an ell, 24x28 feet and will be arranged for 12 rooms and three baths. The exterior walls will be of stucco and there will be a Spanish tile roof. There will be a vapor heating system, tile baths and all modern conveniences.

Applications for Building Permits

Dixie Gas Filling Stations, Inc., filling station, Church st $30,000.

Sidney Sulman, addition, 8 Shapley st., $300.

Southern New England Tel. Co. shed 73 Washington st. $500

Otto Aimetti, garage, 16 Center st. $400.

Number of permits, issued for the week, 7; estimated cost of buildings, $31,350.

Groton

Plans for the Groton school have been completed and are now being figured. The architects will receive bids until the latter part of the month. The school, which is for the First school district in Groton, will be 136x90 feet, one story and basement, and will be arranged for nine classrooms. It will be of tapestry brick, with artificial stone trim. There will be an auditorium with Spanish tile roof.

Centerbrook

New London architects have been commissioned to prepare plans for the proposed school to be erected in Centerbrook, Conn. The plans will call for a brick semi-fireproof building, 68x35 feet, two stories high, with basement. The exterior will be of tapestry brick, with granite trim. On the first floor will be two classrooms and toilets. The second floor will be arranged for two classrooms, a library and a teachers' room. The building will be heated by steam and will have all modern schoolhouse improvements. The plans will be given out for estimates about February 1st

SENATOR WALSH CONDEMNED BY WOODROW WILSON

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 14.—Ex-President Woodrow Wilson, in a letter received here today condemned Senator David I. Walsh, (Dem.) of Massachusetts, as one who had "proved a great disappointment to all democrats who sincerely believe in the high principles which he has so signally failed to maintain.

The letter, written to a local resident in response to a query as to the former president's attitude toward Senator Walsh's candidacy for re-election next fall, is as follows:

"I feel obliged to say, in reply to your letter of January 10, that Senator David I. Walsh has proved a great disappointment to all democrats who sincerely believe in the high principles which he has so signally failed to maintain." The letter was signed by Mr. Wilson's own hand.

Almost Limit in Borrowing.

Bill had been accustomed to borrowing so frequently for his mother that when she sent him to the next door neighbor's to ask the time of day he said, "I'd like to borrow what time it is."

The annual meeting of the American Bar association will be held in Philadelphia July 9 to 11.

JEWETT CITY

Thursday, January 10, Miss Mabel C. McSheffrey of Greeneville became the bride of Charles E. Peterson of Jewett City. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William A. Keefe. The attendants were Miss Grace McSheffrey, the bride's sister and Chester Stafford of Jewett City. The bride was gowned in tan satin crepe and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor wore gray satin crepe and carried carnations. Following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the bride's home. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson of Jewett City and is employed in Ashland Cotton Co. mill. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McSheffrey of 344 Central avenue, Greeneville. She was formerly a student at Norwich Free Academy, and was recently employed by the J. B. Martin Co. of Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will live in Jewett City, following their wedding trip.

The many friends of Mrs. May Connell Collins, of Bridgeport, were sorry to learn of the death of her husband, James Collins, Monday. The young man had been in a critical condition for some time, and an operation was performed several months ago. They had been married seven years, and besides his wife he leaves a daughter five years old and a son nearly two years. Mr. and Mrs. Collins and the children visited in Jewett City and Lisbon last summer, Mrs. Collins being a former resident in both places.

SHORT BREAK IN MARKET.

New York, Jan. 14—The first sharp break in the stock market since the current up-swing started Oct. 31 took place today when heavy speculative selling, based on the belief that many stocks had been "over-bought" resulted in recessions of 1 to nearly 8 points in most active issues. The collapse of French exchange and reports of bitter opposition to the Mellon tax bill provided excuses for an assault on the general list.

Speculative pools, which have been active in many issues, particularly among the specialties, showed little disposition to actively support their favorites. This led to considerable short selling on the part of professional traders who succeeded in knocking off a number of stop-loss orders in all sections of the list.

French francs broke 38 points to 4.37 cents, the lowest rate ever recorded in the local market, on heavy European speculative selling, but they bounced back to 4.40 cents on short covering in the afternoon. Demand sterling dropped more than 3 cents to $4.33 and Belgian francs dropped more than 30 points below 4.00 cents, but both made partial recovery later. For the first time on record, Italian lire were quoted higher than French francs, which was attributed here to the heavy selling of francs to purchase lire.

Opinion in the financial district was divided as to the probable effect of the weakness of the foreign exchanges on American securities. In some quarters it was held that the weakness of sterling and francs reflected unsettled political and economic business while in others it was pointed out that the slump in the British and French rates would result in a transfer of capital to this country through the purchase of American securities, thereby tending to strengthen the prices of stocks and bonds.

The sharpest fluctuation in the stock market took place in U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, which broke 9 points to 68 1-2 and then rallied to 83 3-4. There were unconfirmed reports that a pool had been operating in this stock, had liquidated its holdings and transferred its activities to another issue.

Some support was forthcoming for the steel shares on reports that the U. S. Steel corporation would maintain, and possibly increase, its extra dividend at the directors' meeting next week. U. S. Steel touched par and then eased to 98 7-8, off 7-8. Republic, Bethlehem and Crucible sold off 1 to 3 1-4 points. Penn Seaboard touched a new high on the movement at 4 1-8 and then eased slightly.

Baldwin closed more than 3 points lower at 133 1-8. Losses of 2 to nearly 4 points were recorded by Studebaker, American Can, Allied Chemical, Dupont, Corn Products, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Hayes Wheel, Mack Truck, Stewart Warner, U. S. Rubber and many others.

Oils showed resistance during the greater part of the session on reports of higher gasoline prices and a further advance in Pennsylvania Crude but with the exception of two or three issues which were influenced by special buying, notably Maracaibo, they yielded with the rest in the final hour.

Union Pacific, Reading, Atlantic Coast Line, Canadian Pacific and Missouri Pacific Preferred, off 1 1-2 to 2 points, were the heavy spots in the railroad list.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Jan. 14—Strength of St. Paul railroad issues and the weakness of French governmental and municipal bonds were the features of today's active and irregular market.

St. Paul 4s of 1925 closed nearly 4 1-2 points higher on reports that they would be paid at parity when they fall due. The convertible 4 1-2s advanced 1 3-8 points and the other issues rose in sympathy. Other speculative rails yielded on profit taking. New York, Westchester & Boston 4 1-2s dropping more than 3 points and losses of a point or so being recorded by Reading General 4s, New Haven 6s, "Katy" 5s series and the Frisco and Seaboard issues.

Brokerage houses with international connections reported further buying for British account, but this was confined principally to the high grade issues. The demand for the $60,000,000 farm loan issue, which was offered today, was reported to meet bankers' expectations. Heaviness of the U. S. government bonds was attributed to the switching into the higher yielding farm loan issues.

Bordeaux 6s broke 3 points in sympathy with the weakness in French exchange, and losses of a point or so also were recorded by French governmental 7 1-2s and 8s and the other municipal issues. Prague 7 1-2s were strong.

Public offering of a block of 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Century Publishing Co. will be made at par tomorrow by Jelke, Hood & Co.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 14—Although prices bulged in the grain markets today with corn and oats reaching the topmost values this season, heavy profit-taking brought about a setback. Simultaneous with the reaction, estimates were current that the amount of livestock on farms is smaller than was the case a year ago and that actual consumption of corn is slightly below normal. Wheat closed weak 1-3c to 3-4@7-8c net decline, corn unchanged to 1-4@5-8c lower, oats varying from 1-4c off to a shade advance, and provisions unchanged to 17c down.

Most of the time until about midday, bulls in the grain trade appeared to have the advantage, chiefly owing to smallness of receipts of corn and of wheat and oats as well. It also was correctly assumed that a decrease would be shown in the United States visible supply of wheat, corn and oats. Besides, Liverpool wheat quotations were higher, temporarily offsetting more or less a break in foreign exchange. Active selling in the corn market, however, ascribed largely to eastern houses that had been buyers at lower levels proved to be a big weight on prices of all grain. Nevertheless, corn values held more stubbornly than wheat, receivers being almost unanimous in the opinion that the country was selling virtually no corn to arrive. It was said, too, that demand was keen for all the corn obtainable from farmers.

Bearish estimates regarding corn consumption and the amount of livestock on farms had a leading statistician as authority, and the effect of the estimates was emphasized by increased weakness of New York stock market quotations and of foreign exchange. On the other hand the farm consumption of oats this season was estimated to have increased nearly five per cent.

CURB MARKET.

New York, Jan. 14—Speculators for the decline brought about a sharp reaction in today's curb market, net losses in the active issues ranging from 1 to 4 points.

Oil shares were the hardest hit despite the announcement of higher gasoline prices in several sections of the country and a further advance in Pennsylvania crude. Standard Oil of Nebraska dropped 8 points on a small turnover, Prairie Oil & Gas fell 4, and Continental Oil, Imperial of Canada, Ohio Oil and Vacuum yielded a point or two. Standard Oil of Kentucky and Cities Service moved up fractionally.

Losses of 1 to 2 points in the industrial list were recorded by Dupont and Stutz Motors, Glen Alden Coal, Gold Dust corporation, Kresge, and Loome of the ordinarily inactive issues.

New London, Jan. 14—Master Kenneth Strout of Broad street, Miss Leslie Davidson, Cutler street, Lewis Blackburn, Westerly, Frank Getchel, Packersville, Mrs. Ranford Colling and infant daughter, Groton, and Edward Crowley of Westerly, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Bert Strong of Noank was in the Groton town court this morning, charged with reckless driving of his automobile. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs. Strong was operating his machine on Fort Hill several days ago, when he encountered another machine and in endeavoring to pass the machine, Strong's car collided with a third machine.

Another case that claimed the attention of Judge Cornelius C. Costello was that of George W. Reed, charged with breach of the peace. He also pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs, the latter amounting to $13. He paid. Reed informed the court that a long time ago he purchased a quantity of cider and since then he had been informed that by adding raisins and rye to it the strength of the cider would be vastly improved. Last Thursday, after having added the ingredients to the cider, he felt ill and started to try a portion of the cider. After taking a number of drinks he went to the residence of a relative, where his conversation and conduct became such that a complaint was made to Sheriff James Brown and Reed's arrest resulted.

Charles T. and Nellie M. Hullivan have sold a house and lot on Thames street to Frank C. Thurber.

An automobile, owned by the Humphrey-Cornell company and an unidentified machine were in collision on Bank street, near Division street this forenoon. The unidentified automobile sustained the greater damage.

Mary, the two and one-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Mar, of 107 Green street, Chinese residents, was struck by an automobile, owned by the Oliver Woodworth company and operated by Michael Hallisey of Green street, this afternoon. The child was hurried to Lawrence hospital where an examination of its injuries revealed only slight cuts, bruises and contusions. After the wounds were treated the child was taken home. The little girl was amusing herself in front of her home when she darted into the highway as the automobile was about to pass. Hallisey applied the brakes in an effort to bring the car to a stop without hitting the child, but was unsuccessful. The girl was picked up by Hallisey, placed in the truck and he speeded to the institution that she might receive the treatment needed.

Immediately following the accident the father of the girl appeared in the street and seeing the automobile speeding away with the child believed that she was being kidnapped. Mar ran through the street to Pearl street, chasing the automobile and yelling loudly. At the corner of Pearl and Bank streets Mar discontinued his chase and was then informed as to what had occurred. Procuring an automobile he went to the hospital and when the child's injuries had been treated he took her home.

Cornelius Fitzpatrick, 67, died this morning at his home, 78 Mitchell street, Groton. He is survived by his widow and two sons, James and John Fitzpatrick. Mr. Fitzpatrick was born in Ireland, but had resided in Groton the greater part of his life. He was employed by the Ship & Engine company until about a year ago when he suffered a shock, the attack compelling him to abandon active labors.

The funeral of Ariane, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norina Beckwith of 700 Williams street, whose death occurred at Lawrence hospital Saturday, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her parents. Burial was in St Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Guido Benvenuti, 14 son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Benvenuti of Smith street, whose death occurred at a Hartford hospital Saturday, following injuries sustained several months ago when struck by an automobile at Niantic, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at No. 52 Washington street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Victor Kovalczyk, 210 North Bank street, complained to the police this morning that a colored youth residing at 14 North Bank street, had smashed one of the windows of the former's store. Inquiry for the youth at his home elicited the information that the boy had run away.

Funeral services for Jennie, wife of Alexander Edwards, were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at her home in Waterford. Rev. George H. Strouse officiated. Burial was in West Neck cemetery, Waterford.

The funeral of Charles E. Senior was held this afternoon at his home, 278 Huntington street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Mrs. John Haley of Center Groton, Mrs. Thomas Peyton and infant and Mrs. Luciana Clavagha of Westerly, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

In the court of common pleas here today Judge Charles E. Waller handed down a decision in the case of Abraham Shapiro against Joseph Foretta, judgment being rendered in favor of the plaintiff to recover $107. Foretta purchased 300 boxes of grapes from Shapiro and made a partial payment of $200, refusing to pay the balance because, he claimed the grapes were not sound.

Miss Marion Conover, daughter of William Conover, of 360 Main street and Clarence B. Merrill, son of W. B. Colman, of 38 Hill street were married Sunday evening by Rev. William Francis, pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church at the home of the bride's father.

Frank Farina of Newark, N. J. formerly of New London and Miss Julia A. Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Murphy, of Starr street, were married this morning at 9 o'clock, the nuptial mass being sung and the ceremony performed by Rev. Alexander Wotiachiager in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. John Farina of Newark, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Mary Murphy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Farina will reside in New London. Mr. Farina is employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

During the afternoon two violators of the automobile law were presented before Justice Morton on reckless driving charges. William E. Halpin of 991 Eddy street, Providence, and three other chauffeurs, were operating cars from a point where they had been unloaded to Providence. When passing through Waterford, Halpin's machine was leading and was travelling at a high rate of speed. In fact Halpin's car was being driven so fast that State Policeman William E. Nelson followed it several miles and the officer finally drew up alongside Halpin and ordered him to stop. Halpin was arrested and when presented in the town court a short time later he was fined $25 and costs, the latter amounting to $14. He paid and left, after receiving advice as to the speed at which he should operate his machine the balance of the trip.

The third violator of the speed laws, Levi O. Raymond, a well known New London contractor, was fined $25 and costs, the latter amounting to $14. Raymond took an appeal and will fight out the case at the next term of the court of common pleas. Raymond was taken into custody last Saturday night by State Policeman Leon Scheffen of the Groton barracks. According to the officer, Raymond was operating his automobile in the vicinity of Quaker Hill and at a rate of speed better than 40 miles an hour. Officer Scheffen in endeavoring to cause Raymond to come to a stop had a narrow escape from injury for Raymond's automobile grazed the motorcycle operated by Scheffen. When Raymond finally brought his machine to a stop he was ordered to present himself in the town court this afternoon. He did as ordered, but when penalized after having denied being guilty of reckless driving, he decided to take the case before the higher court and furnished a bond for his appearance at that time.

A consignment of fire hose to replace an amount rejected because the couplings would not fit hydrants or other couplings, was received by the city today.

Edward D. Murray, of 47 Montauk avenue, left this evening for Panama, where he will visit his daughter, Miss Eleanor Murray. Mr. Murray anticipates being absent from New London about three months.

One of the largest gatherings of music lovers ever assembled in New London was that at the state armory this evening for the lengthy recital by Fritz Kreisler, noted concert violinist. The concert was attended by fully 1,500.

The city can now cause the widening of Pequot avenue in front of the Pequot Hotel corporation's property and that of Miss Frances O. Jones, for at a meeting of the board of compensation, held in the municipal building this morning, an agreement was reached between officials of the city and Charles B. Whittlesey, attorney for the abutting property owners, whereby the changes contemplated by the city can be carried to completion without the litigation that appeared probable a few weeks ago. The city has agreed to recompense Miss Jones $300, after the widening of the avenue has been completed in order that Miss Jones' property can be put in the same presentable condition that was prior to the changes being made. The city will not pay damages to the hotel corporation, but will replace the retaining wall which is to be removed, by another equally as substantial, will move the bathhouses to a point parallel with the new wall and reconstruct the cement walk now in front of the bathhouses, and which must be taken up while the avenue widening is in progress.

Frank Arionchuk, accused of an assault with threats upon Agnes Arionchuk, wife of Tony Arionchuk, who was sent to prison from the superior court at Norwich last week, was fined $10 in the police court this morning. Frank went to his brother's home full of fighting alcohol and there scared the children by threatening their mother, declaring that it was her fault that Tony was arrested and punished. Mrs. Arionchuk, through an interpreter, told the story of what happened, and Frank could not deny it because he admitted that he was full of alcohol. He raised the money to pay his fine and then was set at liberty, probably to fill up again. Nasar Nahas was charged with beating a colored boy, but there was no evidence that he was guilty and his case was not presented. Joseph C. Allen was charged with a breach of the peace, but that case, too, flashed before it got to the court. One Maynard was arrested Sunday for intoxication, but, like the three cases that preceded it, the complaint did not get to the court.

HUMANE POSTER CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED AGAIN

In a notice addressed to the schools in Connecticut the humane society calls attention to the humane poster contest which is open to the children of all grades in the public and parochial elementary schools, including the junior high. It is the second such contest conducted under the auspices of the Connecticut Humane society and all drawings submitted should illustrate the idea of kindness to both human beings and animals, or point out some way in which wrongs inflicted upon them may be remedied. Appropriate slogans attached to the posters also counts in the awarding of prizes divided in ten prizes of $10; 50 prizes of $5; 50 prizes of $2 and 86 prizes of $1 each, making a total of $600 in cash awards, also honorable mentions will be generously distributed.

The circular is made attractive with illustrations of prize winning posters for the contest held last year. As before, the society reserves the right to retail and of the posters submitted and all of those worthy of display will be shown at the old state house for the two weeks following the date of the closing of the contest. All posters must be forwarded to the headquarters of the society at 300 Washington Street, Hartford, on or before March 31st.

Judging from the interest taken in the contest last year when about three thousand drawings were turned in from over 100 towns, those schools not participating will undoubtedly join this year. Prof. Wilbur F. Gordy, Miss Gertrude O. Lewis, Mrs. W. B. Williams and Mrs. H. Clay Preston representing the society, have charge of the contest.

PLEA FOR CALMNESS WAS TOPIC OF TALK

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts spoke under Y. M. C. A. auspices at the noon meeting Monday at the radiator plant on the topic A Plea for Calmness. His talk was based on the wonderful experience the early disciples had with their master on the sea of Galilee, when their lives were endangered by the storm. The Master quietly subdued the gale and calmed the raging waters. He said in part:

"The effect upon His disciples was as follows: 1. The feeling of amazement. They looked at one another with abated breath and white faces and at length said: 'What manner of man is this that even the wind and the sea obey him.'

2. There was the spirit of inquiry. How did he do it? He must either be a supernatural being or supernatural power was given Him for the time being.

3. Was an emotion of joy. A being who was big enough to quell the raging sea was also big enough to quell all the storms in their lives. They believed that when He said, 'Peace, be still!' the stormy elements in their own lives whether they were anger, sorrow, hate, indignation, passion or nervous tension would all smooth out into a peaceful and sunny calm.

The speaker then dwelt at some length on the following points, that if we are to do our best work we must be in a calm, reposeful condition. An application of this idea was made to man in his literary, mechanical, educational mercantile and social life. A man can never be master of his trade or profession unless he has first mastered himself. Calmness of spirit is essential to self mastery. One can not expect to have much control over others who has not first learned to control himself.

The whole trend of our American life is in the direction of feverish haste. We are too much in a hurry to carry things to a logical conclusion. We are the greatest originators in the world and the poorest finishers. We let others conclude our great conceptions.

The speaker referred to the alarming growths of insanity in this state during the last 15 years. While the population has increased about 14 per cent. insanity has increased 100 per cent. and insanity grows out of the diseases of the nervous system.

Reference was made to the need of calmness in the hour of emergency when the right thing must be done and at once. The closing idea was that calmness was a mighty factor in a man's life. We all need to heed this advice, "peace be still!"

COLORED PARKING SIGNS FOR CONNECTICUT CITIES

Parking signs in all cities of the state will be a uniform color in the future, according to an agreement reached at the meeting of police chiefs in Bridgeport Thursday. The meetings are held in a different city every two weeks and matters pertaining to the department are discussed.

The following signs will soon be used: Yellow, no parking; red, parking; green, one way street. The next meeting will be held in New Haven January 24th. It is expected that Robbins B. Stoeckel will address the chiefs on traffic conditions.

SUPREME COURT WILL ADJOURN TILL THURSDAY

Chief Justice Wheeler telephoned to Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court here Monday that the supreme court, which was to have come to is at New Haven today (Tuesday) will adjourn till Thursday out of respect to Judge John M. Thayer, whose death occurred in this city Sunday.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of The Johnson Home, held Jan. 14, 1924, to take action upon the death of the President, Hon. John M. Thayer, the following minute was adopted:

Hon. John M. Thayer, formerly Associate Justice of the Connecticut Supreme Court, died in this city Jan. 12, 1924.

Judge Thayer became the first president of the Johnson Home on its incorporation May 24, 1905, and continued as such until the time of his death, thus rendering to the Home more than 18 years of conscientious and able service.

He was a great jurist—a master of reason and logic. In addition to his outstanding qualities as a judge, he possessed keen insight and rare judgment in matters affecting the business management and the policy of the Home. These qualities, coupled with his strength of character, his absolute loyalty to the Home and its interests and with all his courteous and kindly bearing, made his services invaluable.

Not only has the Johnson Home suffered an irreparable loss in his death, but a deep and abiding sense of personal loss comes to every director whose privilege it was to come into immediate fellowship with him in the management of its affairs.

It was unanimously voted that this minute be spread upon the permanent record of the Home, on a page devoted to his memory, a copy published in each of the local papers, and a copy, attested by the Secretary, mailed to the family of Judge Thayer.

Attest:
GARDINER GREENE, Secretary.

The Bulletin

Norwich, Tuesday, Jan. 15, 1924

THE WEATHER

Conditions

An area of high barometric pressure of considerable magnitude had its center Monday over the Middle Atlantic states, whence it will move northeastward. This pressure distribution has been attended by considerable cloudiness and snow flurries in the northern border states from Maine westward to the northern Rocky Mountain region and rains in the state of Washington, Southern Texas and the Florida Peninsula. There has been a slight but quite general fall in temperature in the Atlantic states and considerably colder weather has appeared over the western Canadian provinces.

In New England and eastern New York the weather will be fair Tuesday and become cloudy and warmer Wednesday. In the Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic states fair weather Tuesday will be followed by warmer and cloudy weather Wednesday followed by rain Wednesday night.

Winds

Forecast

Northern New England: Fair Tuesday and probably Wednesday. Warmer Wednesday.

For southern New England: Fair Tuesday; Wednesday cloudy and warmer.

	Ther.	Bar.
7 a. m.	22	30.10
12 m.	34	30.20
8 p. m.	30	30.30

Highest 38; lowest 20.

Comparisons

Predictions for Monday: Cloudy and probably snow flurries.

Monday's weather. Fair, northwest wind, colder.

SUN, MOON AND TIDES.

Day	Sun Rises	Sun Sets	High Water	Moon Sets
14	7.13 a. m.	4.40 p. m.	4.15 a. m.	0.20 a. m.
15	7.13	4.41	5.10	1.18

Six hours after high water it is low water, which is followed by flood tide.

TAFTVILLE

Ernest Couture, U. S. A., has returned to Fort Wright after spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Couture of South Second avenue.

Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis of North Third Avenue is in Newark, N. J., attending a reunion of men in Y. M. C. A. work at Camp Merritt, during the war.

Troop 4, Boy Scouts met Monday evening in the basement of the Sacred Heart school building.

The committee in charge of the annual minstrel show of the Ponemah Wheel Club met Sunday afternoon to plan for rehearsals.

NORWICH TOWN

The meeting scheduled for Wednesday afternoon of the Lathrop Memorial Foreign Missionary society, has been postponed to the first Wednesday in February.

The meeting of the Men's League was very well attended Friday evening, in the chapel. About 30 boy scouts and those that hope to be scouts, when they are old enough, were present, and kept in good order till the scouts' turn came to entertain the audience. The singing was very good. Miss Grant was the leader. The violin and piano music by Misses Sterry and Brown was excellent. The talk by Scout executive Benton was timely and well received. The signalling by the scouts, also knot tying and so on was well done, under the direction of the assistant scoutmaster Adams. Scout work he knows thoroughly. Later there was a talk by the manager of the Norwich Americanization Institute, J. W. Carlevale who spoke at some length on the work of his school as reported in Monday's Bulletin.

One industrial concern feels so sure of the value of this work, that they have sent in a check for $200.

On the whole this was a very enjoyable entertainment. All the groups and organizations of the Norwich Town Congregational church were well represented in the audience.

HELD UP SPEEDING WITH KREISLER PIANO

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 14.—The concert of Fritz Kreisler, at the state armory tonight had a close call from being delayed for the piano used to accompany the celebrated violinist, was held up awhile at Waterford, because of Leslie Allen of 74 Summer street, New Haven, being arrested there while carrying out the order of his employer. Allen is a chauffeur in the employ of a New Haven music house and this afternoon a grand piano was loaded upon a White truck and Allen was given instructions to operate the truck to New London in as quick time as possible that the piano could be set up for tonight's concert. Allen started from New Haven and made excellent time until he reached Waterford. When passing through that hamlet at a rate of speed estimated by State Policeman William E. Neilson, of the Groton barracks, at 50 miles an hour, Allen was arrested charged with reckless driving. He was brought before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton and fined $25 and costs, the costs amounting to $19. Allen did not have sufficient funds to pay the amount imposed by the court so he was allowed to make the delivery of the piano and then compelled to operate the truck back to Waterford, where it is being held pending the reception of a check from Allen's employer.

TELLS OF MUTINY ON HIGH SEAS

ENROUTE TO MEDITERRANEAN PORTS

Mutiny on the high seas during a 21 day trip across the Atlantic, their steamer disabled and drifting about for days and an enforced stay at Naples while Italian government officials endeavored to collect a million lire fine against the steamship company were some of the interesting incidents described by James G. Hammond of New London in his talk before the members of the Brotherhood of the United Congregational church Monday evening. It was the monthly supper and business meeting of the Brotherhood and the attendance was unusually large. At 6:30 o'clock a delicious supper of meat pie, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, rolls, coffee, pie and cheese was served under the direction of the women of the church.

At the conclusion of the supper the monthly business meeting of the Brotherhood was called to order by President Walter F. Lester. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary Albert Noren and were accepted. Charles I. Smith was delegated by the meeting to convey to the ladies the Brotherhood's appreciation of the supper. Seven applications for membership were received and favorably acted upon. President Lester, reporting for the literary committee announced that the committee, which is working on plans for a series of lectures, has the matter in hand and will be ready to give a detailed report shortly.

The president announced that through removal from Norwich Harold W. Carpenter was unable to continue the chairmanship of the social committee. Charles F. Wells was unanimously elected to serve as the committee's chairman.

President Lester then introduced James G. Hammond, secretary of the New London Chamber of Commerce, who gave a very interesting talk on some of the adventures he and Mrs. Hammond had on a trip to the Mediterranean last summer. Last summer my wife and I had the pleasure of being guests on the Steamer New York, said Mr. Hammond. The New York was used as a transport during the war. After the war she was taken over by steamship interests and fitted up as a passenger ship. We left New York June 10th. There were 1,300 on board, about 400 returning Greeks, 300 Italians and the rest Spanish, Turks and Americans.

Mr. Hammond went on to tell of the development of trouble with the machinery and boilers and said the ship drifted about in the ocean for days. It was believed by some of those on board that a representative of some rival steamship line was trying to cripple the ship. Finally the boilers were fixed up and the ship was started at the high speed of three miles an hour. There were several deaths on board and one day the stork paid a visit to the ship and left a boy with a Greek mother. Mr. Hammond said he announced the news of the stork's visit in the first cabin and a collection of $200 was soon taken up. A hundred dollars was given to the mother and arrangements were made to have the other $100 deposited in a bank, payable to the boy when he becomes 21 years of age.

Mr. Hammond said that some of the returning foreigners on board were wealthy bootleggers who had amassed fortunes of $40,000 to $50,000 in the illicit liquor trade in this country. When the steamer failed to make headway unrest began to develop among the foreign element on board the ship and an effort was made to practically storm the bridge by dissatisfied passengers who wanted to run the ship themselves. Mr. Hammond told of the brave stand the captain made. No committee can run this ship, said the captain. As long as I am alive I will run her, the captain asserted. And he did run her, said Mr. Hammond.

After 21 days at sea the New York limped into port at the Azores where provisions, fresh water and other supplies were taken on board. After a stay of five days the steamer on July 3rd put into port at Algiers in a crippled condition. Speaking of his visit in Algiers, Mr. Hammond said that of the 6,000,000 people there only 4,500 are school children. The ignorance of the people is appalling.

From Algiers the ship proceeded to Sicily and to Naples. At Naples, instead of a brief stay the ship was held for nine days as the Italian government officials fined the steamer 1,000,000 lire for carrying a greater number of immigrants than it should have without proper papers.

Mr. Hammond said that one of the greatest museums in the world is at Naples. While there Mr. and Mrs. Hammond paid a visit to the buried city of Pompeii. Leaving Italy the ship finally reached Greece. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond visited Athens. The people of Greece, said Mr. Hammond are kindly, cleanly and hospitable.

Other places visited were the Dardanelles where 600,000 men sleep on the sandy heights and Constantinople where the captain of the New York was relieved of his command. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond stuck with the crippled ship which finally wheezed her last and passed out, as he put it. Then they took a train for a trip to the interior of Europe. When within 18 miles of the Russian border they were arrested but with the help of an American consul were released. The return trip to New York was made on the British steamer King Alexander.

In closing his talk Mr. Hammond said that the trouble with Europe is that never anywhere in the cities visited, in the public squares, buildings or streets did he see happy, laughing children. Their faces are pinched, they are gaunt and they are hungry, said Mr. Hammond. We never heard a child laugh. The people tolerated us only because we were liberal with our tips. The people there don't love America—they love our money. As a final word Mr. Hammond said that Europe needs us and that he is a firm believer in the League of Nations, or an association of nations.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Hammond was given three hearty cheers by his delighted audience.

FOUND BLEACHERY CLOTH IN FRANKLINS MAN'S HOME

Frank P. Lolke, 24, who has been working nights at the United States Finishing Co., for about a year, was arrested Monday morning at his home in Franklin when officers searched his house and found there 750 yards of cloth, valued at $260. It was later identified by Raymond B. Sherman of the Finishing Co., as having come from that plant and Lolke was charged with theft. He gave bonds at Norwich police station for his appearance to answer to the charge.

Capt. John P. Nowell of the Watts detective agency of Boston directed the case against Lolke, going to his house with Constables Fenton and Hoxsie. As they reached and entered the house, Lolke apparently suspected a raid for moonshine liquor for he dashed a bottle onto the floor and broke it. The constables tried without success to scoop some of it up and as Lolke started to rave about the place he was promptly handcuffed by Constable Hoxsie and the place searched for the cloth.

This was found, according to the officers, in the attic, in boxes, trunks and beds. It consisted of sateens, charmeuse, lingette and jute cloth, some of it made a year ago and some about two weeks ago, while some of the patterns had not left the mill yet. Cut marks and identification stamps showed that it came from the Norwich bleachery.

The case is the sixth or seventh in which Capt. Nowell has figured here in his work for the Mercantile protective service, organized and protected by the Watts detective agency, which is making a record of sure convictions in watching thefts from mills all over the country.

GRACE CHURCH TO HAVE WESTMINSTER CHIMES

Grace church at Yantic is expecting to have its Westminster peal of bells installed and dedicated by Easter, having placed the order for the completion of the chimes.

Three of the bells are memorials given by members of the church and one is a war memorial in memory of those who gave themselves in the late war and has been subscribed for generally by some of the congregation and many others who are not visibly connected with this branch of the church universal.

The Westminster peal or "Cambridge Quarters" is constantly becoming more popular in this country. This arrangement of bells was first introduced over a century ago in St. Mary's, Cambridge, England, from an air which is said to have been composed by Handel. Not until some years after was it copied for the tower of the House of Parliament, Westminster.

Musically described this combination consists of the first, fourth, fifth and sixth notes of the major scale, the "fourth" being the key note. No tunes can be produced on such a combination but numerous and pretty changes.

The largest swinging set probably in existence is in St. Agnes' Chapel Trinity Parish, New York city, the largest stationary chime is on the Metropolitan Tower in that city, 650 feet above the sidewalk and heard for a distance of forty miles at sea, under favorable conditions. The S. W. Straus Co. have ordered a similar chime for their $15,000,000 building in Chicago to be placed at an elevation of 450 feet.

Grace church will have a small replica of these great chimes. The order for the bells has been placed with the Meneely Bell Co., of New York.

A man is not always known by the company he associates with—as the company sometimes discovers to its cost.

SAVED FROM DROWNING IN POND AT YANTIC

A boy named Carden, about 10 years old, was saved from drowning Monday afternoon in a pond along the Fitchville road above Yantic by Joseph Gaskell, 12, and Arthur Beaman, 11, who brought the Carden boy ashore through the breaking ice.

Young Carden, who cannot swim, was out on the ice when he broke through and was struggling in the water when the other boys went after him. The water was over their heads and they had to swim, but they managed to make their way to young Carden and then get back to shore with him. The prompt and heroic way in which the two boys went to the help of the Carden boy undoubtedly saved his life.

STATE KEEPS SOUVENIRS OF TOLL BRIDGES' END

Official record of the passing of the toll bridge in Connecticut when the years 1923 and 1924 were merged at midnight December 31, 1923, was taken by the state and will be preserved as a matter of historical significance.

Collection of fees for the privilege of using the three highway bridges at Saybrook, New London and Haddam, is no longer required by law, as a result of legislative action made effective January 1st.

Appreciating the historical interest attached to the change from paid to free bridges, State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald saw that official note was taken of the last automobile to pay fees over the three bridges at midnight on December 31st was reached, and the first cars to pass immediately afterwards during the early minutes of 1924.

Despite a downpour of rain, flashlight pictures were taken in each case for permanent record among the state's archives and the actual money which changed hands on the bridges for the last time will also be preserved as a fitting souvenir.

Acting on instructions from Commissioner Macdonald, the bridge tenders forwarded to him the silver paid by the last tollpayers and he has decided to have the money suitably mounted in glass covered frames together with other data concerning the final transactions on the bridges in the name of the state, the money being replaced out of the commissioner's pocket.

At Saybrook the last cash fare paid amounted to fifty cents. This was paid to John L. Porter, superintendent by Ferdinand Winsen of Old Lyme, driver of a public service sedan with four passengers. They were Thomas Kerwin, Thomas Brosnan, Alva Beckwith, and Lawrence Ingham, Old Saybrook.

The first free car to cross the bridge after midnight was owned by Joel A. Beard. It was driven by Merwin Beard, son of the owner, and had as passenger, John Brosnan, both of Old Saybrook.

At the Thames river connecting New London and Groton, a like scene was enacted, except that official note was taken of the final cars paying tolls in each direction. The amount of fare involved was ninety cents.

The last cash fare paid going west was by Melville Douglass of Groton, driver of a sedan which crossed the bridge at 11.59 p. m., exactly two minutes before toll payments became a thing of the past.

The last cash fare paid going east for a wrecking car towing a badly damaged touring car, L. LeTrask, driver for Jones' public service garage in Groton, towed the wrecked apparatus across the bridge towards Groton at 11.50 p. m. He stopped long enough to pose for a flashlight photo while paying the toll. Gott Gurling, his helper, accompanied him, and the fare totalled sixty cents.

The first free passage over the Thames river was, by coincidence, driven by Dr. E. P. Douglas, father of Melville Douglass of Groton, who a few minutes before had contributed in the making of history by paying the final fare going in the opposite direction. Dr. Douglass crossed going east, at 12.05 a. m.

At 12.10 a. m. January 1, the first free car going west was driven by J. W. Morgan of Norwich, accompanied by R. E. Gray.

At the same time, the bridge over the Connecticut river at Haddam and East Haddam witnessed a similar scene, when at 11.59 p. m., D. R. Kane of Deep River, assistant superintendent of repairs for the highway department, had the distinction of paying the last toll, amounting to 30 cents. Two minutes later when 1923 had gone forever and 1924 was only one minute old, A. R. Collier, superintendent of bridges, passed over as the first free car across the bridge.

Helping Hands' Supper

The Helping Hands auxiliary to the Norwich Spiritual Union gave a successful supper in the social hall of the academy Saturday night, the menu being as follows:

Baked beans, potato salad, cabbage salad, pickles, rolls, assorted cakes, tea, coffee.

The committee in charge of the supper was as follows: Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, Mrs. William Beetham, Mrs. Lilliam Maples, Mrs. Charles Twist, Mrs. L. L. Hayden. Those assisting by waiting on tables were Mrs. C. A. Dowsett, Mrs. Mattie Willis, Mrs. Louis Russell, Mrs. William F. Bergue, Mrs. William Wilson. The cake table was in charge of Mrs. Florence Bliven.

Appreciating the historical interest attached to the change from paid to free bridges, State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald saw that official note was taken of the last automobile to pay fees over the three bridges at midnight on December 31st was reached, and the first cars to pass immediately afterwards during the early minutes of 1924.

"Miss America" Declares Tanlac Wonderful Health Giving Tonic

Miss Campbell in "Miss America" crown which she has won on two occasions.

Photograph by Atlantic Foto Service.

Miss Mary Katharine Campbell, twice proclaimed "Miss America," has taken TANLAC and endorses it in a statement recently given to the women of America through International Proprietaries, Inc., distributors of this great tonic. In this statement, Miss America declares that Good Health is the basis of all Beauty, and advises women who would be beautiful to "first find good health."

Her complete statement as given is as follows: "I consider it a great privilege to be able to tell the thousands of women everywhere what a great tonic TANLAC is. Health is the basis of all beauty. Without good health, one is apt to be run down, nervous, underweight, high-strung, anemic. Indigestion drives the roses from a woman's cheeks and robs her of that radiant quality of womanhood that is real beauty.

"I have taken TANLAC and I do not hesitate to say that it is a wonderful health-giving tonic. It has brought relief and good health to many women and with good health one may have a measure of beauty that will overcome shortcomings in face and figure.

"Rosy cheeks, sparkling eyes, a well-rounded figure, a lovable disposition, go hand in hand with good health. To those searching for beauty, I would say—First of all, Find Good Health. The TANLAC treatment has proven itself a boon to womankind, and I recommend it."

Miss Campbell has written a booklet on Health and Beauty which may be secured by filling out the coupon below.

JUDGE HEARS TRIAL OF FRANKLIN FARMER'S LAWSUIT

The evidence was concluded and arguments were made late Monday afternoon before Judge C. B. Waller in the common pleas court here in the suit of William Lychack against Henry and Anna Monar, all of Franklin. The trial was begun Saturday, Judge Waller reserved decision and took the papers after hearing the arguments by C. V. James for the plaintiff and R. M. Douglass for the defendant.

Lychack makes a claim for $170 for services rendered to Monar in shingling a house and in sales of various articles, while there is a counter claim made by the defendants of $227.

X-ray pictures taken Monday failed to disclose any broken bones and Joseph Poparella of 15 Pond street will probably be discharged from the Backus hospital within a few days when he has recovered from the shock and shaking up he received.

Mr. Poparella was struck on Pond street, Sunday night by an automobile driven by George J. Bedard of Central Village and was taken to the hospital. It was believed the man had one or more ribs broken and the X-ray was taken to ascertain the extent of his injuries.

DEFENDANT WINS DECISION IN SUIT OVER $500

A decision for the defendant has been handed down by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the suit of Nicholas Philip Pallocha of Montville against Mike Pisarko and others of Norwich, over a payment of $500 which Pallocha had made to Pisarko on account of purchase of a farm under certain conditions, but did not buy. Pallocha sued to recover the money. The case was tried before Judge Brown here last week.

Government Examination

A stenographer and typist examination for the field service will be held on Jan. 26, 1924, at Norwich, for filling vacancies in the customs and internal revenue services, U. S. Veterans' bureau, war and navy departments, U. S. immigration service at Montreal and Quebec, Canada, and Halifax, Nova Scotia, and St. John, New Brunswick, and in the offices of the federal prohibition directors and other branches of the government service not mentioned. The usual entrance salaries are from $1,000 to $1,200 a year, with excellent prospects of advancement. In almost all branches of the service the bonus of $240 a year granted by congress is allowed. This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who have reached their 18th but not their 70th birthday on the date of the examination. Information, and application blank, form 1371, may be secured of the secretary of the board of civil service examiners at any first or second class post office, or from the district secretary, Custom House Tower, Boston, Mass., with whom application must be filed in time to arrange for the examination.

Ernest Lincoln Ill

Norwich friends of Mrs. Alma Shales of Winchester, Mass., have received word of the serious illness of her brother, Ernest Lincoln, who underwent an operation for appendicitis New Year's day.

Mrs. Shales and Mr. Lincoln left their Massachusetts home several weeks ago, en route to Florida, where they are passing the winter, having made the trip in their limousine, being accompanied along the way by other motorists.

FOR FATHER'S COUGH

January is usually one of the coldest months and brings its share of coughs, colds and hoarseness. Take FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough or cold, as it loosens the phlegm and quickly brings relief to the inflamed membranes of the throat. "YOUR HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND has done wonders for my father, who had an awful cough. He is feeling fine now," writes Nicolasa Gonzales, Cuero, Texas. Lee & Osgood Co.

LABOR LEADER DEPRECATES BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY

Remarkable Speech in the House of Commons by Ramsay MacDonald—Advocates a Change That Would Restore the Influence of Great Britain in Europe in Favor of Peace and Order—Condemns Expenditure of Enormous Sums of Money For Rival Arms, While Destitution Prevails — Demands That Premier Baldwin Publicly Renounce Protectionist Policy — Announced That He Would Move a Vote of No Confidence in the Present Government.

London, Jan. 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ramsay MacDonald, Parliamentary Labor Leader and probable next Prime Minister, in a remarkable speech in the House of Commons today declared for a foreign policy that would restore the influence of Great Britain in Europe in favor of peace and order.

"At this moment," he said, "Great Britain stands toward continental Europe with no decisive or effective policy. It is time we had a change in that respect."

It was a very curious and melancholy thing, he went on, that the results of the last election and the prospects of a change in government had done more to bring Great Britain's influence into the minds of the dominating continental statesmen than the last twelve months of the government. From a humanitarian viewpoint what was going on in Central Europe was absolutely deplorable.

"Anyone with a heart or any common human sentiment, reading the tales of destitution and experiences—The harrow that is being driven over the men and women and the children, above all—who has felt no impelling sentiment as a result, is certainly not the type of man or woman we have been proud to associate with the name Englishman," he said.

Danger in Europe.

"From a political viewpoint, every day accumulates danger. The state of Europe is far nearer that of 1912 than anyone cares to think about—rival armies, rival nationalist policies, the expenditure of enormous sums of money not on reconstruction but in preparing again for destruction; nations that were allies glaring across at each other in only semi-concealed hostility.

"We must have a new beginning. We cannot be disregarded; our interest will not allow us to be disregarded, and I am perfectly certain that no nation in Europe wishes to disregard that if we show enough self-respect to impress it upon them."

Referring to that part of the speech from the throne dealing with the imperial conference Mr. MacDonald regretted the idea that, if the dominion premiers came here and the government, after conferring with them, decided to recomend something, it meant that parliament was obliged to carry out that decision.

"This," he said, "is a doctrine subversive of our own rights of self-government which we will never surrender. Acceptance of that doctrine means that if any such conference is held in the future it might aid and abet in passing resolutions contrary to the wishes of the house, and then say that if the house does not carry these resolutions into effect then the house is breaking its pledges to the dominions. It would be a great misfortune were the members who hold that in fiscal matters the vote of the people should determine the conduct of the house to be told that they were not good friends of the dominions.

"That is not fair to the country. Every pledge given by the ministers at the imperial conference that matters should be brought before the house will be fulfilled to the last letter, which means that parliament is absolutely free to carry or reject the proposals.

Will Oppose Food Taxes.

"We will oppose food taxes on principle. Food is however, taxed for revenue purposes solely, and food from the dominion may be subject to remission of taxation. That is the present system, but the government now says we are going to tax food for the purpose of dominion preference. That is a very fundamental departure and another reason why we refuse confidence in the government. I ask a simple question—does the government still believe in protection or doesn't it?"

Demands Views of Baldwin.

The labor leader demanded whether Premier Baldwin had abandoned the idea of raising the tariff wall to relieve unemployment. He challenged the premier to explain whether he would continue the fight for protection or tell the house: "I am no longer a protectionist."

This sally was greeted with cheers and counter-cheers. The labor party, Mr. MacDonald continued, had no confidence that the government was going to carry out the reforms the king's speech suggested, and he would prefer trying somebody else instead of spending months in trying to improve governmental schemes that lacked the driving force to deal with unemployment. He pointed out that the house was in a peculiar position, with no party having a majority.

It might be said that the present government was the strongest party and that labor ought to refrain from having a vote of no confidence. He continued:

"Mr. Baldwin said last fall that he had a majority of 80 over all parties but that unless he got the power to impose tariffs he would be unable to carry on the government. Then Mr. Baldwin went to the country and came back with a minority of 100, and now was saying, 'I have changed my mind fundamentally and am prepared to rule with that minority.'"

This evoked more cheers and ironical laughter.

No Confidence in Government.

"There can be no confidence in the government," proceeded Mr. MacDonald, "after having put the nation to the expense of an election, risked the steady development of European affairs, left offices untenanted, and roused all sorts of passions and class hatred in the country."

"Therefore," MacDonald continued, "I propose to move a vote of no confidence." He then read the text of the labor amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, framed at a meeting of the parliamentary labor party prior to the convening of the house. The amendment read: "It is, however, our duty respectfully to submit to your Majesty that your Majesty's present officers have not the confidence to this house." The reading was accompanied by cheers from the labor members.

"What may happen is in the lap of the Gods. No party could take the responsibility today without feeling it would rather avoid it if it could because the state of Europe and of affairs at home is so bad, but the nation's government must be carried on."

"The King's Government," agreed Mr. MacDonald; "I don't make any distinctions of that kind. (Cheers from the Laborites.) Whoever carries on the government under these circumstances is entitled to appeal for fair play."

Former Premier Lloyd George, who followed Mr. MacDonald, declared the dominions had never claimed any government had the right to commit parliament to any policy, any more than the colonial conference had to commit the parliaments of the dominions. He made it clear in his speech that he had no grievence against Great Britain because the imperial parliament could not honor the decisions of the late government. He had also said another significant thing, which it was important the commons and the country should realize, namely, that preference did not depend on duties.

Mr. Lloyd George said he considered the paragraph in the King's liquor question with the United States as very gratifying, although rather cryptic and a little ambiguous. It was not clear what was meant by removing the difficulties in the matter of importation.

"I consider that the commons is entitled to some explanation," said the former premier. "It is not a question whether we believe in prohibition or not. The smuggling from Britain and the dominions has taken the form of smuggling spirits. A base has been provided from which operations are conducted to break a law which 95 per cent. of the people favor. We are alienating our best friend by giving facilities for breaking the law. I sincerely trust the government will take more effective measures for stopping this smuggling."

To Move Vote of No Confidence.

The leader of the labor opposition announced that he would move a vote of no confidence in the present government, the labor amendment which will be presented, reading:

"It is our duty to respectfully submit to your majesty that your majesty's present officers have not the confidence of this house."

Much was said about French domination in the Ruhr and Premier Baldwin remarked that France might see in the fall of the franc a reason why she should come to close quarters with the problem. All the speakers touched upon the question of whether the proposals in the imperial conference obliged parliament to ratify them. Mr. MacDonald said not.

Lord Haldane was the spokesman for labor in the house of lords rising in response to an appeal from Marquis Curzon, the foreign secretary. Lord Haldane had no fears concerning a labor government, and declared: "There is a desire on the part of the masses of the people to get a better chance in life for themselves and their children. For years parliament looked on, and did nothing. This is a great movement which has to be put into shape and given a chance."

Marquis Curzon and Viscount Grey made pacific speeches and the lord's address thanking the king for his speech was quickly passed.

No Hope For Baldwin Government.

Any hopes that the Baldwin government might continue for a time on sufferance were killed when the announcement was made that the labor's party had decided to propose an amendment to the reply to the king's speech. There will be two more days for speeches in the house of commons, an adjournment to Monday and according to programme then the labor amendment will pass, and Stanley Baldwin's brief rule will end.

ENGINEER RESPONSIBLE FOR 20TH CENTURY WRECK

Washington, Jan. 15.—The wreck of the Twentith Century Limited train of the New York Central Railroad near Forsyth, N. Y., on December 9, which resulted in the death of nine persons and the injury of 35, was caused by the failure of Engineer Patterson, driving the train following it, to obey automatic block signals, Interstate Commerce Commission Inspectors reported today.

The inspectors' conclusions were identical with those resulting from investigation by railroad officials. The report declared that, "the facts of this accident again forcibly disclose the necessity for automatic train control." The New York Central, it was added, should proceed "promptly and diligently with the permanent installing of these devices," which are intended to prevent collisions.

SURENDERED TO POLICE ON CHARGES OF LARCENY

Boston, Jan. 16.—Clarence J. Horn, manager of the firm of T. J. Day and Company recently closed and now being investigated together with the firm of Wellington and Company by the district attorney surrendered to the police today on charges of larceny, conspiracy and maintaining a bucketshop. Four of seven others for whom warrants were issued last week have been arrested.

Rally in Foreign Exchange Market

Result of Decision of French Cabinet to Balance French Budget.

New York, Jan. 15.—Short covering operations by European speculators, apparently inspired by the decision of the French cabinet to increase taxes 20 per cent. and take measures to balance the French budget, brought about a sharp rally in practically al European rates in today's local foreign exchange market.

French francs, which had droped from 4.65 cents on Saturday to 4.27, a new low record yesterday, rallied to just below 4.50 cents. Demand sterling moved up about 3½ cents to $4.26. Sympathetic advances took place in the Belgian, Dutch and Scandinavian rates.

Publication of our foreign trade figures for December helped to explain the recent weakness of the principal European currencies. December exports totalled $425,000,000, the highest of any month since January 1921, while imports totalled only $285,000,000, leaving a commodity balance in favor of this country of $140 000,000 for the month and nearly $376,000,000 for the year.

Local foreign exchange dealers explained that the bulk of today's buying orders came from European firms which had sold exchange yesterday, confirming reports of widespread speculation.

BILL IN FRENCH CHAMBER TO REIMBURSE AMERICA

Paris, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare this evening introduced in the chamber of deputies a bill ratifying the agreement signed in Paris May 25, 1923 relating to reimbursement of the cost of the American armies of occupation.

FIVE HOUR DISCUSSION IN HOUSE ABOUT ITS RULES

Washington, Jan. 15.—The house spent five hours today talking about its rules without taking a single vote on any of the dozen or more proposals pending to change them.

For the most part the discussion centered on the amendment reported by the rules committee which would set up a new method of discharging committees from jurisdiction over legislation. Debate indicated that the democrats and republican insurgents were inclined to combine to upset the republican organization's program as they did yesterday to bring about the repeal of the Underwood rule which placed rigid restrictions on amendments to revenue and tariff bills.

Except for those identified with the insurgent group, Republicans who entered the debate today endorsed the recommendation of the rules committee that at least 150 signatures should be on petitions for the discharge of committees. Some republicans, however said the minimum should be higher although they expressed a willingness to go along with their party leaders.

NUMBER OF LIVES LOST IN EARTHQUAKE IN JAPAN

Tokio, Jan. 15 (By the A. P.)—A number of lives were lost, many persons seriously injured and heavy property damage caused early today by the second great earthquake which has stricken Japan within five months. The victims of today's shock so far as is known were all Japanese and most of the casualties, it is believed, were confined to the vicinities of Tokio and Yokohama.

The shock at 5.45 o'clock, approached those of last September in intensity but was comparatively brief in duration. It awakened the inhabitants of Tokio and Yokohama and caused them to flee to the streets in alarm.

The Imperial hotel of Tokio, filled with American travelers and others here on reconstruction work, was quickly emptied as the hostelry trembled and shook. Most of the guests hurried to the street but no panic ensued. There was little damage to the hotel except for smashed windows, loosened plaster and broken roof tiles.

FINDING REPARATIONS A DIFFICULT QUESTION

Paris, Jan. 15.—(By the A. P.)—Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes and Owen D. Young, the American representatives of the first committee of experts, are finding reparations a difficult question to hurry along. Instead of three sessions a day, as General Dawes wanted at the beginning, only one official sitting was held today, because it was found necessary, after the delegates had come into personal contact, to study out carefully a plan for future work.

Harry M. Robinson, American expert on the second committee began his turn getting acquainted with the people at reparations headquarters. Colonel James A. Logan introduced him to M. Barthou, Sir John Bradbury and the other members of the reparation commission.

It is understood that the real work of the committee will begin on the subject tersely defined as "the German budget."

SIR CHARLES HIGHAM'S PREVENTIVE OF WARS

Boston, Jan. 15.—The United States and Great Britain by taking joint action can easily prevent wars, Sir Charles Higham, of London, England, said in an address before the Pilgrim Publicity Association here today. In commenting on the Bok peace plan the lecturer said:

"I have a simple plan for world peace. All that is needed is for the United States and the British empire to agree not to supply food or money or to sell munitions to any country which contemplates starting a war or attempts to do so. Why don't we do this?"

TELEPHONE EMPLOYES SERIOUSLY INJURED

Bridgeport, Jan. 14.—Edward Barnes and William Ramsey, employes of the Southern New England Telephone Company, were seriously injured today when they were struck by an automobile driven by Curtis Wilson of this city, while at work at a manhole here. Barnes sustained a fracture of the skull and Ramsey a fractured shoulder.

To Awake Conscience Of Lawless Drinkers

Epithet "Scofflaw" Selected to "Sting" Transgressors of Dry Law.

Boston, Jan. 15—A word chosen from more than 25,000 suggestions as the one best calculated to stab awake the conscience of the lawless drinker" was announced tonight by Delevare King of Quincy who offered a prize of $200 for the most suitable epithet. The word is "scofflaw".

The donor of the prize and the two persons associated with him as judges of the contributions submitted from 43 states and several foreign countries, divided the prize between the two contestants who proposed this word. The winners are Henry Irving Shaw, of Shawsheen Village, and Miss Kate L. Butler, of Dorchester. Rev. H. Talmadge Root, chairman of the New England citizenship conference for law enforcement, and A. J. Davis, regional superintendent for the anti-saloon league of America, acted with Mr. King as judges.

"Such an epithet should be preferably one or two syllables.

"It should preferably begin with s—s-words having a sting.

"Not an epithet for a drinker as such but for the drinker of liquor made or obtained illegally—a lawless drinker. Law, not liquor is the basis. "Applying to violators of all law, not limited by its meaning to the prohibition law only.

"Linked with the statement of ex-President Harding, that "lawless drinking is a menace to the republic itself" or with the statement of the judges of the American Bar association in their warning to the American people against those who disobey and scoff at this law, or any law."

The donor of the prize has offered a further sum of $200 for the statement of not over 100 words as to the reason why the drinker of liquor made or obtained illegally should be known as a "scofflaw".

ARRESTED IN PROVIDENCE AS FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

Providence, Jan. 15.—James H. Coleman, busines agent of Providence local of the Amalgamatd Association of Street Electric Railway Employes, was arrested here today on a criminal warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice at Medford, Mass. The warrant, issued here, is accompanied by notification from Medford of the existence of an indictment capias, alleging larceny in Middlesex county, Massachusets.

According to the police here, they were informed that the indictment grows out of stock transactions, conducted by the defendant and others at Medford. John A. Buttam, of the Medford police said he would come here to claim the custody of the prisoner, whose friends said they are planning to contest extradition.

On December 7, Coleman was arraigned in Boston and pleaded not guilty to indictments alleging larceny of $1,000 and conspiracy to defraud Arthur G. Briggs, a Lynn school principal. Co-defendants with him were Clarence J. Horn and Edwin P. Gage.

After arraignment before Judge Bishop in the superior criminal court, Coleman gave out a statement in which he said that the charges grew out of the misrepresentation by others of the possibility of delivery of stock of the International Talc Company.

Coleman, at a special arraignment here today pleaded not guilty to being fugitive from justice. He was held in $2,00 bail for hearing on January 29.

U. S. WILL NOT TOLERATE BLOCKADE OF TAMPICO

Washington, Jan. 15.—The De La Huerta revolutionary blockade of Tampico harbor prompted the state department today to take steps to inform De La Huerta personally that American commerce in and out of Tampico was not subject to any restrictions in its legitimate operations.

At the same time it became known that representations had been sent to the Obregon government calling attention to the embarrassment occasioned American nationals through the closure by Mexico City of the cable service between the United States and Vera Cruz. It is expected the Obregon officials will find a way to permit the reopening of cable service and at the same time safeguard its interest in the matter.

At the navy department it was announced that steps to open radio telegraph communcttion with Vera Cruz for the aid of American business and other interests had been taken with the dispatch from Galveston of the old light cruiser Tacoma to the Mexican port. The Tacoma was due at Vera Cruz today.

CONTEST OVER INCREASE OF COMMUNICATION RATES

Boston, Jan. 5.—Court action in the effort to prevent increased rates for commutation tickets on railroads entering Boston from going into effect was unsuccessful today. The fight was carried further, however, in the legislature.

Judge Braley of the supreme court refused to issue a restraining order for which Charles A. Coughlin, a Medford alderman, had petitioned. The court took the ground that the state department of public utilities which last week approved the 20 per cent. increase, effective today had sole jurisdiction over the facts governing the raise and that the court was without power to intervene unless a question of law should be brought up.

The house of representatives adopted an order in which the senate later concurred providing for public hearings on the rate increase by the joint committee on railroads. The utilities department was ordered to turn over to the committee the records of its hearings on the subject.

Dr. Kinnell was a graduate of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, Edinburgh, Scotland, and for many years practiced in the Lenox and Stockbridge districts.

DEM. NATIONAL CONVENTION IN NEW YORK CITY JUNE 24

Decision Reached on Third Ballot, Which Stood: New York 57, San Francisco 40, St. Louis 6—First Convention Given to the Metropolis in 56 Years—$55,000 For Concessions Raised New York's Guarantee to $205,000, Which Was Equalled by California Committeeman.

Washington, Jan. 15.—New York selected today as the meeting place of the 1924 Democratic National Convention.

The vote on the third and decisive ballot in the national committe was New York 57, San Francisco 40 and St. Louis 6.

Cash was the potent factor in the committee's decision. In the presentation of New York's invitation its original bid of $150,000 was raised to $206,000 through a guarantee of $55,000 given the comittee for convention privileges such as radio, moving pictures and other concessions.

Isador Dockweiler, the California committeeman, immediately raised the San Francico bid from $200,000 to $205,000 to equal New York's. After the three ballots, and with New York having a clear majority, its selection was made unanimous on motion of Mr. Dockweiler.

The convention given New York will be its first in 56 years, a point emphasized by acting Mayor Hulbert, Norman E. Mack, the New York committeeman, Joseph P. Day, chairman of the Civic Committee, and Judge Morgan J. O'Brien in presenting the New York invitation. Mr. Mack promised that New York's additional check of $55,00 would be added to that of $150,000 given Chairman Will as the minimum guarantee to cover the convention concessions.

Many of the Chicago and St. Louis votes were thown to New York on the deciding ballot after the second vote had given New York 47, San Francisco 29, Chicago 18, and St. Louis 11. The first vote was New York 39, San Francisco, 23, Chicago 22, and St. Louis 18. New York's selection finally was made unanimous upon motion of San Francisco's spokesman.

Party leaders of all factions said the choice of New York and the battle which preceded it were without significance on the candidacies of William G. McAdoo, Senator Underwood of Alabama, or others for the presidential nomination. Although the McAdoo leaders had claimed that a majority of the committee favored his candidacy and several prominent McAdoo workers had favored his candidacy several prominent McAdoo workers had declared in favor of a western city for the convention and against New York, the "McAdoo vote", in the committee balloting apparently was divided, several voting for New York, and others for San Francisco and St. Louis.

Some professed to see in the result an indication of the reputed "Murphy-Brennan-Taggart" hand, reported as against McAdoo's nomination. George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader, voted for New York after withdrawing Chicago at the close of the second ballot, and the two votes of Indiana, of which Tom Taggart is national committeeman, also stuck to New York, where C. F. Murphy, Tammany hall magnate, holds the democratic political sceptre. Some of the McAdoo leaders said they had not opposed the choice of New York, and pointed to Mr. McAdoo's personal telegram yesterday disclaiming opposition to New York, his native state.

Dollars, needed by the democratic treasury to clear up its deficit of $180,000 from the 1920 campaign, were the big bludgeons of today's long battle over the convention city. New York's selection followed an increase to $205,000 for the convention over it soriginal bid of $150,000. This topped the big offer of $200,000 offered by San Francisco, up to that time the record breaker in American political history. When New York boosted its offer San Francisco backed on another $5,000 to equal the New York bid, but this failed to swing the convention to the Pacific coast. Many committee members said that with the New York and San Francisco Bids equal, they were against repeating the long trek of 1920 to the Pacific coast and were in favor of giving New York its first political convention since 1868.

Defeat of Chicago and St. Louis was credited largely to their smaller financial offers, St. Louis proffering a check for $100,000 and other inducements, while Chicago offered to pay all convention expenses backed by the 125,000 fund raised in an unsuccesful effort to obtain the republican convention. Thus, for the first time since 1896, Chicago will not be the scene in a presidential year of any major national political gathering With the selection of the convention city, most of the democratic committee's important business was concluded today, but there will be another session tomorrow for consideration of resolutions, including the formal call, the convention reporttionment and other details. Pending are proposals to retain the present delegate roll and a substitute resolution by Senator Glass of Virginia, designed to increase the number of women delegates. The democratic conclave will conclude tomorrow with a pilgrimage to the home of the party's former chief, Woodrow Wilson. He suggested that if possible the members call and arrangements were accordingly made to visit him at 12.30 o'clock tomorrow.

COMMITTEE HEARING ON THE TAX MEASURE

Washington, Jan. 15—Meanwhile the house ways and means committee yesterday continued public hearings on the tax measure receiving requests from various business interests for repeal of special and excise taxes. Assaults on the bill under consideration also were made in the senate along similar lines.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, a republican member of the senate finance committee announced he would attempt to provide a means for a soldiers' bonus under the new bill by a revised admissions tax and Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, introduced a bill to repeal the excise taxes on automobiles, trucks, tires and other automotive equipment.

Members of both parties on the ways and means committee made it plain to those seeking reductions of the special tax rates that no cuts would be made along that line which would endanger proposals of Secretary Mellon or of the democrats to reduce the income surtax rates.

Consideration of a fight on the tariff law was discussed also by the democratic leaders on the senate in view of prospects for amendment of house rules to enable a minority of the house to bring a bill from committee. Whether there would be time for any tariff action at this session however, is a question being weighed by the minority forces.

In his proposal to provide for the bonus from the tax on theatre admissions, repeal of which was proposed by Secretary Mellon, Mr. Curtis presented a revised schedule for such taxes which he estimated would net $77,000,000 annually.

He would remove all taxes from admissions of twenty-five cents or less and fix the tax at five cents on those from twenty-five cents to one dollar and at twenty-five cents for each dollar or fraction thereof above. Box seats and roof garden cover charges would be subject to a surtax.

COOLIDGE CAL. CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED

Washington, Jan. 15.—Selection of a committee of five to take charge of the Coolidge Campaign in California was announced here today by William M. Butler, Mr. Coolidge's manager.

The committee will consist of Marshall Hale, San Francisco; Percy V. Long, San Francisco; Frank Merriam, Long Beach; Ralph Arnold, Los Angeles, and Mark L. Requa, Oakland.

Mr. Butler in announcing the personnel of the committee through Frank W. Stearns, one of his asociates in the general management of the campaign, said:

"It is a great satisfaction to me to know that the widespread interest in the nomination of President Coolidge which exists in California has manifested itself in the selection of a committee to take charge of the Coolidge Campaign there. I heartily approve the names suggested."

Equal rights with men in jury service and repression of commercialized vice and spread of venereal diseases by holding men equally liable with women in prostitution cases were featured of the report of Mrs. Irene Osgood Andrews, New York, chairman of the state legislative committee.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The Democratic National Committee selected New York as the place and June 24, as the date for its National Convention.

Beginning public hearings no sugar duties the Tariff Commission became involved in an internal row over participation of Commisioner Glassie.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, leader of the Republican insurgents, introduced a resolution to reduce freight rates on farm products and implements to substantially pre-war levels.

Department of commerce figures made public showed a foreign trade balance in favor of the United States for the calendar year, 1923, of $375,948,917.

The State Department instructed charge Summerlin, at Mexico City to open negotiations on the order restricting cable communication with the United States via Vera Cruz and Galveston.

The Washington Government, it was disclosed at the state department, is preparing to inform Adolfo De La Huerta that proper American commerce with the port of Tampico, must not be interfered with.

OBITUARY

Dr. Maurice Francis Egan

Mr. Egan was taken seriously ill early last September when he was reported to be suffering from chronic kidney trouble at his summer home at Beach Haven, N. J. In October, his physicians held out litt'e hope for recovery and his relatives were summoned.

Several weeks later, however, he had so far improved that he was removed to a sanitarium in Brooklyn and later to his home there. His condition again became critical last week.

Arrangements for Dr. Egan's funeral were not completed tonight, but it was planned to have the body taken to Philadelphia, Dr. Egan's home city, for burial, where Cardinal Dougherty, of the Philadelphia Catholic diocese, will officiate.

Dr. Egan's children were called to his bedside two days ago. They are Gerald Egan, who served as an army captain in the war and who now is on the staff of the New York Herald; Mrs. Elmer Murphy of Washington and Mrs. Gabriel A. O'Reilly. All were with him when he died.

Many of Dr. Egan's distinguished friends called at the Brooklyn home tonight. Among them was Robert Underwod Johnson, former United States minister to Italy, and a life long friend.

Arthur W. Sweet of No. 139 Jackson street lies in a critical condition at St. Joseph Hospital today as the result of a broken back sustained shortly after 11 o'clock Tuesday forenoon when he fell from a ladder while working in the kitchen of the C. A. R. quarters of the town building. Sweet is said to have a pressure on a cord which has caused complete paralysis of the lower limbs and is considered as an indication of fractured vertebrae.

Sweet was doing his part in making arrangements for the annual installation and banquet of A. C. Tyler Camp, No. 8, U. S. W. V., of which he is a member and was standing on an extension ladder to wash the upper panes of a window. He was alone and had been in the room for some time when Janitor Joseph P. Ellis who was in another section of the building, heard a crash and found Sweet prostrate on the floor with the ladder and wash pail on top of him. Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton Selectmen Russel A. Andrews and Assessors John R. Pickett, Lawrence S. Casey and Joseph F. Gaudreau were called and Sweet was removed to a more comfortable location until the ambulance arrived. Sweet seemed to remain conscious and was suffering intense pain.

There were indications that the ladder had slipped and the top had broken through the upper pane of glass, causing the ladder to turn to one side. Sweet apparently fell in such a position that his back struck against a radiator near which he was found lying after the crash. Sweet has a wife and one child.

That there has been an increase in the local interest manifested in the work of Willimantic Welfare Bureau was proved at the January meeting of the directors of the bureau, held with an attendance the largest in two years. A hearty response has been give nto the appeal for financial and moral support. At the meeting various matters of importance were discussed, including housing conditions and the manner in which aid should be given to the needy of the town. The bureau's active secretary, Miss Elizabeth Anderson gave a review of her work and made several suggestions which would be beneficial to the organization, if carried out.

In her report for December Miss Anderson stated that during the month there were 154 office calls, 70 home calls and 112 telephone calls. Relief was given to twenty-three persons and many letters of information wee answered.

Henry Dady, of 1222 Main street, was well remembered by about sixty of his friends this week on his 54th birthday. In behalf of the employes of the Maverick Laundry, Henry Congdon presented Mr. Dady a comfortable reclining chair in addition to which Mr. Congdon gave him one hundred dollars in gold from the officers of the company. Mr. Congdon explained that the gift was not a reward for Mr Dady's 28 years in the service with the company, but in appreciation of his unfailing loyalty to the firm, his kindly disposition and courtesy to all. Mr. Dady also received gifts from neighbors and friends.

Mrs. Dady served a delicious supper. Guests were present from New Britain, Hartford, South Coventry, Middletown and Manchester.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected in the following order at a well attended meeting of St. John's Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar: Eminent Commander, Charles A. Taintor; generalissimo; Raymond A. Taintor; generalissimo; Raymond W. Standish; senior warden Harold S. Maine; junior warden, Edwin Carlsen; prelate, William O. Brooks; treasurer, Herbert R. Chappell; recorder, Charles L. Boss. The appointive officers are: Standard bearer, Richard E. Dodge; sword bearer, Edwin Kerwin; warder, Arthur L. Clark, guards, Harold Williams, first Edward Clark, second and Charles H. Caswell, third and Charles Lovett, sentinal.

Past Commander James P. Mustard, as installing officer and Past Commander Dwight E. Abel, as marshal, installed the officers. The past commander's jewel was presented to the retiring commander, Mr. Taintor by Past Commander Mustard.

William Cunningham, alias "Wild Bill" was given a severe reprimand in the Andover town court Monday when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Charles A. Faulkner on a charge of cruelty to animals. Wild Bill also paid the costs of the court. He was arrested on complaint of the Humane Society who acted upon the information of "Bill's neighbors, that the man had left two horses in a dilapidated barn near his home just over the Andover line. Special officers Ernest Preston and F. H. Wyant of the Connecticut Humane Society and Deputy Sheriff Allison Frink of Andover went to the place and found an old ramshackle structure which offered no protection to the horses in cold or wet weather. One house was found dead in his stall. It had either died from starvation or had been put out of misery by some kindly neighbor. There was no feed whatsoever in the barn. The second horse was found in a small enclosure where it was lying in a pitiful condition on a pile of broken machinery which appeared to be part of a discarded hay cutter.

Neighbors had heard the starving animals thrashing about the barn for several days and nights and this information was finally lodged in the office of the Humane Society.

"Wild Bill" did not seem perturbed at his arrest. He told the officers that he had no use for the horses anyway as he was always away and that he supposed that his wife was looking aft erthem. He did admit, however, that he had been warned by one of his neighbors. Sentence was then deferred and Cunningham was let out on the payment of costs. While investigating the conditions at the Cunningham farm, the society officers were made aware of similar actions of cruelty to animals which prevailing in the section. It was also learned that in several homes the children were found by the poorest conditions and their parents were given timely warnings.

Robert J. Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Watts, of Columbus avenue, Benton Harbor, Mich., and Miss Katherine Stevens, daughter of Mrs. Mary Stevens of 1014 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, were married last week in St. Joseph's Catholic church, St. Joseph, Michigan. Rev. Father J. M. Zindler officiated and sang the nuptial mass. The altar was richly decorated and pleasing selections were rendered by the church chorus. Eugene Murphy was best man and Miss Ann Watts, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. There were three bridesmaids and three ushers.

A breakfast was served at the Whitcomb hotel, after which Mr. and Mrs. Watts left for a wedding journey to points in the south where they will remain for the winter. Mr. Watts will be in charge of the office of the Watt's Laundry Machine Company in Atlanta, Georgia. He is also manager of plant number two of the Watt Laundry Machine Company in Benton Harbor.—St. Joseph (Mich.) Times. The groom is well known in South Windham and Willimantic. He was a student at Windham High school at the time he moved with his parents to Benton Harbor.

The latest "big city" attraction which has landed here is in the form of two real city taxi cabs. They are of the A. & L. type and were purchased by a local taxi company.

At the Sunday morning services of the Methodist church, the newly elected officers of the Sunday school were installed. Wallace L. Woodin, of Hartford, secretary of the Connecticut State Sunday school association, delivered an address on "The Responsibility of the Church for the Church School." The teachers and officers installed were: Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead, superintendent of Everyman's Non-Denominational Bible Class; senior women's class, Mrs. Robert Brown; adult women's class, Mrs. Lucinda Hayden; senior young women's class, Mrs. Stephen Dunstan, young women's class, Mrs. C. O. Barrows; young women's class, Miss Muriel Kennedy; young men's class, William E. Webber; boys' class, E. Byrd Freeman; junior pupils, Mrs. Daniel French, primary department, Miss E. Simonds and Mrs. Earl Batley.

Funeral services for James A. Rood were held at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his home, 60 Lebanon avenue, Rev. Frederick F. Foshay, pastor of the Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in the Grove cemetery, Putnam. A delegation of Nachaug Lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias attended the funeral. The bearers were Maurice Leonard Bernard Larkin, George Arnold and Harry Blanchette. Beautiful floral pieces were received. The arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth A. Whiton were held at two o'clock Monday afternoon at 62 North St. Delegations were in attendance from Chapter No. 11, O. E. S., the Woman's Relief Corps, the Order of the Golden Cross and Radiant Chapter. Rev. Frederick F. Foshay was the officiating clergyman. Radiant Chapter conducted the burial ritual of the order. Worthy Matron Miss C. M. Cartwright and Worthy Patron J. R. Beebe being in charge. Miss Inez Paton sang Mrs. Whiton's favorite hymns "Somewhere, Sometime We'll Understand," and "Remembered By What You Have Done." There were beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in North Windham cemtery. Van Zandt had charge of the arrangements.

The funeral of George Sustek was held from his home in Warrenville Tuesday morning. Requiem high mass at St. Philip's Mission church in Eastford was sung at 10 o'clock by Rev. William Dunn. The casket was placed in the receiving vault at St. Joseph's cemetery in this city. The bearers were M. Demchuck, Adam Grafin, Adam and Joseph Wobeak. Kilhourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Theresa, the infant daughter of Joseph and Theresa Tetreault Thibeault died Monday at the home of her parents on Columbia road. The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The casket was placed in the receiving vault at St. Joseph's cemetery.

The police arrested two boys under sixteen, late Monday night on the charge of being incorrigible and failing to attend school regularly. One of the pair has been sleeping in a barn for the past week. The cases will be tried in the juvenile court Saturday morning.

The local Boy Scout situation was the main topic of discussion at the weekly meeting and luncheon of Willimantic Rotary held Tuesday noon, with President James Ponder Mustard in charge. Among the guests were: Rev. F. C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church; Robert C. Rose of the First Congregational church and Rev. O. S. Beauminster of St. Joseph's church, the last named being scoutmaster of Troops 2, 3 and 4 of Willimantic Council. The St. Paul's church parish are now making an effort to revive the troop there which was the pioneer scout organization in Willimantic having been organized in 1912 and continuing until 1922.

At the business session, it was voted to endorse George Tucker of the Hartford Rotary club for the position of governor of the thirtieth district and to send a notice to the Hartford club to that effect. A letter of thanks was read from Miss Myra M. Mathews for a box of candy sent her on New Year's in appreciation for work done in behalf of the club.

President Mustard announced that upon the suggestion of Miss Loretta Higgins of Norwich who will appear here in a concert the date of her recital has been advanced to early in February. The Windham High school auditorium will be available on that date.

Fred D. Jordan read excerpts from a letter which he received from Rev. Harry S. McCready in which the latter stated that he anticipated becoming a member of the Oakland, California, Rotary club.

Rev. Mr. Williams of the Episcopal church was the first speaker in relation to the Boy Scout movement. He said that he could see a revival of the scout spirit in Willimantic. St. Paul's church has organized a troop of twenty boys; the Congregational church scouts are planning to reorganize and a patrol has been formed at the Methodist church with the idea in view of forming a troop. Rev. Mr. Williams said that the main difficulty in the past has been in securing leaders but this would be eliminated through the establishing of a central organization. The Norwich council was mention, along with the possibility of affiliating with that governing body in the event of finding that it would be impossible to form a council in this city. He asked the men to use their influence in converting mothers to take an interest in the movement.

Mr. Rose gave a brief history of the scout movement at the Congregational church. He believes that a second class would be the best thing ever for Willimantic because a first class council required the securing of a paid executive to devote his entire time to Boy Scout work. Mr. Rose stated that the $1,500 which was needed would be easily secured.

Rev. Father Beauminster prefaced his remarks by warning the members that they had a huge undertaking before them and should consider every detail before going ahead. He made it plain that Catholic Boy Scouts and Protestant Boy Scouts I came under one heading of Boy Scouts of America, regardless of sectarian beliefs. Two of his assistant scoutmasters are non-Catholic men.

The organization of a council should be a concerted effort, backed by the city officials and every organization, fraternal or civic. He expressed his confidence of achieving good results by saying that he had known Willimantic for fifteen years and had never known an instance where a worthy project was not supported and put over the top, when placed before the community.

A meeting of the board of directors to discuss the scout proposition and to arrange for Miss Higgins' concert was held after the regular meeting.

Rev. John L. Davis, of New Britain, leader of the largest bible class in the world, carried his audience by storm, in an address on America, a Land of Opportunity, which he delivered at a meeting of the Willimantic Chamber of Commerce held in the chamber parlors, Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Davis outclassed any speaker heard here in some time and held the undivided attention of the members by his artful manner of conveying a message of vital importance, intermingled with practical humor which kept the assemblage in a constant uproar. His talk on the opportunities offered in this country was distinctive from the often heard addresses on this subject and brought home to the members a penetrating view of American opportunities and of the sinister dangers which are threatening to close the doors now open to those qualified with character, intellect and industry. The names of Abraham Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis were mentioned in connection with others who had taken advantage of American opportunities and, had risen from the lowest depths of poverty to the hall of fame. A brief but gripping review of President Calvin Coolidge's life from a farmer boy to the highest office in the country, was given by the speaker. Rev. Mr. Davis was heartily applauded at the conclusion of his talk and was extended a rising vote of thanks. He was introduced to the audience by A. E. Greene, chairman of the entertainment committee.

The meeting opened with an excellent supper served by the Woman's Relief Corps and was followed by a short business session, in charge of President Valentine L. Murphy. Secretary Morrill read the applications of Albert B. Smith, Edmund B. Freeman and R. Bullard Jones. The applicants were accepted as members. A brief address was made by Mr. Smith, the new secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., and by A. T. Miner of New London, former president of the state chamber of commerce, a guest of honor at the meeting. W. C. Norris announced that Walter W. Husband of Washington, D. C., would be heard here at the next meeting Feb. 6 in a talk on Immigration.

FACTORY HOLDS KEY TO SALES

There is one factory, at least, in which there is no dispute between sales and production executives as to the relative importance of their departments.

Ask anyone of authority in the sales department of Dodge Brothers Detroit, which is more important—the job of manufacturing or the job of selling—and you will get an immediate, emphatic answer:

"In our business, manufacturing by all means."

Ever since Dodge Brothers turned out their first motor car, back in 1914, and even before that time, when Dodge Brothers were building parts for other manufacturers, major stress has always been placed on the building of the product, rather than the selling.

"Build it well and it will sell itself," was their cardinal doctrine.

Dodge Brothers believed that a product could not survive long unless it was conscientiously built—that the public would always prefer fundamental merit to superficial glamor; that a car with a real reputation for goodness would always find a healthy market, regardless of the whims of fashion.

The fact that Dodge Brothers have now built and sold more than 1,000,000 cars, seems to bear out this contention in an emphatic way. The million mark was reached December 18, 1923—just 9 years and 11 days after the first Dodge Brothers Motor Car left the factory.

A Farnum picture is never a disappointment. His product for the past five years has convinced us of that. Another conviction long with us is that no two Farnum pictures are alike. All of which is borne out by his latest production "The Gunfighter" which is the feature attraction at the Breed today and Thursday.

Taking the title role, William Farnum has essayed something for which he will always be remembered, a character which, for brilliant lines and memorable characteristics will overshadow all those for which he is now acclaimed.

A tower of strength and goodness is a sufficient attribute to place any man among the immortals. Such was Billy Buell, the character interpreted by William Farnum. We are told the story is based on obscure Californian saga, and contrary to custom, we believe it.

Billy Buell interrupted a seventeen year fued between two rival families, by marrying the girl for whom it was fought. An idea that pleases the fancy is the one introduced by the action of the simple marriage, terminating a horrible period of bloodshed.

The question of the girl's parentage caused the rife in the two families that hitherto had been dearly beloved by each other. The marriage, in taking her out of both's hands, left nothing to quarrel about. A more intriguing solution this reviewer has never encountered. Doris May enacts the part of Nell, over whom the feud was fought.

Other pictures on the bill include a news, scenic and comedy.

Famous Old Melodrama Made Into Vivid Screen Spectacle

Arrow Film Corporation announces that the producers of that remarkably successful picture play "Ten Nights in a Barroom," have completed another production which is even bigger and better in every way. "Lost in a Big City" is the title of this new tremendous Blazed Trail special, written—as was "Ten Nights"—by L. Case Russell and starring John Nowell, Baby Ivy Ward and Jane Thomas.

The picture is said to be replete with more thrilling scenes than have ever before been seen upon the screen and contains a goodly amount of that very necessary requisite for a universally successful picture—heart interest.

How Harry Farley finally brings the unscrupulous Heaton to justice provides the picture with many big scenes which will thrill you to the fingertips. There is a crashing fight in a saloon when he discovers the kidnappers, a thrilling chase in an aeroplane, a struggle in a blazing shack in the Adirondacks, the rescue by the State Troopers and the last stand of the bootleggers' gang.

It comes to the Strand Theatre Thursday for a three days' engagement. We strongly advise all of our readers to see it.

Appley also attended and took the sixth degree Tuesday evening.

Gertie Hansen has been home the past week ill with grip.

Mrs. Irene Frink and children have moved over to the house with Charles Moffitt, where they will have two rooms, and do light housekeeping for the present.

Cardinal O'Connell, Boston, ranking prelate on the Catholic hierarchy in the United States, sailed on the steamship Empress of Scotland on a cruise of the Mediterranean and a pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Widespread interest was created in this town Tuesday over the filing of an appeal in behalf of Dr. Raymond C. Prisque, of Dayville, from the action taken during the past month by the state board of health, in revoking the license of Dr. Prisque. This appeal will bring the matter before the superior court of this county for consideration and the matter likely will come up during February.

In Dayville, Attawaugan, Baltouville, Goodyear, Killingly Center and Elmville there is particular interest in the issue, as these villages were the principal fields in which Dr. Prisque has practiced during his residence in Killingly, though he had patients also in Danielson, East Killingly and other communities.

As stated in the Putnam news this morning, Attorneys Samuel B. Harvey, of Willimantic, and Arthur M. Brown, of Norwich, will have charge of Dr. Prisque's appeal. No date had been set Tuesday for the hearing, but the hope was to obtain as early an assignment as court business will permit. In the meantime Dr. Prisque is remaining at Dayville.

His appeal is the second taken in connection with the recent revocation of the licenses of a number of physicians practicing medicine in this state. The impressive petition, with over 1200 names, forwarded to Hartford in Dr. Prisque's behalf, just prior to the revocation of his license, is evidence of his popularity in the communities where he is known. It is also indicative of the great interest with which the people of these communities will follow the hearing of the appeal when it comes to court.

Tuesday, the funeral of Mrs. Mary Adline Shumway, widow of Judge Milton A. Shumway, was held from her home on North Main street, with services at St. Alban's church at noon. Rev. George A. Alcott of East Haddam, a former rector of St. Alban's, conducted the service and the choir of the church sang. A feature of the musical part of the service was the solo, Lead Kindly Light, by W. W. Reimer. The ushers at the service were Francis E. Storer, Frederick Miller, Roland H. Gray and John Marland.

Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Judge Sabin S. Russell, Attorney E. L. Darbie, Alfred L. Reed, Sidney P. Marland, Herbert Chase and Earl Winslow. There were beautiful floral pieces. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

In the death of Albert Kenyon, 91, Monday, at his home in Centerville, there departed from this life a man who for many years was a resident of this town and who is remembered by citizens whose memories go back 40 years and more as a mill man, who for years was overseer of spinning in the Whitestone mill, destroyed by fire at East Killingly a year ago last December.

It was recalled Tuesday that Mr Kenyon, who was in his 92d year, first worked as a spinner on the antiquated hand-operated mules; that he saw the coming of the automatic mule and all its period of development and continued to live on into a period when even this remarkable mechanical device was passing out to give place to the highly developed spinning frames in use today.

Mr. Kenyon served from the beginning to the close of the Civil war as a fifer of the Sixth Connecticut Volunteers. About 40 years ago he left East Killingly to take a position in the Pawtuxet Valley section of Rhode Island, making his home in Quidnick and afterwards in Centerville.

For years he was employed as second hand in the mule spinning department of the Windham-Quidnick mill, at Quidnick, and afterwards was employed in the cloth department of the B. B. and R. Knight mill at Centerville. He retired a number of years ago. About two years ago Mr. Kenyon fractured his hip and had since been in failing health.

Following his years of service as a fifer in the Union army during the Civil war, Mr. Kenyon gave much of his spare time to playing in bands and orchestras. For years he was a piccolo player in the Quidnick band and also played a bass horn in that organization. For years he played a bass viol in orchestras of the Pawtuxet valley.

His greatest delight, however, was his fife, and for many years he played with fife and drum corps in political campaigns. His last participation as a fifer in a presidential campaign was about 16 years ago, when as a man over 75 years of age, he tramped all over Providence playing a fife in a parade intended to boom the republican candidate for president. For many years on Fourth of July mornings he turned out as a fifer with a drum corps from Crompton. After his health became such that he was unable to march his friends in the Crompton corps made a practice of assembling at his home on Fourth of July mornings and playing the series of stirring marching airs that he loved so well, Mr. Kenyon limbering up his fife on everyone of these occasions. On the evening of the day the armistice was signed the drum corps gathered at his home and played to his fifing of appropriate tunes.

Mr. Kenyon is survived by two daughters—Miss Mildred Kenyon and Mrs. Lucy Patterson. Mr. Kenyon formerly was a member of McGregor post, G. A. R., of Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Bassett of Broad street will be among those who will go from this section today (Wednesday) to Centerville to attend his funeral.

PUTNAM

Featuring Tuesday's proceedings in the superior court here was the filing, on behalf of Dr. Raymond C. Prisque, of Dayville, of an appeal from the action of the state board of health in revoking his license to practice medicine in Connecticut. The petition was presented to Judge Hinman by Attorney Samuel B. Harvey of Willimantic, counsel for Dr. Prisque, and who will have as his associate in handling the case Attorney Arthur M. Brown of Nrowich.

Dr. Prisque is one of the eclectic physicians whose license was revoked following a grand jury investigation at Hartford, of what has been familiarly known as a "diploma mill" Dr. Prisque received written notice of the revocation of his license on December 17. A petition signed by upwards of 1,200 residents of Dayville and other villages in the northern section of the town of Killingly was forwarded to Hartford in Dr. Prisque's behalf, this petition asking among other things, that very special investigation be made in dealing with the case of Dr. Prisque, that no injustice might be done him. The petition, it appears, did not arrive in time to make the impression it might have made if on hand a few days earlier.

Since the revocation of Dr. Prisque's license influential friends of his in Dayville have been seeking legal advice as to what course might be pursued to obtain reconsideration of the case. The appeal filed Tuesday will be heard during February. The case is the second of its kind to develop in Connecticut during the past few weeks, a similar appeal having been filed in Fairfield county in the interest of a Bridgeport physician.

Dr. Prisque's medical and surgical studies were made in the Kansas Allopathic college and in the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery. He was registered in Connecticut in 1921. Since establishing himself in Dayville, about a year ago, he built up a large practice covering various sections of the town of Killingly. Dr. Prisque is remaining at Dayville, awaiting the outcome of the appeal, the trying of which promises to provide a very interesting case.

What for all practical purposes may be considered the end of the January term of the superior court for the consideration of cases on the criminal list was reached after Tuesday's sitting, when Judge Winman ordered an indefinite recess. It was decided not to have the jury come in to consider the small amount of business that would be ready for trial, so some liquor cases likely will go over until the next term.

Tuesday, a nolle was announced in the case of the state vs Eddie Ostroski, of Webster, charged with manslaughter. Ostroski was the young man who was operating the motor vehicle that was in collision with a bicycle ridden by Al Lundstrum, well known wrestler, who died of the injuries he received in the accident after a game struggle for life in a Worcester hospital. A civil action for damages is pending in this case.

A nolle also was entered by the state attorney in the case of the state vs Charles Chandler, of this city. Chandler was charged with reckless operation of a motor vehicle, his being the case in which Officer Nerre Coderre of North Grosvenordale was run down one night last summer near that village and had his ear torn off by a machine Chandler was driving. Coderre was otherwise injured and spent some time in a Worcester hospital before being able to return to his home.

Arthur Randolph, one of the four young men involved in the raiding of the Dorothy Beebe place in Thompson, for liquors during the latter part of December, is going to pass into the hands fo Worcester officers as soon as he is released from Brokiyn jail. Randolph is wanted in Worcester to serve out 13 months of a prison sentence that he was doing when he escaped from custody and to do such additional time as a Massachusetts court may see fit to impose upon him for breaking jail.

Publicity recently given the episode in which Randolph was involved in Thompson attracted the attention of Worcester police. Representatives of the department were sent to Brooklyn jail to see Randolph and they established the fact that he is the man they want.

There is a possibility that Randolph's sentence of three months in Brooklyn jail may be modified in order that he may be turned over to the Worcester officers in the near future, but this had not been decided Tuesday.

It appears that Randolph located in Putnam some tme after escaping from the Massachusetts institution in which he was confined and has married since coming here.

Visions of re-establishing horse racing in Putnam are being seen by a number of local men, who love the sport and who believe that as conditions now are and with the widespread interest that exists in southern New England over light harness speeding that the venture can at least be made self supporting here and possibly very profitable.

At the present time consideration is being given to laying out a half mile track at Mantup farms, the beautiful country place of E. C. Rogers in the Gary district. Preliminary surveys have been made with a vew to ascertaining the best layout for a track over there. It also has been suggested that, if arrangements of a reasonable nature could be made, that the race track at the old fairgrounds be put back in condition. The track is grass grown, but has not been torn up and readily could be conditioned for the resumption of racing. Use of the fairgrounds would involve building stables, a grand stand and a judge's stand, but that also would be true in developing a track at Mantup farm. Decision in the whole matter will be awaited with keen interest by lovers of horse racing in all towns in eastern Connecticut.

It was pointed out Tuesday that Putnam is ideally located in its relation and geographical position to other cities on what is known as the Short Ship circuit, which has included such tracks as Woonsocket, Springfield, Windsor, Cherry Park, Norwich, etc. It is just far enough away from the other tracks to meet the requirements of the circuit in this respect and yet centrally located as to be very easy of access. The Putnam men who have the track building project in mind are enthusiastic sportsmen and it may not be too much to hope that the program will become a reality later in the present year. The racing season will open in June.

The filing here Tuesday of an approval of an application under which the temporary receivers of the Manhasset Manufacturing company are authorized to sell any or all the property of the concern is regarded as likely to bring about at an early date some interesting developments in the affairs of this largest of Putnam's industries.

December 27, before Judge Waldo Marvin in the superior court, there was a hearing on the receiver's application for authority to dispose of the property and equipment. The matter has since had the careful consideration of the court and the fact that the application has been approved is taken as indicating that some important developments in the affairs fo the concern may be anticipated for the not distant future.

There have been various stories, some seemingly with a foundation of truth, that certain important manufacturing interests would like to acquire the property of the Manhasset company, but no official statement as to this has been given out by those in a position to know.

The Putnam district has been allotted some of the new motor equipment for use by the repair crews of the state highway department.

At Tuesday's session of the superior court the case of the state vs Orient Ethier, he having been on probation, went off the list through indefinite suspension of sentence. The same action was taken in the case of the state vs Arthur Fournier, who also was on probation.

Road crews working on state highways out of this city are distributing gravel to cover little breaks in the road surface caused by the heavy rain and thaw of a few days ago and the accompanying heavy travel.

As indicating how motor trucks cut into the high class freight business of the railroads, it was stated by the representative of one of Putnam's wholesale provision firms that his concern now pays $20,000 annually to truckmen that formerly went into the coffers of the railroad company.

Miss Lillian Nuttall, who has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, has so far recovered as to be able to return to her home in Danielson.

THE reason is simple. Coffee and tea contain drugs which tend to irritate the delicate nervous system of children, and so upset health.

The Federal Bureau of Education includes in its rules to promote health among growing school children, the warning that "children should not drink tea or coffee at all."

Why confine the warning to children?

You are careful to protect the health of your children; why, then, take chances with your own health, when a change from coffee or tea is made so easy by Postum.

Postum

for Health

"There's a Reason"

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

DETOUR CONDITIONS.

The idea of having a highway department inspector in charge of detours, that they may be properly marked and maintained, will have a specially strong appeal to the many drivers of automobiles who have had experience in getting around road construction work.

Detours have been the cause of wrecking an otherwise perfectly good disposition because of the extra distance that has to be covered but particularly because of the wretched conditions that are in many instances encountered. It seems to be the case in many instances that most anything is regarded as an adequate detour that will permit of a "detour" sign being erected though rutty, rough and swampy roadbed may be offered, or many miles of extra driving required through failure at a proper point to indicate to the road users what is to be expected.

Frequently are contracts let with the understanding that the roads must be kept open during construction, and signs to that effect are maintained, only for those who attempt to use them at their own risk to find that the work makes it absolutely impossible for a machine to get through. This is a condition that has existed in spite of the weekly reports concerning the progress of road improvement work. Signs which advise taking other roads, though passage is said to be possible, are misleading. Either it should be possible for road users to get through or they should be correctly informed before they get into the midst of roadbuilding activities which bar all progress. Signs that indicate that users can travel at their own risk should be placed only on roads where travel is actually possible.

As long as road betterment work is being done it cannot be expected that the detour can be eliminated, but there is much relief that can be furnished through the services of an inspector who will look after the condition of detours and see that they are properly marked not only at both ends but at any crossroads that may happen to lie between such points. Anything that can be done to relieve the annoyance of the detour will be warmly welcomed.

GENERAL DAWES' PLEA.

General Charles G. Dawes has the reputation of hitting straight out from the shoulder and that is what he did when, following his selection as chairman of the committee of experts named by the reparations committee, he addressed the committee members briefly. It was a plea for action, for a sincere endeavor to get results, rather than a feeble attempt that would mean no more than the wasting of so much time. He said some pointed things regarding his view of what has led up to the present situation and he urged the application of "common sense and practical cooperation among the nations" in order to get Germany back onto its feet.

He takes the view that while there may be no disposition to cut down or abandon the reparation demands, it must be realized that, in view of the conditions that are indicated in Germany, until there is a restoration of the productivity of that country it is useless to expect it to pay. His aim is to get the committee and the allies to recognize the fact that there must be a restoration of the economic processes of Germany with a currency that has been stabilized. Instead of having them take unalterable positions relative to what should be done with Germany or how it should be made to pay he urges a getting together, quite the same as they stood united during the period of war.

General Dawes wasn't speaking for the purpose of putting forth just fine words. His endeavor was to get the committee and those they represent to concentrate on the preliminaries. He stressed the point that once Germany is put in a productive condition, even though its getting away from that condition may have been chiefly its own fault, there will be something upon which to base its capacity to pay and something on which it can be expected to pay. In view of the wrecked condition there is now need of beginning at the foundation, in the opinion of General Dawes.

There is no question but what he is advocating an important element when he urges common sense and it is to be hoped that conditions in Europe are not such that it will be ignored.

SQUARE DEALS COUNT.

Frequent instances arise to show the importance of properly testing weighing and measuring devices. Short weight is unfair to the buyer and overweight is unjust to the seller unless intentionally done. For all to be satisfied and get what they are entitled to weights and measures should be correct.

That they are not always so is an old story. Out in Indiana there are frequent tests of the pumps at the numerous filling stations for the purpose of determining whether full measure is being received. Some filling stations are used much more than others but out of a total of 310 that were recently tested it was found that there were 92 that were not pumping the correct amount of gasoline. This didn't always result to the detriment of the buyer of gas, for while there were 74 that were delivering short measure, anywhere from a tenth of a pint to a pint and a half for each gallon, there were 18 pumps at which the buyer was getting more than he paid for.

With such a large proportion of these measuring devices missing the mark there is not only ground for frequent inspections by state authorities, but for daily tests on the part of the operators of such stations. Inasmuch as the pumps are liable to go astray in the way of excess measure even as they are in giving short measure, the situation calls for careful oversight. The method of measuring out gasoline by pumps is much more satisfactory than handling it with gallon or five-gallon measures. Certainly the purchaser doesn't want to carry around a standard measure to insure that he is getting what he pays for, and neither does he plan to go back to a filling station where it is known that short measure is being given.

A square deal for all is what brings satisfaction and none too great care can be exercised in seeing that weighing and measuring devices are giving it at all times.

DEPLORABLE LOSSES.

From far and near come reports of those who have lost or nearly lost their lives by venturing on ponds where the ice was not of sufficient thickness to sustain their weight. Their eagerness to skate got the better of their judgment. They were unwilling to resist the temptation, took unwarranted chances and the result is a loss of human life that is needless and deplorable.

The drowning of a boy at Hallville, the narrow escape of another at Fitchville and the frequent accounts from numerous points telling of the drowning of some skater, with two narrowly escaping, or the drowning of brothers after one went to the rescue of the other are but repetitions of what happens every year when mild weather makes the venturing onto the ice so decidedly dangerous, especially here the water is deep.

Warnings against such chance taking should be expected from the parents, while there is also that same opportunity offered in the schoolroom, that arises in connection with safety measures in the highways, to direct attention to the hazard that exists and the extreme penalty that is involved.

Healthy, robust, sport loving boys like nothing better than to get onto the ice at the earliest possible moment. There's something fascinating even about being the first, and in most instances it is done without a serious regard for what is liable to happen. Like those who fail to stop, look and listen at the railroad crossing there are too many who disregard the wisdom of waiting until the ice is thick enough. The chief test that they make is to plunge in and in too many instances it is then too late to escape.

It is lamentable that such a large number of lives are sacrificed each year in such a manner, when a bit of properly restrained enthusiasm would prevent it.

READING PUBLIC PULSE.

Cleaning up the countryside by the removal of the unsightly billboards is a movement that is getting support in other countries than this. How strong the sentiment is running in that direction is recognized by large oil companies in England, which have decided to remove their boards without waiting for such action as that which has been taken in Minnesota for instance, where the authorities are engaged in the enforcement of an anti-billboard law in that state by tearing down and burning that which are found within the limits of the highways.

Wherever the movement against the billboards gets to the point of legislating against them it cannot fail to become apparent to those who are responsible for their erection that they are highly undesirable and that the best judgment is shown in voluntarily doing away with them. Many cities have long since found it necessary to apply restrictions to the size and location of such boards for posters. Whatever the value attached to them, it is clear that they are regarded as a detriment to adjoining property.

No one can be blamed for not wanting his property shut off by such wooden walls, and those who go into or through the country are not desirous of having their views blocked or shut off by such devices. Whether they travel by train or by auto there is opposition to having the scenic beauty marred and the English owners of big boards are apparently responding to the demand without offering resistance.

SETTING HIM STRAIGHT

"Isn't there a sort of belt or something to it?" wistfully inquired the dutiful husband who had been ordered to gaze upon his wife's new gown and admire it. "Aren't you women ever going to get tired of wearing these straight-up-and-down bags?"

"My goodness no!" declared the exasperated wife. "But we're getting good and tired of having you men sob about them! If there is a husband in this land who is not sold to the idea that lovely woman never looked so well as when she wore a coat and full skirt, a stiff white shirt waist with a high collar, a tight leather belt strapped in a few inches below her arms and a coat iron sailor hat, well, I'd travel many a mile just to look at the wonder! Thus attired a woman was no more shaped as she was meant to be shaped than a pressed fig is like the real one on the tree! She has an eighteen-inch waist instead of the thirty-inch one that the Lord originally handed her and she took it out in nerves or temper or gentle faints. When you see a picture of a woman in that brand of attire it makes you short of breath and stiff jointed.

"I wish some daring woman would unpack some of the old trunks in the attic and climb into a rig like that and ask her husband to take a walk with her right out in public—he'd have apoplexy, such would be his horror. He'd insist that the style was all right and the most beautiful and becoming on earth, but he guessed she hadn't got the garments on right or something. Anyhow, for Pete's sake, take 'em off!

"Even that experience wouldn't disabuse them of the idea. It's of a piece with their ecstatic memories of the first girl they ever loved, who remains an airy fairy in their minds even after they have met her weighing 300 and followed by six assorted children. Milly Flycatcher says that whenever she puts on a silver brocade evening gown without any sleeves and draped around her slender figure most artistically her husband invariably says he supposes it is all right—but that if she wants to look her best she really should put on something like that suit she wore when they took their wedding trip with a nice leather belt around her real waist and a fresh white shirt waist and a natty sailor hat.

"Hortense Marblehead is a wonderfully nice woman, but she has a face like a full moon and a snub nose and she is unfortunate enough to have a husband who says continually that the only proper and becoming mode of hairdressing for a woman who wishes to look her best is parted in the middle, drawn down softly over her ears and knotted in the back. It does not do the remotest particle of good to explain to him that there is about one woman in 11,000 who can dress her hair after that fashion and get away with it.

"Hortense says with tears in her eyes that she'd die before she'd ever let her George see her with her limp, tan locks draped in that fashion. She tried it once and after one glance into the mirror she lapsed into a state of coma for several hours. She says she looked like nothing on earth so much as a tub of butter with a stage washerwoman's bonnet crowning it, that her face was a mile broad and her nose angled up several degrees farther than it actually is.

"With a marcel and fluffy coiffure Hortense is real nice to look at, but you can't pound that into George's head. He says if she would dress her hair as he wants her to she would be a really beautiful woman!

"The average woman, parting her hair thus and drawing it down changes her countenance so that she faintly reminds the observer of a horse's face. George Eliot's picture, for example.

"And sailor hats, my stars! If there was anything that a hat should not be a sailor hat is it! It is hard and tight and just as much work to balance on one's head as the Woolworth building. And if you wear it in a restaurant every time you cnew daintily, the muscles in your temples make the sailor hat rise in the air and sink down again until all through the meal your headgear resembles the billowy ocean as a ship passes along! But what makes me maddest is your claiming that a perfectly lovely, graceful, easy, stylish dress like this isn't——"

"Oh, but it is!" hurriedly declared the abashed husband. "I tell you it certainly is!"

"Is what?" demanded the exasperated wife cruelly.

"Whatever you think it is!" declared the abashed husband triumphantly. There did not seem to be anything more for her to say after that —Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

State Highway Needed in Ledyard.

Mr. Editor—The people of Ledyard all pay their taxes and many own automobiles, and they are sadly in need of a state road. The town is within 7 miles of New London, one of its county seats, and has but one good road, and that on its west side or river bank. What is badly needed is a good road through the central districts. Of course those in the eastern section want it there, and all would like to have it past their houses. We are informed the state has made an appropriation for us to have a road. The center of the town is about four or five miles from the river highway, so it is sadly needed here. We are informed that some individuals will contribute to the expense of a good road. As other towns have good state roads why should Ledyard be left out? All in the town should be interested.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

Whether or not connected with his trade or business, a loss sustained by reason of fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty is a deductible item. The term "other casualty," within the meaning of the statute, is one which arises from the physical forces of nature; for example a flood or frost. If a taxpayer's home or automobile is destroyed by fire, or if his summer bungalow is damaged by a storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained. Allowance, of course, must be made for any insurance received.

In event of a collision between a truck and an automobile used for pleasure or convenience, the owner of the truck may claim a deduction for damages, provided at the time the truck was being used for business purposes. No deductions is allowed the owner of the automobile, because the car was not being used for business; neither is it a "casualty" as defined above. Amounts expended by owners of automobiles used for pleasure or convenience in repairing damages thereto caused by negligent operation do not constitute deductible losses.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is deductible, also a loss for embezzlement. Ordinarily a loss from embezzlement or theft occurring in one year and discovered in another is deductible for the year in which sustained.

Losses in legal transactions are not deductible.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

It is announced that Siegfried Wagner, son of the great composer, is sailing for America today to raise funds to aid in a revival of the famous Bayreuth festival. Although far from attaining the heights reached by his father, the younger Wagner has inherited some of the musical genius of his parents—his mother was the daughter of the great Liszt—and has done some creditable work as an operatic composer. For many years he devoted himself entirely to the study of music, and he and his gifted mother presided over the Wagner festivals at Bayreuth. When he was a boy his father discouraged his love for music, and he was put to study architecture. The great Richard could find no room for encouragement in the early musical compositions of his son, and bade him learn how to build opera houses, and leave to others the work of writing the operas. But the boy's mother gave him the advantage of study under the best masters, and soon he developed skill as a conductor and composer.

Stories That Recall Others

"There, Little Girl—"

Funny things happen on the telephone as the following conversation reveals. The number was given and rung.

"Hello," was the response.

"Hello, is Boo there?"

"Boo, who?"

"Don't cry, little girl, I guess I have the wrong number."

Didn't Say.

Little Joe who now has five autumns behind him, was met the other day by an old friend of the family.

"Well, Joe," said the friend, "I hear you have a new baby at your house?"

"Yep," Joe admitted.

"How long's he going to stay" queried the friend.

"Dunno, he didn't say" was the laconic response.

DENIAL OF MRS. HOPPE'S APPLICATION FOR ALIMONY

New York, Jan. 15.—The aplication of Mrs. William F. Hoppe for alimony and counsel fees pending trial of the suit for absolute divorce brought by her husband, World's Champion Billiard Player was denied today by Supreme Court Justice Guy insofar as the alimony was concerned.

The suit was begun by Hoppe two weeks after his wife, already separated from him, went to court to get the custody of their son.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

Do Heavy Meals Begin to Tell?

Follow Your Meals With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They Give Stomach the Alkaline Effect That Prevents Gassiness and Sour Risings.

Those old-time husky eaters often fall down on a glass of milk or a doughnut, the stomach is heavy, fills with gas, is sour and woefully dyspeptic. Truth is, it had just such attacks always, but they didn't last. Now the stomach needs help and the best thing you can do is to fortify your meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They give the stomach the alkaline effect, they help it to digest food, they give it materials to do this with, they absorb the gas, stop acidity, relieve pressure, and no matter whether it is pork and cabbage, pie and cheese, sausages and buckwheats or steak and onions, your stomach works without distress and you have none of those troubles due to indigestion or dyspepsia. Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. Then eat and be merry.

Preston Parent-Teachers.

The Preston Parent-Teachers' association held its January meeting last week at the Poquetanuck schoolhouse, the usual routine business being transacted. The committees appointed for February were: Program, Mrs. Henry J. Gallup and Mrs. Appleton Maine; refreshments, Miss Phebe Mansfield and Mrs. Thomas Nagle. Committees were also named to plan for an entertainment to be given in the spring.

A roll call followed, all present responding with an anecdote, quotation or song. Refreshments were served.

One Thin Woman Gained 10 Pounds In 22 Days

SKINNY MEN CAN DO THE SAME

All weak men and women,
All nervous men and women,
All skinny men and women
Can grow stronger, healthier and take on weight in 30 days by just taking McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets four times a day—as easy to take as candy.

And what a hit these flesh producing tablets have made—every druggist is selling more and more of them every day.

Everybody knows that nasty-tasting, evil-smelling Cod Liver Oil is chock full of vitamines and is a wonderful flesh producer and strength creator.

But who wants to swallow the horrible stuff when these wonderful tablets—McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—are just as good and so easy to take.

A box of 60 tablets for 60 cents—and if any thin man or woman don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days—money back. Ask Lee & Osgood Co. or any good druggist anywhere.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Henry Lyon.

After an illness of about one week the life of Aurelia Sutliff Lyon, widow of Henry Lyon, came to a close at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning at her home No. 44 Perkins avenue.

Mrs. Lyon was born in Norwich, December 27, 1850, the daughter of Nathan R. and Abby Jane Hill Bennett. She was a graduate of the Broadway grammar school and the Free Academy.

In 1869 she was united in marriage with Levi Sutliff and as a result of this union one daughter survives, Mrs. Edith Sutliff Talbot. Mr. Sutliff passed away in 1880 and in 1890 Mrs. Sutliff was married to Henry Lyon who passed away some years ago. There were no children by the second marriage. Besides an only daughter, Mrs. Lyon is survived by two grandsons, Levi Sutliff Talbot and Orrin S. Talbot, both of this city. Mrs. Lyon was the last of her immediate family.

For many years she had been a member of the United Congregational church and took great interest in church affairs. She had also been teacher in the Sunday school of the church for many years. Mrs. Lyon was a member of the Norwich Round Table and Faith Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R.

Her kindly disposition had gained for her many friends who will learn of her death with profound sorrow. The family has lost a loved one whose place will be hard to fill and they have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

There was an attendance of about 100 at the January meeting of Home Chapter of the King's Daughters, held Monday afternoon at the Johnson Home. This also was the annual business meeting, at which reports were submitted by the secretary, treasurer, corresponding secretary, and the following committees: Membership, work and flower.

A nominating committee comprising Mrs. C. Eugene Saunders, Mrs. Flora O. Noyes and Miss Maria S. Briggs, presented the names of the following officers: Leader, Mrs. William E. Manning; vice-leader, Mrs. Charles R. Crosby; secretary, Mrs. Alfred W. Davis; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Branche; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward Briggs. The committees appointed were: Flower, Miss Elizabeth Ortman; work, Mrs. Neville Elliot; refreshment, Mrs. David M. Dean.

The retiring leader, Mrs. John C. Atterbury, presided at the meeting and addressed the chapter in a pleasing manner thanking the members for their co-operation during the past three years, and expressing regret that she was unable to accept the invitation to continue as leader as owing to other business her time was so filled that it seemed impossible to do so. In conclusion Mrs. Atterbury wished the chapter every success in the future.

The meeting was closed by the new leader, Mrs. Manning, to whom the honors were relinquished by Mrs. Atterbury.

During the social hour, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the retiring chairman of the refreshment committee, Mrs. Earle H. Christman, who has efficiently filled this office for several years.

THEFT OF CLOTH FROM MILL PROVES COSTLY

Frank Loike of Franklin was found guilty in the city court Tuesday morning before Judge A. F. Libby of the theft of 730 yards of cloth from the United States Finishing Co., where he had been employed for about a year. The court sentenced him to make restitution of the value of the cloth, $230, and pay a fine of $100. He was also given a 30 day jail sentence which is suspended for a year.

Thomas McCarthy of Niantic, whose case had been continued from the day before, when he was in court on the charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was found not guilty and was discharged. His machine struck and moved the flashing beacon about 25 feet Saturday night at the corner of Main and Cliff streets.

Officer Michael Carroll, who arrested Mr. McCarthy, Sergeant Thomas Murphy, who was at the desk when he was brought in, and Dr. C. Freeman, who examined him, testified to his intoxicated condition. Dr. Savage of New London, who said he was riding with McCarthy, testified that he was not under the influence of liquor and was supported by several other citizens. Attorney John C. Geary defended Mr. McCarthy.

NORWICH BUILDING LOAN SHOWS GOOD BUSINESS IN PAST YEAR

R. O. RODIER
Re-elected President

Ernest O. Rodier was re-elected president of the Norwich Building and Loan Association at the association's annual meeting held Tuesday evening in the rooms of the Norwich chamber of commerce. The attendance taxed the capacity of the rooms. A 5½ per cent. dividend was declared at the meeting and nearly 200 shares were taken out in the new series. Opportunity for new shares in this thriving association may be taken advantage of during the present month and until the next meeting. Regular meetings are held on the third Tuesday of each month.

The assets of the association total $134,295.92. The mortgage loans all issued for homes, total $120,025. Over 50 mortgage loans are now in force. The state bank examiners periodically inspect the books and financial transactions of the association so that investors and borrowers are fully protected by law. Many prominent persons of the community are members of the association.

The association affords the people of Norwich an opportunity to invest their savings on interest at five and a half per cent.. It encourages monthly, systematic savings in an organization controlled by local men who are elected by the share holders. It provides a sure and safe means for persons in moderate circumstances to buy or build their own homes. The association is empowered by the state to loan up to three-fourths of the appraised value of the property. The business of the association is conducted purely on the cooperative plan. The annual financial statement shows the following assets and liabilities:

Assets—Mortgage loans, $120,025; share loans, $7,985; furniture and fixtures, $40; cash, $4,130.92; petty cash, $10; delinquent dues $2,105; total $134,295.92.

STATE POLICE POSITION FOR ROBERT H. CHURCH

Hartford, Jan. 15.—The appointment of five new state police officers was announced today by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley. With the addition to these five men to the department the entire number is brought up to seventy-seven, including officers, inspectors and sergeants. There remain three vacancies to be filled before the strength authorized by the last legislature is reached. The list of new officers, with their previous experience and last occupations follows:

Robert E. Anderson, New Britain, Shipping clerk.

Robert H. Church, Norwich. Salesman.

Kenneth H. Kingrose, South Manchester. Electrical worker.

The men have been ordered to report for duty January 17, when they will begin their course of training.

Robert H. Church, the new appointee from this city, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Church, 125 Laurel Hill avenue. He has recently been employed as a salesman and before that served here as prohibition enforcement officer.

Given Surprise Shower.

The bride-to-be received many beautiful gifts of linen, silverware, cut glass, china, electrical appliances and household articles. Following the opening of the presents, instrumental music was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

BODY OF DROWNED BOY IS RECOVERED

About 3 o'clock Monday afternoon searchers found the body of Henry Baron, 11 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baron, in the Hallville pond. The boy left his home during the early morning to go skating on the pond. He failed to appear at school and did not appear at his home at dinner time. Becoming alarmed members of the family and friends started a search. The party of searchers went to the pond, knowing that the boy had gone there to skate, and noticing a hole in the tain ice, they secured a boat. The body was found near the hole. His cap was found on the ice near the hole.

Dr. N. B. Lewis, medical examiner for the town of Preston, conducted an investigation, and Cummings & Ring were given permission to remove the body. The boy was born in Jewey City but for some time past the family have lived in Hallville, where Mr. Baron is employed as a second hand in the Hallville mill. The boy was the son of Walter and Rose Baron. Besides his parents he leaves five sisters, Cecelia, Stella, Julia, Helen and Josephine Baron.

LEADERS HOLD PLACES IN LADIES' PINOCHLE

There were but few changes in the standing of members of the Norwich Ladies' Pinochle club as the result of the playing Tuesday evening at the office of Dr. Marie Boynton on Main street.

Mrs. L. Maples with high score of 8,585 continued in first place and Mrs. Washburn second with 8,465 remained in the same position in the standing.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PARK CHURCH SOCIETY

The annual meeting of Park Congregational Church Society was held Tuesday evening in the church chapel with H. A. Tirrell of the society committee presiding. The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and approved. Last year's committee comprised F. S. Bunnell, H. A. Tirrell, Weston C. Pullen and George L. Ingalls. With the exception of Mr. Ingalls, who retires this year, they will remain in office the coming year. To succeed Mr. Ingalls Hibberd R. Norman was elected a member of the committee for a term of four years. W. Manley Eastwood was elected clerk of the committee to succeed John T. Almy, who has been clerk for a number of years and who asked to be relieved. Eben L. Learned was re-elected treasurer and H. D. Johnson auditor. The trust fund committee was re-elected as follows: Oliver L. Johnson, Charles R. Butts and Frank H. Pullen.

The society committee will elect its chairman at a later meeting.

HALLVILLE TROLLEY ENDS ITS SERVICE TO PUBLIC

The Hallville branch of the Shore Line Electric Railway Co. ended its service to the public Tuesday night when Motorman Baral made the last trip of the night, at 10.30 from Franklin square to the barn at Hallville. Motorman Eccleston, who was the operator of the one-man car that has been used on the line, made his last run Monday.

These have been the two employes on the line as no repair force was kept at the barn at Hallville, but repairmen came up once a week from Mystic to do the necessary work.

Today (Wednesday) the cars will be run to Mystic over the Connecticut Co. tracks, through this city and over the Montville line, the Thames river bridge and the Groton and Stonington line.

In the spring, Receiver Robert W. Perkins said Tuesday night, the rails of the Hallville line will be torn up and the moveable property and equipment disposed of.

Announce Daughter's Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. George Treadwell of Bliss street, Hartford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Olive Beatrice Treadwell to Mason A. Newker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward La Bonte of Columbia Lake, [illegible].

At Quonochontaug, Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. Burdick have returned from their wedding trip and are at their home on East Beach road.

OVER 40 PUREBRED BULLS PLACED IN [illegible] COUNTY

That the purebred bull campaign is meeting good success in New London County may be seen from the announcement made Tuesday evening by Prof. Simms of the College of Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs, that to date approximately 40 bulls have been placed on farms in this county. The campaign is being carried on by the New London County Farm Bureau with the assistance of the following cattle experts:

W. A. Kyle of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Brattleboro, Vt., R. L. Holden of the American Guernsey Cattle club, Peterboro, N. H., M. C. Peabody of the New England Holstein association, Springfield, Angus P. Thorne, president of the Connecticut Holstein Friesin association, Walter T. Clark, county agent for this county, and Prof. J. A. Simms of Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs.

With reference to the campaign Professor Simms of Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs,

With reference to the campaign Prof. Simms said Tuesday evening: "Forty bulls have been placed in this county up to the first of the week and up to tonight several other dairymen have asked for help in securing bulls. We are aiming at the complete eradication of scrub bulls and expect to pass, by June 1st, the high record made by Blue Earth County, Minn., which holds the highest record of any county in the United States in the matter of placing purebred bulls. A total of 166 purebred bulls have been placed there."

Monday night Myron Hoxie presided over a meeting at Lebanon which brought out an attendance of 50 in spite of the fact that the meeting had but little advertising. Mr. Holden showed a number of lantern slides visualising the good qualities of purebred cattle. Prof. Simms described the work in the county and told what it is hoped to accomplish by June.

Senator C. E. Hough, manager of the Connecticut Milk Producers association, gave a very interesting talk in which he brought out the fact that dairymen sending through his association are securing the highest price for milk of any organized dairymen's association in America. He further stated that the dairymen need not ope for further increase in the price of milk, and that more profit must come from the use of higher producing cows. His personal experience coupled with that of progressive dairymen everywhere has proved that the high producing cows are best secured through the use of purebred bulls of quality from which the best heifer calves are grown.

A meeting was held recently at the church vestry in Leffingwell with 15 present. A lantern slide lecture was given by Prof. Simms and County Agent Clark gave a talk on the work being done in the county.

Monday evening a meeting was held in Pachaug Grange hall with a lantern slide lecture and talks by Mr. Kyle and County Agent Clark. George G. Grant of Taftville, a prominent Ayrshire breeder of this county, was present. That town will be canvassed by individual farm visits Thursday.

Visits have been made in the vicinity of Leffingwell by Mr. Kyle, County Agent Clark and H. E. Beard. Definite arrangements have been made for the purchase of one purebred bull and it is expected that a second purebred bull will be secured within the near future.

Meetings scheduled for the remainder of the week follow:

Friday evening, Preston church.

NOLLE IS ENTERED IN OSWEGATCHIE LIQUOR CASE

Late Tuesday afternoon here in the superior court before Judge C. L. Avery, acting state attorney Warren Burrows moved for a nolle in the case of Mrs. Edna Manwaring, proprietor of the Oswegatchie house in Waterford, whose case had been continued from the September term of court on the charge of violation of the liquor law.

Attorney Burrows stated to the court that his thorough examination of all the evidence in the hands of the state as well as outside evidence that was available had convinced him that he would not be justified in putting Mrs. Manwaring on trial on the charges that had been made against her. Judge Avery directed that the nolle be entered. Attorney Burrows also mentioned, although he said this did not constitute a promise in the case, that the proprietor was to rent the place hereafter.

After court adjourned attorneys for Mrs. Manwaring explained that it was her intention to rent the casino part of the establishment, but that she would continue to conduct this fashionable summer resort as before.

Charges of keeping liquor with intent to sell and of keeping a place with the reputation of selling liquor were made against Mrs. Manwaring after a police raid at the Oswegatchie casino in the midst of a jolly party that was celebrating the closing night of the season, on Aug. 29th last. A negro waited named Percival White was charged with making a sale of liquor.

When Mrs. Manwaring was placed under bail at the September session of court, her attorneys made the claim that if there had been any liquor sold at the place, it had been without her knowledge and against her express orders.

Attorneys Thomas R. Troland and Arthur M. Brown were in court on her behalf when the nolle was entered.

FINE OF $750 FOR HARTFORD TRUCK DRIVER

Meyer Dobin of Hartford was fined $750 in the criminal superior court here Tuesday morning by Judge C. L. Avery when he pleaded guilty to statutory manslaughter in having caused the death of Jack Jospie on the Colchester road on Aug. 5. Jospie was thrown from a motor truck which Dobin was driving when it collided with another machine and ran into a fence.

Joseph Ledecker of Jewett City was presented on the charge of violating the liquor laws and pleaded guilty. Attorney Thomas M. Shields spoke to the court on his behalf and Ledecke was fined $50 and costs and sent to jail for 30 days.

Dr. Charles A. Gasson of Waterford was put on trial on the charge of performing illegal medical operations upon four women and sending instructions through the mail to another. He pleaded not guilty. The case is prosecuted by Attorney Warren Burrows and The [illegible] the doctor [illegible] C. D. Morgan [illegible] Smith, attorneys.

Upon motion of Attorney Burrows, all those not connected with the trial were excluded from the court room, Sheriff Brown and Deputy Sheriff Stanton clearing the benches of all except witnesses.

Mrs. Nellie Brown of New London was the first witness, telling of an operation which Dr. Gasson attempted with her. Clinton B. F. Brown, her husband, also gave testimony.

In the afternoon session of court Dr. Joseph M. Ganey, New London who has charge of all the maternity cases at the Lawrence hospital in New London, testified to knowing Amy Havens who had come to his office with her mother last September for an examination as a result of which he issued a diagnosis. The girl had come at the request of her attorney, who it was brought out in cross examination was Attorney Lawless. Dr. Ganey said further on cross examination, there was nothing said about getting money out of a man, but the girl wanted the man in the case to marry her. An x-ray examination at this time, said Dr. Ganey, would not have been conclusive, and there was no examination later by him.

Amy J. Haven who was 20 last November and has lived in New London practically all her life testified to places where she has worked in New London and told of her symptoms before she went to Dr. Ganey's office. As a result of the visit to the doctor's office she brought proceedings against some man and $200 was paid to her in settlement.

She told of going to Dr. Gasson's house on Sept. 7, arriving about 8 p. m. The doctor answered the bell and took her into his office. She related the conversation that occurred in which she said that the doctor wanted to be sure she didn't come from the New London police and he would not agree to do anything for her until she gave him the name of some girl, who had been to see him. She gave the name of Nellie Fitzgerald, who the witness said she had heard had been to see Dr. Gasson. The doctor looked over a book and said the Fitzgerald girl had been there. Then he gave the witness an examination and told her to come again the following Monday, which was Sept. 10. When went there that night, the witness said she was taken into the kitchen by Dr. Gasson who told her this was because another girl who had expected to leave had not gone owing to the non-arrival of the bus. The witness said she heard the other girl talking, but didn't see her. The operation for which she went to him was performed the next morning, the witness said, and she described how it was performed by Dr. Gasson. She stayed at Dr. Gasson's from Monday until the Sunday following and went to work a week later. She paid the doctor $100. Some time after she had left Dr. Gasson's she was taken sick and went to Dr. Lee's office. The witness told of her arrest, her stay in the custody of Mrs. Alice Hung, the New London police woman, a visit to Dr. Lee's office with County Investigator Lewis and a stay in the Lawrence hospital for treatment.

On cross examination the witness said she didn't know anything about a policeman having been stationed at the hospital while she was there until the hospital authorities objected and had the policeman taken away. She denied that she had discussed with Mrs. Hunt what she was to testify to at the trial. She said that the doctor told her he had performed a similar operation to hers on the girl who was leaving the night she came to the doctor's house. She denied that she was testifying under any promises from the state attorney's department.

Miss Havens was on the point of fainting when she finished her direct examination and she was helped from the court room during a recess by Mrs. Hunt. She came near fainting again during the cross examination but rallied and was able to continue answering the questions asked her.

Trial of the case will be resumed Thursday morning.

LUNGS SORE FROM COUGHING Cured by ALLEN'S LUNG HEALER

Mr. Alfred Husson of 17 Cedar St. Lynn, Has Found This Remedy a Friend in Need.

Mr. H. J. Allen:

Dear Sir:—I have used Allen's Lung Healer a number of years and as I have always found it very effective in all kinds of coughs, and colds, especially on the lungs. I want to tell you that I would not be without it in the house.

It was recommended to me at a time when I was suffering from a deep-seated cold on the lungs which had run me down badly. At times I was unable to work because of the distress in my lungs from coughing. The first bottle greatly relieved me and the second cured me entirely so that I felt like a different man. I consider it a most remarkable and reliable lung and cough medicine.

Gratefully yours,
ALFRED HUSSON,
17 Cedar St., Lynn.

NORWICH MAY HAVE SEMI-PRO TEAM ON DIAMOND THIS COMING SEASON

According to baseball gossip that is current in the local stove league this winter there is a strong possibility that Norwich will be represented on the baseball map this coming season by a strong semi-pro team. If this is true, it is welcome news for local fans were sadly disappointed, not to say disgusted, with the baseball that was played at the fairgrounds last season. There is nothing that can be learned to confirm the rumor that a team will be put on here but the persistency with which it bobs up at frequent intervals leads local fans to believe that it is a case of "where there is smoke there is fire."

From the meagre information that can be gathered the plan is to interest 30 or 40 local men, who are interested in sports, in the project. These men are to kick in with a small sum to finance the team for the season and at the end of the season the profits will be divided according to the amount invested. It is also planned to have a manager for the team who will have sole power of hiring the players and the conduct of the team on the field. Several names have already been mentioned for this job, but all refuse to state whether they have been approached on the matter or not.

The team, according to rumor, will be made up of semi-pro players who will be under contract to the club, thus avoiding such a mess as was made of it in this the team that represented Norwich last year. The players, as many as possible, will be brought to Norwich and employment found for them in the city thus giving them a chance to play Saturday afternoon ball with other teams in this section thereby increasing their revenue. The club will play Sunday baseball and possibly will play one game during the week, probably on Thursday afternoon if the stores close during July and August.

This is the rumor as it is going the rounds and it is meeting with favor and a hope that it will prove to be true. Norwich fans apparently want good baseball in Norwich and will support a team if it is properly conducted. The last season that a semi-pro team was put on here the returns were very gratifying and some of the best baseball that Norwich has ever seen was put on. However, last year the game in Norwich received a body blow owing to the way the team was conducted and the people of Norwich treated.

The Norwich fans appreciate good baseball and will support it, but it is a cinch that no one can put anything over on them, as was demonstrated last season. With the fans assured of who is going to play in the games and with a team that is the same every week they will turn out to the games. Last year certain players were advertised but when the game was played none of them was present. This naturally created a feeling of distrust for the management with the result that the patronage at the games was small.

If the plan, as outlined above, is strictly carried out it will insure the fans of a good team and will get the confidence of the fans. If the club gives good baseball Norwich fans can be depended upon to support the sport in this town, and those who are reported as backing the movement can rest assured that they will have given satisfaction. It is hoped the plan goes through.

ANOTHER INDOOR LEAGUE HAS BEEN ORGANIZED

At the state armory on Tuesday evening another indoor baseball league was organized with six teams. The previous league which closed last week was a success and it was the desire of the teams participating in the previous league to start a new organization with two or more teams, making a six-team league.

The two new teams to come into the league were the Riverview club and the Whirlwinds of Thamesville. The other teams in the league will be Battery B, Combat Train, Spencer's Colts and the Nuggets. A schedule will be drawn up and the league will probably open on next Monday evening. The schedule will be published later in the week.

INTERNATIONAL POLO SLATED FOR SEPTEMBER

New York, Jan. 15.—The international matches between Great Britain and America for the Hurlingham cup, historic polo trophy, will be held during the first two weeks of September at the Meadow Brook club, Westbury, N. Y., it was decided today at the annual meeting of the polo association.

The association now has a membership of 76 clubs, an increase of 19 during the past year, with eight pending applications. The addition of 400 players has brought the ranks of competitors to 2,200.

A change in the regulations governing junior polo title play will permit six-goal men to compete in this class, which formerly was limited to five-goal players. The team maximum of 20 goals was unchanged.

Louis E. Stoddard of New York, was reelected chairman of the association. J. Ford Johnson, Jr., and J. Cheever Cowdin, both of New York, were elected secretary and treasurer. The executive committee, with these officers, will be composed of Carleton H. Burke, Los Angeles; A. P. Collins and Major John Groome of Philadelphia; Prentiss L. Coonley, Chicago; W. Cameron Forbes and Dudley P. Rogers, Boston; Col. J. R. Lindsey, Washington; W. A. Harriman, Devereux Milburn and J. Watson Webb, New York; Robert E. Strawbridge, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; H. E. Talbott, Jr., Dayton, O.; Major Louis A. Beard, Washington.

TAYLOR EXONERATED FROM BLAME FOR JEROME'S DEATH

New York, Jan. 15.—The exoneration of Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., bantamweight boxer, from blame in connection with the death of Frankie Jerome, who was knocked out by Taylor last Friday night at Madison Square Garden, closed official investigation of the case today.

Taylor was exonerated after an hour's examination by Assistant District Attorney Morgan A. Jones, in charge of the homicide bureau. Yesterday a verdict of accidental death had been rendered after an autopsy.

Taylor testified that after the eleventh round of the fight, when Jerome was floored for the first time, Taylor's manager, Eddie Long, warned him not to strike any more blows to the head. Taylor said he complied with these instructions, the knockout coming in the twelfth and last round after a series of punches to the body.

Representatives of the state athletic commission, including Walter Hooke, deputy commissioner, and Dr. William Walker, official physician, told the assistant district attorney that examination of Jerome Friday afternoon showed him to be in good fighting condition. They also said the injured boxer was given every aid after his knockout and until he was taken to a hospital, where he died Sunday night after an operation for cerebral hemorrhage.

WILLS-TAYLOR BOUT AT HARTFORD POSTPONED

New York, Jan. 15.—An injury to his right hand sustained in training will keep Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, out of the ring for probably three weeks and force postponement of four bouts for which he is booked within that period, it became known today.

Paddy Mullins, manager of the negro, announced Wills would abandon all fighting until his hand has fully recovered. This, Mullins said, would mean postponing of fights scheduled in Rochester, N. Y., tomorrow night; in Detroit, January 21; Hartford, Conn., January 25, with Jack Taylor, Omaha negro; and Newark, N. J., February 4, with Bartley Madden. Wills will go through with these bouts at later dates, if possible, Mullins added.

SMITH LEADS FIELD AT LOS ANGELES COURSE

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 15.—MacDonald Smith, San Francisco professional, with 144, led the field at the halfway point in the qualifying round in the California open golf championship tournament here today. Mel Smith, of Pasadena, was second, having shot 145.

Abe Espinera, of Oakland, and Eddie Loos, of Anandale were tied for third with 148, while Gene Sarazen national professional champion, was in a tie for fourth with 150.

Joe [illegible] present California titleholder, [illegible] no better than 155, while Arthur [illegible] the English open king, shot 164 for the [illegible] days, with more than forty other entries ahead of him. Jimmy Ockenden, French champion, had a poor 163 and Fred Wright, member of the Walker cup team, registered 169.

TIGERS WILL BE A SENSATION SAYS HEILMANN

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 15.—The Detroit Tigers will be one of the sensations of the American league this year, Harry Heilmann, champion batsman of the league, predicted here today.

"The Tigers will be very much in the chase for the American league pennant the coming season," said Heilmann, who came here to attend the Billy Miske testimonial boxing card tonight.

"All Ty Cobb needs is a high class second baseman to put him right on the heels of the Yankees. Ty told me in a recent letter that he expects to close a deal for a second sacker. The name of this player will cause sensation when announced."

MORRISON BEATS TOPPING IN BELLEAIR TOURNEY

Belleair, Fla., Jan. 15.—Thomas Morrison, of the Oakmont club, Pittsburgh, today played the difficult championship course in 80 strokes, and defeated 3 and 2, Henry Topping, of Greenwich, Conn., in the first round of the championship fight of the annual junior golf tournament. Topping tied for the low medal yesterday.

Hugh Halsell, of Sleepy Hollow and Dallas, Tex., who won the event last year, eliminated E. F. Storm, of Clearwater, 5 and 4.

The feature match of the day was played in the second flight when I. A. Davis, of Philadelphia, holed a ten foot putt for a victory over Dave Gudger, of Biltmore Forest, on the 21st green in the only extra hole match of the day.

COLGATE LEATHER PUSHERS HAVE FIVE MEETS

Hamilton, N. Y., Jan. 15.—A schedule of five varsity meets and two freshmen contests for Colgate boxers was announced today by Manager A. W. Hill, of Buffalo. The season will open Feb. 2 with M. I. T. at Cambridge. The schedule follows:

February 2, M. I. T. at Cambridge; 9, Army at West Point; 23, Navy at Annapolis; 25, Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.; and March 9, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

FOOTBALL NO EXCUSE FOR POOR STUDIES

Medford, Mass., Jan. 15.—A warning not to use football as an alibi [illegible] studies is contained in a letter mailed to all past and prospective [illegible] men in Tufts college by Coach Edward Casey. The letter urged the men to prove to the county that a football player could be also a hard worker in the classroom.

Opening Games of American.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Opening games in the American league April 15, will be played in Washington, Boston, Detroit and Chicago. The season will close in the west September 28 and in the east September 30.

"JUST MISSED HIM AGAIN"

SO. MANCHESTER FIVE AGAIN PROVE MASTERS OF ARMY-NAVY QUINTET

Once again the Recreation Center Quintet of South Manchester proves themselves to be the masters of the Army-Navy Five on the chalked court at Parish Hall Tuesday evening by defeating the loca lteam 32 to 27 in one of the hardest fought games of the season. It was anyone's game up to the final whistle and at no time during the fray did either team have more than a three basket advantage.

The first half was the best for the local boys for in this period they held the advantage and at the end of the half led by three points, 16 to 15. The second half, however, saw them gradually lose ground and at the final whistle they were trailing the visitors by four points. South Manchester showed more consistent teamwork than the local team and less individual work. On the other hand Lou Mitchell and Harry Mills stood out as the individual stars of the Army-Navy squad. Mitchell being the leading scorer with 4 baskets from the floor and two from fouls. George Coleman showed up well at the guard positions.

Angell and Bissell, who were stars of the last encounter, continued their good work and it was their splendid work that materially aided the South Manchester team to emerge with the victory. The game was a fast one and was witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiastic basketball fans.

In the preliminary game the Army-Navy Seconds swamped the Melrose A. A. team 27 to 6 in a one-sided affair the Seconds completely outclassing the West Siders in all ways. The summary:

South Manchester	G	F	PC

Battery B Seconds vs. Speed Boys.

At the state armory this evening the Battery B Seconds will clash with the Taftville Speed Boys in what is expected to be a fast basketball game. The game will start at 8 o'clock and no admission will be charged.

Columbia Beats Princeton.

New York, Jan. 15.—Columbia defeated Princeton's basketball team tonight by a score of 32 to 24 after trailing at the end of the first half on the short end of a 20 to 15 tally. In the second half, however, the Tigers were able to throw but one field goal. The contest was enlivened near its close by a fist fight between Captain Kliaff of Princeton and Strom of Columbia. Both were put out of the game.

"Y" Basketball League.

Some exciting basketball games are being played in the basketball league that was recently organized among the junior boys attending the boys' gymnasium class at the Y. M. C. A. Forty-four boys are enrolled on the teams and there is a lively time when they get together for their games. The league standing is as follows:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Squares	2	3	.400
Triangles	2	3	.400
Circles	3	4	.334
Rectangles	1	4	.200

"Y" Swimmers at Thread City.

The "Y" swimming team will journey to Willimantic tonight to endeavor to return the tables on the Willimantic Y'ers, who defeated them in the local pool two weeks ago. The locals have been putting in some extra practice work and expect to give their opponents a lively tussle. Among those on the team are Fred Williams, Phil McNamara, John Fellows, John Rogg, John Sayles, T. Kundig, G. Ely.

Geran Not to Go Abroad.

Boston, Jan. 15.—George (Jerry) Geran, center player on the American Olympic hockey team, announced tonight finally that he would be unable to join his teammates in France. Geran was detained in Boston by business engagements when the main hockey squad sailed on the President Garfield.

Red Sox After Eddie Coons.

Cincinnati, Jan. 15.—Jack Quinn of the Boston Americans has telegraphed Eddie Coons, amateur player and former University of Cincinnati baseball star, asking him to accept terms with the Red Sox. Coons has a good position here and insists he does not wish to play professional ball.

Stone Beats Larsen.

Boston, Jan. 15.—Ad Stone, Philadelphia light heavyweight, won the decision over Wolf Larsen of Boston, in a 10-round bout here tonight. Stone had the better of every round.

SPORT NOTES

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Off For The Land Of Nod.

Now, let me see. Did the little rabbit catch the giant mouse in the last story? Of course, but not until that giant mouse had eaten the Moon cheese.

"Don't squeak so loud," said the bunny boy. "I'm not going to hurt you. But I shall hand you over to the giant whose cheese and crackers you have stolen!"

As the litle rabbit opened the dining room door, the giant who was smoking a pipe as big as a pail with a stem as large as a pump handle, shouted:

"Ha, ha, have you caught the thief?"

"Here he is," answered Little Jack

Rabbit, opening his knapsack just a crack.

"What! Is this the mouse who's been eating my cheese by the ton?" asked the giant, peeping into the bunny boys' knapsack. "You've made a dreadful mistake."

"Of course, it is," replied the little bunny boy, "I gave him Moon cheese. It made him small. He was as big as a dog."

"Ha, ha," laughed the giant, only this time he laughed so loudly that the chandelier shook and his grandfather's picture almost fell off the wall.

"Well, if he'll promise not to grow any larger, I'll let him go. He's now so small he won't eat much. I'll have plenty to spare," and the kind-hearted giant let out the little mouse, who ran away so fast that maybe he's running yet for all I know.

"You've done me a favor. Now what can I do for you?" said the Giant gratefully.

"Nothing, thank you," answered the bunny boy. I have Magic Charms given me by friends in Fairy Land, so I need nothing. But may I ask to have Dapple Gray brought to me?"

As soon as the little rabbit was in the saddle, he said goodbye to the giant and rode away. By and by, after a while, he met a big crow perched upon a tree.

"Can you tell me, master Crow, where this road ends?"

"In the Land of Nod," answered the Crow. "It climbs up yonder hill until it is lost in the clouds."

"Thank you," said the bunny boy, clicking his tongue to Dapple Gray and on he rode, up the hill. He was anxious to see the Land of Nod, for he had often heard that country mentioned in rhyme and story.

By and by, the clouds closed around them like misty curtains, almost hiding the road.

"Little Master," cried Dapple Gray, "I fear we have gone too far."

"Never fear," answered a sweet voice:

"This is the Land of Nod, where all Must close their eyes when they hear me call;
"By lo, dream and fall asleep,
While the little gray mice to the cupboard creep."

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

NEW LONDON CRAFT FORBIDDEN TO CARRY SUPPLIES TO RUM BOATS

New London, Jan. 15.—Bernard Burman, of the United States Coast Guard academy, Mrs. Alfred Stone and infant son of Lincoln avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

A month's mind mass for Edmund J. Condon at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church this morning was attended by numerous relatives and former acquaintances. Mr. Condon died in Portland, Ore., and his body was brought to New London for the funeral and burial.

The funeral of Annie Cleary, wife of Gordon R. Bourque, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons the pastor. The bearers were Joseph S. Nellan, Lawrence J. Conti, James R. May, Frederick Neon, Frederick E Denison and Timothy E. Driscoll. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery.

A woman named Crapeau residing at 35 Denison avenue, has complained to the police because of a Peeping Tom being about her home the past two nights. Mrs. Crapeau declares that Sunday night the fellow went to one of the bedroom windows of her home and was detected peering through the window at about 9.30 o'clock. Last night the prowler went to the house as early as 6.30 o'clock.

What is believed to have been an attempt to burn the Astheimer building on Railroad avenue last night was discovered in time to prevent such an attempt, for the fire was found before it had gained great headway. John Kelley, a tenant of the building, reported to the police that an employe, Edward Quinn, in passing through one of the halls, discovered a quantity of paper close to the wooden walls burning briskly, the paper having been deposited in a pile and in such a manner as to burn freely. Quinn, instead of giving an alarm, secured a quantity of water and threw it on the burning material, the fire being extinguished before damage of consequence resulted.

Theodore M. Roemer, adjutant of the Atlantic Branch of the United States barracks at Governor's Island, New York, has communicated with the New London police, requesting information as to the police record of John Bosh, who is in solitary confinement there and who claims to have been born in New London. The police have no record of Bosh, nor other is he known here.

Mrs. Margaret Keeney is confined to her home, 27 Williams street, by illness of a serious nature. Mrs. Keeney, who is of advanced years, contracted a severe cold several weeks ago.

The automobile owned and operated by Thomas Stackhouse, of No. 28 Oak, was struck by a New London-Norwich trolley car on Main street, just north of State street, this morning, the automobile being damaged. The machine had been parked by the curb and as the trolley car due to arrive in New London at 11.15 o'clock was about to pass, Stackhouse, hearing the car started his machine. The automobile was operated on the tracks of the trolley company with the result that it was struck and forced against the curbing. The side of the automobile and the mudguard and running board were damaged.

Thomas C. Holden of England is being entertained by his aunt, Mrs. J. A. Ward of Eastern Point road, Groton.

Andrew J. Maher, of 368 Broad street, who has been confined to his home a number of weeks by illness of a serious nature does not improve and within the past few days his condition has become one of gravity. Mr. Maher is a former member of the board of water and sewer commissioners. He is a member of the plumbing firm of Murray & Maher.

John H. Searles, 89, a former resident of New London at which time he was employed as a painter, died yesterday at his home in Cranston, R. I., in which city he had resided a number of years.

Deputy Collector Joseph C. Comstock today received orders calling for the seizure of all craft which are known to be carrying supplies or provisions to vessels outside the territorial waters of the United States. Besides the seizure of such craft their owners are subject to arrest and prosecution. The reason for the orders is to prevent the operators of rum boats from receiving supplies and provisions enabling them to remain indefinitely outside the jurisdiction of the federal government and to dispose of their cargo of liquors. Collector Comstock declared that the orders would be put into effect at once and that a watch would be instituted for craft that might be used in carrying stores to the many craft like those which lay at anchor for weeks off Block Island and Montauk Point.

At the annual meeting of Holy Name society, held last night in the chapel of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the following officers were elected: Spiritual director, Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley; chaplain, Rev. John J. McGrath; president, William T. May; vice president, James C. O'Connor; secretary, Peter Ehenfelder; treasurer, John D. Burns. The following committees were appointed: Executive committee: Board of officers; finance committee, Patrick J. Ryan, chairman; Andrew J. Maher, Austin Ruddy; entertainment committee, John D. Burns, chairman; Stephen Collins, Matthew Moran, Fred Gould, Peter Dyer.

James N. Snow and Charles B. Gardner have returned from New York where they attended the Furniture Warehousemen's association sale.

Mrs. Addie Budlong is confined to her home on Bank street by illness.

There is no great change noticeable in the condition of State's Attorney Hadlai A. Hull, who has been confined to his home on Vauxhall street a number of weeks. Mr. Hull, however, is able ot sit up for a short time daily, which time he spends mostly in reading.

With a view to improving the sanitary conditions of the source of Groton's water supply, H. J. Scott, of the state health department, Charles F. Willard, counsel of the borough of Groton, and Dr. Frank Hewes, a member of the Groton board of health, visited the watershed and the property adjoining it at Poquonoc this forenoon. It is understood that the conditions surrounding the reservoir are not just what they should be and that within a few days Mr. Scott will make recommendations to the borough whereby the sanitation will be greatly improved.

In the report of the Visiting Nurses association rendered at the regular meeting of the association by Miss Deborah Williams, supervisor of nurses, it was shown that during December the nurses made 860 calls.

Deputy Inspector of Customs Jeremiah Dillon is in New York where he will be engaged several days together with inspectors of the New York customs department in clearing up the cases of the launches Columbia and Alanna, rum-runners, whose cargoes were seized off Fishers Island recently.

Irving H. Poppe, tax collector of the town of Groton, and a member of the firm of Edgecomb and Poppe of that place, is confined to his home by illness.

The police of this city were notified this evening of the theft of a Chevrolet car from Pawcatuck. Officer Connors made the report here and asked that the local police keep a lookout for the machine. The number of the car is Xs 343. It is a black car and a valuable one.

The police officers of the city are moving to secure two days a month leave from duty. All the officers with one or two exceptions are seeking the extra vacation time and these will join the movement, it is expected, when they see which way the cat is to jump. A petition to the council will be made in a few days. The officers now have a single day off duty each month, but they represent that the officers in other cities have two days away from duty, and that the same arrangement might be made here with no expense to the city. The officers represent that they are called on to do extra duty in the summer time and often during the sessions of the county court and that they receive no pay for that service. They think it only fair that when there is opportunity to favor them they should be considered.

The session of the city council on Monday evening is the one topic that is talked about today wherever men gather and where women meet also. The meeting of the council two weeks hence it is anticipated, will be even livelier than was that of Monday night for the members are gathering facts and figures to be used in the arguments at that date. It is a foregone conclusion that the matter of erecting a junior high school will be put before the people of the city that they may express their preference in a referendum. While there were many objections to the proposition of the board of education Monday evening, those opposing the plan declare that only a small part of the objection to the scheme has yet been recorded. The fact that so many pupils from out of town are educated here is cited as proof positive that the outlying districts do not consider that they can take care of their pupils as cheaply as they can send them to the New London schools.

The police officers declare that they never knew New London to be as quiet as at present and state that arrests are few and are far between.

So far not a pound of ice has been harvested in New London, and the 15th of January has come and gone. In years past the icemen declared that when an ice crop was not in the houses by the middle of January the chance of getting one was slim.

GALES FERRY

Mrs. Emma S. Bennett and granddaughter, Em-Beth Bennett, were week-end and Sunday guests of the Misses Davis, in Norwich.

Mrs. Eddie Simmons, who is in Norwich for the winter, spent the week-end at her home at Gales Ferry, where she was joined for Sunday, by Mr. Simmons, of the musical comedy, Bon Ton Girls company, now playing in Albany, N. Y.

Necessary improvements are being made on the public highway in the Long Cove section, by Latham E. Smith with team and R. Irving Hurlbutt and team, with Fred W. Turner, and Norman L. Brown.

Mrs. Albertus Dean has a bed of pansies in bloom, with several plants, of stock, at her home at Maple Lawn on the Military Highway. The bed is on the south side of a building, but a most unusual sight, for the middle of January, even, with protection.

There was no session of the village school Friday, as the teacher, Mrs. Winifred Crapeau, of Norwich, had the day, for visting other schools.

A surprise party by about twenty people, was tendered Miss Edna L. Chapman, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solon Chapman, in the Lester district, Saturday evening, in celebration of Miss Chapman's birthday. She received a number of gifts. Refreshments were served.

Miss Laura A. Perkins returned on Sunday evening from Norwich, where she had been the guest of the Misses Davis for several days, after attending the concert at Slater Hall.

At morning worship, in the M. E. church Sunday, Rev. W. D. Woodward, spoke from 1 Corinthians 15, 55-57. O, death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. At the offertory, There Is a Green Hill Far Away, was sung by Miss Grace A. Chapman. Holy communion was administered by Rev. Mr. Woodward in concluding the morning service.

At the Sunday school session Supt. C. E. Colver announced that the books in the Sunday school library had been renumbered and catalogued, and were ready for distribution. Miss Edna Chapman was elected the new librarian for this work. Awards for regular attendance were given Paul Miller, a gold star pin for five years. William McNaught, rolled gold pin, 10 months; Myrtice Coman, rolled gold star, 1 year 9 months; Ruth Allyn, rolled gold pin, 10 months. Superintendent Colver suggested that all the cedar trees used in the decorations for the church, and vestry, for the Christmas time, which had been removed from the audience room, be taken, one by each member of the school, to the memorial parklet, given by the late Henry W. Hurlbutt situated not far from the church, at the corner of the Military Highway, and the main street of Gales Ferry and placed close to the westerly wall there, under the direction of R. Irving Hurlbutt, and Alton Chapman, which was done very effectively.

The Epworth League Sunday evening service, began the study of the new book, The Youth of America, which can be read and concluded at six evening services.

The New England Deaconess association presented The House of Life with film records of Hearts and Hands, to the public in the M. E. church by Dr. E. V. Hinchcliffe and Mrs. Hinchcliffe of Boston, Friday evening, under the auspices of the White Cross. Preceding the pictures 40 stereopticon slides, were shown of M. E. hospitals, when less than fifty years ago, there was not one Methodist hospital in operation.

Mrs. J. Otis Winchester of Norwich was a caller at her summer home at Perkins place, and a visitor at the home of Mrs. E. H. Latimer, Thursday.

Mrs. Delphine Fish, Mrs. Fanny A. Molthrop and Miss Alice Satterlee of Gales Ferry with Mrs. James A. Stoddard of Long Cove, attended the January meeting of the Anna Warner Bailey chapter, D. A. R., of Groton and Stonington, at the home of Mrs. George W. Miner in Groton on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albertus Dean's Airdale terrier, thirteen months old, was struck and killed by a touring car in front of their house, on the Military Highway Saturday morning.

WINDHAM

At the annual business meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church, Mrs. H. C. Lathrop was in charge. Mrs. John Potter in her report as secretary and treasurer, stated that the society held seven bean and salad suppers during the year. One in February honored Washington's birthday and St. Patrick's day in March was celebrated. Decorations and programs were appropriate for the occasions. The annual midsummer fair was held August 27th and the harvest supper Oct 26th. The receipts from the suppers were $474.56, which was about $90 more than the supper receipts for 1922. New shades were purchased for chapel and parsonage, floors were painted and other repairs made at ther parsonage, chairs and dishes were purchased for the chapel. A Christmas gift of $5 was made to Mrs. Ellen Leonard. About $.0 worth of clothing was given to a local family after their house burned. The organist's salary was paid and music purchased for the use of the choir. Flowers were also purchased. The balance in the treasury January, 1923 was $150.36, receipts for the year $477.31; total $627.67; expenditures $395.76, leaving a balance of $231.91. Money was voted for choir, music, organist's salary, a gift for the Woman's Missionary society and to pay insurance at the parsonage. The officers chosen for the coming year, are, President, Mrs. H. C. Lathrop; vice president's Mrs. Ada Larrabee; Mrs. Alfred Harvey; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. John Potter.

There were 17 present at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary society held with Mrs. F. E. Guild. It was voted not to serve refreshments at the meetings. A special meeting will be held this (Wednesday) afternoon to tie two comfortables for the welfare bureau. The monthly bulletin of the C. H. M. U. and several missionary letters were read. While the members sewed, the last chapter of Creative Forces in Japan was given by Mrs. A. W. Clifford.

The postponed meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association was held in the principal's room in the grammar school building Thursday afternoon, the president, Mrs. F. W. Barber in charge. Mrs. Annie Jacobs, the secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer, Mrs. Ed Bailey reported about $14 in the treasury. It was voted to hold the February meeting on the 14th, and to have a social time and at that time a silver offering will be taken as a birthday gift to the national organization of The Mother Congress whose anniversary falls on the 17th. Miss Truell introduced the speaker of the day, Mrs. John Reilly of Willimantic who gave an interesting talk on the work of the local visiting nurses association and the Red Cross seal campaign. Tea was served by the Misses Clara and Sarah Johnson and Mrs. Gertrude Arnold.

The meeting and roll call of the Congregational church is to be held Tuesday evening. Supper will be served at 6.30.

Rev. Sherrod Soule of Hartford gave an interesting talk on the Patriotism of Home Missions in the Congregational church Sunday morning.

Bishop Acheson will be at St. Paul's church Sunday at 4 p. m.

LEONARD BRIDGE

The strong south wind which accompanied Friday morning rain did considerable damage. A large burton ball tree in the yard at the home of Mrs. Anna F. Stong was blown over striking the ell to the house staving a large hole through the roof so that limbs entered the downstairs rooms. At Morris Rich's the barn doors were blown off as was also a part of the barn roof. A large elm on the Goshen Hill road, an old landmark, was blown down and considerable other minor damage resulted from the gale.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hinckley entertained Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hinckley and two sons from Willimantic, one day last week.

Carlton Cummings was in Willimantic Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh were in Manchester and Columbia Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hinckley and two sons spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Chamberlain, at Manchester.

Friends of Mrs. Anna P. Mills of Lebanon Center, former resident here, are pleased to hear that she is on the road to recovery, after having been confined to her bed the past two weeks.

ABOUT PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD LOCOMOTIVES

Washington, Jan. 15.—Interstate Commerce Commission Inspector who ordered a number of Pennsylvania locomotives out of service at Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, Ind., yesterday are acting entirely within scope of their duty under safety sections of the Interstate Comerce Comission Act, A. G. Pack, chief locomotive inspector declared today.

At the same time Mr. Pack said not enough of the report had come to hand for him to make any statement concerning the extent of the actios taken. He added that no particular drive was being aimed at the Pennsylvania but that locomotives unsafe for service were always sought by the inspectors who exercised their own judgment in the field where they are stationed.

Under the law Mr. Pack explained, the government agents do not inspect locomotives until they are declared by a railroad ready for service or are actually put in service. The only object of the inspection is to make sure that the engines are in safe condition to operate.

"Makers of Fine Candies since the Days of Lincoln"

New York chose "Bond" the same as NORWICH

AND Dr. Royal S. Copeland—when he was New York's Health Commissioner—told why New York had elected Bond Bread as its favorite loaf. He said:—

These words sum up the judgment of New York's discriminating women who show their faith in this Bond by buying more loaves of Bond Bread than all other large loaves combined. Many of these New York women were among the 43,040 housewives who showed us how they wanted Bond Bread made.

Local mothers, too, have shown their appreciation of this same Bond. They agree with the housewives of New York. Like them, they realize the value of pure ingredients. They appreciate the truth of Dr. Copeland's statement that "pure food means health."

THIS BOND, printed on each wrapper, guarantees each ingredient and identifies the loaf as the product of the General Baking Company. From this Bond and all that it implies, Bond Bread gets its name.

Know all men by these Presents that GENERAL BAKING COMPANY as held and firmly bound unto the Purchaser of this Loaf of Bond Bread and hereby warrants that the loaf of Bread contained within this Germ-Proof and Dust-Proof Wrapper is made from the following Pure Food Materials, and no other ingredients of any kind: Best Wheat Flour, Compressed Yeast, Pure Filtered Water, Best Fine Salt, Pure Lard, Granulated Sugar and Condensed Milk. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

RECOVERY IN STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 16—Stock prices, which broke badly yesterday, made partial recovery today despite a renewal of short selling, and liquidation in various sections of the list. Today's selling was reported to have been inspired by the house's rejection of a portion of the so-called Underwood rule prohibiting amendments to pending legislation when not germane thereto on the theory that this action provided a further stumbling block to revenue legislation, and by stiffer money rates.

Considerable importance was attached by local financial leaders to Paris dispatches stating that the French cabinet had decided to increase taxes, direct and indirect, twenty per cent. and to take measures to balance the French budget, recent criticism of which has been regarded as one of the primary causes for the weakness of Paris exchange. Banking leaders here also expressed approval of General Dawes' speech before the expert's committee on reparations.

French francs, which collapsed yesterday to 4.27 cents, the lowest price ever recorded, snapped back nearly 86 points on short covering, the bulk of the day's transactions taking place just below 4.59 cents. Demand sterling recovered 2 1-8 cents to $4.35 7-8. Other exchanges rallied in sympathy.

In the stock market, U. S. Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can, often referred to as "the big four" each closed at a slight fractional gain. Some of the widest fluctuations took place in stocks in which pools are reported to have been operating, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, which had been pushed up from 20 to 24 1-2 in the last three months, dropped 2 more points today closing at 17 3-4. Pool liquidation also was blamed for the 3 1-4 point drop in Continental Can, which closed at 54 1-4.

Railroad shares held firm although some leading issues showed a loss. St. Paul issues continued to respond to the improved earning position of that road, the common and preferred each closing a point higher. Good buying also developed in other low priced rails.

Stocks of oil companies with Mexican properties were inclined to yield on reports that rebel forces had forced a shutdown of all refineries at Tampico but the South American oils were strong, Maracaibo selling above $3 at a record high price. Further upward revision of gasoline and crude oil prices had a steadying effect on the domestic shares.

A bullish demonstration in General Electric just before the close sent it up nearly four points, buying being influenced by reports of heavily increased business. Other strong spots were Consolidated Cigar preferred, Central Leather preferred, Pierce Oil preferred, Pure Oil eight per cent. preferred, Nash Motors, Columbia Carbon and General American Tank, up 1 1-2 to 3 1-2 points.

Money rates stiffened in response to increased demands outside the market. Call money opene dat 4 1-4, advanced to 4 1-2, 4 3-4 and thence 5 where it closed. Time money ranged from 4 3-4 to 5 5 bankers asking the higher rate for the longer maturities. The bulk of the commercial paper business took place at 4 3-4 per cent.

BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 16—Considerable irregularity developed in today's bond market, but with the exception of first grade rail issues prices showed a tendency to improve.

French bonds continued to reflect the recent weakness of Paris Exchange, but aside from declines of about 1 1-2 points each in Lyons 6s and Marseilles 6s, the net losses were limited to fractions. Quotations after moving lower at the opening rallied in response to improvement in exchange.

Recent strength of the St. Paul issues was maintained, all liens registering gains of about a point in reflection of the road's improved earnings. Traders reported less profit taking in the second grade rail mortgages, resulting in fractional advances in "Katy" 6s, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4 1-2s, Rock Island 4s, Chicago & Great Western 4s and "Big Four" 6s, New York, Westchester & Boston 4 1-2s continued to advance, moving up 3 7-8 points.

Industrial and public utility liens showed only fractional changes. Pierce Oil 8s, in which activity has been marked, however, moved up to a new high level at 90. U. S. government and treasury bonds held steady.

Wall street heard reports that the forthcoming Argentine loan, which had been expected to total $60,000,000 would be scaled down to $40,000,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 16—Abnormal dearth of corn in the supplies of grain arriving from the country sent corn and oats up today to the topmost prices of this season. Corn finished unsettled 1 to 1 1-4 a 1 3-8 cents net higher with May 78 3-4 a 7-8 to 79 7-8. Wheat sympathized with the corn market advance, and closed firm at 3-8 to 5-8 net gain, May $1.09 to 1.09 1-8 and July $1.07 3-8 with oats 1-4 to 7-8 cents up and provisions unchanged to 15 cents down.

Brisk demand from livestock feeders appeared to be the main reason why receipts of corn here were continuing at a minimum. In addition to the Pacific coast was said to be outbidding other sections and buying all the corn offered in western Nebraska. Besides, considerable export business in corn was said to be in progress by way of the gulf of Mexico. Meanwhile, messages were at hand from various points in Illinois and Indiana predicting that the movement of corn would be very small and asserting that most holders were talking of $1.00 a bushel for corn by next summer. In this connection, it was pointed out that although weather conditions have been perfect for a week there has been no country selling of importance.

The fact that the big winter movement of the corn crop should be under way at present and that early estimates of today's arrivals in Chicago put the total at fewer than 100 carloads did a good deal to lift values here. Later estimates of the day's receipts were larger but were virtually ignored.

Buying for northwestern interests helped to strengthen the wheat market. Reports of lack of snow covering for winter wheat counted also as a bullish influence.

Provisions weakened in response to a decline in hog values.

CURB MARKET

New York, Jan. 16—Renewal of selling pressure in various sections of today's curb market failed to check the advance of the main body of stocks to higher ground. Pool operations were again evident in a number of industrials and specialties.

With the exception of a five point jump in Penn-Mex fuel and gains of one and two points, respectively, in Standard Oils of Ohio and Nebraska, the oil shares moved within narrow and irregular lineup, further upward readjustments of gasoline and crude oil prices acting as a stadying influence. A 24 points jump in Maracaibo Oil seven per cent notes, which are convertible into stock at the rate of $500 par value for fifty shares, was one of the day's features, the closing quotation being $25.

Activity of the radio stocks featured the industrial list. Dubilier was the individual feature, closing 1 3-8 higher at 14 1-8. Radio corporation issues were unchanged. Motors yielded fractionally to selling pressure, as did Glen Alden Coal. U. S. Distributing corporation new stock moved up nearly three points, closing at 24.

Continental Tobacco is the latest newcome to the list, 200,000 shares of no par value being admitted to trading, today's quotations ranging between 25 1-2 and 26.

WESTERLY

In the bi-monthly session of Westerly probate court, Tuesday afternoon, before Judge Edward M. Burke, the last will and testament of Anunziata De Santis, over which a contest has arisen, was presented for probate. Appearing for the estate was Attorney M. Walter Flynn and for the contestants was Attorney John J. Dunn. Mrs. De Santis, who was born in Italy, died at her home, 77 Pierce street, Dec. 23, 1923.

The first witness called was Frank Tuscano, who acted as interpreter when the will was drawn by Attorney Clarence E. Roche Dec. 31st, the witness and Joseph Gaffney signing the will as witnesses. Mr. Tuscano stated that he had known the testator for a number of years, and that he considered her to be of sound mind. He had interpreted the various sections of the will to Mrs. De Santis as they were read to him by Mr. Roche and had seen her sign her X to the will.

Attorney Clarence E. Roche testified that he had been called to Mrs. DeSantis' home to write the will in which $200 was given to Antoinetre Gencarella, $200 to Quatromani Rosi, $400 to Angelo Altomari and the balance to Fiore Altomari, and he was made the residuary legatee without bond, or the necessity of filing inventory.

Mr. Tuscano testified that he received a written order from Mrs. De Santis and had gone to the Washington Trust Co. and Industrial Trust Co. and drew out $1124, it being the desire that Rev. Fr. Bruno be paid $400, for the saying of masses both in this country and in Italy.

Transfers on file in the Westerly town clerk's office for the first half of the month of January are as follows:

Jan. 3—Rose Pignataro, administratrix of the estate of Antonio Pignataro, to Ella Monti three lots or parcels of land, on Woody Hillroad; on highway leading from Post road to Bradford and on the west of Woody Hill.

Charlotte P. Clarke to Thorp and Trainer, Inc., interests in lots 25 to 30 inclusive at Pleasant View, to release all claims to a twelve-foot right of way adjoining a twenty-feet right of way.

Jan. 4—Louis Silverstein, et al, to Walter A. Wilkenson et ux, lot of land north of the property of William Minchen on the east side of Main street with buildings and improvements.

Jan. 5—Katherine V. R. Welch to Antonio L. and Ernest Panciera, two tracts or parcels of land with buildings and improvements, the first on the south side of Union street; the second west of the first parcel and on the east side of Main street.

Jan. 7—John B. Riddell to Rinaldo Susena and Madelene Susena, Boom Bridge road, two pieces or parcels of land, the first south of a common passway or driftway leading to the Boom Bridge road; the second a house and lot near Boom Bridge.

Jan. 8—Harriet B. Babcock, Horace H. Babcock and Rouse Babcock to Annie Turnbull, 39 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, tract or parcel of land with dwelling house, 178-180 Main street.

Jan. 10—Thorp and Trainer, Inc., to Alice J. Segar, tract or parcel of land on the beach near Weekapaug Beach, south side of Atlantic avenue.

Jan. 15—James P. Grant and Drue Underwood Grant, formerly of Montclair, N. J., now of Rye, Westchester county, N. Y., to Frank W. Coy Real Estate company, tract or parcel of land north of Sequan road and south of Neptune road, Watch Hill, lots Nos. 78, 90, 91, 92, with buildings and improvements, furniture and furnishings.

About 7 o'clock Monday evening a fire alarm was turned in from Box 68, corner Beach and Elm streets, when a young man sighted sparks rising from a chimney of the house of LaClede Woodmansee, 67 Elm street. The Alert Hook and Ladder company truck and that of the R. I. No. 1 made a quick run and as the fireman unceremoniously entered the house they found a surprised Mr. Woodmansee and a roaring fire in the fireplace—that was all.

The fourth annual meeting of the Westerly Rifle club was held in the company rooms of the state armory, Monday night. The reports of the officers showed interest in the organization, which has been in existence since the days of the Fourth company, R. I. Guard. The election resulted as follows: President, Abraham P. Dateon; vice president, Henry W. Sutcliffe; secretary, Thomas A. Ornberg; treasurer, Caleb Mugge; executive officer, Thomas Chadbourn; auditing committee, Alexander C. Thompson, William Stillwell; Harold Mugge; entertainment committee, William Ledward, Dr. Thomas E. Robinson and William C. Smith. Following the election a discussion was held relative to the team shooting of the organization. At the close of the business session refreshments were served and a social story-telling hour was spent.

NORTH STONINGTON

The Congregational church held its annual meeting Tuesday afternoon of last week. Officers for the coming year are: Church committee, Ralph D. Wheeler, Mrs. Esther Main, Mrs. John D. Avery; clerk and treasurer, Mrs. George W. Tryon; deacons, John D. Avery; Daniel B. Gray; superintendent of Sunday school, Rev. A. D. Fisher. $100 of the church funds was set aside as the nucleus of a fund for the purchase of a church organ. The annual dinner of the church is to be held Feb. 22.

Funeral services for Mrs. Isabelle W. Driggs were conducted in the Congregational church Wednesday afternoon by Rev. O. D. Fisher. Burial was in Wheeler cemetery near the residence of Ellsworth C. Gray. The bearers were Daniel E. Gray, Charles C. Gray, Edgar W. Chapman, George W. Tryon, George H. Stone and Reuben D. Cook. Mrs. Driggs left no near relatives and there were no kindred to follow her to her grave, but many friends, several coming from out of town.

The community prayer meeting is to be held this (Wednesday) evening at the residence of Crossingham L. Gray. The leader will be Rev. Lucian Drury, the topic being A Faithful Saying.

A. Bouvier, of Moosup. Following the installation ceremony, there were excellent short addresses by Rev. Father Morrissey, Alma Forcier of Goodyear, Mr. Robitelle of Moosup and there were songs by Wilfred Lemmieux and Emile Bouley which were well received. An exhibition of clog dancing was given by Emile Bouley. Refreshments were served under the direction of the committee, Pauline Peltire, chairman, Mrs. Jolicoeur, Mrs. LaFlashe, Mrs. George Russell. A hundred and fifty were present and one of the best meetings of the season was enjoyed.

Mrs. A. Gobeille's father, John B. Garand, of Jewett City, suffered a shock about two years ago and the 13th of last September was taken to Backus Hospital in Norwich, where he failed until his death occurred on the 10th hof January. Saturday a requiem high mass was celebrated for him in St. Mary's church, Jewett City and his burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Lisbon.

The Lawton Fire Department held a dance at the Community House Saturday evening and it was an event of interest to the entire community. The firemen were in uniform and presented a fine appearance on the floor. The music was of a high order.

Robert J. Bethel of Wauregan was a guest at the Lincoln club Monday evening and assisted in the musical program.

Charles A. Phillips was in Providence the last of the week, making the business trip by automobile.

Mrs. Frank Skinner, who has been ill for three weeks with pneumonia, is recovering slowly, having sat up Monday for the first time.

After a long siege with grip, William P. Barstow has gone to Englewood, N. J., to visit his son, Byron Barstow, and call on other friends. Later he will go to Philadelphia on business.

The shop meeting, which is usually held on the first Monday of the month was held at the Community house Monday evening.

George Day, formerly, of Danville, was in town making calls Tuesday.

The teachers of the town listened to an interesting and instructive address by Joseph Wiseltier, State Supervisor of Art Education Thursday afternoon last, on the subject of art in the schools.

Mr. Wiseltier illustrated his address with dozens of posters, models and samples of the work done by children in the various grades from different schools in the state, showing conclusively the value of the work done in many places in Connecticut.

Art education is divided into several courses. Lettering, object drawing, nature drawing, illustration, design, clay modeling, color design and booklet making, also sixth design, sewing patterns for girls, and wood working for boys. The children are led by successive steps through the several grades from the simplest forms of art expression to complicated design in the upper grammar grades and in the high school.

One feature of Mr. Wiseltier's talk which greatly interested the teachers, was a demonstration of letter cutting, showing the very simple process of cutting perfect capital letters out of paper without drawing.

The whole talk was listened to with great interest and after the lecture the teachers spent considerable time in examining the samples of work displayed.

The state department already has in process of preparation a complete series of lesson plans and suggestions for an art course for schools. This will call for one lesson per week throughout the year for each grade, but to be made really effective should be supervised by a trained instructor. It is to be expected that Plainfield will follow the lead of many other towns in the state and extend the work of this very vital subject in the schools.

NORTH LYME

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mack of East Haddom visited at Fred Miner's several days last week.

The Woman's Mission Circle met with Mrs. Fred Miner last Thursday when the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. N. S. Strong; vice president, Miss Emily Stark, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. W. M. Sisson, Jr. M. J. Stark and Miss Emily Stark were in New London Thursday.

MANSFIELD CENTRE

POETRY

The After-Comers

Those earlier men that owned our earth
When land and sea and skies were newer.
Had they, by eldest's right of birth,
Sea stronger, greener land, sky bluer?
Had what they sang and drew more worth
That bards and painters then were fewer?

Their daisy, oak and rose were new;
Fresh runnels down their valleys babbled;
New were red lip, true eyes fresh dew;
All dells, all shores had not been babbled;
Nor yet the rhyming lovers' crew
Tree-bark and casement-pane had scrabbled.

Feelings sprang fresh, to them, and thought;
Fresh things were hope, trust, faith, endeavor;
All things were new, wherein men wrought,
And so they had the lead forever.
To move the world their frank hearts sought
Not even where to set their lever.

Then utterance, like thought, was young.
And, when these yearning two were mated,
What shapes of airy life were flung
Before the world as yet unmated!
Life was in hand; life was in tongue;
Life in whatever they created.

Must then the world to us be stale?
Must we be only after-comers?
Must wilted green and sunshine pale
Make mean all our dear springs and summers?
To those free lords of song and tale
Must we be only tricked-out mummers?

Oh, no! was ever life-blood cold?
Was wit e'er dull when mirth was in it?
Or when will blushing love be old?
Or thrill of bobolink or linnet?
Are all our blossoms touched with mould?
Lurks not fresh where we may win it?

Yes! Life and strength forever can;
Life springs afresh through endless agree;
Nor on our true work falls a ban.
That is must halt, at shortened stages;
Throw man into it! man draws man
In canvas, stone or written pages.
—Robert Traill Spence Lowell.

Gazelles

Why shall I make me beautiful?
Why shall I plat my shining hair
And go in raiment rich and fine?
For you will not be there!

I told you soft and smiling lies,
I said I never loved you . . .
Then
A strange night fell, and you were gone
You will not come again!
I see you . . . clad for journeying

A meager purse of scrip you bore,
Your only wealth was love, you said,
I thought I wanted more!

I thought I wanted silver hose,
And jade and gems and crystal shoes—
Such little luxuries of grace . . .
You said—that I must choose.
I laughed . . . and waved you bright farewell, . . . and now I do not seem to care—
Somehow—to make me beautiful,
And plat my shining hair!
—Barbar Young in N. Y. Sun and Globe.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"What does she want a divorce for? Isn't Billy good to her?"

Golfer (whose unknown opponent has driven a straight 250 yards from the first tee)—Say, does he often do that?

"Yes," commented Miss Cayenne, "so many girls are better judges of diamonds than they are of men."—Washington Star.

Blackstone—He never has an original thought of his own.

Webster—Is that why he accuses his wife of being the author of all his troubles?—New York Sun and Globe.

Mae—My modiste wrote to my husband saying she would make no more dresses for me until my account was settled.

Rae—And what did hubby do?

KALEIDOSCOPE

The elephant adapts himself to more difficult conditions than does any animal of Africa.

A state inventory of the possessions of Louis XIV disclosed that he had collected 418 beds.

Grapes crushed for juice may be heated to 140 degrees Fahrenheit to develop flavor and color.

During the fifteenth century in Europe beds were often seven feet long and six feet or more wide.

A woman in Washington sought a divorce because her husband had not spoken to her in twenty years.

During the last year the California state bureau of labor handled nearly 15,000 complaints and collected more than $350,000 in wages for complaining workmen.

Before the earthquake the Japanese government had allotted $110,000 to the social affairs bureau to encourage Japanese emigrants to go to Brazil. More than 100 local intelligence offices in different parts of Japan promoted the movement.

"You can't sell sentiment in Washington" cried a sweating auctioneer as he knocked down for $45 a mahogany sofa, two armchairs and one other chair—all upholstered in velour. The furniture was formerly the property of Warren G. Harding.

Practical farmers have long been familiar with fertilisers for the purpose of increasing crop yields and incomes. Now they are giving more attention to the treatment of soil in order to save work and cut expenses. It has been found that the power needed for plowing can be reduced by suitable treatment of the land. Chalking heavy soil may effect a saving of as much as 15 per cent. in the power used. Farmyard manure, coarse ashes and even artificial manure can all effect similar economies.

THE JERSEY

JERSEYS produce more butter-fat for each 100 pounds of feed consumed than any other dairy breed. They also produce more butter-fat in proportion to live weight than any other dairy breed. You should look into this matter of economical production. In these days of high-priced feed the Jerseys are becoming more famous than ever as "The Profit Breed."

Collector of Taxes.

ONE FRIEND TELLS ANOTHER
The fame of a successful remedy is often spread far and wide by women telling one another of its merits, as is evidenced by a letter written by Mrs. Delbert Bush of Masena, N. Y. She writes: "I was in such a bad condition I could hardly walk, a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with excellent results advised me to try it. It has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough. There are women everywhere who have been benefitted by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gladly tell their friends and neighbors about it.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sunday morning worship at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. James R. Aldrich preached from II Corinthians 5:17. Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. Old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

Adelburt Rudd was in charge of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service. The topic was—How and When Jesus Prayed. John 17:1-26. This was followed by evening sermon by Rev. Mr. Aldrich who chose for his text, John 17: 18. As Thou has sent Me into the world, even so HAve I also sent them into the world.

At the close of the Sunday school hour the school re-organized for the year as follows: Superintendent, Frederick H. Bushnell; assistant superintendent, Stanton W. Brown; treasurer, Lewis Aldrich; secretary, Miss Florence Brown; librarian, Millard Manning, and the following teachers, most of whom are practically the same as last year: Miss Florence M. Bennett, Young Men's class; Miss Gertrude Tuft, boys' class; Mrs. Albert G. Miner, young women's class; Mrs. James R. Aldrich, girls' class; Mrs. George Manning, Bible class; Mrs. Richard Carter, superintendent of Primary room, and for her assistant, Miss Blanche Wheeler.

Beginning the first Sunday of the New Year, the services at the Methodist church were held in the vestry, it having been deemed advisable to do so because of weather conditions. This will continue for two months, all services throughout the week to be held in the vestry during this period.

Rev. Roderick Macleod, pastor of Hanover Congregational church and Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the Norwich Town Congregational church, exchanged pulpits Sunday morning. At the latter church, the basis of Rev. Mr. MacLeod's address, was a sermon appropriate for the New Year. At the session of the Sunday school, there was an attendance of 114. The topic of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service at 6:30 in the chapel was How and When Jesus Prayed. John 17:1-26. Miss Marion L. Bailey was the leader. The church at the Congregational church, Thursday evening, will have for its theme, The Name Above Every Name. Phil. 2:1-11.

The Congregational Home Missionary society is to meet for work, Friday afternoon, in the chapel. Besides other sewing a quilt is to be tied; also a box prepared to be sent to Miss Ruth Beebe at Trinity school, Athens, Alabama. A general appeal has been sent out for partly worn clothing for men, women and children, also for magazines and any useful articles which Miss Beebe can distribute among her pupils.

George A. Peck of Otrabando avenue, was in Hartford Tuesday, to attend the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Isaac Cross, services being held at the Methodist church at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. R. R. Agnew was hostess Tuesday evening when Okiya Camp Fire Girls of Park Congregational church were entertained at her home on Washington street. The meeting opened with camp fire songs, Miss Elizabeth Collins at the piano. Radio was the subject of the evening. The guardian, Mrs. Louis Walden, gave an interesting reading pertaining to the subject. This was followed by the Camp Fire Girls listening to a varied concert over Dr. Agnew's radio. Later games were played after which Mrs. Agnew assisted by Mrs. Ernest E. Jones served lemonade, sandwiches, cake and popcorn.

DEPUTY REVENUE COLLECTOR HAS OFFICE AT THE COURT HOUSE

Deputy revenue collector George M. Charbonneau on Tuesday transferred his office from the post office building where it has been maintained for some time to the coun commissioner's room in the court house building on the same floor as the town hall. Here he will be located and his telephone number will be 1084.

When the office accommodations at the post office became inadequate the county commissioners generously offered the use of their office room, having in mind the convenience this would be to the public who would have business with Deputy Charbonneau and he has been given authority to make the change in location. The treasury department at the same time expressed its appreciation of the offer of the county commissioners.

Deputy Collector Charbonneau is at his office each day at 9 a. m. or can be seen there by making appointments.

Eventually it is expected that accommodations in the post office building will be provided for him and for other federal offices in this city by changes that can be made in the building.

A government engineer has been here to look over the post office building with a view to changes that could be made there, and it is expected that a rearrangement of the money order department at the westerly end of the building could be made so as to put in a stairway there that would provide access to the second story of the post office building where three office rooms could be arranged. These could be occupied by the deputy revenue collector, the United States commissioner and the federal prohibition enforcement office.

UNITED WORKERS OPENING NEUROPSYCHIATRIC CLINIC

A neuropsychiatric clinic is a clinic where an early diagnosis of mild and incipient cases of mental or nervous disorders may be made and such treatment ordered as may seem helpful toward remedying the patient's condition. Such a clinic has been opened at the W. W. Backus hospital through the generosity of the trustees under the auspices of the Norwich State Hospital, the state department of health and the United Workers of Norwich. The Norwich State Hospital, through the interest of Dr. F. S. Wilcox, has provided the services of the psychiatrist, Dr. Elijah S. Burdsall. The state department of health provided the organizer, Miss Olive Rockwell, who has had a special training in neuropsychiatric work and practical experience as well. The United Workers has supplied the necessary financial support which has been needed for equipment, office supplies and clerical assistance, and for the services of a full-time trained psychiatric worker, Miss Betsey Mitchell. Miss Mitchell has been working with the shell shock patients under the care of the Red Cross and has had training and experience in the care of sufferers from mental disease.

The clinic is held at the W. W. Backus hospital every Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. In order to insure thorough examinations the patients are being received by appointment. They may apply or be referred by letter to the Neuropsychiatric Clinic, Backus hospital, or by telephoning to the clinic, Norwich 777.

Norwich is fortunate in having such a clinic as it is the first one to be established with state aid and Connecticut is the first state to have a division of mental hygiene under the state department of health, thus putting mental disease in the preventable class. Dr. Harold A. Bancroft is the director of this division of mental hygiene.

Because of this new development of the scope of work under the United Workers Dr. Frankwood E. Williams of New York city has been secured as the principal speaker for the annual meeting, Jan. 22, at 8 p. m. Dr. Williams is the medical director of the national committee for mental hygiene and is a most interesting speaker. It is hoped the public will avail themselves of this unusual opportunity to hear more about the new clinic and of the whole subject of mental disease and its prevention.

YANTIC LYCEUM CLUB SKATES AFTER MEETING

At Yantic Tuesday evening, a business meeting of the Lyceum club was held at the parish house. After the business session, the young people spent a pleasant hour skating, following which refreshments were served at the parish house. A dance planned by the club for Friday evening has been postponed.

COUNTY MUTUAL FIRE HAD ITS BEST YEAR

At the 64th annual meeting of the directors of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance Co., at the home office on Broadway Tuesday afternoon H. H. Gallup was re-elected president, Walter F. Lester was re-elected secretary and Arthur L. Peale, treasurer. The stockholders held their annual meeting at 1.30 o'clock at which time the following directors were elected:

H. H. Gallup, E. A. Tracy, Arthur W. Brown of Norwich and F. A. Stevens of Meriden. The annual meeting of the directors followed the policy holders meeting. In addition to the election of officers the following committees were appointed:

Advisory committee—O. E. Wulf, Putnam, S. A. Gilbert and S. B. Palmer, Norwich.

Financial committee—H. H. Gallup, E. A. Tracy, W. F. Lester of Norwich and J. K. Guy of Middletown.

Auditing committee—O. E. Wulf of Putnam.

The annual reports showed that the company did the largest business in the 64 years of its history in 1923. The income from policies was over $697,000 and income from all sources about $850,000. There are some 40,000 policy holders.

A DO-AS-YOU-PLEASE-DAY FOR CHRIST CHURCH WOMEN

Over 150 invitations have been sent out to the women members of Christ Episcopal parish to attend an informal Do-As-You-Please-Day gathering Thursday, from 11:30 to 6 at the home of Mrs. Eben Learned, 140 Broadway. There are to be Mah Jong lessons, bride will be played, those who prefer will sew, others will be entertained by radio, while others so minded will take up other pursuits. The idea is to make this a real parish get-together day.

Luncheon is to be provided, the committee being, with Mrs. Learned, Mrs. Charles H. Preston, Mrs. Joseph Henry Hall, Mrs. W. Russell Baird, Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins and Mrs. Joseph C. Worth.

Paid Fine For Speeding

Charged by state policemen with speeding, Melvin Robinson, a Montville young man, was presented before Justice of the peace William Smiddy Monday and was fined $25 and costs, which he paid. Robinson's fast time in his automobile was made on Sunday on the main road, according to the state policemen.

TWO EXPOSITION DAYS FOR SHEEP AND SWINE

The first two sessions of the union agricultural meeting, to be held at the Hotel Garde, Hartford, January 22 to 26, in place of the annual Connecticut Winter Exposition will be given over to the Connecticut Swine Growers' Association and the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' Association, two of the five cooperating state organizations.

The opening day, Tuesday, Jan. 22, will be filled with the program of the swine growers' association, and will be featured by an address by J. W. Wiuchet, extension swine husbandman of the Ohio Agricultural College. Prof. Wiuchet will speak following a luncheon to be held at noon in the Hotel Garde. Other speakers at the luncheon will be George M. Rommel of Pleasantville, N. Y., former editor of The Field, and A. J. Stapleton of Springfield, Mass., an expert swine breeder. After the announced speakers, impromptu talks will be given by members of the association.

Preceding the luncheon and addresses a business meeting will be held in the large dining room of the hotel, opening at 11 o'clock.

The annual banquet of the association will be held at the Hotel Bond on Wednesday evening at 6.30 o'clock at which several well known speakers will be present.

The annual business meeting of the association will open the Thursday session of the convention at 10 o'clock. The business session will be followed by addresses by Professor A. R. Merrills of the Connecticut Agricultural College at 10 o'clock and Professor Oscar Erf of the Ohio State University at 11 o'clock.

WAS LONG RECTOR IN PARISH AT GROSVENORDALE

The Rev. Thomas Cooney, rector of St. Francis church in Naugatuck since July 27, 1910 died Tuesday at the rectory after several months illness. Father Cooney is well known in Eastern Connecticut having been the rector of churches in Putnam and Grosvenordale.

He was born in Ireland about 70 years ago and received his classical education in St. Patrick's college, Armagh, and then went to the University of Louvain, Belgium in 1875. He studied philosophy at Bascoygne, and on June 7, 1879 was ordained at Mechlin, Belgium by Monsignor A. M. Thenis, auxiliary bishop of Mechlin. In October of that year he came to this country and was assigned to St. Peters church, Hartford as an assistant. In February 1880 he went to Putnam where he remained for three years, then going to Grosvenordale where he remained for 27 1-2 years. From Grosvenordale he went to Naugatuck.

Father Cooney was a brother to the late Rev. John Cooney of Meriden. He is survived by a nephew, Rev. Arthur Toner of Denver, Colo., also other relatives who live in Ireland.

TRIED $10,000 SUIT WITH CITY DEFENDANT

The case of Henry J. Kilroy of this city against the City of Norwich for $10,000 for the death of his son, Henry J., Jr., of whose estate he is administrator, was tried before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the civil superior court here Tuesday. The son of the plaintiff was repairing the roof on the city barn in Bath street, on Aug. 19, 1914, when he slipped and slid off the roof onto the high voltage wires of the city lighting plant and was electrocuted. It is claimed that the wires were not properly insulated and that they were overcharged.

Testimony in the case was completed by both sides Tuesday morning and the arguments were made in the afternoon after which Judge Brown took the papers and reserved decision.

Attorney J. J. Desmond appeared for the plaintiff, W. H. Shields Jr. and A. M. Brown for the defendant.

ENTERTAINED MEMBERS OF CHARITABLE CIRCLE, K. D.

Nineteen members of Charitable Circle, King's Daughters, were entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. William H. Dawley at her home on Robbins Court. Games were played and there were vocal and instrumental selections. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dawley.

J. D. C. Social Meeting.

The first social meeting of the J. D. C. of Elizabeth street school was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Alice Parsons of Elizabeth street. A business meeting was held after which games and dancing were enjoyed. The feature of the evening was a mock marriage, the parts being taken as follows: bride, Ruth Sadinsky; groom, Shirley Tempcian; flower girls, Alice Parsons and Lillian Blinderman; minister, Selma Goldberg.

After the ceremony a reception was held and refreshments served. About twenty-five members attended the meeting. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Miss Esther Hertz.

RAYMOND HILL FARMER FINED BY JUDGE SMIDDY

Augustus Sandberg, a farmer and milkman of Raymond Hill, was before justice of the peace William Smiddy [illegible] Monday after a raid on Sandberg's place by state policeman [illegible] and others who found there 150 gallons of wine that tested between 7 and 8 per cent. Sandberg, who is believed to have distributed wine while on his milk route, was presented on the charge of manufacturing without a permit to which he pleaded guilty. He was fined $150 and costs, amounting in all to $156.27. Another count against him was nolled.

Music at Backus Hospital.

The music at the Backus hospital Sunday afternoon was provided by Messrs. Rush and Aldrich who rendered pleasing vocal solos and by Miss Nellie Howie, whose piano solos and accompaniments were delightfully given. The programme was arranged by Charitable Circle of The King's Daughters.

SHENANDOAH BLOWN FROM HER MOORINGS AND DRIVEN BEFORE NORTHEAST GALE; UNDER CONTROL; WILL RIDE OUT STORM

Broke Loose With a Crash Early Last Night—Previous to Wireless Assurance, Officials Held Out Little Hope For Her Safety—Is Fighting Her Way Home Against Wind That Reached a Velocity of 72 Miles an Hour—Believe Storm Will Abate Before Daylight—Every Officer and Man at the Lakehurst Station Has Been Ordered to Stand By, Ready to Help Ship Land—Captain Henin is on Board With the Crew—Ship Has Rations, Fuel and Oil to Last 48 Hours.

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 16.—(By the A. P.)—The world's largest airship, the navy dirigible Shenandoah, twisted loose from her mooring mast, early last night and swept along the Atlantic coast by a gale that reached 72 miles an hour was gallantly fighting her way home tonight.

For more than an hour officials at the naval air station held out little hope for her safety. Wireless messages finally indicated that the ship was under control and would ride out the storm.

While it could not be learned whether the attempt would be made to land her tonight, Lieutenant J. C. Sanderson, meteorologist, said he believed the storm would die down before daylight and it might be possible to bring the ship back to her hangar. Every man and officer on the station was ordered to stand by ready to help with the landing should the ship return, while acres of land about the station were illuminated with huge searchlights.

Reassuring Message

Then came messages by wireless from Commander Pierce, who with Captain Heinen, who helped build the ship, was in command when she tore away, assuring the officers that "Everything is O. K. We will ride out the storm."

The Shenandoah tore loose with a crash. All day she had been swayed to and fro by a strong wind and there was considerable speculation as to whether the ship should be returned to her hangar. Those in command, however, declared the test was to determine how strong a wind the ship could stand, and that they were confident she would remain aloft.

Telephone and telegraph wires were blown down by the storm and it was many minutes before any work whatsoever had been received concerning the Shenandoah's fate. Finally, came the report that she was over Westfield, N. J., and that her engines had been heard humming over the city as the excited populace stood on housetops in the blinding rain to watch the delivery airship glide through the darkness.

As the Shenandoah reached Newark, her wireless outfit began to function and the "all O. K." message was received.

The storm started early this afternoon and the Shenandoah strained at her mooring mast but Captain McCrary expressed confidence that she would hold.

Commander Weyerbacher and Captain McCrary were at mess when she broke away. Captain Heinen was on board with the crew.

Officers pointed out that Captain Heinen, who came here from Germany to help supervise the building of the air craft, was one of the most efficient operators of lighter-than-air ships in the world. They based their hopes for a safe return of the dirigible upon his ability to manouver her through the severe gale that was accompanied in this section by a blinding rain.

Broke Away With Crash

The Shenandoah broke away from her mast shortly before 7 o'clock. A crash audible above the roar of the storm brought officers and men from their barracks. But they scarcely had had time to adjust field glasses before she was lost in the darkness and rain.

As the alarmed men of the air station gazed upward bits of the torn outter rigging floated down up their heads. This caused considerable alarm as it was not known how badly the ship had been damaged.

Officers pointed out that there was no danger of an explosion aboard the Shenandoah as she is filled with non-explosive helium gas. Aside from the fact that she might drift into northern wilds and beyond civilization little fear was expressed for the safety of the men as it was believed the ship would stay aloft for a considerable length of time.

The few persons who saw the ship actually break away said she lurched uncertainly as the storm increased in intensity then rising slowly began to drift to the northwest.

Metal Nose Torn Away

The metal nose cap which held the Shenandoah to her mast, was completely torn away. The entire framework of the ship converges into this cap and officers pointed out that the danger of this framework being torn away from the gas-bag was greater than any other. Commander Weyerbacher said he had little hope of the ship returning safely, but if it was humanely possible to bring this about he was sure Captain Heinen could do it.

When it was learned that the Shenandoah was keeping aloft, however, fears began to abate and the officers placed their hopes upon the well known ability of Captain Heinen and Commander PPierce to manoeuver their craft.

Fierce Battle With Wind

The Shenandoah had a fierce battle with the wind before she was able to turn her nose toward New Jersey. Her engines were running with a terrific roar but at times the gale drove her in the opposite direction. Time and again the huge craft would rise high in the air, then plunge downward to within three hundred or four hundred feet of the ground. It was believed this action was taken by the commander to keep her from going too high in the air.

After nearly three-quarters of an hour the storm abated, and lights along the New Jersey coast gave those on board a chance to see in which direction they were going. The craft slowly nose about and headed in the direction of Lakehurst.

Mast Not Injured

Investigation showed that the main part of the mast was not damaged, it having been built to stand a hurricane nad would not buckle under a gale of 110 miles an hour. The type of mast had played an important part in the plans for the Polar flight.

Making Four Miles an Hour

At midnight Captain McCrary received the following wireless message from Commander Pierce:

"At South Amboy. Making good four miles per hour to the south."

South Amboy is north of Lakehurst and this message confirmed reports that the ship was heading home.

"There is little doubt now," said Commander Weyerbacher, "that Captain Heinen will bring the Shenandoah back at the first opportunity he has to land. That is up to him. When he comes down we will put the ship in the hangar."

PREPARING TO LAND SHENANDOAH AT 3 P. M.

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 17—Preparations were being made at the naval air station to land the Shenandoah at 3 o'clock this morning after a wireless message had been received at 1:15 a. m., from Commander Pierce stating that the ship was over Keyport, N. J., traveling at cruising speed and that all six motors were working.

FLYING LOW AS SHE PASSED WESTFIELD, N. J.

Westfield, N. J., Jan. 16—The navy dirigible Shenandoah which broke from her mooring at Lakehurst, N. J. passed over here tonight. She was flying low at a considerable speed with her engines sounding a terrific roar. Apparently those on board were trying to turn the craft against the wind but with little success.

Westfield, N. J., is approximately 60 miles almost due north of Lakehurst. This the Giant airship had travelled at almost the rate of a mile a minute since breaking from her mooring mast.

The dirigible apparently was fighting a head wind. For more than five minutes she remained almost stationary above the center of the city then moved slowly again to the north. It was evident that the pilot, in a measure, was succeeding in his fight for control of the ship.

CLOSE TO GROUND OVER MEADOWS NEAR NEWARK

Newark, N. J., Jan. 16—Newark police headquarters reported that the Shenandoah had been sighted close to the ground over the Kearney meadows. She had been hovering there for twenty minutes, it was reported, apparently trying to make a landing. The meadows are between Jersey City and Newark.

The Shenandoah hovered but 300 feet above the ground, according to employes of the cord plant, who said they could hear members of her crew shouting to one another at intervals. After remaining there about half an hour, the Shenandoah drifted higher and was last reported above Bayonne headed for Staten Island.

The Shenandoah was going backward while passing over Westfield, with her lights waking intermittently, according to advices received by Colonel F. H. Lawton, quartermaster at Governor's Island. This indicated that the crew had the airship's nose turned toward the wind in an attempt to move back toward the landing station.

Captain Martin, a reserve officer living in Westfield, was Col. Lawton's informant. All the engines of the craft apparently were going full speed, Captain Martin reported, and the airship was being driven in a northwesterly direction.

PROJECT TO ESTABLISH ACADEMY OF DPLOMACY

New York, Jan. 16.—Congress will be asked to establish an academy of diplomacy for the training of American youths as statesmen, it was announced today at a meeting of the board of governors of the Sulgrave Institute.

The request will be made in connection with a plan for a nationwide bi-centennial celebration of George Washington's birth in 1932, which was outlined at today's meeting. The diplomats' academy would be but one of several memorials to the first president.

Plans already are under way for drafting a bill providing for the statesmen's school, to which, as now proposed, pupils would be appointed as they are to the army and navy academies at West Point and Annapolis, and for its introduction in congress at an early date.

Decisive Defeat of The Mexican Rebels

Washington, Jan. 16—Mexican federal forces have defeated the revolutionists in a hard battle at Tepeaca which has resulted in reducing "a strong element of the rebel army to impotence," the Mexican embassy said in a statement tonight based on official advices from Mexico City.

"Rebels under Generals Maycotte and Villarreal have been decisively defeated after a hard battle at Tepeaca," the statement said. "After being driven from Tehuacan by federal troops under General Eugenio Martinez the enemy took up a position at Tepeaca on the railroad between Tehuacan and Puebla.

"General Urbalejo attacked them here and completely broke up the command which was made up of several of the strongest units at the disposal of the Vera Cruz rebels.

"On the Jalisco front the federals continue the advance on the rebels who still are falling back and refusing to give battle.

There are numerous skirmishes but a formal battle has not yet taken place. The retreat cannot continue much further, however, before the rebels will be forced to disperse or take a position and fight."

"In the oil regions around Tuxpam federal troops are continuing the campaign to restore normal conditions in the oil fields formerly held by the rebels. The region of federal control is being gradually and materially extended.

"The zone of the rebellion is confined to the Vera Cruz and Jalisco districts and the remainder of the republic continues normal under federal control."

WILSON APPROVES NEW YORK FOR DEM. CONVENTION

Washington, Jan. 16.—Whatever may be the difference among democrats as to the party's standard bearers next summer and fall, there were no evident sore spots left over the award to New York city of the 1924 convention when the democratic national committee adjourned today. Members tonight were speeding home to gird the democratic hosts for the coming clash with their political foes and declaring for a vigorous and intensive campaign.

Upon the adjournment of the national committee, when members visited former President Wilson and Mrs. Wilson at their S street home, Mr. Wilson added his approbation to the choice of New York.

"I am very glad the convention was given to New York," Mr. Wilson told Chairman Hull of the national committee, adding an expression of pleasure over the results of the committee's work here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson tendered an informal reception to the committeemen and women, shaking hands with the visitors as they passed in a long line through the Wilson library. Earlier the committee had adopted formal resolutions greeting Mr. Wilson and commending his administration and its "high ideals."

CONTROVERSY IN HOUSE ON THE RULES QUESTION

Washington, Jan. 16.—Desire of house members to talk prevented another show down today on the rules question but an agreement was reached to have a vote tomorrow on the main point of contention—how many names should be required on petitions for the discharge of committees.

Republican organization leaders favor a minimum of 150 names while the republican insurgents and democrats have been advocating a 100 name minimum.

The debate today for the most part was of a political nature, democrats attacking the republicans, with occasional aid from an insurgent while the regular republicans spent most of their time criticising the views of the insurgents and democrats.

The discussion indicated that on the vote tomorrow there would be some defection, making it somewhat doubtful whether the democrats and insurgents would be able to bowl over republican organization as they did Monday when they brought about repeal of the Underwood amendment rule.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH MURDER OF HER HUSBAND

Boston, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Matilda Khouri was arrested late today on a warrant charging the murder of her husband Louis J. Khouri in the Dorchester district last October. She was dressed in deep mourning when she was taken to police headquarters.

The police found Khouri lying dead in his home with a bullet wound in the head after his wife had informed them that she had heard a shot and had discovered her husband apparently dying. The police and the medical examiner at the time attributed the death to suicide. The authorities have not made public the evidence which led them to seek the arrest of Mrs. Khouri. Husband and wife had been known as prize dancers.

AWARDED THE HIGHEST HORTICULTURAL HONOR

Boston, Jan. 16—The Massachusetts Horticultural Society announced today that it had awarded the George Robert White medal, said to be the highest horticultural honor in the country, to John McLaren, superintendent of the Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. He is the fifteenth recipient.

McLaren is known on the Pacific Coast as the "Nestor of horticulture." He contributed to much of the beauty of the Panama Pacific Exposition, and attracted attention by his improvements of Golden Gate Park. He was born in Scotland in 1846.

RADIO MESSAGE FROM MACMILLAN IN GREENLAND

Boston, Jan. 16—A radio message from Danold MacMillan, the explorer whose ship, the Bowdoin, is frozen in the ice of north Greenland 1,000 miles beyond the arctic circle, was cheered at the annual meeting of the Boston alumni of Bowdoin college here tonight the message said the Bowdoin flag, "The most northern flag flying in all the world," was hoisted tonight in honor of the gathering. It was received at a radio station at Prince Rupert, British Columbia, in reply to a message sent some days ago in behalf of the alumni association.

France Aroused by Financial Plight

Drastic Remedies Were Debated in Chamber and Senate Lobbies.

Paris, Jan. 16.—Premier Poincare, Finance Minister De Lasteyrie, other members of the cabinet and the government's financial advisers today put the finishing touches on the 20 per cent tax increase and economy measures, while the chamber and senate lobbies became veritable debating halls where active discussion preceded regarding the adequacy and difficulties of the government's drastic remedies.

The chamber opposition was particularly outspoken, insisting that the premier should discuss the exchange crisis and the general financial situation tomorrow before calling upon parliament to ratify his program. The finance minister was to have appeared before the finance commission of the chamber this afternoon, but he was kept in conference by M. Poincare and the meeting was not held.

HAVOC WROUGHT BY STORM ON LAND AND AT SEA

New York, Jan. 16—A 72-mile gale, driving clouds of heavy rain, swept the Atlantic coast today and tonight, demoralizing shipping, interfering with travel ashore, disrupting street traffic in the cities, damaging property and injuring many persons. Not the least of the storms' capers were tearing the navy dirigible Shenandoah from her mooring mast at Lakehurst, N. J., and buffeting her along the Atlantic coast.

Three steamships and a barge were in distress. The small Danish freighter Normannd awas sinking fast off Fire Island lightship, on the Virginia coast, while vessels raced to her assistance. An unidentified steamship displayed distress signals off Asbury Park, N. J., and another also of unknown identity stood in dangerously close to the beach off Bayhead, N. J.

The crew of a barge which went ashore off Long Beach, N. Y., appealed for aid.

The storm raged so furiously in New York city that estimates of the damage were unavailable, but a cursory examination showed many windows broken, trees uprooted and automobiles damaged.

City Hall Park, between the Woolworth and municipal buildings, one of the windiest areas in the city, was a graveyard of umbrellas, scores of them flying about.

A famous elm which stood beside the courthouse, was blown down.

Eighteen persons were injured in vehicular accidents, the driving rain making it difficult to see.

Forecasts were for a severe drop in the temperature, probably to 20 degrees above zero, when the southeast gales shift to the west tomorrow, with the possibility of snow.

The Liberty, a coal barge, sank off Ellis Island, with no casualties, but in a position dangerous to harbor craft.

A 25-foot section of the flag pole atop the Hotel Woodward at Broadway and 55th street was blown down, but burst into fragments when it was flown against the building on its downward journey, warning pedestrians and injuring only one man.

A FOURTH OFFER FOR THE MUSCLE SHOALS PROPERTIES

Washington, Jan. 16.—Another offer for the development of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., properties by private capital was received today by Secretary Weeks from sources which the secretary declined to reveal but characterized as financially reliable. The war secretary also refused to discuss details of the new proposal, explaining that he first would have a study made by engineer and ordnance experts and later would decide what action might be taken by the department with reference to its final disposition.

This makes the fourth offer now pending, the others including that of Henry Ford, one from a group of southern power companies, and one the identity of which has not been revealed.

Secretary Weeks announced receipt of the proposal after he had conferred briefly with E. H. Hooker, of Niagara Falls, N. Y. Mr. Hooker is president of the Electrochem company of Niagara Falls, and is known to have discussed Muscle Shoals questions with Secretary Weeks at various times recently. He declined, however, to say anything about today's conference.

COOLIDGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

New York, Jan. 16.—President Coolidge will add his tribute to that of thousands of others at memorial exercises for Benjamin Franklin to be held about the Franklin statue in Park Row on the anniversary of the colonial hero's birthday tomorrow.

In a letter to the Franklin memorial committee of the Sons of the American Revolution, which will have charge of the program, the president wrote that he was sending a wreath to be placed at the base of the statue. "No American career more deserves the gratitude and reverence of the nation than does that of Franklin," the president wrote. "He was one of that marvelous group of revolutionary leaders, each of whom seemed to be in his particular department a supreme genius. His life's story is replete with illumination of the problems of our time."

INTERNAL DISSENSION IN TARIFF COMMISSION

Washington, Jan. 16.—Notice of internal dissention in the tariff commission was taken in congress today, Representative Griffin, democrat, New York, introducing a resolution calling for an investigation by the house ways and means committee of "a report" by a member of the commission held an interest in a sugar corporation.

The action was taken as a result of the row during opening hearings of the commission on the sugar tariff yesterday when Commissioner Glassie said his wife and members of her family were owners of a Louisiana sugar plantation and mill. The commission divided equally among its membership on the question of Mr. Glassie participating in disposition of the sugar case.

REVELATIONS OF ALLEGED BOSTON "BLACKMAIL GANG"

Attorney Harry E. Levenson Pleaded Guilty to Two Charges of Conspiracy After Counsel Had Withdrawn From Case—Evidence Involves Two District Attorneys and One Federal District Attorney—Names Three Men Who Acted as Lures to Entice Prospective Victims Into Compromising Situations—Operations Were Conducted at the Copley Square Hotel.

Boston, Jan. 16—Harry E. Levenson, a Boston attorney, on trial with William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, on charges of conspiracy to extort money from various persons under threat of prosecution appeared before Judge McLaughlin in superior court late today and pleaded guilty to all the counts in the indictments against him which have not been nol. prossed. Corcoran, Levenson and others are under indictment in connection with alleged attempts to extort money from Max Korn, Kenneth Merrill and others in connection with the activities of a "blackmail ring" for which several women were said to have acted as lures.

After evidence given yesterday by Harry A. Benwell, a newspaper reporter, who related information which he said Levenson had given him, two of the attorneys representing Levenson retired from the case. The third announcement when court opened today that he no longer represented Levenson, who informed the judge that he would conduct his own defense thereafter. Late in the day District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien announced that Levenson desired to change his plea to guilty. The defendant, who was pale and appeared to be ill, was then formally arraigned.

Benwell in his testimony, which the court declared was admissible only against Levenson, said the defendant had told him that "the game" at one time was in a wonderful position, having "two district attorneys, one federal district attorney, while it ran a man for attorney general who was defeated." Levenson, the witness said, had named Nathan A. Tufts, former district attorney of Middlesex county who was removed from office for malfeasance, Joseph C. Pelletier, former district attorney of Suffolk county, also removed from office, Daniel J. Gallagher and Robert J. Bottomley, the latter at one time a candidate for attorney general.

The witness said that Levenson mentioned the names of three men who acted as lures to entice prospective victims into compromising situations and the names of three "victims" who were used, Benwell said, to obtain information required by the "ring". Another statement attributed to Levenson by this witness was that Ernest B. Sprackin manager of the Copley Square Hotel, had declared that the (Sprackin) had immunity as J. Weston Allen, then attorney general, had been "caught with a stenographer at that hotel." The witness said Levenson told him the amounts of money made by the ring in operations conducted at the Copley Square Hotel.

The trial of Corcoran and eight others in the so-called "blackmail cases" began last fall but was declared a mistrial in November when Judge Quinn, who was presiding, became ill. It was renewed January 7, only Corcoran and Levenson appearing as defendants. The district attorney has not yet made known when the other defendants will be tried. They are Leo Corcoran, J. Warren Kane, Theodore Hearse, Theresa Duggan, Francis Duggan and Michael J. Lyons; Ernest B. Sprackin, manager of the Copley Square Hotel was indicted on similar charges after his testimony in the previous trial.

GREECE LOOKING FOR RECOGNITION BY THE U. S.

Athens, Jan. 16—(By the A. P.)—The Venizelos newspapers are jubilant over Great Britain's resumption of relations wit hGreece and express the hope that the United States will follow this lead. The foreign office informed the Associated Press this morning that it had instructed the Greek minister at Washington to sound the United States government on the question of recognition, and is confidently hoping to receive a favorable response before the end of the week.

At its session last night the Greek cabinet considered the question of removing the ban imposed by the late revolutionary government against the royalist newspapers. The cabinet decided, however, that inasmuch as the ban was a revolutionary decree it would leave revocation to the constituent assembly with the recommendation that it be abolished. By also leaving the question of the amnesty or banishment of military officers or civilians imprisoned for participation in the recent counter-revolution to the assembly the cabinet indicates a desire to respect the revolutionary decrees and its unwillingness to set a precedent by abrogating them without consulting the assembly.

Although Premier Venizelos insists that the officers' league, which forced the banishment of the king, has been dissolved, many are of the belief that General Othonaios, General Pangelos and other republican officers are keeping the machinery intact, awaiting the outcome of the plebiscite.

APPROVE BILL WHICH WOULD BAR ORIENTALS

Washington, Jan. 16—Approval was given today by the house immigration committee to a provision of the Johnson immigration bill which bars Orientals from the United States. The provision stipulates that no alien, ineligible for citizenship is to be permitted to enter this country to take up permanent residence.

The committee approved an amendment by Representative Raker, democrat, California, which would place in the hands of American immigration officers determination of what individuals should be exempt from the restrictions, certain classes as students and merchants being permitted entry for a temporary stay in the United States under the bill.

Representative Free, republican, California, joined with Mr. Raker in advocating adoption of the amendment. They pointed out that under the "gentlemen's agreement" with Japan, citizens of that country, once granted passports, have been admitted to this country without question. Under the amendment Japanese entering American ports, regardless of passports, would be subjected to examination by immigration officers to determine whether they should be permitted to land.

CONNONS TO VOTE ON GOVT MONDAY NIGHT

London, Jan. 16—(By the A. P.)—A division on the labor party's non-confidence amendment will be taken in the house of commons at 11 o'clock Monday night, it was practically decided today. This means that the Baldwin government will resign on Tuesday. Parliament will then adjourn probably for three weeks, to allow J. Ramsay MacDonald to form a cabinet.

While waiting for the culmination of these developments, there is a sense of unreality and half-heartedness about the debates in the commons.

Some of the labor men today tried to hurry affairs so that in the event of a railway strike materializing during the week-end, the new labor government should be in power to deal with it. But there are a number of liberal speakers anxious to make their case for supporting labor's non-confidence amendment clear in the eyes of their constituents, and their speeches will occupy most of Friday's sitting and push the division over to Monday.

CAPE BRETON AND NOVA SCOTIA MINERS ARE IDLE

Sydney, N. S., Jan. 16.—All the coal mines of Cape Breton and the Nova Scotia mainland were idle today.

The 12,000 members of District 26, United Mine Workers of America, suspended work because their contract expired last midnight, negotiators failed to agree on a new one, and the British Empire Steel corporation lopped 20 per cent from the wage rate of 9,000 of its men.

Whether the suspension shall become a strike awaits the decision of John L. Lewis, president of the U. M. W. of A., to whom Silby Barrett, provisional president of the district, today submitted the miners' side of the case.

Barrett claimed, in his reports to Lewis and Dominion authorities, that the miners' delegation to the wage conferences which collapsed last night, offered to continue at work under the lapsed contract, the whole question to be submitted to a board of conciliation.

Steel corporation officials declared however, that the miners demanded increases of fifty-five cents an hour for day men and twenty per cent for contract miners. The mine operators reported further that the labor delegation had refused to consider an offer to extend the lapsed contract with a provision for a twenty per cent wage reduction from December first to April first, but compensating provisions guaranteeing workers in some mines five days' employment a week and in other mines four days.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Augustus Thomas, playwright urged abolishment of theatre admission taxes before the house ways and means committee.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, assailed France for failure to adjust its debt to the United States.

The house immigration committee approved a provision of the Johnson bill which would bar Orientals from the United States.

Former Secretary Fall was accused of having "betrayed the high trust imposed in him." In a speech by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas dealing with the teapot dome naval oil reserve lease.

President Coolidge addressing delegates to the anti-saloon league convention said there was "no such thing as liberty without observance of law."

WIND UPROOTED MANY TREES IN MERIDEN

Meriden, Jan. 16—Meriden was swept tonight for several hours by the most severe wind and rain storm experienced here in years. Numerous trees were uprooted, carrying down with them telephone and electric light wires, both of these services being considerably crippled. Fallen poles interfered with the local and Wallingford trolley service. Several windows and ski-lights were sent crashing into the streets in the business district. No injuries were reported.

TUG HAS GONE TO AID OF THE CRUISER TACOMA

Pensacola, Fla., Jan. 16—The naval tug Allegheny sailed from here this after for Blanquilla Reefe, near Vera Cruz, where the U. S. S. Tacoma was reported to be in need of assistance. It will require approximately two days for the tug to reach Tacoma.

Women customs officers are now employed by the Canadian department of customs at nearly all the important points on the United States border.

The case of Frank Gervais, charged with keeping a disorderly house, which was taken up Monday, was disposed of Wednesday morning in the police court. Further evidence was introduced to show that the tenement kept by Gervais, in the Stone Row, was a menace to the neighborhood.

Mrs. Helen Ladda, of 976 Main street, said that her husband sometimes visited at the Gervais home and on one occasion she went to get him and found a woman of questionable character lying on one of the beds and five men in the room. She said that men habitually congregated in Gervais' flat and often times started a disturbance. Two chickens had once been stolen from her coop and taken to the Gervais place where they were cooked and eaten.

Captain Thomas Grady, and Lieut. Frank McLean of the police department, testified to the bad character of the place and that they had often warned Gervais and his guests to keep quiet.

Gervais said that he could not do heavy work, due to an injury to his left leg sustained while chopping wood. Up to a short time ago he was receiving compensation for this injury. Tenants in the block helped him and when the woodchoppers came out of the woods and visited with him, they gave him sums of money. He said that the story about the chickens as told by Mrs. Ladda was true but that it was her husband who was responsible for the affair. Judge Foss sentenced Gervais to 30 days in Brooklyn jail.

Richard Malley was amazed to find that he was in Willimantic, when he sobered up in the local lock-up, after being arrested Tuesday night on a charge of intoxication. Malley had two scripts in his pockets. One bottle of good whiskey was nearly empty and another bottle was filled with alcohol.

The labels bore the name of a Danielson druggist, showing that the contents were secured in a legal way. Malley said that he lived on a small farm in Pomfret Landing with his mother. She had rheumatism and when he went to Danielson to secure a prescription he managed to get one pint of whiskey for his own use. He intended to use the alcohol to rub on his mother's joints for her ailment. He used the whiskey to soothe his liquor eventually before the judge. Malley appetite and landed in Willimantic and said that he had never been arrested before. He was given a chance and Judge Foss continued the case for three months. In the meantime Malley's story is to be investigated.

A tassel of silken texture, which was shot from the colors carried in the battle of Brandywine, September 11, 1777, is the interesting and valuable relic in the possession of F. B. Hills, of The Ridges.

This relic of the Revolutionary war was given to Mr. Hills when a young boy by his grandmother, who was a daughter of John Miller, a Revolutionary war veteran and the bearer of the colors in the Brandywine battle. The secretary of the interior at Washington, who is the custodian of records of all wars, has advised Mr. Hill that Mr. Miller, his ancestor, enlisted in Captain John Wither's company, Colonel Ferry's Battalion of Pennsylvania Associators. At the battle he carried the colors all day without sustaining personal injury, he was complimented by General George Washington for his bravery and success. Mr. Miller died in 1846. He was receiving a pension of $15 a month, according to the records. The tassel, which was quite worn, was found on the battlefield after the fray.

Willimantic has been caught in the general slump in the textile business now sweeping New England. With two exceptions, all the plants in the city are operating on short time. The Holland Silk company has cut down from 48 hours a week to 36 1-4 hours running five days from 8 a. m. until 4.15 p. m. The plant is closed Saturdays.

The Windham Silk company is on a 43 3-4 hour a week schedule, operating five days from 7 a .m. to 4.45 p. m., and closing down Saturdays.

A thirty-hour a week schedule is in effect at the Quidnck-Windham Cotton Manufacturing company plant. The mills operate Monday, Tuesday and Wednesdays, ten hours a day. The American Thread company is also on short time the manufacturing department working four days a week.

With orders ahead which it will require about two months to fill and the prospect of more, the Rossie Velvet company is operating on full time. The J. D. Chaffee Braid company is the other textile plant which is on full time.

There is considerable local interest in the hearing of the case of Barlow M. Diamond and his brother Joseph, in New York, this week, due to the fact that Barlow was arrested here on Labor day night, September 4, 1922. Diamond then gave his name as William Evers of 265 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., and a man with him said that he was William Lukarter of No. 1031 East Tenth street, Brooklyn, N. Y. The men were charged with carrying concealed weapons. Evers, alias Diamond, said that he owned the Cadillac touring car in which they were riding but that he did not have the registration for it.

The two men had stopped in Woodstock, and were stealing apples. When warned away by the owner, one of the men fired a shot at the farmer and the couple sped away. Surrounding cities were notified and when they came through this city, Lieutenant Frank McLean, then a patrolman, recognized the machine and jumped on the running board. McLean took them to the police station where one of the men hid his revolver under an umbrella rack, but it was found later. Diamond later admitted that they were out to steal a Cadillac coupe.

District Deputy President Minnie S. Amburn and suite of Norwich, installed the officers of Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. F., at a largely attended meeting preceded by an excellent chicken supper, Tuesday evening. Visitors were present from Norwich and Danielson. Mrs. Charles E. Lovett, president of the state assembly, addressed the meeting briefly and remarks were made by the visitors. The institution of a lodge in Wethersfield will take place February 25. The officers who were installed are: Noble grand, Mrs. Margaret B. Sears vice grand, Mrs. Amory P. Brown; recording secretary, Miss Marion Ellsworth; financial secretary, Mrs. Minnie G. Wilson; treasurer, Mrs. Eleanor Ford; warden, Mrs. Lillian Hersant; conductor, Mrs. Gertrude W. Mathieu; chaplain, Mrs. Nettie Reynolds; right supporter to the noble grand, Mrs. Minnie Mathieu; left supported to the noble grand, Mrs. Blanche Congdon; right supporter to the vice grand, Miss Sadie E. Gurley; left supported to the vice grand, Mrs. Gertrude Jackson.

The annual entertainment of the American Thread Athletic association, is now practically ready to be launched. The event will be held the latter part of this month and elaborate preparations have been made with a view of making this year's entertainment surpass any of its predecessors. The committee in charge follows: Bert F. Mann, Anna McGlone, Carleton P. King, Michael F. Sullivan, Margaret Ronan, Marion McCarthy, John Moriarty, John P. McQuillan and Joseph Vincolette. Charles W. Hill, the president of the association, is assisting P. D. Donohue si to decorate the hall as is customary.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lulu A. Hall were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at her home on Lebanon avenue. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead pastor of the Methodist church and Rev. Frederick F. Fosgay pastor of the Baptist church, conducted the services. Burial was in Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Marvin Hall, George Hall, Charles W. Hill and Eugene M. Lewis. On request, Charles B. Jordan, tenor of the Congregational church sang two hymns. The arrangements were in charge of Avery and Van Zandt.

The funeral of Rita Keskie was held Sunday afternoon. The body was placed in the receiving vault of St. Joseph's cemetery. The Hurteau-Bosse Corp. were in charge of the arrangements.

The funeral of Anderson Oliver Martin was held at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon at his home in Lebanon. The services were conducted by Rev. John H. Knott, of Chaplin. Burial was in the Center cemetery, Lebanon. The bearers were, George E., Ernest and Anderson O. Martin, Jr., Hayward C. Martin and A. N. Church. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

There was a slight collision of automobiles in North Windham Monday evening when cars driven by Myron Lyons of that place and Rev. John H. Knott of Chaplin came together. It was said that Lyons was driving a machine owned by M. E. Lincoln of this city.

A Ford coupe owned and driven by Miss Ora E. Miner was given a broadside blow early Wednesday afternoon, at the intersection of Union and Jackson streets by a Ford delivery truck driven by Thomas Murphy and owned by the United Music company. Miss Miner was driving down Jackson street and Murphy was coming from the opposite direction. Miss Miner turned to come up Union street and so did Murphy and he drove into the side of the Ford coupe. The matter was reported to the police and a settlement was reached by the parties.

George M. Flint, the newly appointed superintendent of streets and sewers began his duties Wednesday morning. The new official made an early start. He left his home on Ash street and was the first man to arrive on the job at the city yard on Watson street. Superintendent Flint will not have to walk long, however, for he has purchased an automobile. Following his appointment as superintendent the news got around that he did not own an automobile, consequently all the local dealers camped on his trail for a few days. Mr. Flint finally went to the Jordan Auto company garage and ordered a Dodge touring car.

The mid-week prayer and study hour was held at the Methodist church Wednesday evening, beginning at 7.30 o'clock. The book entitled "World Service" was used. This (Thursday) evening, the fourth quarterly conference is to be held in the church parlors. Rev. William H. Bath of Norwich, district superintendent will preside. Friday the social program for the Epworth league will consist ow two reels of moving pictures, music and literary entertainments and games.

Willimantic will probably soon find itself in the middle of a civic battle, such as recently raged in Danielson, as the matter of providing better lights on the city streets has already been broached, at a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce.

At the home of Mrs. E. B. Crane on Windham road there was a meeting of the Home Missionary society of the Baptist church Tuesday.

JEWETT CITY

The body of James Colling was brought from Bridgeport to St. Mary's cemetery in Lisbon, Wednesday afternoon, for burial. The committal service was by Rev. J. J. McCabe. The bearers were John Fitzgerald, James Ward, John Govern, Charles Connell, Arthur and Charles Flannigan. Misses Nellie Connell and Agnes Shea went to Bridgeport to attend the funeral They were accompanied by Misses Edna Ward and May Govern, of Wauregan.

John P. Gorman, one of the town's most beloved men, is ill with pneumonia at the home of his niece, Mrs. M. J. Curran, 114 Lafayette St. Norwich. He was taken to her home Monday, and is under the care of a nurse.

The recital by Richmond Gardner, one of Jewett City's boys, who is beginning a very promising musical career, is eagerly anticipated by his friends. For so young a lad, he has already acquitted himself with rare distinction, according to the criticisms of some of the leading papers in France, where he has been staying. He plans to return to the conservatory at Fontainebleau in February. Interest in his success is evidently keen in Norwich and surrounding places, for his modesty, as well as his merit, has won him many sincere admirers.

Officer of Reliance Lodge, No. 28, I. O. O. F. were installed Monday evening by District Deputy Grand Master John F. Amburn and staff, of Norwich all the officers were present. Refreshments, a social hour and a smoker were enjoyed. The officers are:

The electric lights were out of commission in the borough Wednesday evening, due to the high wind and terrific southeaster. The trouble was not local, but on the high tension line between Jewett City and Danielson. The line is in such bad condition that there is trouble frequently. That is the reason a new line direct from Montville to Jewett City is under construction.

Basketball fans witnessed the fastest game of the season Tuesday evening when the Plainfield High School five defeated the fast quintet representing Oxford High school 34 to 30. Plainfield Community house. The game was a battle royal throughout. In the first half, Plainfield was not running true to form, and the Oxford boys came out on the long end of the score at the end of the half, 19-14, but in the last half Plainfield came back strong. Clean playing, sharp passing, swift floor work and accurate shooting marked this half. In the third quarter, Gallup was eliminated on personal fouls and was succeeded by Tyler. The quarter ended with the score 25-23. But the last quarter told the story, and Plainfield rejoiced over a 34-30 score.

AT THE PALACE

The program for the last three days of the week is one of exceptional entertaining qualities every act on the bill being selected with this one purpose in view. Heading the vaudeville will be The Joy Shop with a company of excellent entertainers in a barage of songs dance and plenty of fast, snappy music. This act is very sure to please as it comes to the Palace with a fine reputation. Winifred and Brown in a Darktown Scandal is a positive riot, as there is not a dull moment of the fifteen that they hold the stage. There is just one laugh after another and as that is what people attend the theatre for, this act will surely prove a positive cure for the blues. Fred Schwartz and Co., in The Broken Mirror, is another act of the pure fire kind, containing comedy, wit and everything to please. Merritt and Coughlan, a versatile couple in songs and screams will add greatly to the bill, as they are in every sense of the word versatile. Their singing being the kind you all like to hear. Leno-Moll and Carr in Sounding About, are clever acrobats, and will provide the thrills which we all enjoy.

The feature picture a David Belasco production "The Gold Diggers" featuring Hope Hampton, Windham Standing, Louise Fazenda and an all star cast is a classic of the screen.

The story, in brief, tells how a certain group of chorus girls, in their time, offstage, spend their time and energy in a pastime that is popularly known as "gold digging." This consists in extracting money, jewels clothing, entertainment and, in fact anything of value from the men with whom they are on friendly terms.

So this group of girls enjoy themselves and have all thir desires gratified, while they themselves give nothing in return. Everything goes along very nicely until one of the young men really falls in love with one of the chorus girls.

This is an unexpected turn in events and the proposition is put up to Jerry Lamar, the leader of the gold diggers. But when the young man decides to marry the girl, further complications set in when his uncle, Stephen Lee, informs him that if he marries a show girl he will be disinherited from several million dollars.

Are You a Tired Out Housewife?

Many people do not realize that the most exhausting of all work is housework and the care of children. Many a woman who should be in the prime of life finds her strength gone, her nerves unstrung and is weak, worn out and run down with pale, thin, watery blood from the strain of housework.

In such cases, what you need is something to put more iron into your blood. Nuxated Iron contains iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, and like the iron in your blood. You will be astonished at how much better you feel after in even a few days.

Try taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks, and you will see color come back to your lips and cheeks, you will not be so easily upset by trifles, and best of all, you will find that you have more strength and energy and endurance for your daily tasks. At all good druggists.

There are two big reasons why we have decided to extend this money-saving opportunity in the city's finest clothing store.

One is that we were unable to accommodate all those who wished to take advantage of this offering in the early days of this sale.

The second reason is that the condition of the roads prevented a great many people from coming in from the surrounding towns and country districts. It is only fair to extend the sale for their benefit.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Annual Meeting of the United Workers at Park Church

Dr. Frankwood E. Williams, who is to speak at the mmaurel workers annual meeting is medical director of the national committee for mental hygiene, and editor of Mental Hygiene, the quarterly journal of the national committee.

He also is a frequent contributor to medical and social journals.

Dr. Williams graduated from the University of Wisconsin with the degree of A. B., in 1907, and from the University of Michigan with the degree of M. D. in 1913.

Dr. Williams is a member of the editorial board of the journal of Social Hygiene, the journal personnel research and the American Review, a member of the staff of the Smith College School for Social Work, Northampton, Massachusetts; and a lecturer at the new school for research of New York City.

BREED THEATRE

Bringing the house down," to use a theatrical expression, "The Gunfighter," William Farnum's latest William Fox production, opened at the Breed theatre yesterday for a two day engagement.

Embodying many score of thrills, "The Gunfighter" is a production that cannot avoid a fortune of applause. It is tremendous in scope, thrilling in development, offering a variety of entertainment seldom equalled.

William Farnum performs the role of Billy Buell, a strong and lifelike character of the Spanish days of Southern California. Titillating and invigorating, brandishing numerous and sundry sidelights and black shadows, the story brings a new style of thrill to the screen.

A fight in a darkened room with knives! Can anything more hairraising be conceived? The scene is admirably photographed, startlingly staged, action and suspense teasing the spectator's curiosity to the breaking point.

The fierce battle between two feudal families, is staged with unerring power, while the duel between Billy Buell, played by Farnum, and Jacob Benchley, played by James Morrison, is vivid.

Super Keith Vaudeville Show at the Broadway Theatre

The main attraction of the vaudeville program at the Broadway Theatre for the last of this week is Elsie Elder and Dudley Douglas with Mr. George Raft, dancer in "A Syncopated Repartee" of smart songs, dances, sayings and gowns.

Holden and Graham in versatile originalities.

Brady and Mahoney "The Laughing Stock of the Town".

The Four Pals offer a breezy and jazzy comedy and harmony singing offering called "That's My Brother."

Beating dust behind a herd of cattle on a western desert is a trifle compared to swallowing smoke in a burning building, according to Hoot Gibson, Universal screen star. Gibson used to be a cowboy and has been featured in many western pictures since his range days, but he got his first experience at fire fighting during the filming of his latest picture, "Hook and Ladder" coming today to the Broadway Theatre. It is a comedy drama, directed by Edward Sedgwick.

AT THE STRAND

It is seldom that a picture comes along which holds an appeal for everyone. In reviewing in our mind's eye pictures which have stood out from the rest, we find that those that met with the greatest success were old time melodramas. Those photoplays triumphed because they combined all the elements necessary to good entertainment: thrills, humor, pathos, heart-interest and suspense,—the recipe for a sure-fire hit. "Ten Nights in a Barroom" conclusively proved this when it swept the country in a blaze of glory. Greatly encouraged by the reception accorded this picturization of the famous old stage play, Biased Trail Productions, Inc., decided to make another which would be even bigger and better, so they began work on that equally well-known melodrama, "Lost in a Big City." It was adapted to the screen by the same scenarist, L. Case Russell, and includes many of the old cast headed by John Lowell and Baby Ivy Ward.

There is a smashing fight in a saloon when Farley tries to rescue his little niece; a chase in an aeroplane to a lodge in the Adirondacks; an exciting ride by State Troopers to save one of their men from a blazing fire; another big fight between the troopers and the bootleggers and a tremendous climax when Manton meets death as his car veers from the road and crashes over a waterfall.

Be sure to go to the Strand Theatre for it will be the feature attraction today Friday and Saturday.

A comedy and news are the chief subjects.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

Wednesday morning at the Day Kimball hospital, Putnam, the death of Omer Deloge, 24, of Furnace street occurred, following an operation performed a few days ago for appendicitis. Mr. Deloge entered the hospital Thursday of last week and at the time his condition was critical. The body was brought here Wednesday noon by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Deloge was born in Natick, R. I. He leaves his wife and one child.

From his home in Ballouville, the funeral of Louis Jalbert, 46, was held Wednesday morning with services at St. Joseph's church in Dayville, Rev. Ignatius Kost being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Wilfred Leger, Germain Leger, Peter Levenoch and Wilfred Poirier. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The construction of a long board walk leading from Main street to the state armory, the string of long lines of electric lights were outward evidences Wednesday of all that is being done to make the Elks' charity ball the outstanding social feature of the winter in Danielson. The interior of the armory has undergone a transformation and is lavishly decorated with flags, bunting, Elks' emblems and electrical designs. The local committee handling the big event for Putnam lodge of the order has spared no effort or expense to make the first affair of the kind held here one long to be remembered with delight.

Release of figures showing the total of Killingly's new grand list, which has materially increased and is now in excess of $6,000,000 has brought a revival of discussion as to what the town will say at its annual financial meeting in March as to the course to be pursued relative to levying the tax rate. With a large cash balance on hand there are presented for the voters' consideration the alternatives of applying the cash balance in such a way as to allow of materially reducing the tax rate of using it to reduce the outstanding indebtedness of the town and fix the tax rate regardless. A careful student of town finances has pointed out that use of the cash balance would allow of reducing the tax rate for one year only and that next year it would jump again, claiming also that applying the cash to reduce the debt would eventually bring about a permanent reduction in the tax rate.

Rev. Joseph Deschaud, M. S., will succeed Rev. John Roux, M. S., as pastor of St. James' parish. Fr. Deschaud will address the congregations at the masses next Sunday. He is not a stranger to the parish or its people, having served here as an assistant for brief periods for a number of years past. Fr. Deschaud is a forceful speaker, is possessed of splendid executive ability and in every way qualified to successfully cope with the labors that will confront him as head of such a large parish as St. James'. Fr. Deschaud is one of the best known member sof the Missionary Order of LaSalette.

"Scofflaw" gave the local public a toothsome morsel for banter Wednesday. The impression one gained is that it never can be regarded in the sense intended,—only as the basis of many jokes. It appears to be another derivitive of a strange age.

Gallow youth was quick to make play upon the word. "Let's go off on a little scofflaw tonight" was one of the comments seriously made by one young friend to another. "I scofflawed that old Lizzie down from Dayville this morning, I'll tell the world," said another. "That chap would scofflaw his way into a free show just trying to beat someone" was still another use of the word. And so it went. Scofflaw was not taken seriously here. On the other hand, it is looked upon as a new basis for a line of talk. Im may prove worth the money paid for it as a producer of amusement and for mixing with mere nothings of conversation. It has an "S", but someone left the stinger out. It hasn't the punch possessed by many words long since in use to describe evil doers. One might mention a mouthful that will make a man wince, when scofflaw would only get a laugh.

Just before 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the fire department was called out to combat a chimney fire in a house owned by Mrs. M. V. Woodworth on Railroad street, near the freight station. When the alarm was sent in a column of flame was shooting out of the chimney, but this condition did not endure very long and the firemen extinguished the blaze before the house was damaged.

Misses Elizabeth Dunn and Susie Collins will be in New London today (Thursday) on a business errand.

PUTNAM

It appears that old Ku K. Scofflaw was a passenger on a train between Willimantic and Putnam Wednesday and was responsible for the appearance in court here of one Albert LaBonte, charged with having been intoxicated. LaBonte, who claimed Waltham, Mass., as his home, but admitted he last worked in Attawaugan, was sent to jail by Judge M. H. Geissler, to remain for a period of 30 days.

For months past there has been mystery surrounding the identity of the person who has been selling liquor to persons who have been brought before the city court for intoxication. None of the accused have admitted knowing him, but he has been compositely described as tall and dark, a rather short man of light complexion, wearing a dark colored suit of light material and wearing glasses that he kept in his pocket.

Thanks to the generosity of a Boston man, who offered a $200 prize for a name that would more or less accurately describe this creature, he may be introduced to local readers of The Bulletin this morning as Mr. Scofflaw, a character apparently destined to be listed among such mythical immortals as Santa Claus, The Bogey Man and Old Man Joyful.

LaBonte fell in with him while riding to Putnam from Willimantic on a train—so LaBonte said. Old Scofflaw had liquor and he pressed it upon LaBonte, who, riding in a cold car and a bit fearful about his health during the winter season, took a few drinks to safeguard his future. The result was almost miraculous. The effects of the drinks brought him into the hands of the police, and now he is assured of a month's stay in the comfortable, steam-heated county jail. When he gets out the spring fever will be in its first stage of development. Mr. Scofflaw will be regarded by Mr. LaBonte for life as more or less a friend of him, though he knoweth not where he will again meet him, or in how many places he may be apt to encounter him at any given time.

The following statement has been prepared by Ralph C. Jenkins, superintendent of schools in Putnam, and presented to the town school committee:

To the Putnam School Committee:

I am taking this occasion to submit to you a special report of the scarlet fever situation in the Putnam public schools.

During the Christmas recess two cases of scarlet fever were reported from the Israel Putnam school. There had been no cases reported during the month of January in the public schools until last Sunday. On that day Miss Agnes Young, teacher in the eighth grade, was placed under quarantine for scarlet fever. Miss Young had been in school up to and through Friday afternoon.

Monday morning the eighth grade was closed by order of the town health officer. Later in the day this order was modified to permit the reopening of the schools Wednesday morning.

The eighth grade room has been disinfected thoroughly by washing the floor, desks, tables and furniture with a disinfecting solution. It has also been fumigated by burning standard fumigating material.

Additional safeguards will be taken to prevent the spread of the disease in the high school. All of the pupils and teachers in the eighth grade room will be examined daily by the school physician and nurse. The eighth grade children will be segregated as completely as possible. Eighth grade recitations will not be conducted in high school rooms. The eighth grade will have different hours from the high school, from 8.30 to 11.30 and from 1.30 to 3.30. Eighth grade pupils will have special wardrobe and toilet accommodations set apart for them and will not be allowed in assembly, lunch room or gymnasium.

Wednesday was observed as Teachers' Visiting Day by the teachers in the Israel Putnam, Smith street and Sawyer schools. The school physician and nurse have examined the throats of these teachers to make sure that they will not carry infection into the schools they visit.

A ghost of the city's industrial troubles in 1923 reappeared Wednesday, when there was action here to obtain release of the bonds posted by representatives of the American Federation of Textile Operatives in securing the release from custody of half a dozen operatives of the Manhasset company who were arrested late last spring, in connection with difficulties arising out of the strike at the plant of the Manhasset Manufacturing company. The bonds total $350 representing funds of the textile organization. All of the operatives let out on bail have since left the city and obtained employment elsewhere and the cases against them have been nolled by the state attorney.

Nevertheless, the strike is still on. Though the company never has recognized the labor difficulty as a strike, it always has been and is still so regarded by the employes, who walked out when an advance in wages to which they sincerely believed they were entitled in view of increases being made in other mills engaged in similar manufacturing operations, was denied them. Only recently those of the strikers remaining here voted to continue the strike. The strikers continue to hold meetings—assembling about four times a month in Foresters' hall, at the north end of the city. A few more than a score of them continue to receive weekly strike benefits from the federation of workers of which they are members.

In Putnam, Wednesday, to confer relative to the release of the bond money mentioned, was A. J. Gauthier of Baltic, president of the Connecticut Textile Council. Mr. Gauthier, in discussing the affair in which many of the Manhasset workers were involved as to refusing work with the concern at the wage scale offered and considering the present financial difficulties of the company and the prospect of the properties being sold, or the concern reorganized, said that the organization which he represents has no grievance against any new concern that may take over the plant and that the union would put no obstacles in the way of the business being re-established as a going concern. "We have the interests of this community at heart," Mr. Gauthier said. "We do not want any useless discontent."

Mr. Gauthier said that during the past year organizing of cotton textile workers has gone forward steadily in the Quinebaug valley and that workers now members of locals of the American Federation of Textile Operatives number approximately 8,000 in mill towns and villages from this city southward to Norwich. The strongest citadels of the workers' unions are in Baltic, Taftville and Plainfield, where the big Lawton mills are located. The Grosvenordales remain unorganized.

Speaking of textile workers' unions in a general way, Mr. Gauthier mentioned a conference that is to be held in New York this week end that looks to the amalgamation of all textile organizations in the country under one head and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Wednesday, a Hartford paper featured the fact that A. Newton Vaughan, of this city, is the first of the representatives in the United States and Canada of a well known insurance company to qualify for invitation by the company to be its guest at the 60th anniversary observance of its foundation, when a notable gathering is held at the Chateau Frontenac, in Quebec, next September. The company made its offer to its representative in the closing days of the past year and the period for the special effort in seeking the necessary business to qualify was from January 2 to July 2. Mr. Vaughan made the surprising record of qualifying, before all others, in nine business days, turning in a large amount of business.

This (Thursday) afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. Nikoloff on Pomfret road, and under the auspices of the League of Woman Voters, Herbert Knox Smith, of Hartford, and Miss Sally Ann Gleaton of Georgia, are to discuss The World Court and the Bok Peace plan. Interested persons desiring to attend the meeting may arrange for transportation from the railroad station to the Nikoloff home by communicating with Mrs. Nikoloff or Mrs. Annie Child, of South Main street.

The campaign to raise $7500 to be applied toward the cost of the building recently purchased here by the Salvation Army has been given impetus by subscriptions totaling $500. The work of adding to this fund will continue during the month and will extend to surrounding towns.

It is something of a strange experience for the fire department to be called out in January to combat a brush fire, but that is what happened here Tuesday, when a truck and squad of men were hurried to the Oak hill section in response to an alarm.

Joseph Maturin died Wednesday morning at his home on Powhattan street. Mr. Maturin had been in poor health for a long time. It was recalled Wednesday that he was injured several years ago while employed on construction work at Dayville.

Omer Deloge, 24, following a recent operation for appendicitis, died Wednesday morning at the Day Kimball hospital. His body was removed to his home in Danielson in charge of L. E. Kennedy.

After touching 90 cents and higher during the late fall season, the price of fresh eggs had fallen back to a point where some producers were offering them Wednesday direct from the coops for 50 cents a dozen. Increased production accounts for the sharp decline.

EKONK

The body of Mrs. Mary C. Wilcox of Oneco was brought here Saturday and the funeral was held in the church. Rev. J. M. Vondeck of Oneco conducted the services. Burial was in the family lot in the Ekonk cemetery. She leaves a son, Fred, and a daughter, Ella, and several grandchildren. She lived at Ekonk many years and had many friends. She was always a kind neighbor in sickness and trouble.

Joseph Sayles of Sterling Hill and Miss Ethel Marriott of Oneco were united in marriage by Rev. J. M. Vondeck Wednesday evening, Jan. 9. On Monday evening about twenty-five of their young friends paid them a surprise and spent a very enjoyable evening.

The severe rain storm of Friday made exceedingly bad traveling on the country roads and the rural mail carrier had quite an experience in making his trip. In one place a tree had fallen across the road and Mr. Love was obliged to get an axe and remove the tree before he could continue on his way.

Mrs. Edwin S. Gallup spent Monday in Danielson.

At the annual meeting of Sterling Hill Baptist church, held Monday evening, Rev. C. S. Nightingale presided. Edward Freeman was elected clerk and Mrs. Byron Gallup treasurer, Edward Freeman and Hermon Frink were elected trustees, Miss Jennie Walker was elected secretary and treasurer of the Sunday school and Edward Freeman superintendent. A report for the year was given by the clerk and treasurer, after which a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

BREAD COUPONS ARE WORTH $2.05 TOWARDS AN Electric Toaster

A large number of the bakers in New England are wrapping with every loaf of their bread, a coupon worth $2.05 toward the purchase of any standard $8.00 Electric Toaster from January 14th to February 15th only.

The Universal Oven type Electric Toaster is a great step forward from the older models of electric toasters. You need use it but once to realize its advantages.

The new Universal toasts the bread to a crisp, golden brown all over. It toasts both sides at once of a slice of bread from the largest loaf. It toasts a slice a minute and toasts every piece so that you may serve it "piping hot."

You will not enjoy real delicious toast until you have one of the new Universal Toasters. Here is a splendid opportunity to buy one of these new types of toasters and save $2.05 at the same time. This offer is good only during the "Eat it with Toast" campaign.

THRIFT WEEK.

Today marks the 218th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, in Milk street, opposite the Old South church in Boston, and what more fitting day could there be for the opening of Thrift week!

Not by any means was he the only one who emphasized the importance of thrift but he stands as one of its great advocates in connection with industrious activity, and well may recognition be extended to his efforts in that direction by opening the observance of a week devoted to thrift on the anniversary of his birth.

Too much attention cannot be directed to the question of thrift. It is of particular importance that the value of it should be brought to the consideration of as great a number as possible before the habit of wastefulness is established.

Care should be taken to recognize that thrift doesn't mean stinginess. It doesn't mean hoarding and being deprived of the necessary things of life that there may be accumulated a pot of gold. The thrifty person is the one who looks well to the use of money after it is obtained, that puts aside something against the demands of a rainy day, that doesn't throw money away for show, that doesn't try to have what is beyond his means, that doesn't indulge in extravagant things to keep up with others, but makes the most of what is available by saving some and spending wisely.

Thrift is a particularly desirable trait. It is a famous New England characteristic. Thrift has in fact been applied to many things that are not thrift, but that doesn't mean that a thrifty person is penurious any more than it does that he is extravagant. Thrift is a habit that may well be formed by the young and carefully maintained throughout life. Thrift is the road that runs in the opposite direction from the poorhouse.

NOT U. S. REPRESENTATIVES.

As the result of the address which General Dawes made at Paris concerning the work of the committee to which he was named by the reparations committee, the announcement has been made in Washington that General Dawes speaks neither for this government nor for the American people. He represents none but himself, the views he offers are his own and it will not be overlooked that he directed attention to that very point when he made his speech.

But it is nevertheless well that it should be set forth now that General Dawes is simply an American selected to dig into the situation in Germany, establish the facts and suggest a way of ending the present European situation. Washington doesn't say that it approves or disapproves what he has said or the plan that he has outlined for getting Germany back onto its feet. It doesn't want it to be inferred that General Dawes has gone across to set forth the views of this government, and of course the time to have it understood is at the beginning. This government has not opposed the American members on the committees named. It has no opposition thereto, or it is certain that they would not be there, but there is a difference between an official and an unofficial American representation and it is for the purpose of laying emphasis thereon, and having it understood that it is the latter classification to which General Dawes and the other committeemen at work in Europe belong, that a government statement is made at this time.

This is far preferable than waiting until sometime later when an effort may be made to learn whether something said by the committeemen represents the view of this government. Already it has been said that they do not speak for the United States and none but an official representative can be expected to. There is no misunderstanding on that point either by the committeemen now abroad and this government, and the desire is that there shall be none on the part of anyone else.

DISREGARDING SIGNALS.

A decision that was anticipated is that which has been rendered by the interstate commerce commission in placing the blame for the wreck of the fast New York Central train at Forsythe, N. Y., to the engineman.

It was a case where the rear-end collision would have been prevented had there been respect for the signal that was displayed calling for caution and the possibility of a stop. The commission finds that the engineer saw the signal, that he knew what it meant, that it was his custom to slow down his train following such a signal but in this instance he did so with the result that when he found it necessary to stop to avoid crashing into the train ahead of his he found it impossible to do so, because of the speed at which the train was going and the lack of sufficient distance in which to accomplish it. In the words of the commission the engineman "apparently did not make any attempt to control his train so as to be prepared to stop."

The commission regards the wreck and the conditions surrounding it as forcibly disclosing "the necessity for automatic train control." In this connection it emphasizes the fact that the railroad had failed to install automatic train control devices on its system, and such a situation would have been found on most any other railroad at the present time, even though plans are going ahead rapidly with a view to providing such equipment within the time required by the commission.

The Forsythe wreck was one of the glaring instances of the risk that is run by the human agent that holds the fate of many human beings in its hand. Had that agent abided by the signals there would have been no wreck and no lesson. The traveling public would have gotten the protection it expected and is entitled to. It was when there was gross carelessness in obeying signals that danger developed, and it kept looming bigger and bigger until many lives were swept into eternity like a flash. This and lesser wrecks show that the automatic train stop cannot be provided any too soon.

UNWELCOME VISITORS.

Lightning may not strike twice in the same place but that doesn't mean that one earthquake is not liable to be followed by another. Japan and other countries know well that there is no telling when an earthquake may cause disaster. They have already experienced more than one of them in the same place, and within a matter of a few months the east coast of Japan has been visited by tremblors which have left great destruction in their wake.

But for the much more serious one of last year, the one of this week over a section of about 300 miles in Japan would be rated as extremely severe. Whether Japan will ever experience another like that of 1923 no one knows, but certainly the devastation thus far this year will be regarded as bad enough. Property appears to have suffered great destruction and strange as it may seem much of it was that which had been recently built from the ruins of the previous quake.

The uncertainty in the earthquake belt is much the same as that in the volcanic region. There is no way of escaping it as long as the regions are inhabited. And there is no reason to suppose that the Japanese will pull up stakes and go elsewhere than where they are now living than that the residents under the volcanoes of Italy will change to other climes, and yet there appears to be no other way of avoiding the effects.

Even though there was but a small loss of life in the second quake Japan has good reason for believing that it has suffered enough if not too much. It is a situation that immediately arouses worldwide sympathy.

THE FRENCH FRANC.

In the heroic measures undertaken by the French government to check the fall of the franc and the determination manifested to balance the budget, a move has been made which has long been called for in order to stabilize the situation in that country The response to the move indicates that it will accomplish its purpose.

It means that France has resorted to the imposition of a much heavier tax than heretofore and is doing what other countries have had to do in order to maintain their financial position. France has not been experiencing heavy taxation. It has raised its money by borrowing, and while it has been doing so it has continued to indulge in heavy expenditures. It has also continued to make large loans, but in certain instances those loans did not represent money but material. What it devoted in the way of material and supplies to the building up of the armies of other nations since the war it, of course, took from its own resources even though it did not actually mean the pouring out of French francs.

France now has recognized the need of turning to taxation instead of issuing bonds. Instead of constantly pouring funds into bonds it has recognized the wisdom of raising the money directly. When it is declared that France has been taxing its people at the rate of twelve cents per capita, while the United States has been exacting $28.75 and Great Britain $36.94, it can be appreciated that it is now being guided by the action of others and apparently hopes to profit by the methods which others long since adopted. The effect on the franc is already gratifying.

General Dawes calls for common sense at the opening of the experts' conference at Paris. Will the supply be adequate?

Have you noted in talking with your acquaintances how popular the tax reduction idea is? It is practically unanimous.

Two stretches of trolley roads in Massachusetts are being purchased by the people they serve. In that case patronage ought not to slump.

Perhaps the best reason why Governor Pinchot has made no agreement to turn Pennsylvania's delegates over to Hiram Johnson is that he exercises no such control.

One Belgian claims that Belgium saved America. What he probably means is that it wasn't necessary for America to fight until help was needed to save Belgium and the allies.

General Butler says he wouldn't take the job of public safety in Philadelphia again for a million dollars. Probably it will not be necessary if he does a thorough job this time.

BEING EXCUSED

You'll have to excuse the looks of my hands," said the young man to the pretty girl in the palmistry booth at the bazaar. "That isn't soil; it is oil found in. We have been making experiments out at the works."

"I see in your hands," the girl began in a far-away voice, "great success through constant endeavor. Everything goes fairly well for you until you are 30," the girl went on calmly. "And then you have some bad times."

"You're giving me one now," said the young man gloomily. "Encourage me how and I can better stand the blows when I'm 30."

"You are going to fall in heir to a large sum of money, in about six months before you are to become ill."

"I see," said the young man sadly. "It's the shock. All alone, no one to help me spend it; I am forlorn and I am taken sick and die.

"Oh, no!" said the girl quickly. "I see that you get well. There isn't any thing to worry about, either now or later. You are going to take a long journey—"

"Yes," said the young man. "Make it a wedding journey."

"Certainly, if you wish," agreed the girl. "I see there have been three girls on your pathway so you have but to choose."

"Three girls fiddlesticks!" cried the young man. "You know perfectly well that there never has been anybody but you."

"The first phalange of your thumb is too highly developed," said the girl shaking her head. "I am afraid you are strong willed and it will take a girl with a great deal of forbearance to be happy with you. If it weren't that you have a very good heart line, she would be quite miserable."

"I didn't suppose I'd ever live long enough to be glad at being called good-hearted," sighed the young man. "But now you have so far reduced me that small favors are eagerly accepted."

"However, gratitude is not one of your virtues," said the girl in a solemn voice. "A person might be good to you for a long time and never know that you appreciated her kindness, because you'd never say a word about it. Just after you'd been treated the very best you'd go flying off with some new girl and never say a syllable in explanation."

"Oh, if that's it!" cried the young man in a relieved tone of voice. "I'll tell you I had to take Nelly to the concert because my aunt was giving the box party and told me to act as her escort. Honest I wanted to ask you, but you see my aunt doesn't know you and hadn't invited you to go. You understand now, don't you, Lucy?"

"I am talking about your character," said the girl, gazing at his hand. "And I'm speaking on general principles. I merely tell what I see in your hand and you may make the personal application as you please."

"You haven't told me when I get married," said the young man pleadingly. "Don't make me wait till I get that money. I've got a good job now and we could get along pretty well."

"I never give dates," said the girl coldly. "I think it will be within two years, however. That is, if you ever get up the courage to ask her. You seem to be an individual who speaks vaguely, which is pleasant enough but not definite, and the girl may get married to some one else while you're philandering around sending chocolates to all the girls you know."

"I never did!" cried the young man. "Adelaide told me I owed her a philopena present, and I had to believe her, didn't I, though I hadn't even seen her for a year? So I sent her chocolates though I guess she was spoofling."

"Several persons influence you," said the girl. "But the time is up, you have interrupted so often, and I must take the next patron. It is customary to ask if you wish to ask any question."

"Do I?" cried the young man. "Do I? Well, I guess! Lucy, are you going to marry me? Are you, are you?"

"I suppose so," said the girl in a low voice. "I see a line her showing that somebody stands by you and I may as well—Oh, Jimmy, you mustn't not in here! Somebody'll see you!"

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

Claims for deductions for losses on what is known as "wash sales"—sale and immediate repurchase of securities—are expressly disallowed by the revenue act of 1921. Under prior acts there was no provision which prohibited an owner of stocks or bonds from selling his securities at a price less than that for which they were purchased and deducting such loss, even though they were repurchased immediately.

Under the present statute no deduction is allowed "where it appears that within 30 days before ro after such sale or disposition the taxpayer has acquired (other than by bequest or inheritance) substantially identical property and the property so acquired is held by the taxpayer for any period after such sale or disposition."

Owners of stocks and bonds can not deduct from gross income amounts claimed as losses on account of shrinkage of values in such securities through fluctuations in the market or otherwise. The foregoing applies only to owners and investors and not to dealers in securities, who, by means of the inventory, are given the benefit of shrinkage of securities in which they deal.

As a general rule deductions for losses are allowed for the year in which they are sustained. However, in order more clearly to reflect income the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may permit the deduction of a loss in a year other than that in which actually sustained. The taxpayer, in his return or an amended return, may deduct a loss only for the year in which sustained. If he desires to account for his loss as of another period, he must attach to his return for that year a request for consideration of the case by the commissioner, together with a complete statement of the facts. Allowance of deduction for a loss other than in the year in which sustained is entirely within the discretion of the commissioner and is allowed only in exceptional cases.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Robert M. Wooley, who has been appointed eastern manager of the campaign of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic presidential nomination, was at one time director of the U. S. Mint, and later a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. Wooley served the Democratic party efficiently in 1912, and again in 1916, as publicity director of the presidential campaigns. He also gave his expert aid in this sort of service when the first Liberty Loan was placed. He is a Kentuckian with a long line of journalistic work in Chicago, New York, and Washington back of him. In 1918 he was called in to aid the congressional committee then charged with investigation of the United States Steel Corporation. Following the 1912 campaign he was made an auditor for the Treasury Department and charged with watching over the accounts of the Interior Department. Then came the appointment to directorship of the mint.

Are You Fat? Just Try This

Thousands of overfat people have become slim by following the advice of doctors who recommend Marmola Prescription Tablets, those harmless little fat reducers that simplify the dose of the famous Marmola Prescription. If too fat, don't wait—go now to your druggist and for one dollar, which is the price the world over, procure a case of these tablets. If preferable, you can secure them direct by sending price to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. They reduce steadily and easily without tiresome exercise or starvation diet and leave no unpleasant effect.

Stories That Recall Others

Significant Gift.

This chap had a habit of whistling when he didn't desire to keep busy and he was fond of keeping time drumming with his hands otherwise. So his friends presented him with a small drum, which apparently had once decorated the shelf of the 25 cent store.

He looked at the drum sorrowfully. "I though they liked me around here," he said, "but now I gues they want me to beat it."

Tools Do Not Go With the Job

The new employe in the garage appeared to begin his work. There were plenty of cars in need of repair and overhauling but there were no tools with which to work. He explained to the proprietor that not even a screwdriver could be found.

It was not long before he found out that the workman was expected to provide his own tools, the same as his predecessor; the idea of the proprietor buying tools for others to carry away having been tried out and found to be poor business.

POULTRYMEN WILL HEAR EXPERTS AT CONVENTION

At the meeting of the Connecticut Poultry Association, which will be held in the Hotel Garde, Hartford, Friday, January 25, as a part of the Union Agricultural Meeting which this year takes the place of the annual Connecticut Winter Exposition, amendments to the constitution will be considered and speakers from Maine, New York and Connecticut will address the poultrymen.

A business session of the poultrymen will be held at 10.30 a. m., at which reports of officers and committees will be heard followed by action on an amendment to the constitution providing for associate members. Election of new officers will close the business session.

In the afternoon at 1.30 F. M. Johnson of Waldboro, Me., will address the association on "Increasing the Egg Yield by Trapnesting and Pedigree Breeding," followed at 2.30 by an address on "Profitable Poultry Farming on Long Island," by R. C. Ogle of Huntington, L. I.

In the evening at 7.30, Charles F. Roberts of New Haven, lawyer for the C. P. A. will discuss "How We Can Prevent Fraud in the Sale of Eggs?" He will be followed by Secretary Leonard H. Healey of the state board of agriculture, who will explain the new legal grades for eggs which became effective in the state January 1st. At 8.15, an illustrated lecture on "Remodelling Barns and Constructing Large Poultry Houses" will be given by Prof. Roy E. Jones, extension specialist on poultry at the Connecticut Agricultural College.

By DAVID CORY

A Visit With the Dream Fairy

You remember in the last story a soft voice was singing as Little Jack Rabbit and Dapple Gray reached the By Lo Land on the top of a high mountain, round about which hung misty cloud curtains.

When the sweet voice had finished the lullaby, the bunny boy saw the Dream Fairy of By Lo Land.

"You have travelled indeed a long, long way,
Bunny boy on Dapple Gray.
This is the land of kind, sweet dreams
Of the misty light of the pale moon gleams.
And soft cloud curtains, all aglow,
Oh, this is the land of soft By Lo."

"But I don't want to sleep," said Little Jack Rabbit. "I always wait for Wee Willie Winkle from Dear

Mother Goose Land, with his little white candle. He runs from house to house, calling through the keyhole:
"It's eight o'clock and time for bed,
So, go to sleep, you sleepy head."

"Oh, I know Wee Willie Winkle," answered the Dream Fairy, "but he only puts the children to sleep. I send them pleasant dreams," and she faded away in the misty clouds.

Turning Dapple Gray around, Little Jack Rabbit rode slowly down the mountain side. By and by, after a while, he met a Gnome in a red cap and pointed shoes, standing by a big rock.

"Don't frighten my little pony," begged the bunny boy, "he isn't afraid of giants, but you're so small, maybe he didn't see you."

"What are you doing on the road to By Lo Land?" asked the little Gnome.

"Let me tell you something," replied the Gnome, coming up close to Dapple Gray to whisper in the bunny boy's ear.

"You don't say so," exclaimed the little rabbit, and at once he urged his pony down the mountain side. On nearing a pile of rocks, he stopped and hopped down on the ground. When, all of a sudden, out crawled a big black snake and asked:

"Did the little Gnome of the Mountan tell you to come to me?"

"He did," answered Little Jack Rabbit bravely, although he was dreadfully frightened. He was doubtful whether a big Black Snake, with a long red tongue and wicked little eyes would be friendly or not. And in the next story I will tell you what the snake did.

HARTFORD METHODIST PASTOR CHURCH FEDERATION HEAD

At a meeting of the executive board of the Connecticut federation of churches held in Hartford the Rev. L. H. Dorchester, D. D., of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Hartford was unanimously elected president of the federation. Mr. Dorchester, who has always been in sympathy with the work of the federation, expressed himself as particularly interested in the federating of the churches of the state in small communities, and he is also deeply interested in voicing the sentiment of the churches as bearing upon all matters of public interest, notably such as the World Court which is now before the people.

The Connecticut Federation of Churches has for some time felt the need of a committee on International Relations and particularly now in the interest of the Bok Peace Plan and, with its responsibility for voicing sentiment in connection with the World Court, the Executive Board feels the necessity for having such a committee. The president, secretary and treasurer were empowered to appoint a committee of five.

The following action was taken with regard to the Bok Peace Plan and the World Court: It is the sense of this meeting that we urge the citizens of this state to vote upon the Bok Peace Plan for international arbitration and that we reaffirm our position favoring the entrance of this nation into the World Court by a resolution drawn at our annual meeting and presented to our senators and representatives in congress.

It is the desire of the federation that all the ministers of the state ask their congregation for an expression on the Bok Peace Plan.

The American Legion executive committee in Indianapolis, after setting September 15 to 19 inclusive, as the date for the 1924 national convention to be held in St. Paul, has started an aggressive campaign in support of adjusted compensation for World war veterans.

OBITUARY

Miss Hannah B. Witter

After a long illness the life of Miss Hannah B. Witter came to a close Wednesday morning at her home on Penobscot street.

She was born in Preston on November 22, 1844, the daughter of William P. Witter and Angeline Latham Witter and the greater part of her life had been spent in this city.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. H. F. Young, a niece, Mrs. Mary L. Knight and two nephews, Charles D. Geer of Norwich and F. W. Geer of St. Louis, Missouri.

Miss Witter by her kindly and sympathetic manner had won for herself many friends who will learn of her death with sorrow, and she will be greatly missed by those who have had the pleasure of knowing her.

H. Hartt Hilliar

Henry Hartt Hilliar died suddenly Tuesday night at his home on Main street, Niantic. Mr. Hilliar had been suffering from attacks of acute indigestion from time to time and a sudden return of this trouble was the cause of his death. He attended work at his store as usual Tuesday morning, making a trip to New London in the afternoon, and returning to the store in the evening. He was apparently in first rate health and death came as a shock to his relatives and numerous friends.

He was born May 23, 1850, in New London, but had lived in Niantic for many years. He succeeded his father, Henry P. Hilliar, upon the latter's death two years ago as proprietor of the candy, cigar and general store which he has since conducted.

He is survived by his widow, and four children, Mildred, Hazel, Marion and Milton. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Warren Parks of Niantic.

ST. MARY'S PARISH HAS ENJOYABLE SOCIAL EVENING

Members of St. Mary's Memorial church and their friends enjoyed the annual get-together of the parish tendered by the priests of the church, Rev. Father William F. Keefe, rector, and Rev. Father Frederick M. Cohalan, curate, at Elks Home Wednesday evening. In spite of the downpour of rain the attendance was large, over 800 people enjoying the programme of the evening and the dancing which followed.

The programme was opened by Rev. Father Keefe who stated that the get-together was held in appreciation of the loyal response by the members of the parish and its friends to the appeals made during the year, which made it the most successful in the 26 years of the parish.

Father Keefe extended a welcome to the members of the parish and their guests and told them that through the courtesy of the Norwich Lodge of Elks, the home had been thrown open for their use during the evening, and he sincerely hoped that they would enjoy themselves.

The programme of the evening which was arranged by Henry J. LaFontaine, was most pleasing and the soloists were repeatedly called back for encores by the delighted audience.

The first number was by the Lyric Trio, Nicholas Spellman, Edward T. Connelly and Henry J. LaFontaine, after which Mr. LaFontaine and trio sang Mellow Moon. Mother in Ireland, a tenor solo by Mr. Connelly, was the next number and was followed by Call Me Back, Pal o' Mine, by Mr. Spellman and trio. The final number was Last Night on the Back Porch, tenor solo by Mr. Connelly, with trio.

An added feature of the programme was a group of songs rendered by Louis Serre of New York. Mr. Serre who possesses a clear baritone voice sang Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses, and in response to insistent applause rendered Absent. He was accompanied by Mr. LaFontaine on the piano.

Following the vocal numbers Spellman's orchestra of six pieces, under the direction of Mr. Spellman played a number of dance selections and the people enjoyed new and old fashioned dances until about 11.30 o'clock, the square dances being directed by Professor C. L. Crowley.

The affair was one of the most enjoyable held by the parish in some time and the efforts of Father Keefe and Father Cohalan to provide a get-together meeting were greatly appreciated.

Those assisting at the hall Wednesday evening were Miss Annie O'Hara in charge of the ladies' and Joseph A. Donnelly in charge of the men's coat room, also members of the parish who assisted wherever asked.

CUMMINGS AND MRS. REES IN M'ADOO COLUMN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, Jan. 16.—A poll sent out from McAdoo headquarters today puts both Homer S. Cummings and Mrs. Caroline Ruth Rees of Connecticut in the McAdoo column of delegates to the democratic national committee meeting being held here. In that poll Smith's name was not mentioned and Underwood was conceded but one vote while a scattering from one to four votes each was given to favorite sons. A few "not decided" names were recorded and a dozen delegates were reported as "not to be found." In short in the eyes of the McAdoos there is nobody in the game but McAdoo, a claim stoutly denied by other pool takers.

WINS FIRST PRIZE IN MOOSE PINOCHLE TOURNEY

Rudolph Krohn won first prize in the Moose pinochle tournament Wednesday evening at Moose home on Laurel Hill avenue, his score being 8045 for the play. Second prize went to Ivan Maynard with a score of 7640, third prize to Joseph Kirchner with a score of 6855, while fourth prize was won by John Mehrkois who made 6625 for the evening.

The next session of the club takes place at Moose Home next Wednesday evening at the usual hour.

Picked Up Headlight Glass.

Officer Patrick Murphy picked up a headlight rim and the glass, the latter unbroken, while driving on North Main street, Wednesday night, in the police patrol wagon. Although the glass had rolled out of the rim onto the hard cement, it was not even cracked or chipped.

INSTRUCTIVE TALK TO ROTARY ON INDIANS OF THIS SECTION

At the noonday meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday at the Wauregan hotel a very interesting illustrated talk was given on Local Indian History, by Artiur L. Peale, who has made an extensive study of the early Indian and is a recognized authority on the early history of the New England Indians. Mr. Peale showed pictures, many of which he has taken himself, showing the Indian burying grounds, old forts and many other relics of Indian history. Mr. Peale said in part:

The Last of the Pequots and Uncas and Occom of the Mohegans.

There have been explorers since the beginning of the world's history, and at the present time many of our universities and colleges have exploration and scientific parties in practically all parts of the globe. The work at the tomb of King Tut, the proposed sailing of the Shenandoah to the North Pole and the cruise of the Blossom have all excited our curiosity. Perhaps before we discuss our local Indian history it would be well to refer to some of the visits to American shores and their relations to the American Indians.

The Indians of Eastern Connecticut.

When Adrian Block, the Dutch explorer, sailed through what is now called Long Island sound, in 1614, the Pequots, Mohegans, Podunks, Nipmucks, Wangunks and Western Nehantics were the tribes of Indians occupying lands east of the Connecticut river.

The Pequots.

The Pequots were called the most warlike, the fiercest and the bravest of all the Indian tribes of Connecticut. Some authorities claim that the origin of this tribe will always remain a mystery, while others state that they were of the same race as the Mohicans or Mohegans who lived on the banks of the Hudson river.

De Forest, the eminent authority, states "that it is quite likely that this tribe left the territory adjacent to the Hudson because their country was unable to support so large a population of hunters, just as the Goths and Germans left the overpeopled forests to seek some country where they could find an easier subsistence." All traditions, however, agree that they emigrated from the north shortly before the settlement of the English. From sources which are also traditional we are informed that before the coming of the Pequots Connecticut was occupied by one great tribe, the principal branch of which was the Narragansetts and Nehantics, as connection has been traced between the first named and the tribes of western Connecticut. The Nehantics or Niantics of Lyme were also related to the Nehantics of eastern Rhode Island. The territory of the Pequots extended from Weekapaug in Rhode Island to the Niantic river on the west and back a considerable distance from the shore. Gookin, the great historian, states "that the sachems of the Pequots held dominion over a part of Long Island, over the Mohegans and the Quinnipiacks."

The principal villages of this tribe were in the vicinity of the Mystic river, one of their principal forts being located on what is now called Pequot Hill, and the other at Fort Hill, both in the present town of Groton.

The names of the Pequot sachems in their order of succession, and as given by Uncas (later sachem of the Mohegans) is as follows:

Tamaquashad
Muckquntdowas
Wolpequand
Wopigwoolt
Tatobam or Sassacus

It is stated that Sassacus had twenty-six sagamores, and the number of his warriors was estimated at seven hundred. Sassacus was considered a very powerful man, and was idolized by his people and worshipped like a God.

This great tribe were defeated by the English under Maj. John Mason at their fort at Mystic in 1637, and almost exterminated. At the present time there are two reservations of the Pequots near Lantern Hill in the southeastern part of the state, but their numbers are small.

The Wangunks.

The Wangunks occupied territory bordering on the Connecticut, south of Hartford and now owned by the inhabitants of Middletown, Portland and Chatham. Their principal sachem was Sowhegg and called by the English "Sequin." This tribe sold their lands and moved away at an early period.

The Western Nehantics.

This tribe lived on the shore between the Connecticut and Niantic rivers, many of them later affiliating with the Mohegans.

The Nipmucks.

This tribe with its many traditions occupied the northeastern part of the state, and southern part of central Massachusetts. One of their principal villages was on the site of the present town of Thompson. Quinnatissett their principal sachem had his fort here, and not far distant at Webster, Mass., was Lake Chargoggogoggmanchogagggogg, the place where the "Great Spirit" lived and the happy hunting grounds of the Indians.

The Podunks.

The territory of the Podunks probably included the towns of East Windsor, East Hartford and Manchester extending to the domains of the Nipmucks in Tolland and Windham counties.

The Mohegans.

At the first settlement of New England, the Pequots and Mohegans were of the same tribe. It is also probable that after the death of Wopigwoolt, the sachem of the Pequots, that Uncas laid claim to this office, but Sassacus was chosen for the position. Also, according to the early records the Mohegans had lands on the Connecticut river as well as those claimed by his father Owaneco in the southeastern part of the state. The area claimed by this Indian nation after the defeat of the Pequots extended north to within about ten miles of the Massachusetts line, and on the northeast included lands occupied by the Wabaquassett's and Nipmucks. The western boundary was at Guilford and the Western Nehantics came under the jurisdiction of the Mohegans. The Mohegans were a free people, having never been conquered by the English, and had never made any submission to the English government. Uncas was the unfailing friend of the colonists, and because of this friendship probably incurred the enmity of the other savage tribes. After the King Philip war in 1676 the Mohegans were the only important Indian tribe south of the Abnaki. In 1788 many of the Mohegans emigrated to New York state. At the present time there are quite a number of the descendants of this great tribe living at Norwich and Mohegan.

The Mohegans had many forts, one at Wauwequa's Hill, another between that place and Trading Cove, one near Yantic, one at the head of the Niantic river, one at the summit of Mohegan Hill, but the principal fortress was on the Thames river at Mohegan and known as Fort Shantok. Here Uncas besieged several times, and relieved by Lieutenant Leffingwell. A memorial has been placed here by the Colonial Dames of Connecticut, and it is hoped that at some future time will be made a state reservation.

Memorial to Uncas.

In 1833 the citizens of Norwich took steps to erect a memorial to Uncas, and during the summer of that year, the president of the United States, Andrew Jackson, visited Norwich, accompanied by Vice President Martin Van Buren, Secretaries Cass, Woodbury and Poinsett of the cabinet, Governor Edwards of Connecticut and other distinguished visitors. The party came from Hartford via the Essex turnpike, riding in open coaches, a troop of cavalry going out to meet them. They first visited the Falls, then the cemetery where a large number of the inhabitants were assembled, and which included military companies and children with banners. The Hon. N. L. Shipman gave a brief sketch of the family of Uncas, followed by an address by General Cass. As there were no funds for the prosecution of the work, nothing further was done until the year 1840, when the ladies of Norwich raised the necessary funds, and on the Fourth of July 1842, a granite obelisk was placed on the chieftain's grave with the simple inscription "Uncas." The principal address on this occasion was made by Col. William L. Stone of New York.

Monument to Miantonomo.

On Sachem's Plain and within a few rods of the old road from Norwich to Providence is located the monument to Miantonomo of the Narragansetts. Originally a heap of stones piled upon his grave was the only distinguishing mark, and which later grew into a large mound, as the Indian custom was to add a stone to the pile every time one passed the place. These were later used by the neighboring inhabitants in the making of stone walls. On July 4, 1841, the residents of the village of Greeneville, including the school children, paraded upon the plain, and erected a monument in memory of the deceased sachem. The memorial is of granite, oblong and the dimensions about five by eight feet. The only inscription was

At the dedication of the monument an address was delivered by William C. Gilman of Norwich, and the stone laid by Thomas Sterry Hunt, a school boy in Greeneville, who later became a great chemist. The ground where the monument was formerly placed was sold for building purposes, and through the generosity of Miss Maria Perrit Gilman and Mrs. Louisa Gilman Lane, lands and stone were purchased and an appeal made to the Connecticut Society of Colonial Wars, who appointed a committee, Maj. E. P. Learned and Jonathan Trumbull, who raised the necessary funds for the removal of the same to the land purchased by this society and the present location. The inscription on the monument now reads

1904

In 1893 the Connecticut Society of the Colonial Dames erected a cairn suggesting by its form an Indian wigwam to mark the spot where Lieutenant Leffingwell brought supplies for the relief of the Mohegans when they were besieged at Fort Shantok on the Thames.

The state park commissioners have been asked to take under advisement the planning of a memorial to this great tribe.

Samsom Occom the Indian boy, should not be forgotten, as through his efforts the funds were raised for the foundation of the Indian school at Lebanon which was removed to Hanover, New Hampshire, and later became Dartmouth College.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Peale was given a hearty vote of preciation.

At the business session President Charles A. Saxton presided and during the luncheon Ed Harris acted as song leader. There were several selections by members of the club as penalties for being late. Charles E. Prior of Hartford also rendered a delightful solo "The Trumpeter." Routine business was transacted by the club during the business session.

WIRES, POLES AND TREES BREAK BEFORE WIND

A southeaster of wind and rain broke on the city Wednesday night about 6 o'clock and deluged the streets until a little after 11 o'clock, while the high wind worked havoc with trees, electric light wires and poles. Between 7 and 8 o'clock when the force of the wind seemed to be felt at its greatest strength, the telephone at police headquarters was kept busy with calls reporting damage by the storm, and captain D. J. Tomey relayed the messages to the street department, gas and electric department and telephone company wire chief.

Police were kept busy guarding points where there was possible danger while trouble gangs were out from the street department, gas and electric department and telephone company to make repairs and protect the public.

A large evergreen tree at the corner of School and Washington streets was blown over and broken off 8 or 9 feet from the butt. A big limb was blown off a tree at the corner of Fourth and Prospect streets and a tree at Asylum and Pearl streets lost a big branch.

On North Main street near Erin street a big pole said to belong to the telephone company and carrying a heavy load of wires was blown over but was kept from falling into the street by the wires on it. In Myers avenue a pole was broken off, but it also was held up by the wires.

A blazing light at the top of a pole on Preston bridge showed where there was leakage of the electric current and there was a live wire down on North Main street that sputtered and flashed near the city's oil tank there.

The Greeneville circuit of the fire alarm system, as well as box 23 at the corner of Ferry and Main streets, was put out of commission for the night.

At the Preston Bros. store a piece of a new leader pipe at the corner of Rose place fell off and just missed hitting a woman as it landed on the sidewalk.

Filed Gottrell Case Briefs

Attorneys in the Edgar H. Gottrell will case which was recently tried in the superior court have filed briefs Wednesday at the office of Judge George E. Parsons, clerk of the court.

FUNERALS

Judge John M. Thayer.

Members of the supreme court, superior court, New London county bar, Windham county bar, Mayor Milo R. Waters, members of the court of common council and relatives and friends attended the funeral services for John Mowry Thayer, former judge of the supreme court of errors of the state of Connecticut, held Wednesday noon at 12 o'clock at his late home, No. 32 Church street.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, the short Episcopal service being used.

At the personal request of Judge Thayer the body will be cremated and today (Thursday) will be taken to

Judge John M. Thayer

New Boston, Conn., where burial will be in the family plot in the New Boston cemetery.

Attending the funeral were the following members of the supreme court of errors of the state of Connecticut: Chief Justice George W. Wheeler, and Associate Justices John K. Beach, Howard J. Curtis, and John E. Keeler; representing the superior court were Judges James H. Webb, John P. Kellogg, Frank D. Haines, Isaac Wolfe, Christopher L. Avery, Allyn L. Brown and Leonard F. Nickerson. The bearers were Judge Allyn L. Brown, Arthur M. Brown, Gilbert S. Raymond and Edwin Hill.

A large wreath of lilies and carnations bearing the inscription "In Memory", has been placed in the doorway of the Thayer building on Franklin square.

Arrangements for the funeral were in charge of Henry Allen & Son Co.

Henry Baron

With many relatives and friends attending, the funeral service for Henry Baron, who was drowned in Hallville pond, were held Wednesday morning from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baron of Hallville. There were many floral tributes.

A mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Joseph's church by Rev. John Tarasowics who also conducted the committal service at the grave in St. Joseph's cemetery. Schoolmates of the boy filled the places of bearers. Arrangements were by Cummings & Ring.

Mrs. John B. Goodwin

Accompanied by relatives the body of Ella Raymond Goodwin, widow of John B. Goodwin, who died suddenly on Jan. 13 at her home in Mamaroneck, N. Y., arrived in this city Wednesday on the 12.15 o'clock train.

The body was taken in charge by C. A. Gager and conveyed to the family plot in Yantic cemetery where a committal service was conducted by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown. There were floral tributes and relatives and friends in this city were present at the committal service.

BIBLE CLASS STUDIES VICTORIOUS LEADERSHIP

The Men's Bible Class session at the local Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening was interesting to the group of men that gathered, numbering more than usual. The topic of the study was "A Victorious Leader" and the conditions of leadership.

Among the points brought out in the discussion were the following: Because of disobedience to God, the Israelites were in an almost hopeless condition, both spiritually and materially and they had just begun to realize the reason of their plight, when the Godly leader, Samuel suggested that if they really meant business for God, they must leave their idol worship absolutely; this they did, and Samuel then summoned them to come together with him at Mispeh; here they fasted, confessed and prayed that God might deliver them from their plight, which he did.

Samuel demanded absolute consecration, and an undivided affection. The trouble with many professed Christians is that they are not whole hearted in the service of God; alas, some think they can be true to the Christ and at the same time cling to unworthy things, but such attempt is doomed to failure. The men who have succeeded in any given line have been men of one dominating idea, and they have consecrated themselves to the attainment of it: Luther, Napoleon, Lincoln and others were named as those who illustrated this thought. Saint Paul was pre-eminently a man of one idea.

Too often the Christian man who achieves success seems to forget the God who gave success to him, but Samuel immediately held a thanksgiving service; he set up a memorial stone, and called it "Ebenezer" which means, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us". The suggestion for us in this act of Samuel is that we should often retire to a quiet place and there recall the goodness of God to us. Among the elements that made Samuel the leader that he was might be mentioned the following: first of all, he was a Godly man; second, he demanded whole hearted loyalty of Jehovah, and third, he remained absolutely calm when all the others were afflicted; this indicates his unflinching faith in God. The pathway of repentance leads out of captivity; when a man has his own selfish way he soon becomes a slave, but when he gives himself in positive consecration to Jesus Christ, he of all men is the most free.

Senior B. Y. P. U. Officers

The annual meeting of the Senior B. Y. P. U. of the Central Baptist church was held Tuesday evening at the church the election of officers resulting as follows: President, Benjamin H. Palmer, Jr.,; vice president, Miss Mildred Case; secretary, Douglas A. Hunt; assistant secretary, Donald Gildersleeve; treasurer, Miss Eugenie Dean.

After the election of officers a general discussion was held concerning the activities for the B. Y. P. U. during the coming months. It is expected that better and more efficient work will be done during the year than in past years.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with tworold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

BEFORE STONINGTON COURT FOR THEFT OF AUTO

Westerly, Jan. 16.—The trio who are charged with having stolen the Chevrolet car, No. XE348, on Tuesday from Pawcatuck will be presented in the Stonington town court tomorrow before Judge William A. Wilcox on the charge of theft of an automobile. Since the penalty of this act is 15 years' imprisonment they will probably be bound over to the superior court.

The men are Harvey Kenyon, 23, painter; George Lewis, 25, combetender, and Fred Sodey, 22, chauffeur, all of New Bedford. Kenyon, who is formerly of Westerly, is said to have married a Westerly girl by the name of Harrington. The couple has one child. The men are now in the Liberty street lockup, Pawcatuck.

WILL ANNOUNCE NOTICE OF TROLLEY FARE RAISE

New Haven Journal-Courier will publish a statement this (Thursday) morning that the Connecticut Co., operating trolley cars throughout the has sent out notices that the fare rate is to be raised from the present rate of 7½ cents to 8 1-3 cents. This will apply on all the lines of the company in the state.

This indicates a return to the practice of selling three trolley tickets for 25 cents, replacing the present two for 15 cents.

Under a ruling of the public utilities commission the 7½ cent rate was granted as an experiment in the hope that the company might be able to make both ends meet. A return to the three for a quarter rate it is understood would not require sanction by the commission.

BURGLARY IN TWO STORES ON MAIN STREET

Some time Tuesday night the Shu-Fix shop of George H. Moles at 256 Main street and the store of F. Nowatzky, next to it, were entered by burglars. At the shoe repairing shop $10 in cash was taken and at the Nowatzky newsstore a showcase was broken into and some cigars were taken.

The burglars got into the place by prying up a window at the rear of the shoe repairing shop. Once inside they were able to get into the other place by breaking a window at the rear. It is known that the burglary must have been committed some time after 10 o'clock as it is understood Mr. Nowatzky was at his place until that time.

A. JORDAN'S HIGH SCORE IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

With the high night's score of 9155, A. Jordan jumped up into first place in the West Side Pinochle club on Wednesday evening and Boynton, who had been first held second.

The scores for the evening were as follows: A. Jordan 9155, Shuler 8125, Boynton 7780, Bailey 7540, Underwood 7410, Haskell 7845, Peckham 7270, Pettis 7170, Lewis 6870, Parker 6825, Pendleton 6405, J. Jordan 6270.

The standing: A. Jordan 17,180, Boynton 16,020, Bailey 15,590, Shuler 14,930, Parker 14,885, Peckham 14,730, Lewis 14,400, Haskell 13,545, Pettis 13,315, Pendleton 13,205, Underwood 13,155, J. Jordan 12,915.

Dodged Fallen Branches on Roads.

George Letender, who drove here from Saybrook in his machine Wednesday night, stated that he had to dodge fallen branches and trees all along the shore line road and also on the Military highway. Along the latter road he saw a barn that had been blown over.

"Y" SWIMMING TEAM WINS FROM THREAD CITY MERMEN BY HALF POINT

The Norwich Y. M. C. A. swimming team won over the Willimantic mermen by a scant one-half point in the dual meet at Willimantic on Wednesday. Norwich won two firsts, six seconds and three thirds for a total of 31 points while Willimantic took five firsts, one second and three thirds for a total of 30 1-2 points.

Teddy Kundig of the local team was the high point man for the meet, winning one first, two seconds and three thirds. Phil McNamara and Johnny Fellows were the other mainstays of the Norwich team. The Cohen brothers and Russo were the point makers for the Willimantic team.

The summary:

Relay Race—Norwich first, Willimantic, second. The Norwich team was Kundig, McNamara, Fellows and Sayles. Time 29 seconds.

Fancy Diving—E. Cohen (W) first; Kundig (N) second, Fellows (N) third.

30-yard dash—L. Cohen (W) first, McNamara (N) second. Sayles (N) third. Time 17 seconds.

45 breast-stroke—Kundig (N) first, McNamara (N) second, Russo (W) third. Time 30 seconds.

30-yard back stroke—E. Cohen (W) first, Kundig (N) second, Russo (W) third. Time 23 seconds.

90-yard dash—Rosen (W) first, Fellowe (N) second, Kundig (N) third. Time, 1 min. 5 3-5 seconds.

Plunge—H. Chase (W) first, G. Ely (N) second, Cohen (W) third. Distance 45 feet.

This team is being coached by Fred Williams for the state swimming meet that will be held in New London in a few weeks. The local team has greatly improved during the last few weeks since they were defeated by Plainfield and Willimantic.

The star of the team is Teddy Kundig, who has trained with Charlie Toth of Boston, noted English channel swimmer, came to America from Switzerland about four years ago. He is holder of several Swiss swimming medals and besides these he holds a Carnegie medal for bravery. Kundig saved the lives of an American soldier and Red Cross nurse in Switzerland just before he came to this country. The two were paddling in a canoe which overturned in a stream in Switzerland. Kundig, who was on a bridge over the stream dove into the water and in so doing broke his arm but he managed to get the two to shore. His act of bravery was awarded by the Carnegie Foundation.

BALTIC WANDERERS TO PLAY NEW LONDON "Y" FIVE

On Friday night on the Baltic gym surface the Baltic Wanderer basketball team will play the fast New London Y. M. C. A. senior team, which has been making a good reputation in all the games they have played. They are sending up a strong lineup to try and take a fall out of the Wanderers. The Wanderers will have the following in their lineup: Ridgeway and Simoneau, forwards; Charron, center; T. Swanson, Ralph Robertaille or Walter Robertaille, guards; St. Germain, substitute.

For the preliminary game the Bantams will have the strong Scotland team with Kenyon in their lineup, who has a record of scoring eight baskets in the last game played with the Bantams.

The Bantams playing in Plainfield against Central Village Tuesday night defeated Central Village by the score of 24 to 15 in a fast game.

The Bantams will play in Lebanon next Tuesday night and are playing in Stonington Friday night.

JOHNSON NOT TO ASK FOR TAX ELIMINATION

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Baseball will continue to do its bit to help Uncle Sam defray its war-time obligations as far as the American league is concerned, President Johnson said tonight, after receiving a telegram from Walter E. Hapgood, secretary of the Rochester club of the International league, stating that numerous amusement enterprises were making an effort before the Mellon tax committee, to have the war tax eliminated. President Johnson said he saw no reason why baseball should not give the government all possible help, and that the league would make no effort to interfere with the present tax.

RAY IS BEATEN BY HAHN AT TRACK MEET

New York, Jan. 16.—Joie Ray, middle distance running star of the Illinois Athletic club of Chicago, a premier candidate for the American Olympic team, was beaten tonight in his first eastern appearance of the 1924 indoor season at the annual meet of the Silk Athletic association.

Ray finished third in the 1,500 metre handicap race which was won by Lloyd Hahn, of the Boston Athletic association, who had a twenty-yard lead. Hahn finished ten yards ahead of Pat Kennedy, of the Knights of Columbus, New York, who had a 45-yard lead, and Kennedy came in three yards ahead of Ray.

Hahn's time was 4.05 2-5. Ray's was 4.08 4-5.

Los Angeles, Jan. 16—Macdonald Smith of San Francisco, today captured the California open golf championship title with a card of 295 for 72 holes. Smith was metropolitan champion in 1914 and western champion in 1915.

Eddie Loos, Anandale, finished second with 296, one stroke behind, while Abe Espinoza, of Oakland and Harold Sampson of San Francisco tied for third place with 297. Joe Kirkwood, Australian open champion and holder of the California open championship last year, finished fourth with a card of 299.

COLLINS IS SIGNED TO PLAY WITH WHITE SOX

Chicago, Jan. 16.—All speculation as to whether Eddie Collins, captain and second baseman of the White Sox would play with Chicago next season was ended tonight with the announcement that the star second baseman is signed to a two-year contract which does not expire until next fall.

Collins will fill his position in the White Sox infield despite rumors that he was to be traded to Washington or to the New York Yankees.

SKATER BEATS AUTO GOING AT 44 MILES AN HOUR

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 16—The belief that by using an automobile with a wide windshield as a pacemaker every paced skating record may be broken, was expressed today by Everett McGowan of St. Paul, Minn., professional speed skater, after he had beaten an automobile traveling at 44 miles an hour on Onota Lake.

McGowan, who is matched in races against Ed Lamy, of Saranac Lake, N. Y., to be run off Friday and Saturday, said that he believed that a speed of a mile a minute could be attained by a motorpaced speed skater.

Faster Toll Service

TO NEW LONDON

From now on you can make station-to-station calls to New London just as you make a local call in Norwich.

Give the local operator the name of the exchange and number wanted, for example, New London 123, and hold the telephone receiver to your ear until the call is completed or you receive a report.

If you do not know the number ask your local information operator for it.

This station-to-station service applies only to calls for a telephone number. Collect or reverse charge calls are not accepted at the station-to-station rate.

If you wish to talk to a particular person, ask for the toll operator in the usual way. Such calls cost more.

JOHNSON SAYS PLAYER DEAL WILL MAKE BOSTON A REAL CONTENDER

Chicago, Jan. 16—President Ban Johnson of the American League said tonight the deal between Boston and Cleveland involving the shifting of seven players was a strategic move that will result in making the Red Sox a contender for the 1924 pennant. He said that Bob Quinn, president of the Red Sox had displayed "a world of baseball intelligence" in engineering the deal which also had strengthened the Cleveland club.

"Since Quinn took the reins at Boston he has been one of the most energetic men in baseball and is trying to give the Boston fans a winner," President Johnson said.

"He acquired one of the most promising shortstops in the country by getting Dudley Lee from Tulsa. His next move was to get a veteran to play alongside the youngster and Wamby should fill the bill.

"With Steve O'Neil behind the plate the pitching staff should show up well. The acquisition of Veach will give the club one of the hardest hitting outfields in the league. Pitcher Boone should develop into a great pitcher under Managers Fohl and O'Neil. Connolly also may be expected to become a great outfielder.

"The Cleveland club, in getting George Burns back into the fold, is getting just what it wants. Burns is one of the best first baseman in baseball and is well thought of by Cleveland fans. I do not think that either club was materially weakened by the deal. Fewster and Walters have a lot of baseball left and will help the Indians."

President Johnson said Quinn was determined to give Boston fans a pennant contending ball club.

LONGWOOD CLUB BUYS ADDITIONAL ACREAGE

Brookline, Mass., Jan. 16.—Favorable action is expected on the part of the members of the Longwood Cricket club when they vote next Monday on a proposition to buy eighty thousand feet of land in the Chestnut Hill district which is near the boundary lines of Newton and Brookline and Boston. The board of governors has closed negotiations for the purchase of the land, which adjoins the club's Chestnut Hill tennis courts subject to approval of the members.

Abandonment of the famous Longwood courts which the club leased for a nominal sum from the Sears estate and which have been sold to a private school made imperative an increase in the number of courts at Chestnut Hill.

Tracing the club's history in the annual report the board of governors recognizes the generosity of the Sears estate. One of the Sears family was Richard D. Sears, an early national lawn tennis champion and president of the club. The report recalls the club's start as a cricket organization which developed teams known all over the country and its development into a tennis club which played host to the first Davis cup match and which has seen in important tournaments on the old Longwood course all the tennis stars of many years.

MISKE'S FORFEIT MONEY RETURNED TO HIS WIDOW

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 16. — The Muskegon Athletic club has returned to Mrs. Miske, the widow, the $100 forfeit claimed when Billy Miske, heavyweight boxer, failed to appear here two months ago for his scheduled bout with Joe Lohman of Toledo.

"It will aid Mrs. Miske more than us," was the comment of Joseph T. Riley, president.

ANOTHER YACHT RACE PLANNED FOR NEW LONDON

HAUGHTON WILL NOT COACH COLUMBIA IN 1924

Boston, Jan. 16.—Percy D. Haughton, former Harvard football coach and now head coach at Columbia university, said today that he would probably not return to Columbia next fall.

"I went to Columbia on a one-year basis," Haughton is quoted as saying, "and there seems to be very little chance that I will return."

"All this talk about a three-year contract is bosh," Haughton added. "Many things will have to be straightened out before I can agree to return."

When "P. D." was told that Robert W. Watt had resigned as graduate manager of athletics at Columbia after three and a half years' service, he remarked:

"It's news to me. They will miss him down there. He's a good man."

No Change Expected.

The athletic authorities at Columbia university, in reference to the statement attributed to Percy D. Haughton, that he probably would not return to Columbia as head football coach next fall, declared they had no knowledge of any change and that Haughton was expected to carry on.

Tickets Out For Olympics.

Paris, Jan. 16.—Bookings for admission to the winter Olympic sports at Chamonix have been opened. A season ticket covering the ten days of the meet ranges in price, according to accommodations, from 200 to 400 francs; daily admissions from 7 1-2 to 50 francs, and tickets allowing attendance for a half day from 5 to 30 francs.

Six Giants Sign Contracts

New York, Jan. 16—The New York Giants today announced the receipt of signed contracts from Hank Gowdy, catcher; Heinie Groh, third baseman; Fred Maguire, infielder and pitchers, Dennis Guerin, Walter Hunsinger and A. C. Stoner.

Hunsinger formerly played with the University of Pennsylvania and Stoner is a recruit from Knoxville, Tenn.

SUNDAY SUBJECTS

After making quite a reputation in the west, Ted Jamieson, the Milwaukee heavyweight, has arrived in New York seeking bouts with some of the big fellows.

Senorita Carmen Lucia De La Rosa, age 21, weight 147 pounds, claims to be a champion prize fighter of Mexico. She has been in 75 ring battles, and has fought both sexes.

Chief Bender, former pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, won more world series games than any other player—one in 1905, two in 1910, two in 1911.

West Virginia may have a new class C baseball league the coming season. Wheeling, Morgantown, Charleston, Huntington and Bluefield are mentioned as possible members of the proposed circuit.

Jack Kotzelnick, the veteran southpaw, who made an excellent record last season with the Decatur team of the Three-I league, will probably be given a trial by the Chicago White Sox this spring.

Because of a conflicting date in New Orleans, Champion Joe Lynch has been obliged to pass up the offer of a match with Ernie Goozeman of Milwaukee at East Chicago on January 16.

The Michigan-Ontario league may find some difficulty in picking a good baseball town to take the place of Grand Rapids in case the Michigan city should adhere to its intention to drop out of the Mint circuit.

University of Toronto, three-time winner of the Canadian intercollegiate hockey championship, has started the present season with good prospects of adding a fourth to its string of title.

The sport of ski jumping is a fairly modern one It originated in Telemark district of Norway in the year 1860, and a few years later had spread all over the Scandinavian peninsula. Prior to this the ski had been employ ey by the Swedes for military purposes. Gustavus Adolphus made notable use of it, as did his successors, and special ski units were attached to the Norwegian army as far back as 1710.

A boxing club in Toledo has signed up Young Montreal and Carl Tremaine for a ten-round no decision contest.

Only about one tusk of ivory in every fifty is sufficiently close grained and suitable in size for the making of billiard balls.

The Frederick (Md.) club will have a new park, a new manager, and many new players in the line-up when the Blue Ridge League starts its season

Queen's Park football club, organized in London in 1867, had the remarkable record of going through its first nine years without being defeated.

All football games of the Naval Academy next year will be played in the new stadium at Annapolis except those against the Military Academy and Princeton.

Queen Mab, named as the flagship of the Eastern Yacht Club of Boston for the coming season, is said to be the first schooner in American waters to be given the jib-headed mainsail rig.

George W. Wightman of Boston, who is slated for the presidency of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, has already served as treasurer secretary and vice president of that organization.

Georgie Marks, the Pacific Coast flyweight, who has made brilliant showing since he landed in the East, will probably be given an opportunity before long to try for Pancho Villa's world title.

Veteran baseball fans are still living in Hartford, Conn., who can recollect the days when their city was a member of the National League and the home of the first president of that organization.

Although the first three-cushion billiard tournament was held at St. Louis in 1878, the game is comparatively young, as it is only in recent years that it has rivaled the balkline style in popularity.

When it is considered that $700 is the estimated cost of taking each player on the training trip, it is not to be wondered that the major league clubs are figuring on trimming down their squads this spring to save expense.

J. W. McCormack, who played on the American Olympic hockey team four years ago, and last year with the St. Paul champions of the western division, is playing a fine game this winter for Edmonton in the Western Canadian Hockey Association.

STOLEN PAWCATUCK CAR FOUND BY NEW LONDON POLICE; THIEVES HELD

New London, Jan. 16.—An automobile truck, operated by William P. Murphy of Boston, struck one of the traffic signs of the lighthouse type, on State street, early this morning, the sign being dislodged and one lens smashed. Murphy was taken into custody by Patrolman Braxton Hill, on a charge of reckless driving, but the charge was not pressed as Murphy gave assurance that the cost of repairing the lighthouse would be paid by his employer.

E. E. Williams of 65 Federal street made it known to the police late yesterday that an automobile had been stolen from Covendale, Pa., on the 13th inst., and that a reward had been offered by the owner of the machine for its recovery, suggesting that the New London authorities maintain a watch for the stolen car.

The funeral of Cornelius Fitzpatrick, of 75 Mitchell street, Groton, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. Rev. William J. Fox, the pastor, sang the mass of requiem. The bearers were Jeremiah Sullivan, Patrick O'Meara, Bernard Tansey and Timothy Sullivan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. William Maynard and infant daughter, of Howard street, Master Clarence Samataro of Westerly, Oscar Edgecomb of Williams street and Mrs. Frank Guenther and infant son of John street, were patients discharged today at Lawrence hospital.

The Eagle Realty company has sold three parcels of land on Enos street, off Bayonet street, to Roland Joseph.

George Sabagh, proprietor of a Main street pool room, complained to the police late last night that someone had hurled a brick through the glass of the front entrance. Sabagh heard the crash of the falling glass, but by the time he reached the street there was no signs of anyone leaving the vicinity of the pool room.

Charles H. Baldwin, who has been confined to his home on Bank street several weeks by illness, has recovered his health and has returned to business.

An automobile, stolen in Pawcatuck last night, was recovered by the New London police this morning, and the thieves were apprehended this noon by State Policeman Williams of the Centerbrook barracks at Sabrook.

The machine which was owned by a Pawcatuck garage, was stolen early in the evening and Officer Connors of the Pawcatuck police requested the New London authorities to be on the lookout for it. The state police barracks at Centerbrook were also notified of the theft. About 10 o'clock an automobile, which bore the markers of the Pawcatuck garage, XE-348, drove up to a gasoline station at Essex to get fuel. The driver of the machine inquired the direct route to New Haven and was given the desired information. He appeared extremely nervous and as the machine was operated away, a garage employe followed it, and when the car suspected of being stolen was headed towards New London, instead of towards New Haven, the state police barracks were notified. With the providing of the state police with the number of the markers it was revealed that the automobile was the stolen car. State Policeman Williams at once informed the New London authorities that the machine was headed this way and shortly after midnight the stolen car was spotted when passing through Bank street by Patrolman John Foley. The officer attempted to intercept the car, but was unsuccessful. Patrolman Foley informed police headquarters of the appearance of the car here and Sergeant James D. Gaffney caused Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman William Babcock to make a tour of the outlying section of the city and side street, in an effort to locate the car. About 1.30 o'clock when the officers were passing through Jay street, the stolen automobile was observed abandoned near the corner of Jay street. It was taken to the police garage and held there until this afternoon, when the owner came to New London and took charge of it.

About noon State Policeman Williams held up three young men as they walked along the highway near Saybrook and as their answers to the officer's questions were such as to cause the latter to suspect them of having stolen the automobile, they were taken to the Essex gasoline station where an employe positively recognized two of them as being occupants of the car when it was supplied with gasoline the night before. The arrest of the trio followed.

Howard J. Willey, who claims to reside in Richford, Vt. appeared at the police station this morning in a pitiable condition. Willey was ill and requested that he be given medical attention. Upon being questioned it was found that Willey had been on a debauch and that he had consumed a quantity of denatured alcohol. He was in a highly nervous state and was given medical treatment by City Physician George P. Cheney. There was no session of the police court this morning so in order to permit Willey receiving proper and sufficient treatment, a special session of the court was held this afternoon when Willey was presented on a charge of intoxication. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Prince. Willey will be given medical treatment while in jail.

William Kaplan has sold a dwelling and two parcels of land on Main street to Nathan Belt.

The Morbidity report for New London for the past week shows that but one case of a contagious disease developed, that one being diphtheria.

Joseph Metrina caretaker of the Tracy Farnham residence at 967 Pequot avenue, has received his second threatening letter within a fortnight, the letters purporting to have been written by members of the Ku Klux Klan in New London. The last letter, which was received by Metrina this week, like the one of two weeks ago, threatens the caretaker with bodily harm unless Metrina agrees to perform certain things contained in the communication. Metrina does not take the reception of the last letter seriously although he did the first letter. It is the general belief that the writers of both letters are acquaintances of Metrina and are putting up a joke at the caretaker's expense. When the first letter was received its reception was reported to the police and Patrolman Walter Rehn was stationed close to the Farnam residence throughout the night, but no such surveillance is maintained as a result of Metrina's second communication.

Miss Margaret O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien of Rogers street, is in Toledo, Ohio, where she will remain three months as the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Doherty.

Mrs. Leroy Luwig of Stonington, is spending a few days in New London, being registered at the Hotel Mohican.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Booth have returned to their home on Montauk avenue after a visit in Bridgeport. The trip was made by automobile.

Mrs. MacLane, wife of Lieut. Gordon MacLane, U. S. N., returned today to her home here after spending several weeks in Baltimore. Mrs. MacLane recently gave birth to a son in a Baltimore hospital.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, enjoyed a banquet at the Hotel Mohican tonight, the event being attended by about a hundred members of the organization.

The wind that accompanied the heavy rain tonight caused slight damage in several places. At the corner of Montauk avenue and School street, the supports of an arc light gave way, allowing the light to drop to a point close to the highway and creating a dangerous condition. The police were notified and the Connecticut Power company was informed of the mishap. A repair gang was sent out and the light was put back in position. Several signs over entrances to buildings were dislodged so that the police removed them in order to safeguard pedestrians. During the height of the storm the fire alarm sounded frequently, the wind causing the alarm wires to be blown against each other or on object on poles, resulting in a single blast.

John Leavey of 32 1-2 Truman street, was taken into custody this evening by Sergeant Charles Hammond and Patrolman Timothy C. Sullivan, charged with breach of the peace upon complain of the young man's mother, Mrs. Mary Leavey. He was locked up in default of obtaining a surety on his bond for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. Leavey went to his home and was in an ugly mood, which resulted in his quarrelling with his mother and sister.

David Elfenbein of Tilley street employed at a Bank street pawnshop, was arrested today by Sergeant Frank Howard, charged with breach of the peace, upon complaint of Bernard Burman, of Bank street. The accused furnished a surety on his bond for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. It is understood that Elfenbein and Burman engaged in a war of words on Bank street and that Elfenbein finally struck Burman several blows on the head and face.

Miss Gertrude Hodgdon, of Groton, teacher at the Eastern Point school, has resumed her duties after two weeks' absence, made necessary because of an operation Miss Hodgdon recently underwent at a New London hospital.

The automobile owned and operated by Edward F. Stevens, 53 Perst street and a commercial truck, operated by Thomas Pisanti of 25 Belden street, were in collision this evening at the corner of Montauk avenue and Bank street. Both cars were damaged. According to Pisanti, he had operated his truck from Montauk avenue to Bank and was headed northward when, without warning, the car driven by Stevens and which had just descended the grade on Bank street, crashed against the side of the truck.

The police received a telephone message this evening that a chimney fire was in progress at a house, corner of Prospect and Federal streets, following pedestrians observing sparks leaping from the chimney. The Northwest Hose company was dispatched to the place and with the arrival of the firemen it developed that a fire had been started in a fireplace and the sparks were carried up the chimney by the high wind.

Mrs. Nettie Burr of Poquonnoc has gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., where to remain for the balance of the winter.

LYME

Friends of the family were shocked and grieved on hearing that Mr. and Mrs. John Tiffany had received a cablegram that their son, Jewett, had died at Naples, Italy, Jan. 5.

Mr. Tiffany graduated from Williams college, Williamstown, Mass., last June and in July went to Europe. The cablegram from the American consul stated death was from paralysis. He is survived by his parents, a sister Rachel, a brother Leon, his grandmother, Mrs. Louise Jewett and an aunt, Mrs. John Wood of Hartford.

Mrs. James Lord and Mrs. Mary Jewett were in Essex on business on Saturday.

The funeral of Sherrod Chapell, whose death occurred Wednesday, Jan. 9th, at his home in Sterling, was held at Saybrook Friday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Beckwith.

Miss Marjorie Lord was a guest at Mrs. Ryan's in Old Lyme the first of the week.

Miss Rachel Tiffany spent the week end at her home and returned to her school in Sussex, N. J., the first of the week.

NEWER FORM OF OIL ENDS RHEUMATIC PAINS

If 5,755 Cases Less than 3 in 100 Are Reported to Have Failed to Get Relief

From Germany, which gave to the world those two great pain relievers, Aspirin for headache pain and Novocain for painless dentistry, comes news of another great discovery of a newer form of oil which is bringing quick relief from the pain of rheumatism in a remarkable percentage of cases where all other methods had failed.

These German scientists found that rheumatism in an enormous number of cases, is due to an internal infection such as poisonous pus in a dead tooth or an infected tonsil, or in the intestines. These poisons being absorbed by the blood are carried to the joints and muscles, where they set up inflammation and intense pain. Sometimes these infections cause rheumatism, in other cases neuritis, neuralgia or gout. Once the cause of the trouble was known, these German scientists worked to perfect an oil intended to penetrate directly to the tortured nerves and inflamed tissue of the joints and muscles themselves and neutralize these poisons in much the same way that bicarbonate of soda or magnesia, neutralizes an acid stomach. Often even in the most severe and stubborn cases, inflammation, swelling and pain quickly disappear with the first application.

So astounding have been the results from this remarkable oil that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to lend you a bottle for trial with his personal written guarantee. You simply deposit the price with him as evidence of good faith. Then if you do not get immediate relief, simply return the bottle and every penny of your deposit will be instantly refunded. Ask for the oil by name—Buhler Oil. Sold by all good druggists in this city, such as Lee & Osgood Co., Andrew McLaughlin, J. A. Morgan, G. G. Engler, George M. Rathbone.

Note: The written guarantee of relief or money-back on Buhler Oil is especially designed for those people who have doctored for years without results. We do not want to keep one penny of your money unless Buhler Oil gives you relief from pain.

ALL WOMEN WHO WORK

Should Know how this Worker was Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Zahl, N. Dak.—"I was nervous and weak and was not regular. I also had pains frequently. I was sickly for seven years and finally had a nervous break-down following an operation. I am a dressmaker and milliner, and a lady I work for told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am taking it and it has made me well and able to do my work again. I have even helped take care of a sick neighbor recently, so you can see how fit I am. I highly praise your medicine and you may use my letter as you see fit. I hope it will help some other woman."—Mrs. OLE NORDLEIN, Box 28, Zahl, North Dakota.

Over 121,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" Ninety per cent. of these replies answer "Yes."

This means that 98 out of every 100 women taking this medicine for ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it. For sale by all druggists.

The New ESSEX A SIX

Built by Hudson Under Hudson Patents

$170 Lower in Price

The Coach $975

Touring Model - $850

Freight and Tax Extra

Priced $170 lower, the New Essex Coach provides a larger, handsomer body, with even greater passenger comfort than the former Coach. And its 6-cylinder motor, built on Hudson patents gives smoothness and performance distinction, heretofore exclusive to the Super-Six.

Qualities of Both Hudson and Essex

Its abilities are as exclusive in this field as Hudson's. Think of what that advantage means. And it has in full those hidden values that keep Hudson and Essex cars like new, after thousands of miles and years of service.

So we ask this test—Take a ride. You will enjoy it—that's certain See how handling is simplified. Starts at the touch of your toe. Steers easily as a bicycle. In heavy traffic, throttle it down to a crawl. Then note how smooth and alert the pickup. And how easy gears shift. Easy to park too. Its low center of gravity makes safe and comfortable driving on all roads at all speeds.

Everyone Calls It "Ideal Transportation"

Simple to keep in first class condition. Requires little attention. Lubrication for the most part is done with an oil can. Mileage on fuel, oil and tires is exceptional.

No car we ever announced has met with such a reception. You must be impressed as everyone has. You too will say: "the new Essex provides ideal transportation."

The applicant should be required to show her bank book or other evidence of such property to the local director when she applies for mothers' aid.

(b) Title to or Equity in Real Estate. The mothers' aid bureau will approve aid to an applicant who has an equity in real estate upon which the family resides not exceeding $300, the assessed value of which does not exceed $2,300; provided, that in the case of a widow the property has not been acquired since her husband's death for the purpose of saving funds which could otherwise be applied to the living expenses of the family; and provided, further, that the applicant is not possessed of other property mentioned in (a) of this policy, or such amount as together with the equity herein will exceed a total of $500 in present value. In general, only a reasonable rate of interest on the mortgage is approved, as other payments increasing the equity in real estate would constitute in effect a private investment out of public funds. No money should be advanced under the law to cover payments on real estate. Taxes on property should be abated whenever possible.

Insurance.—A mother will be allowed to carry a reasonable amount of insurance on herself and children coming within the industrial class, weekly premiums from 5 to 25 cents per week, according to children's ages, will be allowed.

Mother with One Child.—Under ordinary circumstances a mother with only one child should be self-supporting. Exception, however, should be made if such a mother is physically unable to provide full support for both herself and child.

Desertion—Aid should not be granted to a mother whose husband has deserted his family unless an application has been made for the issuance of a warrant for non-support; nor until one year has elapsed since the desertion occurred. Every reasonable effort must be made by the local director to secure the apprehension of the deserting husband.

Illegitimate Children—In the case of a mother with one illegitimate child, aid may be given if a careful study of the case indicates that the mother is living a moral life. In the case of several illegitimate children the advisability of extending aid is extremely doubtful and should not be done without consultation with and approval by the state director.

Part-Time Work For Mother.—A mother who is able to do part time work without detriment to her health or without neglecting her home and children should be encouraged to do a reasonable amount of such work. No mother who has a number of young children should be allowed to work away from home full time unless under exceptional circumstances. A mother who claims to be unable to work should be examined by a physician to determine her ability to work, as well as to prescribe for her medical needs.

Temporary Need.—Aid under this law should not be granted to a mother unless there is a reasonable probability that need of such aid will exist for more than one year. Satisfactory evidence of the probable duration is required.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET GAINED STRENGTH

New York, Jan. 16.—Selling pressure was lifted from today's stock market and the general list moved higher in response to further improvement in the foreign exchanges, cheaper money rates and favorable trade news.

Chief speculative interest centered in the railroad shares of which there was reported to be heavy buying for European contract. A number of the non- dividend paying issues sold 1 to 3 points above yesterday's closing prices while the high grade stocks showed extreme gains of 1 to 3 1-2 points, top prices in many cases being shaded as a result of profit-taking.

Virtually all groups of industrial stocks participated in the advance with the steel, automotive, equipment, leather, food, merchandising, can and farm implement issues recording the highest gains. Several of the oils moved up one to two points in the early dealings on additional announcements of higher gasoline and crude prices, but the gains were reduced or cancelled when fresh selling broke out in the pan-American issue in the late afternoon. Coper stocks were inclined to be sluggish on reports that the red metal was again selling below 13 cents a pound.

Buying of the steel shares was influenced to some extent by the optimistic tone of the weekly trade reviews, which stressed the heavy demand for construction material. U. S. Steel closed a point higher at par and gains of one to nearly two points were recorded by Bethlehem, Crucible, Republic and Sloss Sheffield Steels, Iron Products, and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe issues. Payment of the last back dividend on Republic Steel preferred was announced after the market closed.

Revival of activity in the tobacco group was based on reports of the forthcoming mergers. Philip Morris led the advance with a gain of more than one point. Equipment issues were heavy in the day on rumors that 1924 earnings would be well below those of 1923, but they strengthened later on on the announcement that the Baldwin company had obtained a contract for 57 locomotives from the Atchison Railroad. Leather issues made a favorable response to reports of higher commodity prices and improved earnings. Central Leather preferred raising two points.

Strong spots in the specialty list included Corn Products, Savage Arms, Remington Typewriter, Computing Tabulating Recording, Marlin-Rockwell, Munsingwear, Utah securities the net gains ranging from 3 1-2 to nearly four points.

Lehigh Valley was one of the strong features of the railroad group, closing more than two points higher at 66 1-8 after having sold slightly above that figure. Good gains also were recorded by Erie common and second preferred, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific preferred, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, St. Paul preferred, Chesapeake and Ohio and the Reading issues.

Call money opened at 4 3-4 eased to 4 1-2 and then to 4. Time money and comercial paper rates were unchanged.

BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 16.—Recovery of the French governmental and municipal bonds in response to the improvement in exchange featured today's active and irregular bond market. Bordeaux sixes led the advance with a two point rise and gains of more than a point were recorded by Lyons and Marseilles sixes. Both French governmental issues moved a point higher.

Heaviness of some of the United States government issues was attributed to cessation of buying for British account and to the switching by hundreds of small town banks from Liberty bonds to the higher yielding short term treasury notes.

Railroad liens generally moved to a higher ground, Pennsylvania general 4 1-2's advancing a point. Gains of about a point also were registered by New Haven convertible sixes, "Katy" adjustment 5's, Great Northern adjustment sixes, Delaware and Hudson refunding 4's and Northwestern 7's. With the exception of a drop of almost two points in New York, Westchester and Boston 4 1-2's, losses in the second grade rail list were confined to fractions.

Industrial issues moved within narrow limits, although an advance of more than a point in Brier Hill 5 1-2's led the steels to higher ground. Consolidated Oil 7's moved up 1 3-8.

Announcement was made that a nationwide banking syndicate would offer for sale tomorrow $40,000,000 Argentine government six per cent. bonds at 96 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Impressive upward swings in the corn market today in a repetition of recent almost daily breaking of high price records for the season. Oats also overtopped the season's previous record, with wheat equalling the highest figures on the present movement. Corn finished strong at 7-8 to 1a 1 1-8c net gain, May 79 3-4 to 79 7-8c. Wheat closed firm 1-8 to 1-2c up. May 1.09 1-4 to 109 3-8 and July 1.07 3-4 to 107 7-8. Oats scored 1-8c to 1-2c advance. In provisions, the outcome varied from 15c decline to a rise of 2c.

Despite heavy selling to realize profits, the corn futures market readily absorbed all offerings, and the day ended with quotations at the maximum point reached. Rough weather and a threatened drop in temperature likely to increase feeding demand as well as to restrict still further the scanty movement of the crop furnished the chief new stimulus toward higher prices. As usual of late, today's receipts of corn were meager for this time of year and one of the largest houses operating extensively in Illinois and Iowa obtained only three carloads of the best bids so far this season.

Wheat trade was considerably more active than has recently been the rule. Better cash demand for wheat at the leading terminals was reported, and the market for future deliveries responded to corn strength, regardless of assertions that the new Argentine wheat crop was the dargest on record, sugesting an expotable suplus estimated at 190,000 000 bushels.

All deliveries of oats as well as of corn attained the highest prices of the season. Shipping demand here for oats was active, and receipts continued light.

CURB MARKET

New York, Jan. 16.—Heavy buying of the oil shares, many of which recorded sharp gains, was the outstanding feature of today's curb market. Accumulation of the oils was influenced by reports of higher gasoline and crude prices and publication of statistics showing that consumption was fast catching up to production.

Standard Oil of Nebraska was the individual feature, jumping 19 points to 230. Gains of 2 to 3 points were recorded by Prairie Oil and Gas Magnolia, Solar Refining, South Pennsylvania Oil and Standard Oils of Kentucky and Ohio. Penn-Mex Fuel was one of the few heavy spots.

Ford Motors of Canada jumped nine points, but the other motors were heavy, Cleveland and Durant dropping back about a point each. Gillette Safety Razor advanced four points and Glen Alden Coal and Kresge one each.

Interest in the mining group was confined to the peny shares. Hawthorne touching a new top at 82.

SPOKE ON OPPORTUNITIES TO BELT CO. EMPLOYES

Tuesday noon at the plant of the Norwich Belt company the regular noon meeting under Y. M. C. A. auspices was held with a good group of the employes present. General Secretary Edwin Hill gave the brief address taking for his topic, Opportunity.

Among other things Mr. Hill said: "Paul in writing to the Ephesians, said, 'As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good.' The familiar words of Shakespeare are suggestive, 'There is a tide in the affairs of men, which taken at its flood, leads on to fortune.' There has always been plenty of 'room at the top,' and the reason is that there have been so many who have failed to take advantage of their opportunities that would have fitted them for these 'top' positions. The secret of success and failure is found in the attitude men assume toward their opportunities. Lloyd George, the Welsh lad, had not the opportunities many boys have but he seized them when they came his way, and the result is that his name is a household word in England, and he today is a world figure. We could not think of those who have seized their opportunities without thinking of the 'immortal' Lincoln. Probably all of you men have had many more opportunities than did Lincoln; the difference between him and us is that he was alert to the open doors while we have neglected them. What a wonderful illustration of alertness to opportunities is Theodore Roosevelt; he not only seized them, but he created them, so to speak, and lo, we have what some believe, 'the greatest American of them all.' Helen Keller, the blind girl, has achieved wonders under an awful handicap, simply because she grasped eagerly at every opportunity to overcome and succeed, and the wonder is that she accomplished her task, and is today one of the brightest young women in America. It is said that the doctors gave Roger Babson but a short time to live, but with a determination seldom seen, he started out to fool the doctors, and we all know how splendidly he has succeeded; he took to the open, and today he is the greatest authority as a statistician in America, if not in the world. I am personally acquainted with Wallace Nutting; he was my pastor at one time. He was at that time working with the camera. He told us that the doctor said he could live but about six months. He seized the opportunity of getting out of doors, and spent his time taking pictures, and he made art in pictures his study, and America has him to thank for his beautiful pictures that are found hanging in multitudes of homes; the Nutting pictures represent the beautiful in art.

Few men have seized their opportunities, while the many have neglected them. In no realm is this more true than in the moral and religious realm. The words of Jesus as he wept over Jerusalem, 'ye would not' apply to many men today who ignore the many opportunities that come their way. The story of the virgins is another illustration of the failure to take advantage of the opportunity to fill their lamps so as to be ready for the bridegroom, and those words, 'the door was shut' speak volumes; many failures are found along the shores of time caused by neglect of opportunity, and alas, the door is now shut. Let us take the opportunities that are ours in the things of this world, and especially let us accept eagerly the greatest opportunity of life offered to us by the great Christ, even the salvation of our souls, and thus we will make our lives count for the most possible in our day and generation."

W. H. HILL'S LIFE WORK
Colds cause more illness than any other human ailment. Realizing this 50 years ago, W. H. Hill determined to develop a quick-acting scientifically correct cold and la grippe remedy.
Years of research brought success. Mr. Hill discovered a most remarkable formula. He backed it with energy, faith, integrity and a name that meant "satisfaction or money back."
Today more than 4,000,000 families—one-fifth of America's population—use and recommend Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine.
The formula has never been changed in a quarter century. What Hill's has done for millions, it can do for you. Demand red box bearing Mr. Hill's portrait. All druggists, 30 cents.

POETRY

"Voice of the Western Wind"

Voice of the western wind!
Thou singest from afar,
Rich with the music of a land
Where all my memories are;
But in thy song I only hear
The echo of a tone
That fell divinely on my ear
In days forever flown.

Star of the western sky!
Thou beamest from afar,
With luster caught from eyes I knew
Whose orbs were each a star;
But, oh, those orbs—too wildly bright—
No more eclipse thine own,
And never shall I find the light
Of days forever flown!

—Edmund Clarence Stedman.

Count Me Thy Soldier, Love

Count me thy soldier, Love, today.
Give me thy spotless shield
And send me on thine errantry
Forth to the fateful field.
Give me thy banner, pure and bright,
A sword that shall not fail,
And lead me in thy glorious fight
Till all thy foes shall quail.

The battle-ground lies far and wide,
The hosts no man can tell;
But here at hand I make a stand,
Dearly one life to sell.
The laurel wreath may not be mine,
Nor plaudits greet my ear,
But in this place, a little space,
For Love I couch a spear.

The triumph over dark and wrong,
The victory for the light,
Waits but each single soldier's stroke
To put the foe to flight.
Oh, do not doubt that far away
Your comrades' cheers arise!
Faith and the blow that proves the faith
Shall win the peerless prize.

Count me thy soldier, Love, today,
And when the fight is won,
Then come and walk the battle field
At setting of the sun.
And let me join the glad hurrah,
Or, on my grass-green bed,
Let me but dream I see thee smile

—C. H. Crandall in Boston Transcript.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Misstress—I've invited Mr. and Mrs. Blank to dinner at 7, Norah, but I think we'll give them a quarter of an hour's grace.

"Norah—Well, mum, O! heard ye wor religious folks, but O! do think that's rather overdoin' it.—Boston Transcript.

"No, Elmer," said the father as they sat at dinner, "you can't have a second piece of pie. One is enough for you."

"There 'tis again," rejoined the little chap. "You are always sayin' I must learn to eat pie with a fork an' then you won't give me a chance to practice."—Chicago News.

Ed—I guess you've been out with worse looking fellows than I am, haven't you?

No answer.

Ed—I say, I guess you've been out with worse looking fellows than I, haven't you?

Coed—I heard you the first time. I was just trying to think.—Oregon Lemon Punch.

Mrs. (at 2 a. m.)—"Well, where have you been until this hour?"

Mr. (all set)—I wash comin' along th' shtreet when two men held me up, an'—

Mrs.—Hm! Yes, judging from your condition I should say that must have been necessary.—American Legion Weekly.

The word "thief" was on the blackboard, but Dick could not spell it.

"Surely you know what that spells," exclaimed the teacher. "Now, suppose I put my hand into your pocket and took out a penny, what should I be?"

"A conjurer," replied Dick.—London Post.

The manufacture of corn starch has grown to such proportions in the United States that the industry now consumes about 50,000,000 bushels of corn each year.

Motion pictures of undersea ruins of dead cities along the north African coast were recently taken by archaeologists in airplanes. The films have been declared to be more satisfactory than anything that could have been obtained from the surface of the sea. By this means the course of a sea wall submerged to a depth of five fathoms was accurately traced.

FOR FATHER'S COUGH
January is usually one of the coldest months and brings its share of coughs, colds and hoarseness. Take FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough or cold, as it loosens the phlegm and quickly brings relief to the inflamed membranes of the throat. "YOUR HONEY AND TAR COMPound has done wonders for my father, who had an awful cough. He is feeling fine now," writes Nicolass Gonsales, Cuero, Texas. Lee & Osgood Co.

NORWICH TOWN

At the close of the weekly prayer meeting, Thursday evening, January, 10th, the annual meeting of the First Congregational church corporation was held in the chapel. Clyde M. Beebe, the retiring chairman of the trustees, called for the warning of the meeting, which was read by the clerk, Dwight W. Avery. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and were followed by reports of treasurer and other officers, which were also approved. The treasurer's report showed all bills paid and a balance in the teasury.

The election resulted in the re-election of Dwight W. Avery as clerk; Frank S. Avery as treasurer; and Lucius A. Fenton trustee for the three year term. Mr. Fenton was elected a member of the board of trustees, to succeed Clyde M. Beebe, whose term of three years has expired. By provision of the constitution a trustee is not eligible to re-election.

The church has been very prosperous and has come through each year without a deficit, through the efficient management of the trustees. Besides Mr. Fenton, the board of trustees comprises Frank E. Sterry, chairman and Herbert L. Yerrington.

During the past year much has been done to improve the church property in the way of repairs etc. A detailed report of some of the important things accomplished under the supervision of the trustees was announced at a church service during the fall by Chairman Beebe as follows: A new lighting system for protection was installed; insurance on the church, chapel and parsonage was increased; a large tree which had died was cut down at quite an expense; repairs to belfry; new pipe for water motor for organ; one new furnace and repairs on another etc.

All this in summing up the expense, amounted to $840 which was raised in due time, all bills having been paid, leaving a balance to begin the year.

LOSES $10,000 SUIT AGAINST CITY FOR DEATH OF HENRY J. KILROY, JR.

Recovery of damages of $10,000 from the city of Norwich is denied on account of the death of Henry J. Kilroy, Jr., in a decision handed down Wednesday by Judge Allyn L. Brown, before whom the suit was tried in the superior court here Tuesday.

Judge Brown gives judgment for the defendant, finding that the plaintiff has failed to prove the absence of contributory negligence.

The death of Mr. Kilroy, who was 17 years old, and was at work with William Racine on the slate roof of the city barn in the employ of John O. Johnson on Aug. 19, 1914, occurred from electric shock and burns which he received when he came in contact with wires of the city gas and electric department. He was instantly killed. Suit was brought against the city by his father, the administrator of his estate. The claim was made that wires that ran along on poles on the Chestnut street side of the barn were near the eaves and gutter of the barn, within arm's length of any workman repairing the barn roof, and were not sufficiently insulated to be safe. It was alleged that young Kilroy fell, leaned against or took hold of the wires.

Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., who had with him Attorney Arthur M. Brown, defended the suit for the city, and Attorney J. J. Desmond appeared for the plaintiffs.

Memorandum of Decision

In his memorandum of decision, Judge Brown said:

The tragic death of the young man for which this action is brought by his father as the administrator of his estate, was, as was truly said in argument, lamentable and arouses only sympathy for those to whom the deceased was near and dear. This feeling which so naturally arises, cannot, however, be given weight in delivering the validity of the plaintiff's claim.

In order to establish the defendant's liability here, the burden rests upon the plaintiff to show (1) his intestate's freedom from contributory negligence, and (2) negligence of the defendant which (3) caused his death. The conclusion which I have reached upon the first of these propositions renders a discussion of the other two unnecessary at this time.

I am satisfied that the plaintiff has failed to sustain his burden of proving that his intestate was free from contributory negligence. Even though the testimony is considered in the light most favorable to the plaintiff upon the question of how the intestate actually came into contact with the wire which carried the fatal charge, the fact remains that having been warned by his employer of the danger of these wires and to avoid them, and having for several days as he worked there had the opportunity to observe them to know that they were electric wires and potentially dangerous, nevertheless in some manner and for some reason which the evidence fails to disclose he permitted his body to come into contact with them. In view of the knowledge which the intestate is charged with having had under the circumstances, this was a danger which he was bound to use reasonable care to avoid, just as he was bound to use such care to avoid the danger of falling off the roof on which he stood. It is the plaintiff's failure to prove the use of reasonable care by his intestate under the existing circumstances which I am constrained to find defeats his recovery in this action.

While it course has no bearing upon the plaintiff's proof of the foregoing essentials of his cause of action, it may be a matter of proper comment to suggest that the wisdom of the legislature in providing by statute in such a case for compensation insurance which the evidence disclosed has been fully paid here for the intestate's death, is hereby once more indicated. The statute imposing as it does this expense as a cost of the business of the employer, irrespective of contributory negligence upon the part of the injured.

Judgment may be entered for the defendant.

MRS. F. A. MITCHELL SPEAKS TO PARENT-TEACHERS' MEETING

Members of Parent-Teacher association of Laurel Hill school and their friends were very pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Clarence Barber presided. Letters from the Sheltering Arms, acknowledging Christmas gifts were read.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, who gave an interesting account of "Child Welfare Work." Mrs. Mitchell outlined the work of the committee, noting the progress it has made since its origin. The object of this committee is to place children in suitable homes and to follow up children who have been taken from the county home.

Mrs. William Manning entertained with humorous readings. Miss Maida Wright, accompanied by Miss Anna Spicer, sang "Hush a Bye Birdie, Croon, Croon," and "Song of Love," from "Blossom Time." Piano and violin selections were given by Masters Henry Ladd and John Diachyshyn.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dodge, assisted by Mrs. Farmer, Mrs. Waters and Mrs. Case.

PROGRAMME ON JAPAN AT MISSIONARY MEETING

Mrs. William Gilchrist was the hostess at the January meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Mission Circle of the First Baptist church. Mrs. Edward C. Dunbar presided and read the Scripture lesson from Acts, 16. The hymn, Let the Lower Lights Be Burning was given, after which the secretary and treasurers' reports were read for the month, also the reports for the year, all being approved. Mrs. George Rathbun acted as secretary pro-tem in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Alfred Davis, who is out of town.

The subject for the afternoon was Woman and the Leaven in Japan. Mrs. Dunbar gave a very interesting talk from the mission book by that title and was assisted by Mrs. William Koonze. Questions were asked by the members after the readings. There were ten present.

STATE WOULD INCREASE ROCKVILLE ESTATE VALUE

Judge John E. Fahey of Rockville of the probate court for the district of Ellington, has handed down a decision in regard to the estate of William B. Martin which was heard on last Friday. Assistant State Tax Commissioner Carlos S. Holcomb made a hard fight to have the executor's report overruled and increase the value of the Martin coal yards from $21,000 to $36,000. Judge Fahey's decision reduces the value of the coal yards but increases the value of several other parcels of land by small amounts. The total increase in value is less than $1,000, whereas the state would have the value increased over $15,000.

In his decision, Judge Fahey reduced the value of the coal yard from $20,100 to $20,000. The other land was increased as follows: Brooklyn street property $800 over appraisers' figures, land on Grand street $80; land on Tolland avenue increased $120; Sprout land on Tolland road in Vernon increased $20, making a gross increase of $1,020 and a net increase of $920.

PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE FOR G. & S. BOND HOLDERS

The Groton and Stonington Street Railway Co., operating between Groton and Westerly defaulted on Jan. 1 interest payment on bonds, issue of $375,000 first mortgage 6%es, put out in 1904 and hitherto meeting payment. A protective committee of bondholders has been formed, composed of Clarence E. Thompson, New Haven; C. Royce Boss, Norwich, and P. Leroy Harwood of New London. Deposit of the bonds are to be invited and depositories designated. The mortgage is due July 1.

Returns From New Haven Hospital.

ST. ANDREWS CHURCH ELECTED ITS OFFICERS

The annual parish meeting of St. Andrew's Episcopal church was held Monday evening in the St. Andrew's guild room, with the Rev. Lionel E. W. Mitchell, deacon in charge, presiding. The reports of the societies of the church were heard with interest. The reports of the officers were read and accepted showing the church to be in excellent condition.

Officers of the church were elected as follows: Senior warden, William Banfield; junior warden, James Johnson; parish clerk, C. Benjamin Morgan; treasurer, William A. Andrews; missionary treasurer, Arthur W. Fitch. Vestrymen elected were: John W. McKinley, Charles Erwin, William Taft, Fred W. Fitch, Albert A. Andrews, Arthur W. Fitch. Delegates to the diocesan convention, William Banfield, James Johnson; alternates, John W. McKinley, Fred W. Fitch; delegates to the New London Archdeaconry, James Johnson, Charles Erwin; alternates, William A. Andrews, Albert A. Andrews.

CHANGES IN STANDING IN COLONIAL PINOCHLE

Tuesday evening's play in The Colonial Club Pinochle Tournament brought many changes in the standing, although the scores were not very large. Huntington with a high score of 8,695 for the evening moved from sixteenth to twelfth position, while Crowell, playing for Church dropped from second to seventh place. Scores for the evening: Huntington 8695, Harwood 8035, Lillibridge 7955, Drake 7755, Higgins 7655, Sherman 7365, R. B. S. Washburn 7325, McNaught 7220, Allen 6845, Thompson 6590, Lamb 7190, Amburn 7185, Tracy 6915, Pierson 6745, T. G. Washburn 6735, Church 6460.

Standing to date: Harwood 93250, Drake 23895, Higgins 22,615, R. B. S. Washburn 23490, Lillibridge 22360, Sherman 22030, Church 21620, Amburn 21430, Kenefick 21425, T. G. Washburn 21000, Pierson 20910, Huntington 20905, Lamb 20825, McNaught 20610, Thompson 20505, Allen 20460.

PRESTON CITY CHURCH HAD ACTIVE YEAR

Preston City Congregational church held its annual meeting Tuesday. A goodly number were present so much so that the dinner tables needed to be enlarged. Clifton Dawley, church clerk, called the meeting to order and Rev. W. L. Muttart, pastor was elected moderator. All the reports showed considerable activity in the different branches of the church. J. V. Shedd was reelected church treasurer and Clifton Dawley reelected church clerk, Sidney Hall and J. E. Kennedy were elected members of board of trustees. Clifton Dawley and Harold Muttart were elected ushers. Mrs. Nathan Hall and Miss Abbie Stanton were elected members of the standing committee.

The Ladies' Aid Society held their meeting in connection with the church meeting and elected officers for the ensuing year.

JUDGES WERE LUNCHEON GUESTS OF JUDGE BROWN

Justices of the supreme court of errors of the state of Connecticut, and the superior court judges, in this city Wednesday to attend the funeral of former Supreme Court Judge John Mowry Thayer, were luncheon guests of Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court, at his home on Broadway.

Among the guests of Judge Brown were Supreme Justice George W. Wheeler, Associate Justices John K. Beach, Howard J. Curtis and John E. Keeler; also Judges James H. Webb, John P. Kellogg, Frank D. Haines, Isaac Wolfe, Christopher L. Avery and Leonard J. Nickerson of the superior court.

This gathering of judges of the higher courts of Connecticut was without doubt the largest at any funeral in Norwich.

LUCAS MEETS NORWICH PEOPLE AT MIAMI

Writing back to Norwich friends, Herbert W. Lucas, who is now at Miami, Florida, speaks particularly of the impression that the fine climate makes upon him and mentions that on a day when it was 12 below zero in Chicago he was in bathing at Miami beach where the water was the warmest he had ever known for an outdoor swim. New Year's day was a beautiful day, 85 in the shade, and he saw the finest flower and fruit parade he had ever seen, ten miles long. All the floats were gorgeous and beautifully decorated. The first prize for floats in the fraternal division $150, went to the Ku Klux Klan. I thought the Elks float was the best, Mr. Lucas writes, but the K. K. K. took the prize.

All along the line they received wonderful ovation. I should judge they are very strong here in the south. I hear William J. Bryan every Saturday at 9 a. m.; also saw John D. Rockefeller the other day, and Jack Dempsey arrived the other day. We saw him. There are very pretty rides hereabouts. One is down to the Florida cape, ten miles down the bay. It is covered with cocoanut palms and we fished off the pier. There is an old Spanish lighthouse on the mainland over 150 years old, quite a sight. You sail down the bay past William J. Bryan's residence, also the Deming estate and other beautiful mansions. It has rained once for all day, the only time it has rained since I have been here. Tell the Norwich people to come down to Miami to escape the cold weather. It gets down to 50 here but not often. It has been around 75 to 80 ever since I arrived here in December. I expect to take a trip over to Havana before returning in the spring.

The people here are mostly northerners and it's northern capital that is booming the town. Believe me, there are some real estate men here, and I think if one had a lot of cash he could get rich here. I meet Dr. Brewer every day and have been to call on Mrs. Vetter and her daughter Mrs. L. Manchester, who lives in Norwich. Saw Mr. Henault of Norwich and Mr. Milton Whitten. I expect to take a ride over to Tampa, St. Petersburg, Jacksonville and Palm Beach.

In spite of the stormy weather on Wednesday evening there was an audience of 500 or more in the assembly hall of St. Patrick's church when the eight-reel moving picture, Fabiola, by Cardinal Wiseman, was shown under the auspices of St. Patrick's church for the benefit of the parish poor. The film, which depicted early Christianity in Rome, was produced by the Catholic Art association. The audience manifested deep interest in the picture.

A matinee performance was given in the afternoon for the children of St. Patrick's and St. Mary's parishes and the attendance, numbering 1,000, taxed the seating capacity of the hall to its utmost.

John Egan presided at the piano during the showing of the picture. John P. Corcoran and William J. McKnight were in charge of the doors and the ushers were John Wozniak and Alexander Kilroy. Rev. Myles P. Galvin was in general charge of the arrangements.

LEBANON D. A. R. MET WITH MRS. WILLIAM MASON

The Gov. Jonathan Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R., met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Mason. After the business meeting the members present had something of interest to tell on read co-cerning President Coolidge.

Mrs. Karl Bishop read a paper on the League of the Four Colonies and King Phillips' war. A social hour with afternoon tea followed, Mrs. Emma Danielson assisting Mrs. Mason as hostesses.

APPRECIATES JUDGE THAYER AS DISTINGUISHED JURIST

Judge John M. Thayer, whose death occured Sunday at Norwich, was a contemporary of a group of judges upon the superior court bench who were notable for their legal attainments and for their ability as triers of cases. Judge William S. Case of this city was a youthful and brilliant member of the group. The present chief justice of the supreme court, George Wakeman Wheeler, was another and one of its ablest. It also included Judge Milton A. Shumway, Judge Ralph Wheeler, Judge Alberto T. Roraback, Judge Joel H. Reed, and Judge Edwin B. Gager, all of whom possessed striking individual characteristics. The other member was Judge Silas A. Robinson of Middletown. None of the judges who is now trying cases upon the superior court bench was a member of this group. Judge Howard J. Curtis, a justice of the supreme court, was a recruit to it about the time Judge Thayer moved on to the supreme court but all of the rest of the present judges of both supreme and superior courts belonged to a generation that might be described as later than that which marked the period of Judge Thayer and his associates as trial judges. So rapidly do change occured in this life.

Judge Thayer was a learned and sound jurist and a man of high character. He lacked the brilliant if sometimes erratic genius of his brother, Charles F. Thayer, who served several terms as mayor of Norwich and was considered unbeatable in the politics of that city. Charles F. Thayer was a Conecticut pioneer in municipal ownership advocacy. Under his administration the city of Norwich acquired the existing gas and electric plants. Thereafter, for some years, municipal operation of these utilities was a bone of political contention, with Mayor Thayer always in the forefront. In one of the years when Judge A. Heaton Robertson of New Haven was a favorite gubernatorial candidate of the democracy the party alternated by nominating Charles F. Thayer. In 1911 he attracted attention by entering the senatorial contest when Morgan G. Bulkeley was being opposed for re-election by Senator McLean. He wrote a series of witty letters which were carried by the Associated Press and printed in Newspapers all over the state, in which he hit off the foibles, and characteristics of well known politicians.

The Norwich Thayer brothers, we believe, were related to the Thayers of Worcester, Mass. one of whom was Judge John Thayer of the Worcester district court and an ex-congressman. The family had its American origin in eastern Massachusetts and was early rooted on the colonial soil. Judge John M. Thayer was an unassuming gentleman, a good citizen and respected in his profession, but content to let the more versatile members of his family make the sparks fly, which they did in statecraft and politics. — Hartford Times.

Maine People's Reunion.

Sons and daughters of Maine, now in eastern Connecticut, are to hold a reunion banquet at the Wauregan house on the evening of Jan. 25. The arrangements are in the hands of S. Hussey Reed of 5 Gardner court, this city, who hopes that no son or daughter of Maine will be omitted through their failure to let him know they will attend.

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole, 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

TAMPICO BOMBARDED BY MEXICAN REBEL GUNBOATS

Rebel Boats Fired Four Shots, Then Retired Outside Range When Artillery, Stationed at the Entrance to the Port, Replied—Residents Are Fearful, But the Port is Well Protected by Artillery—Mexican Government Asks Permission For Movement of Troops Through Arizona and Texas to Points in Mexico.

Tampico, Jan. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Rebel gunboats bombarded the city and port of Tampico this morning.

The news of the bombardment was received in a telephone message from the observer stationed at La Barra. The message said:

"Jesus M. Palma, chief of the coast guard, at nine o'clock this morning sighted the rebel gunboats Tampico and Sarazina, which had prevented six ships from entering the port. The vessels were five tankers and the Dutch steamer Maasdam.

"The rebel gunboats fired four shots. The artillery stationed at the entrance to the port replied and forced the rebel vessels to retire outside the range of the guns.

"Then the rebel ships directed their fire against the suburb of Varadero, located to the left of the Panuco river, destroying several Chinese houses. How many of the occupants of these houses perished is not known. An airplane sent up to reconnoiter identified both the rebel boats.

"At noon the ships cruised six hundred metres off the mouth of the the Uanuco river, trying to find a landing place."

The foreign residents of Tampico are in an expectant mood. There is considerable nervous tension among the native population.

Immediately after the bombardment James B. Stewart, the American consul, informed the American embassy at Mexico City and the state department in Washington, and requested instructions.

Some of the populace, fearful lest the rebels' ships again fire on the town, have left Tampico. The port is well protected by artillery. President Obregon is being kept informed of the situation.

MEXICAN GOV'T ASKS PASSAGE FOR TROOPS.

Washington, Jan. 17.—The state department announced tonight that the government of President Obregon in Mexico had requested permission for a detachment of the Mexican army to pass from Naco, Arizona, to some point in Texas where they will re-enter Mexican territory for service against the revolutionists. Although final decision has not been made, it was said the Washington government looked favorably upon the request.

The American government has made request for such passage of troops of the the governors of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas and has received favorable replies from the first two but as yet no reply from the governor of Texas. In case a favorable reply is received from the latter, it was added, the request of the Mexican government would be granted.

In a statement the state department said:

"The Mexican government, through its embassy here, has requested permission of this government for the passage of a detachment of the Mexican army together with animals and other material which usually accompanies such a command from Naco, Ariz., to some point in Texas, where they will re-enter Mexican territory for service in regions in Mexico where American lives and interests are being threatened with grave danger by the forces in revolt against the Mexican government. These troops will not be armed but their arms and ammunition will accompany them as baggage.

"This government has transmitted this request to the governors of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas and has received favorable replies from the governors of Arizona and New Mexico. No reply has yet been received from the governor of Texas. This government looks favorably upon the request of the Mexican government and in case a favorable reply is received from the governor of Texas this request will be granted.

"Similar permission has been extended in the past, the last occasion being in October 1916 and again in November 1916 when the de facto government of Mexico headed by Mr. Carranza, was allowed to transport Mexican troops from the Texas border through the United States to the state of Sonora, Mexico, where American lives and property were in serious danger from the operations of Mexican revolutionary bands."

PERMISSION GRANTED BY GOVERNOR OF ARIZONA

Santa Fe, New Mexico, Jan. 17.—The governor of New Mexico today granted permission for Mexican troops to pass through New Mexico en routs from Nogales, Ariz., to Eagle Pass and Laredo, Tex.

The request for Governor Hinkle's consent was made by Secretary Hughes of the state department.

TEXAS CONSIDERING REQUEST OF MEXICO

Austin, Tex., Jan. 17.—The request of President Obregon for permission to transport Mexican federal troops across Texas was received from Washington by Texas authorities today.

Acting Governor Davidson stated he was in communication with Washington but had nothing to give out at present. The other acting governor conferred with other state officials on the question this afternoon.

ARRANGEMENTS COMMITTEE FOR DEM. NAT'L. CONVENTION

Washington, Jan. 17.—Chairman Cordell Hull of the democratic national committee announced tonight the committee on arrangements for the national convention in New York.

Representative of all sections of the country and all party elements, the arrangements committee, with Mr. Hull as chairman ex officio, will meet in New York tomorrow. It consists of: Norman E. Mack, New York committeeman and former national chairman; Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, another former national chairman; Clark Howell of Georgia, veteran member who for many years has had charge of press and other convention arrangements; Samuel B. Amidon of Kansas, vice-chairman; George White of Ohio, another former national chairman; Isidore B. Dockweiler of California, who led the recent fight for the selection of San Francisco for the convention; J. Bruce Kremer, of Montana, national vice-chairman; Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Missouri, women's vice-chairman; Charles Boeschenstein, of Illinois; Charles A. Greathouse of Indiana, national secretary; Walter Moore, of Alabama; Mrs. D. A. McDougal, of Oklahoma, and Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, N. J.

The committee is the smallest in many years, greater efficiency and more economy being said to be considerations which led to the restriction.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT IN WATERBURY IN APRIL

Waterbury, Jan. 17.—John L. Saxe, of this city, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic tonight announced that the annual state encampment will be held here in April. National Commander in Chief Raymond K. Bellingham, will be present. The state meeting of the Women's Relief Corps will be held at the same time, it was also announced tonight by Mrs. Eva G. Ruoff, state president.

BLEW SAFE OF HAMPDEN CREAMERY COMPANY

Everett, Mass., Jan. 17.—Robbers politely bade late departing employes good evening and then broke into the Hampden Creamery company, blew open a safe and disappeared with $700 tonight. Police called shortly after the discovery of the break opened fire on two fleeing suspects and losing them, searched a score of homes in the vicinity without result.

OBITUARY.

Joseph E. Watson.

Washington, Conn., Jan. 17.—Joseph E. Watson, 77, died suddenly at his home in Marbledale today. He was at one time owner of the Mansion house in Litchfield, and was county jailer at Litchfield about 40 years ago. He was a breeder of hogs, being president of the Connecticut Berkshire Breeders' association for several years, and was also considered an expert horseman. Mr. Watson was a democrat and had been delegated to many congressional conventions of that party.

COOL-HEADED WORK SAVED SHENANDOAH

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 17.—(By the A. P.)—It was the cool-headed work done in a few seconds that saved the Shenandoah from destruction when the giant airship was torn from her mooring mast by a 73-mile gale that swept the Atlantic coast last night and carried her on a careening chase to New York City, it was asserted tonight by those who made the erratic flight.

When the gust of wind tore the navy's pride from her 165-foot mooring mast with a crash that could be heard above the storm, those on board did the right thing. They leaped for the levers that release the ballast, and instead of crashing to the earth, the ship stood still for a moment, shuddered and started to float away in the storm. The officers on board declared the ship started to drop and they believed they were within six feet of the ground when she started to rise.

Cool Headed Work

And it was the same cool-headed work throughout the seven hour fight against the elements that permitted the Shenandoah to outfight the storm and return to her hangar early this morning. Sailing a whole ship in a storm like that of last night would be no easy task, and the work of those on board was made doubly difficult by the fact that her nose had been torn away and a part of her sides ripped to shreds.

To what extent the dirigible was damaged has not been determined definitely. A minute examination of each of her countless parts will be made before repair work is started, and Captain F. R. McCrary, commandant of the naval air station, estimated tonight it would take a month to repair the damage that was apparent. He said detailed study would be given to the question of evolving a nose cap that would stand the lurching caused by a gusty wind as well as a steady gale.

Captain McCrary appointed a board of officers, headed by Commander Weyerbacher, who supervised the craft's construction, to estimate the damage and report to Washington. Repair work will await an investigation by a committee appointed by Rear Admiral Scales, commandant of the eastern department of the navy.

The Shenandoah was in command of Lieutenant Commander M. R. Pierce out of Portland, Me., when she broke away. Captain Anton Heinen, formerly of Germany and leading expert in lighter-than-air craft, who applied for United States citizenship, was on board as pilot and advisor. It

POINCARE WINS IN APPEAL TO PATRIOTISM

Paris, Jan. 17.—By the A. P.)—Premier Poincare with an impassioned appeal to the patriotism of all Frenchmen, urging them to present the same solid and united front against the difficulties of peace as they did in war, carried the day in the preliminary encounter with the legislative assembly today in his efforts to improve France's impaired financial position and renovate the standing of the franc on international exchange.

First, the cabinet adopted the final draft of the government's programme of fiscal reform, including the measure providing for a 20 per cent increase in taxation. Next, the minister of finance, M. de Dasteyrie, introduced the measures in the chamber. Then followed two votes of confidence in the government, the chamber supporting the premier 384 to 180 in his refusal of immediate discussion of an interpellation on pensions, and by a vote of 360 to 215 his refusal to agree to a discussion of interpellations on the subject of exchange.

Edouard Herriot, leader of the radical party, in subtly prepared pitfalls, Deputies Blum and Moutet and other socialists, charging the government with being responsible for the present predicament of France through its Ruhr policy, and M. Cachin, engaged in accusations against the government because of the high cost of living. All assailed M. Poincare during the long debate.

"You radicals always applaud economies in general, but vote them down as regularly in particular," Poincare informed M. Herriot. The socialists and communists he treated with a scornful—"I address myself only to members of this house who do not rejoice at calamities which strike our country."

M. Poincare will stand or fall upon the bills introduced today; he plainly showed his determination not to weaken.

WOMAN DECORATED FOR AGRICULTURAL ACHIEVEMENTS

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 17.—Mrs. DDwight L. Hawley, of Agawam has the honor of being the first person in the United States to receive from department of agriculture a gold medal as a recognition of unusual personal achievement along agricultural lines. The medal was presented her tonight at a banquet of the delegates attending the union agricultural sessions. She shares the honor with five others who have been selected as most deserving. Dr. A. W. Gilbert, state commissioner of agriculture presented the medals. The others who received medals were Miss Annie Burke, of Brookton for work done as a school garden supervisor and club leader; Professor J. K. Shaw, of the Massachusetts Agricultural college for developing a plan that has saved thousands of dollars for growers. John T. Carpenter of Shelburne, for developing one of the best known Jersey herds in the country; Rachel Knight, of Littleton and Osborne West, of Hadley for distinction in agricultural club work. Dr. Cesare Longobardi, of the International Institute of Agriculture of Rome, Italy, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

MASSACHUSETTS BUDGET CALLS FOR $10,000,000 TAXES

Boston, Jan. 17.—A general state tax of $10,000,000 which is $2,000,000 less than the tax of last year and the lowest levied since 1916, was indicated in the budget message submitted to the house of representatives today by Governor Cox. The governor announced that he had cut $8,300,000 from the departmental estimates for appropriations to carry on the state's business luring the year 1924.

The budget provides for further reduction in the net direct state debt, which, the message said, will on November 30, next, be lower than at any time since 1902. This result the governor attributed to the "pay as you go" policy carried on for the past three years and he urged that no state bond issue whatsoever be authorized.

ANTI-DAYLIGHT SAVING ASSOCIATION IN BAY STATE

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 17.—Daylight savings repeal took on a new aspect this afternoon when the legislative committee of the Massachusetts farmers' organizations voted unanimously to form a standard time association. This move was favored to put the farm organizations in a position to fight daylight saving through the initiative and referendum, or to take such action as may seem wise to get out a big anti-daylight saving vote next fall. This action by the legislative conference which represents virtually every farm organization in Massachusetts, was taken as a result of a report of a special committee on daylight saving repeal which includes Leslie R. Smith, of the state department of agriculture C. D. Richardson, of West Brookfield, Eben Richardson, of Millis, Fred. D. Griggs, secretary of the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation, and Howard W. Gilmore, of Westboro.

The legislative conference also reported in favor of an amendment to the statutes to provide payment for damages done by partridges.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Secretary Work laid plans for an expert's investigation of the Colorado river project.

The actual detailed offer of southern power companies for Muscle Shoals was formally submitted to the war department.

The house ways and means committee considering tax revision heard arguments against taxes on future trading on produce markets.

House democrats and republican insurgents failed in an effort to upset the rules program of the republican organization on the discharge of committees.

A resolution for an investigation of the administration of Governor General Wood of the Philippines, was introduced by Senator Ladd, republican North Dakota.

BRITAIN IS THREATENED WITH A RAILWAY STRIKE

London, Jan. 17.—The efforts of Arthur Henderson, James Henry Thomas and other labor leaders today to avert or delay a railway strike appear to have completely failed. The railway companies tonight issued a manifesto justifying their position, denying that heavy reductions of wages, such as the locomotive drivers accuse them of contemplating, will be involved, and declaring that acceptance of the award of the national wages board will not preclude the right of the men to bring forward any instances of hardship which they desire the companies to consider.

The government tonight issued a whip urgently requesting the members of parliament, in view of the threatened railway strike to make arrangements insuring their attendance in the house Monday without fail.

Baldwin Government In Britain is Doomed

Former Premier Asquith to Vote For Labor Motion of "No Confidence."

London, Jan. 17.—(By the A. P.)—Premier Baldwin's conservative government this evening received its death sentence at the hands of the opposition in the house of commons, as had been anticipated.

This came when Former Premier Asquith arose and, amid the cheers of his liberal followers and the laborites, announced that he would vote for the labor motion of "no confidence" in the government presented by John R. Clynes, and would advise all his friends to do likewise.

Nothing short of a political upheaval, namely the wholly improbable desertion of a large number of the opposition to the conservative flag, can save the government, which will go to the guillotine Monday evening, according to the present program.

After introducing the "no confidence" motion in the form of an amendment to the address in reply to the king's speech, Mr. Clynes scored the tory regime both for what it had done and what it had not do during the last twelve months.

The king's speech, he declared, was inaccurate in stating that Great Britain's relations with foreign powers remained friendly. If the relations with Russia were friendly, he asked, why had not Russia been recognized? Was it because Russia had not undertaken to pay her debts? If that was to be a bar to recognition how was it that France had a representative in London.

"Our position abroad is weaker than ever before," he asserted. "Our influence in foreign affairs has almost disappeared. * * * * When France needed our aid it was given without stint against Germany.

"The great war must be made a means to a great end—enduring friendship in Europe. This is only possible if Germany and France are at peace. To treat Germany now worse than Germany treated France 50 years ago is to make monstrous preparation for the next great war.

"We are paying our debts. We fought and sacrificed. Yet we are suffering more than the countries we defended and rescued. The limits have been reached to the price Great Britain can afford to pay. There are glimmerings of hope from the American participation in the reparation question. American co-operation is not merely welcome; it is essential."

Mr. Clynes' own view was that the Dominion trade showed substantial opportunities and prospects for improvement. He also emphasized the necessity of not neglecting the European markets.

ON TRIAL IN BUFFALO FOR DYNAMITING TRACKS

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The names of Robert O. Lacey, state senator and Clarence F. Conroy, local head of the street car men's union were brought out by witnesses in the trial here today of four men alleged to have dynamited the tracks of the International Railway company in August, 1922, causing the wreck of a three-car trolley train and the injury of 25 Philadelphia excursionists bound for Niagara Falls. A strike of car men was in force at the time the tracks were blown up.

Senator Lacey's alleged connection with the plot was disclosed at the afternoon session when Edward F. Blim, one of the 32 car men indicted testified that a man whom he "took to be Lacey" drove an automobile in which part of the dynamite was transported between the homes of two of the indicted car men.

"Are you sure it was Robert O. Lacey at the wheel?" Federal Attorney Donovan asked.

"I am not positive," the witness replied. "I saw Lacey several times at strike meetings and the man who drove the car looked like him; I am almost sure it was he."

Blim also said that Francis Reilly, one of the four men now on trial was in the car. The trip was made on the night before the International's tracks were torn up by the explosion.

The jury was instructed by the court to consider Blim's testimony only in connection with the case of Reilley.

$11,000,000 SUIT AGAINST FORD MOTOOR COMPANY

New Orleans, Jan. 17.—The $11,000,000 damage suit of Edward H Huff, of Miami, Fla., against the Ford Motor company, of Detroit, is a matter of equity and should be tried by a judge and not a jury, the United States circuit court of appeals held today.

Huff, while in the employ of the Ford company, invented the flywheel magneto used on the motor of the Detroit concern. He claims the company gave him $10,000 in January 1908, and agreed to pay a royalty of $2.50 for each magneto used. No royalties were received and he entered suit in the Florida courts a year ago, filing a claim for $11,000,000.

The case went from the state to the federal district court on the question of whether it should be tried before a judge or jury and reached the circuit court of appeals here recently at the instance of the Ford company on an appeal from the ruling of the federal court for Florida, that it should go before a jury.

26 ARRESTS MADE IN 20 RAIDS IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Jan. 17.—In twenty raids conducted by city and federal authorities today, 26 arrests were made for violations of the liquor law and a quantity of liquor confiscated. The raids were made on evidence prepared by the office of the city attorney in the past few weeks and from on to eight counts were placed against the violators. Bonds were set at $1,000 each.

Twenty arrests were made out by City Attorney Sheridan naming the proprietors of the places. Six assistants were placed under arrest on further evidence secured. The cases will come into the city court tomorrow morning.

EXPERTS EXPECT GERMANS WILL FURNISH COOPERATION

Paris, Jan. 17.—(By the A. P.)—prospects that the Germans willingly will furnish needed cooperation in the effort to find a basis upon which to balance the German budget and renovate German money, was the outstanding feature of the reparations situation today.

Industrial Survey For New England

Conditions in Connecticut Are Better Than in the Other States.

Boston, Jan. 17—General slackening of industrial activity was noted in Massachusetts and Rhode Island in December, says the monthly report of the Federal Industrial Survey for New England, made public tonight. There was a general improvement in the textile industry in New Hampshire. Building operations continued active throughout New England. The report by states follows:

Connecticut: Shortage of skilled workers in the metal trades. Practically all plants are operating full time with the textile industry working overtime in some parts of the state. Shortage of workers reported in mechanical lines. Shortage of experienced workers in the tobacco industry noted. Building construction provides work for a large number of men and a shortage of certain building tradesmen is reported. Housing shortage exists in some sections."

Maine: With the exception of a few factories that are closed entirely, practically all other plants are running in the state. Cotton industries slowed down somewhat during the month and are operating on part time schedule. Surplus of workers prevails in the iron shipbuilding industry with not enough work in other lines to absorb those unemployed. In certain sections of the state woolen mills are working day and night shifts with a shortage of workers noted. Building operations active, employing many men. Housing conditions have improved during the month. A slight surplus of farm help reported during the winter months.

New Hampshire: General improvement noted during the past month in the textile industry. All plants are operating, with most departments now working full time and only a small surplus of workers reported. Woolen and printing industries are working overtime in certain sections. Wood working and leather building industries operating on a part time basis. Little demand for farm labor at this period of the year. Building trades active, employing many hands. Housing situation improving gradually throughout the state.

Vermont: Shortage of skilled workers in the granite industry. Practically all industries are operating, though the woolen and hosiery mills are on a part time basis. Wood working machinery plants running full time and workers are fully employed. Lumber operations dull. Shortage of farm labor reported in some sections. Building program gives work to a number of men.

Massachusetts: A general slackening of industries was noted during the past month. While practically all plants are operating, nearly all are on a part time basis and working with reduced forces. Surplus of workers in the shoe and allied lines, but a big improvement in this industry is looked for in 1924. Surplus of skilled and unskilled workers in nearly all lines, with not enough employment to absorb them. Slight improvement in textile industry reported in some parts of the state. Building program continues active for this season of the year and gives employment to a large number of men with a shortage of certain mechanics reported.

Rhode Island: Industrial employment conditions slackened considerably during December. Jewelry, machinery and tool industries are operating on a part time basis. Surplus of textile [illegible] throughout the state, although those unemployed are absorbed [illegible] lines in some parts of the state. Farm labor continues scarce in the farming sections. Building operations active for this season and give work to many men. Housing conditions as a whole are satisfactory.

FALL RESENTS CHARGES OF SENATOR CARAWAY

New Orleans, Jan. 17.—"Malicious and untrue", Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, termed today statements regarding his alleged pecuniary interest in the leasing of navy oil lands to the Sinclair interests. Mr. Fall, who arrived here yesterday from Florida, expected to remain in the city until the first of next week.

"Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, democrat, who is leading in these senseless attacks, has shot his shaft against me repeatedly in the past, before the oil matter came up," said Mr. Fall. "I do not care to dignify it by a discussion. But in general terms, I will say that the charges by Caraway or anybody else, that I received compensation from outside interests for anything I did in my official capacity in serving the country, any innuendo that directly or indirectly I got money or other considerations, of expected to is absolutely false."

STEAMER TO LAND GERMAN IMMIGRANTS AT BOSTON

Boston, Jan. 17.—In an effort to land her passengers under the German quota for the fiscal year the North German Lloyd liner Seydlitz, which sailed from Bremen January 5 for New York, has been diverted to Boston. The vessel was due here tomorrow but a radio message from her captain today said that heavy storms at sea had prolonged the voyage, and he expected to dock here next Monday.

German nationals on board vessels now at sea will exhaust the German quota, the only large national quota that has not been filled already, immigration officials said. The Seydlitz carries 287 cabinet and 555 third class passengers.

MUST SERVE YEAR FOR VIOLATION OF PAROLE

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 17.—An attendant from the state reformatory at Cheshire, Conn., waited at the gates of Sing Sing prison for William Jones when he came out from the prison today. He had finished a two and one-half years sentence for a Bronx robbery. Jones was taken to the Connecticut institution where he will serve another year for violation of parole.

TO INVESTIGATE THE DISAPPEARANCE OF LIQUOR

Washington, Jan. 17.—Treasury officials have ordered an immediate investigation of the disappearance of a large quantity of liquor from customs warehouses in Detroit. The liquor had been seized by customs agents in raids in that section and from rum runs [illegible]

SENATE COMMITTEE TO DELVE INTO THE BOK PEACE PLAN

Special Committee Appointed Under Resolution Proposing an Inquiry Into General Propaganda in the United States—Committee is Authorized to Subpoena Such Persons, Books and Papers as Within Its Discretion May Be Necessary—Democrats Desire a Thorough Investigation Into the Question of Propaganda in Favor of the Mellon Tax Plan—Object is to Find Whether There is Any Organized Effort Being Made to Control Public Opinion and the Action of Congress.

Washington, Jan. 17—Investigation of the Bok Peace plan will be begun next Monday by a special committee of the senate appointed today under a resolution of Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, proposing an inquiry into general propaganda in the United States.

Edward W. Bok, of Philadelphia, who offered the $100,000 prize awarded for the best peace proposal, and Miss Esther Everett Lape, of Philadelphia, one of the members in charge of the plan, will be the first witnesses heard under a decision of the committee at its organization meeting late today.

Besides the inquiry into the Bok peace plan, under sweeping authority conferred upon it by the resolution, the committee probably will take up the question of propaganda regarding the Mellon tax program the soldiers' bonus, the league of nations and other subjects pending before congress. The order of procedure will be determined later, the only decision today being for investigation of the Bok plan which was proposed by Senator Reed.

Under the resolution the committee is "authorized and directed immediately to investigate and report to the senate whether there is any organized effort being made to control public opinion and the action of congress upon legislative matters through propaganda or by the use of money, by advertising, or by control of publicity."

The committee is directed to inquire especially what if any such methods are being employed to control the action of congress upon revenue measures and "whether or not the profiteers of the war are now contributing to the defeat of the soldiers' adjusted compensation bill by money or influence, and what if any, such influences are being employed either by American citizens or the representatives of foreign governments or foreign institutions to control or affect the foreign or domestic policies of the United States."

To prosecute the work the committee is authorized to subpoena such persons, books and papers as within its discretion may be necessary.

There was no opposition to adoption of the resolution after Senator Reed called it up. President Cummins appointed as members of the committee Senators Moses, of New Hampshire, and Greene, of Vermont, republicans, and Reed, of Missouri, and Caraway, of Arkansas democrats and Shipstead farmer-labor, Minnesota.

Republican leaders of the senate and more particularly those of the "irreconcilable" group are known to have favored immediate inquiry into the Bok plan. They also expect the committee to go into the sources of propaganda for the league of nations.

Other senators, and more particularly the democratic leaders, desire a thorough investigation into the question of propaganda in favor of the Mellon tax plan.

HOUSE CONTINUES TO WRANGLE OVER RULES

Washington, Jan. 17—Two unsuccessful efforts—one championed by republican organization leaders and the other by the democrats and republican insurgents—were made today to change the recommendation of the house rules committee as to the number of signatures to be required on petitions for the discharge of committees. As a result, the minimum fixed by the committee—150 names—will stand unless a move, backed by sufficient votes, is made to alter it as the fight over rules continues tomorrow.

After three days of debate on the discharge of committees proposition, the house got down to voting late in the day on an amendment by Representative Graham, republican, Illinois, to require signatures of at least half of the members of the house on such petitions. Although republican organization leaders had expressed willingness, as a compromise to accept the rules committee recommendation, they swung their support to the Graham proposal. Representative Longworth, the party leader, the chairman Madden, of the appropriations committee both urging its adoption.

The Graham amendment, however, was rejected 205 to 195, with 40 republicans voting against it and 27 democrats supporting it. Practically all the democratic leaders and most of the house members identified with the insurgent group voted in the negative.

Repulsed on this vote, the republican organization succeeded a few moments later in defeating an amendment by Representative Crisp, democrat, Georgia, to fix the signature minimum at 100. The vote was 225 to 168, with 45 democrats joining the republicans, while 17 republican voted "aye". Again the insurgents cast their ballots with the democrats, as did Representatives Berger, socialist, Wisconsin; Wefald, farmer-labor, Minnesota, and Kvale, independent, Minnesota, on both roll calls.

Defeat of the two amendments, leaders on both sides agreed practically assured acceptance of the committee figure, as no vote will be required to ratify it, except as the whole report of the committee comes up for approval after the disposition of various amendments.

THEFT OF $5,500 FROM SAFE IN STATE HOUSE, PROVIDENCE

Providence, Jan. 17.—The theft of approximately $5,500, part of the biweekly payroll of the roads department of the state board of public roads, from an inner compartment of a safe in the office of the board in the state house here was discovered when the safe was opened at 11.30 o'clock this morning. The money was in pay envelopes. A second packet in the same compartment containing the remainder of the $10,000 payroll, was not taken. The key to the compartment was missing from a drawer in the paymaster's desk, where the latter declared he had put it after locking the safe at 4.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

MESSAGE TO JAPAN AND RETURN IN 1 M. AND 46 S.

Columbia, Mo., Jan. 17.—(By the A. P.)—The traversing of 14,000 miles of land and sea by telephone and radio in one minute and forty-five seconds was accomplished tonight when David Sarnoff, vice-president and general manager of the Radio Corporation, sent a message to Iwaki, Station, Japan, and received his answer by telephone here.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON CHARGES OF PIRACY

Yarmouth, N. S., Jan. 17—Captain Andrew Gauvreau, former commander of the Lunenberg schooner Douglas B. Conrad, was yesterday committed for trial at the next assizes on a charge of piracy. He was accused of having taken $50,000 worth of whiskey from the Weymouth schooner Lucille B., off Boston harbor last August.

COOLIDGE CONGRATULATES SHENANDOAH CREW

Washington, Jan. 17.—Messages of congratulation from President Coolidge, Secretary Denby, Mrs. Denby as sponsor of the ship, and many other high government officials were showered today upon the officers and crew of the navy dirigible Shenandoah for their gallant and victorious battle against last night's storm.

President Coolidge in a message to the officers and crew said:

"I congratulate you most heartily upon the fine exhibition and skill displayed by you during the storm which caused the U. S. S. Shenandoah to be cast adrift from her mooring Wednesday night and upon your successful return to your base."

Navy officers generally were jubilant at the splendid showing made not only by this first American-built rigid dirigible, but at the pluck and skill of her crew. The outstanding impression among all government officials was that the accident had served to make it certain that the Shenandoah could and would successfully negotiate the exposing flight through the Arctic regions which has been planned for her.

Some conflicting views were expressed at the Capitol, however, on the experience of the dirigible. Representative French, republican, Idaho, chairman of the house appropriations committee sub-committee on naval affairs, declaring that it would tend to diminish congressional criticism of the proposed flight to the North Pole while in the senate there was a debate which regarded the test in the storm as adverse.

$100,000,000 YEAR RENTALS OFFER FOR MUSCLE SHOALS

Washington, Jan. 17—Secretary of War Weeks received today a joint offer made by three southern power companies proposing a fifty year lease to them of the government's power projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., for which $100,000,000 in rentals will be paid during that period.

The companis sproposed under the lease to construct transmission lines for power, making it available to manufacture centers of the south and other sections of the country; to provide 100,000 horsepower at cost for use in the manufacture of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals, and to contribute a fund of $1,000,000 to be used under government control in electrochemical research. Other provisions include an offer to purchase the Sheffield steam plant at the shoals for $4,500 000 or lease it, if the government prefers to retain ownership of that unit.

The proposal was signed by C. M. Clark, of the Tennessee Electric Power Company; E. W. Hill of the Memphis Power and Light Company, and Thomas W. Martin of the Alabama Power Company. It will be carefully studied by war department officials, it was said, before being submitted by them to congress for final decision along with the other offers being considered by house and senate committees.

$625,000 CLAIMS LISTED AGAINST D. GOFF & SONS

Providence, R. I., Jan. 177.—A creditors' petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal court here today against D. Goff & Sons, Inc., Pawtucket.

Claims listed in the petition amount to $525,000. The petition is returnable January 21, at which time cause must be shown why the petition should not be granted.

The creditors and their claims listed today were:

On January 4, last, Supreme Court Judge Chester W. Barrows appointed John E. Martin, of Pawtucket, a vice-president of D. Goff & Sons, Inc., temporary receiver under $25,000 bond. No receiver has been appointed yet by the federal court.

The concern was a pioneer in the manufacture of braids and worsteds in this country and was capitalized at $3,440,000.

NORWICH BULLETIN
Willimantic Office
11 Church Street Telephone 1062

The members of Willimantic Industrial Company held their annual meeting Wednesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. The majority of stockholders were represented by proxies. The meeting was in charge of George F. Taylor.

M. Eugene Lincoln read his report as secretary-treasurer and it was accepted. The company is flourishing. During the past year an addition was started on the plant of the Rossie Velvet Company, the building of which is owned by the Industrial Company. The cost of this addition when completed will be about $25,000. Stock to the amount of $17,350 was issued to pay for the addition. The report showed that cash on hand January 2, 1924, totalled $3,280.11. The following directors were elected: George F. Taylor, Walter R. Knight, Fred D. Jordan, Frank Larrabee, Ernest Rossie, R. B. Herich and M. E. Lincoln. The officers selected by the directors are: President George F. Taylor; vice-president, Walter B. Knight; secretary-treasurer, M. E. Lincoln; assistant secretary-treasurer, Frank M. Lincoln; auditors, E. A. Sanderson and H. D. Pollard.

Despite of the storm there was a good attendance at the meeting of Francis S. Long Woman's Relief Corps, held in the G. A. R. rooms this week, with the president, Mrs. Margaret MacArthur, in charge. Officers' reports were read and approved. General orders were read, including a memoriam for Mrs. Harriet J. Hodge, who had been in the W. R. C. service for forty years. The charter of the corps is draped for thirty days, in memory of Mrs. Hodge and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Whiton. A sum of money, recently collected, will be sent to Allington hospital for the benefit of World War veterans. The committees appointed for the year are: Auditing, Lena Gates, Mabel Higgins, Ella Gurley; house and employment, Mrs. Lovett, Maud Deming, E. Benner; silver, Mabel Dimock; linen, Elizabeth Hanson; dining room, Carrie Hall, Ida Williams, Martha Flint, Lucy Lynch, Belle Tracy, Harriet House, Annie Buckingham, Lucy Potter; relief, Sarah Fenton, Hattie Bowen, May Russ, Mrs. Duntz, Bertha Thompson; conference, Maud Deming, Wardey Hoey, Minnie Mathieu; executive board, Alice Bentley, Fannie Larkin, Eva Adams, Kate Woodward, Alice Tripp, E. Benner, Julia Jackson, Mary Dimock; entertainment board, Ida Chamberlain Mabel Payson, K. Osterhoudt, Minnie Jones, Lucy Champlin, Addie Cole, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Manley, Hattie Ladd.

There was a thoroughly enjoyable recital at Windham High School auditorium, Thursday evening, when Edgar Schofield, bass-baritone and Miss Margaret Dilling, harpist, were heard in concert. Mr. Schofield is one of the foremost singers in America and this reputation was readily endorsed by the large audience who heard him. As a harpist of remarkable proficiency, Miss Dilling was accorded heartiest applause. The artists were introduced by George H. Shafer, president of the association.

At a session of the Brotherhood of the Congregational church held in the church house, this week, Rev. H. A. Coolidge, chaplain of the house of representatives, gave a talk on "Applying the Golden Rule in Business." An excellent supper was served by the Ladies' society. While the members were partaking of the repast they listened to a radio concert provided by Dr. C. M. Southard and Hudson Barrows. An invitation will be extended to the Methodists of the other Protestant churches to be guests of the Brotherhood at their next meeting. A [illegible] was taken for Arthur W. Sexton, who met with a painful accident Tuesday and a substantial sum was realized. Three new members were admitted: Kenneth G. Goldwin, F. Lee Gavit and A. R. Smith.

The most severe wind and rain storm in years, which raged for over four hours Wednesday night, abated shortly before midnight. Damage to a considerable extent was done to residential property, mostly in the [illegible]. The water in the city rushed down the streets from the hill section and the grates of the storm sewer manholes were soon clogged, causing the rushing water to flood sections of the streets. Blinds, shed doors and limbs of trees were blown off. In some instances portions of roofs were ripped up and rain penetrated the walls of many buildings. All the electric lights in the city were out twice for five or ten minutes, throwing the streets, theatres and homes into total darkness.

The Southern New England Telephone company reported about fifteen lines, or 105 stations, out of commission for a while.

The water rose 18 inches at the pumping station pond in Mansfield, and water, several inches deep, was pouring over the dam Thursday forenoon. The ice on the pond, which was to be harvested for storage in the municipal ice houses, was reduced to a thickness of about four inches and with prevailing mild weather it will soon all melt.

A rise of over 14 inches was reported Thursday in the waters of the Natchaug and Willimantic rivers.

While the wind blew a terrific gale, a ten-foot chimney in the rear of the Jacob Colton block, on Main street, was blown over off the roof with a crash which startled the occupants of several tenements in that section. A loosened awning broke through a window in the west side of the front of the Atlantic & Pacific store, on Main street. The awning in front of the Vogue Shop, in the Hibbard block, was ripped down.

Over a dozen wrecked umbrellas were found on the streets Thursday morning.

The taxi-cabs did a rushing business during the evening.

The storm was reported as having been terrific in Mansfield. Charles L. Brwon said that at the farm of his father, Stephen P. Brown, of Mansfield City, a hen house 18 by 24 feet was lifted from its foundation, carried through the air over a stone wall and finally came to a stop against a telephone pole.

The building was wrecked and the pole was knocked over. Several of the 125 White Leghorns in the hen house, were killed and others took to flight and were blown to some distance.

Among the number of physicians asked to surrender prescription books and records in their possession is William D. MacCormack of Willimantic. The prescriptions and records are being called in, in connection with steps being taken by Prohibition Director Frank T. Putney, on the grounds that 36 of the 40 physicians whose licenses have been revoked because they obtained them through

John C. Karas of Roxbury, Mass., has brought civil suit against his brother, Joseph T. Karas of Hebron, to recover damages of $1,700. The plaintiff and defendant formerly owned a farm together in Hebron and March 23, 1922, the former retired from partnership and accepted a note from his brother for his share of the property, valued at $1,600 at the rate of 6 per cent interest. The plaintiff alleges that no payments have been made on the note and that with the interest it now amounts to $1,700.

Deputy Sheriff Allison L. Frank of Andover placed an attachment on 14 cows on the farm, Thursday afternoon, in the name of defendant. The attachment calls for $2,000. It was stated Thursday afternoon that foreclosure proceedings are already in the courts on the Karas farm, which follow another attachment of $2,000 placed by a local concern last spring.

In an account of a slight automobile collision in North Windham Tuesday evening, the driver of M. E. Lincoln's automobile was Winfield Lyons, and not Myron Lyons as stated.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Carmen were held at 1 o'clock Thursday forenoon at her home in South Coventry. Rev. Nestor Light of Stafford officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Charles G. Johnson and Rev. Mr. Pickop. Burial was in the Nathan Hale cemetery. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

The board of assessors, comprising John R. Pickett, Joseph F. Gaudreau and Lawrence S. Casey, since their field work was completed some time ago, have been engaged in tabulating and checking up lists of taxable property, preparatory to turning them over to the town clerk. The lists will number more this year than last. Mrs. Loretta Costello is assisting the board in its work. They expect to finish by February 1st.

Military orders issued Wednesday by Colonel D. Gordon Hunter of the 169th Connecticut Infantry, include the following promotions of members of Company C, this city. Corporal Oscar L. Keith to be sergeant; Private Ernest A. Jacobs to be sergeant, Private George A. Thompson to be sergeant and Private William C. Peck to be corporal.

PROMINENT HEBRON PEOPLE VIOLATED THE DOG LAW

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Jan. 17—Eleven cases were heard in the Hebron town court Wednesday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Burt B. Buell. This was the largest docket in the history of the town. The eleven were charged with violation of the dog law in not having the animals properly registered.

Deputy Walter J. Ellis, a former state policeman, now of the office of the Commissioner of Domestic Animals, Hartford, and Deputy Sheriff Albert E. Harmon brought the cases to court.

The former acted as prosecutor. Well known citizens of that town put to plea were: John Lyman, Oscar Bartholomew, Edward E. Foote, Winthrop Porter, Davis Sherman, Theresa Mauria and C. Dan Way. All pleaded guilty and were fined one dollar and costs each. One half of the amount of costs was remitted in each case and the assessments amounted to $6.50 which were paid.

Horace Porter and Allie Keeses, were defended by Attorney Charles Brown of Colchester and pleaded not guilty but the court was of contrary opinion. These two cases were appealed to the next term of the Tolland county superior court, under bonds of $75.

John Howard, resident of a town in the state of Maine proved to the satisfaction of the court that his dog was registered in that state and Harold L. Gray of Hebron, explained that he had an application filed with the town clerk for a license tag as the one which he had secured for his dog this fall had been lost.

After a check-up it was found that there was a shortage of dog tags in Hebron. Miss Annie Gilbert, assistant town clerk then telephoned to the state capitol for 25 tags. When court adjourned she had received orders for ten new tags.

A roundup of unlicensed dogs was recently started in Hebron by the warden and was proving successful until the official received a Ku Klux Klan warning, mailed from the Willimantic post office, giving him notice that he had better resign. The warden did resign, but the office was taken over by his son.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

The town assessors have completed the lists and the total valuation is $4,343,690, an increase of $315,119 over last year's list. There is an increase of 38 houses, 145 automobiles and 141 dogs. There is a decrease of 66 horses and 21 meat cattle. There are 1,080 dwellings in the list, valued at $1,839,715; 914 barns and sheds, $233,98; 1,046 house lots, $477,445; 77 stores and business places, $308,675; 39 mills and shops, 1,108,200; 33,972 acres of land, $420,367; 341 houses, $61,050; 1,017 meat cattle, $32,250; 434 dogs, $6,715; wagons, etc., $10,180; 710 automobiles, $416,813; goods, merchandise and stock in trade of stores and manufacturing plants, $1,232,923. The 10 per cent added for not handing in lists amounts to $26,712.

Fred G. Lynch of Springfield was a recent guest of relatives in the borough.

According to the returns in the town clerk's office, there were 148 births, 61 marriages and 68 deaths in the town of Stafford during 1923 in 1922 there were 152 births, 61 marriages and 83 deaths.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At the Palace.

The bill for the last half of the week at the Palace theatre is one that is well balanced and proved entertaining to the large audiences that attended the theatre on Thursday. All the acts were well received and each was deserving of the applause that was generously given them.

The bill opens with a bounding net and horizontal bar act by Leno-Mori-Carr that is an exceptionally clever act of its kind and the performers come through with several new features.

Merritt and Coughlan present a neat little variety act which includes singing, dancing, a little juggling and a clever line of patter that has some real genuine humor in it.

The Broken Mirror, a unique act presented by Fred Schwartz and company, is something out of the ordinary, the two principals showing remarkable talent and harmony of action in their work.

Winifred and Brown, the Chinaman and the Coon, old timers, who have played the local stage in years previous, are as funny as ever and their lines have changed considerably since they appeared here last. Their act is always a riot and yesterday's performances were no exception to the rule.

The headline act is The Toy Shop, featuring two young women and two young men in song, dance and comedy. The act is fast and snappy and holds the audience all through their turn on the boards.

Set yourself straight on these Bran facts!

If you eat bran it is because you seek relief from constipation and toxic poisoning!

To get the relief your physician will tell you that bran will give—you must be certain to get Kellogg's Bran, BECAUSE it is ALL BRAN! That is the kind your physician intends you to eat.

You only delay positive relief when you eat foods with a partial bran content, because they can only help you in proportion to the amount of bran they contain! You haven't time to waste on 25 per cent or 50 per cent relief when you know that Kellogg's Bran will give you 100 per cent relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Every day's delay lets your condition become worse! Pills and cathartics can only aggravate distressing conditions. Part bran foods cannot permanently help you! They do not have the necessary bulk or roughage that makes ALL BRAN positive in its mechanical action! That is why Kellogg's Bran is a necessity!

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL BRAN—is GUARANTEED to give you permanent relief if you will eat two tablespoonfuls each day, or as much with each meal in chronic cases!

If you would realize how delicious Kellogg's Bran is—cooked, krumbled and ready to eat—and what it means to your health—you would not lose a minute starting to eat it! All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran in the Red and Green package.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

917 Employes Serve Same Company 5 to 35 Years

It speaks well for any large organization such as the Liggett Company to be in a position to announce that out of some four-thousand employees, 917 or nearly one-quarter of them have been continuously in the service of that Company for periods ranging from five to thirty-five years.

A plan was recently inaugurated to furnish a means for identifying the length of service. A mass meeting was held at the headquarters of the Liggett Company in the Liggett Building at 42nd Street and Madison avenue, New York City, at which were present the officers of the company together with 346 employees of their central warehouse and executive offices, and each employee was presented with a service button, signifying the length of employment. Thus, one star signifies five years—two stars, ten years, etc.

In the retail stores of which there are 280 situated in the most prominent cities of the United States there are 572 more employees having served continuously five or more years.

Two rather unusual features inaugurated by the Liggett Company may perhaps in a measure explain the reason for this long service record.

Every employee upon completing one year service is insured by the company. There is absolutely no cost to the insured, the premiums being paid annually by the company. The amount of the insurance is from $1000 to $5000, depending upon the class of employment and the length of service.

Several plans which this company has adopted makes it possible for the employee to add considerable to their regular salaries, depending upon their effort and the length of service.

In the retail stores it takes the form of a commission based on increased volume and profits. The headquarters employees receive a semi-annual bonus which represents a percentage of the regular salary and is graduated according to length of service.

BIG 1924 DRIVE TO BE LAUNCHED SATURDAY

There is something familiar about the word Drive as it brings back the war time vernacular,—the greatest plunges forward, the battles and tremendous objectives won! This drive however while it is like the war drives planned with the utmost of thought, care and also has it's objective clearly in mind. It is not to be won with guns but with a general attack on prices all along the big front of high prices.

Price lowering is a much talked of dream and like many idealistic prizes it remains, usually at an unapproachable distance. The progressive, local house of Plaut-Cadden's have assembled their forces and have added reinforcements by way of increased capital enlarged buying-force, space and man power with one objective, to make a big, successful drive for general price lowering.

One of the outstanding features of the advertisement in today's paper is in the well written editorial at the top bringing out the fact that The Plaut-Cadden Company are dedicated to a principal which is decidedly refreshing and encouraging to a public on the look out for a dollar's worth of value for their dollar. They make it clear that it is their earnest endeavor, and stand back of what they say with a liberal guarantee, to render permanent satisfaction. Not to sell by lure of low price but by virtue of lowest price for highest quality.

With such a house leading in the right way the resulting benefits will be lasting and most beneficial in many far reaching ways.

AT THE BREED

"A Wife's Romance," now playing at the Breed Theatre, offers excellent entertainment to old and young. It is a picture so full of color and romance and the breathing spirit of real life that it ought to be seen by everyone who desires to put cares away and delight in a world of pure joy.

"A Wife's Romance" is really one of the finest photoplays that have come to this town in a long time. It is full of color and romance and love and for those who like to put away the troubles of the day for a while and enjoy an evening or an afternoon of solid entertainment we highly recommend "A Wife's Romance." The story in brief deals with two Americans—a man and his wife—who live in Spain. The husband immersed in his consular affairs is rather neglectful of his wife wherefore she seeks consolation in the admiration of Ramon who can be described in no better way than as the Robin Hood of Spain. He is a chivalrous, brave son of sunny Spain—a brigand to be sure—but beloved by the poor for his charities and feared by the rich for his daring. So it goes on through reels of gorgeous color with which this land is so full and with spicy, high, red, romance. In the end you may be sure everything turns out surprisingly well, but the punch is there in the unique surprise which the makers of the picture have put into it. But to tell what it is would be to give away a good picture and spoil it for those who wait to be surprised and thrilled.

Our advise is, go to see Clara Kimball Young in "A Wife's Romance." You will enjoy the work of the others in the cast equally well.

Edna Murphy will also be seen in "Her Dangerous Path" and the Pathe News and an Educational comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

From all directions in eastern Connecticut out of which lovers of dancing can be attracted by a special event there came to the state armory Thursday evening one of the greatest throngs ever assembled there to witness a concert and ball. The event that brought them together was the annual charity ball of Putnam lodge of Elks, held for the first time in Danielson this year, as a compliment to the large membership of the lodge resident here and hereabouts.

A committee that has labored for weeks to make the ball a success was entitled to feel highly gratified over what was accomplished. Nothing was left undone to make the ball a splendid affair and no expense was spared to add to the delight of those who came.

As early as 7 o'clock those who wished to be assured of spectators' seats were on hand seeking admittance and the crowd continued to come until well after 9 being representative in its completeness of about every community of any size in this section of the state.

Decorations of the big drill shed were in white and purple, Elks' colors, with stands of flags and greens and poinsettia to add brightness to the decorative plan. At intervals about the hall white columns were set against the walls, these pedestals topped by baskets of greens and poinsettias. The central decorations were alternately white and purple festoons running out from the walls to a center circular hanger to form a canopy effect over the entire drill shed. The decorations were not overdone and were so attractive as to win very favorable comment.

Music for the ball and the concert that preceded it was by Pettine's orchestra, which has made a name for itself at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet.

The concert numbers were:

March ..... Sousa
Bullets and Bayonets
Overture ..... Thomas
Raymond
Duet ..... Cornet and Saxophone
Caponi and Lombardi
Selection ..... Lanni
Neopolitan Songs
Banso Mandolin
Solo ..... Muiner
Guiseppe Pettine
Popular March ..... Jecsel
March 910

Exalted Ruler Attorney Archibald Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald, of Putnam, led the grand march, the second couple in line being Esteemed Loyal Knight James E. Murray and Miss Pauline Lucier, both of Putnam. Mrs. Macdonald wore a gown of midnight blue georgette, with garniture of silver beads. Miss Lucier wore peach colored taffeta, trimmed with silver lace.

The march afforded all an opportunity for a panoramic view of the gowns, which were very beautiful and lent a brilliant touch of color to the spectacle.

Dancing continued until one o'clock this morning.

No detail was overlooked for the comfort and convenience of the large patronage attracted. In addition to the arrangements at the armory a special lunch for those attending the ball was served at the Attawaugan hotel, under direction of Walter W. Murphy, a member of Putnam lodge.

The committee in charge of the arrangements was made up of Norman Reeves, chairman; Frank M. Bedard, secretary-treasurer; James E. Murray, Louis E. Kennedy, Harry S. King, John W. Lynch, Adolph Dery, W. W. Wheatley and F. P. O'Gorman.

John J. Lyons, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of Otis street at Dayville, was drowned in a small pond just north of the carhouse of the Connecticut company at Dayville, late Thursday afternoon. The body was recovered.

The boy was attempting to skate on ice that had grown soft and mushy under the heavy rain of Wednesday night and the high temperature of Thursday, when he broke through, his cries for help attracting the attention of other children who were playing in the vicinity. These children spread the alarm and the force of men on duty at the carhouse rushed out to give such aid as might be possible.

When they arrived at the pond, which is in a hollow and shaded by surrounding pines, just north of the trolley company tool house, the boy had disappeared under the ice. Benjamin Martin went in the water to his arm pits in search of the body, which eventually was located. Dr. George M. Burroughs, medical examiner viewed the body, and permitted its removal.

The drowned boy reached his 11th birthday, December 17 last. His death is the first in a drowning accident in this territory this season. It was a shock to all the people of Dayville.

A Baptist food sale will be held today (Friday) from 2 to 5 p. m., at H. W. Chapins jewelry store, 7 Center Street.—adv.

Lineman in the employ of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric Company will tell you they will be thankful if there is no other storm visitation this winter like the one of Wednesday night. They were ordered out about 8 o'clock when lines began to go down and whole sections of territory were left without lights and worked throughout the night and all day Thursday restoring service. In some sections of the borough there were no lights from late Wednesday night until Thursday afternoon. Broken poles and wires were chiefly responsible for the difficulty.

Limbs were torn from trees, windows smashed in and much other minor damage caused by the fury of the gale, which raged at its height from about 7 p. m. to 11.30 p. m. People were driven off the streets by the sheets of blinding rain and traffic practically cleared from the highways. It was estimated that the rainfall was in excess of an inch. Nevertheless, the storm cleared off to bring another beautiful winter day—one seeming snatched from the calendar for the spring period.

In recognition of the splendid work he has done during the past year in behalf of the association, especially in his home community, Harry Brearley of Dayville, who has been a highly efficient official, has been re-elected to the presidency of the Danielson Building and Loan association. George M. Cali, Dr. George M. Burroughs, Obadiah Butler and Burdette C. Hopkins again have been named a swice-presidents, E. P. Warren as treasurer, Clifford H. Starkweather as secretary and J. F. Gardner, Jr., as assistant secretary. The board of management is made up of W. I. Bullard, N. Lorne Greig, Harry E. Back, E. L. Darbie, John A. Gilbert, L. E. Young, D. E. Jette, F. T. Preston, S. R. Kitchin, A. E. Meech, A. M. Thomson, A. L. Reed, J. R. Walsh, A. W. Williams, A. W. Williams, F. E. Bitgood, auditors, A. E. Meech, C. E. Austin and A. V. Woodworth.

The association has just closed a very successful year and now has assets of $104,000. Of the 17th series of shares which have just been made available 96 installments shares have been taken and 11 single payment shares subscribed. The out look for the present year is highly promising.

At the annual meeting of the Danielson Trust company, J. Arthur Atwood was re-elected president, Frederick A. Jacobs vice-president, Clifford H. Starkweather, treasurer, Harry E. Magoon assistant treasurer; board of directors, J. Arthur Atwood, Dr. W. W. Adams, Sidney W. Bard, W. Irving Bullard, George H. Cali, Merman M. Coulter, N. Lorne Greig, Frederick A. Jacobs, D. E. Jette, Angus Park, Frank T. Preston, Alfred L. Reed, Clifford H. Starkweather, Everett T. Tillinghast, A. P. Woodward, F. E. Bitgood.

Your attention is called to the closing on Saturday of this week of the remarkable mark down sale in progress at the Alice-Eleanor shop, a sale that affords great offerings in practically every department.—adv.

At a session of the town court held Thursday morning, Henry Bergin, brought in on a charge of having been intoxicated, was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail. Bergin has been working in a nearby mill village, but recently lost his employment.

The local chapter of the Red Cross, which recently named F. A. Jacobs as chairman to succeed Judge M. A. Shumway, voted to give $300 to the Civic federation and $100 to the American legion post here.

For the first time since it was erected, the illuminated clock at the Danielson Trust company stopped, late Wednesday night, after being battered for hours by a wild rainstorm that appears to have driven water through the casing and into the mechanism. The clock was running again Thursday.

James N. Tucker, William Young and Edwin P. Lawrence, members of the Killingly board of relief, have given notice that they will begin holding hearings in February.

PUTNAM

There was an outpouring of Elks and their partners and many others from Putnam, Thursday evening, to attend the annual Charity ball of the organization, held this year for the first time at the state armory in Danielson. Dancing continued until 1 o'clock this morning. The big drill shed of the armory was very artistically decorated in purple and white—colors of the B. P. O. E.—and greens and flowers also entered into the decorative scheme. Exalted Ruler Attorney Archibald Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald led the grand march. The attendance at the ball was representative of all of eastern Connecticut.

Brilliant sunshine and the warmth of a promising early spring day greeted the people of Putnam, Thursday morning, after as severe a rainstorm and winter gale from the southeast as has been experienced here in years. The streets of Putnam were deserted Wednesday evening as rain, driven in sheets by the gale, made going about on foot almost out of the question, if comfort and safety were to be considered.

A checkup Thursday morning of the damage caused by the storm did not reveal anything of a serious nature. Some of the wire service companies had their troubles, limbs were torn from trees, glass in windows crashed in by the force of the storm and one resident reported that a cistern cover of heavy planking was lifted off its accustomed place and sent spinning across a yard.

A recent issue of the New York Times contained a feature article contributed by Malcolm M. Willey and another teacher in the department of sociology at Dartmouth college, and dealt with the recent appearance there of William Jennings Bryan and his talk to the students on the general subject of Fundamentalism. The tenor of the article referred to would indicate that Mr. Bryan did not make a tremendous impression, and that his audience of college students "did not check their intelligence at the door."

Mr. Willey, whose home is in this city, has much experience as a newspaperman, a fact that was of material aid to him in preparing the article that appeared as mentioned and which has attracted widespread attention.

The only session of the city court that has been held for nearly two weeks convened Thursday morning, to consider the case of Henry Guertin. He was charged with keeping a place where gambling is reputed to have been allowed and was fined $50 and costs.

Once more the plant of a big manufacturing concern in this city will go under the auctioneer's hammer. In this manner the mill and other properties of the Manhasset company will be offered at sale at public auction, in all probability, in clearing up the concern's affairs and under authority granted, following a hearing in the superior court for the county.

No date for the sale has been set and it is understood that some time likely will elapse before the preparations are completed for the event and the date of the sale announced.

In putting the property up at auction, the receivers will obtain the highest possible offer, as bidding will be open to the public.

In the meantime, all who are anxious to see this big plant bustling with activity once again can only speculate into whose hands it will pass. Considering that the plant and the houses in the village that surround it constitute one of the finest mill properties in this part of the state, it is believed that Putnam is destined to have a fine industry established there as rapidly as events may be consummated.

At the parish meeting of St. Philip's church, this (Friday) evening, members of the Guild are to serve a supper at 6:30.

"Through Car From New York to Florida" was the inscription painted on two new baggage cars seen at the Putnam station here Thursday morning as units of a south-bound passenger train. These cars have just been built at Worcester for the Atlantic Coast line and are to be put in immediate service in the Florida service out of New York. The cars will be loaded in New York on south-bound trips and run direct through to southern Florida.

County Game Warden Charles M. Letters said Thursday morning that the state fish and game commission's display of protected game birds—mounted and arranged in glass cases—will be put on exhibition in this city next week. This week the display is interesting Moosup people. An electrically operated device that is set up with the exhibit sets forth much valuable information for the benefit of hunters. More than a score of birds are in the display and all are labeled so that anyone may become familiar with the species they represent.

The annual parish report of St. Mary's church shows that the gross revenue the past year amounted in round figures to $54,000. During the past year the new parochial school, where nearly 1,000 pupils study, was completed, at a cost to the parish of $100,000. The parish numbers 4,800 souls.

Mrs. Hattie Ross of Bridge street will have the members of the W. C. T. U. at her home for a meeting this (Friday) afternoon.

Wednesday night's rain again set back into the uncertain future the date when an ice crop for this city may be harvested. The rain played havoc with such ice as had formed on cutting ponds.

Commandant Johnston of the Boston headquarters of the Salvation Army led the service at the Congregational church Thursday evening. Commandant Johnston is in this city doing special work for the Salvation army.

Mrs. J. J. Russell had the members of the Drop-In class at her home Thursday afternoon for a social.

Joe the Turk, a picturesque figure among Salvation Army workers, will conduct a series of special services here, Saturday and Sunday.

Joseph Plessis, F. W. Seward and Frank Smith, members of the board of relief for Putnam, have given notice that they are to begin their sittings with the opening of the coming month.

The Windham County Y. M. C. A. budget of $6,000 for this year has been completed, it is announced.

JEWETT CITY

The annual meeting of the Ladies' society of the Congregational church was held with Mrs. H. S. Stephenson at the parsonage Thursday afternoon, with 28 present. The officers elected were Mrs. E. A. Faust, president; Mrs. C. D. Wolf, vice president, Mrs. F. E. Robinson, secretary, and Mrs. Carle Munn, treasurer.

A rising vote of thanks and appreciation was given the retiring president, Mrs. Walter Richardson. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Abraham Zegeer, Mrs. William Dealtrey, Mrs. Alex McNicol, Mrs. Andrew McNicol and Mrs. F. D. Ballou.

The state board of health is to institute a campaign to exterminate diphtheria among children throughout Connecticut. This disease is often fatal, as it is not always discovered at first. Inoculation will prevent any child from having the disease, and the physicians in all the towns have offered their services as the dread disease can be wiped out in the whole state by this method.

The terrific wind which was a part of the southeaster Wednesday night, did a great deal of damage. Then sections of wire and electric light poles blown down above Plainfield put the lighting system in Jewett City out of business all night, and until noon Thursday. Panes of glass smashed were reported from numerous places. Fences were laid flat, outbuildings blown down and branches of large size blown from trees all over streets and lawn. A pair of outside stairs on Meadowbrook Lane were blown away. Many householders were kept busy catching water which came through roofs, windows and doors. It was the worst storm that has visited this town in years. One man called up an insurance agent Thursday morning to take up a larger tornado insurance. Another man claimed he would have blown away if he had not held onto a fence to keep on his feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cady of Oxford went to Miami, Fla., this week, to spend several weeks with their son, Theodore Cady.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not do the same for you.

learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither putting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription is HEM-ROID, a tablet medicine, taken internally, that is now sold by druggists generally. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent, and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands of people, and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

THE SHENANDOAH'S TEST.

When the Shenandoah was tied to its mooring mast for a ten days' test there was no anticipation that it would go through the experience that it did during the southeast wind and rain storm of Wednesday night. A test was desired under just those conditions however, if it was to be determined how it would conduct itself under similar conditions at some other point than its home station.

To be yanked free from its fastenings, to have its nose torn out and to have this situation develop unexpectedly during a wild storm created a serious situation, but happily all seems to have ended well. The test has been made, the weakness of the means of fastening it to the mooring mast has been disclosed and what appears to have been clever handling of the craft under trying conditions has been displayed.

That this experience is bound to have an important bearing upon the projected trip to the north pole is certain. Such a trip cannot be taken without the expectation of encountering plenty of storms, and violent ones. Once the big airship leaves Lakehurst there will be no hangare for it to slip into. It must depend upon mooring masts or its ability to ride out storms in the air. In the test the mooring mast appears to have done all that was expected of it. The cable holding the ship did not part and when forced to take care of itself in the gale and down pour the big dirigible was well controlled under unfavorable conditions. The whole unexpected experience was due to the inability of the nose of the craft to stand the strain that the storm placed upon it.

Naturally the question is going to be asked as to what would have happened had a similar thing occurred while the big ship was in Alaska, granting that it might have gotten that far without trouble. It couldn't happen at the pole, unless an attempt was made to tie up to the northern axis, but it goes to show what can be expected of such a craft under these very conditions that developed during the test.

BACK TO NEW YORK.

In the selection of New York the national democratic convention appears to have gone to the city putting in the highest bid in dollars. Other cities were desirous of having it and were willing to pay big for it, but they must have realized that with New York out after it there was little use in forcing up the bid, other than perhaps to use that as one way of raising much needed political funds.

New York could of course easily outbid the others and now that it has won out the wonder will be whether the holding of democratic conventions will be a fixture for that city the same as the world's series, especially if the national committee has a sizeable deficit that it seeks to wipe out.

For a long term of years there has been a prejudice against the holding of a convention in New York city because of the Tammany influence and because of the opposition to a convention in this part of the country. If New York waits as long for the next as it has for this one, the last having been held there in 1868, the metropolis will not be obliged to meet many deficits.

Both parties will assemble in new fields for their conventions in June. For the democrats New York is no more onesided geographically than San Francisco was four years ago or would be this year. Neither is central as St. Louis or Chicago would have been. Cleveland, where the republicans will gather is not the geographical center of the country but it is much more so than cities on either coast.

New York is amply able to handle such a convention and it has the satisfaction of knowing that it is able to get about what it sets out for. Possibly it will be able to overcome at this time the detrimental influences which have always been attached to Tammany and Wall street in connection with such gatherings.

PORTO RICO'S PLEA.

Porto Rico has sent a delegation to this country for the purpose of urging the granting of immediate statehood. Porto Rico is feeling better than it did under its former governor general. Different tact has been employed in handling their affairs and problems. Porto Rico is better satisfied than it was but is not satisfied to remain as it is. It recognizes the benefits that it has received and is receiving, but it wants more. It wants to be more self governing than it is. It wants to select its own governor, it wants to have a greater independence than Alaska enjoys. It wants to sever certain restrictions that prevail at the present time.

Interest in such matters must be regarded as a good sign provided it is reasonable and there is a disposition to progress in accord with the necessary steps. This country has no desire to hold back Porto Rico, any more than it has to restrain the Filipinos, any longer than conditions in Rico is not the best judge as to when it should become a state, or as to its ability to handle its affairs without the existing oversight of this government.

In this connection it is noteworthy that during the 25 years of American administration in Porto Rico it is a safer place for children, since more go to school, there is decreased death rates, lowered illiteracy, the elimination of dread diseases and a control of bubonic plague and typhoid. There have also been big strides in housing, preventive medicine, care of babies and child welfare. But in spite of all this, according to the federal children's bureau, at least 80 per cent of the children of school age are not in school and 55 per cent of the population, ten years of age and over, is illiterate, as against six per cent in the United States.

Benefits of a quarter century are many but they are not such that warrants Porto Rico in seeking statehood at this time. It is far preferable that it should remain as it is and continue to make progress until such a time as it is prepared to assume statehood responsibilities with the certainty of making a success of it than to attempt to hasten the day and thereby make a fizzle of it.

STOPS FOR SAFETY.

In the interest of safety there are states which require vehicles to come to a stop before crossing a railroad track at grade. The suggestion of such a precaution has brought forth the howl in other states to the effect that it would mean a congestion of traffic.

What the states that have legislated for the full stop at crossings is not so different from what cities have done relative to their boulevards. In Indianapolis, for instances, auto are required to come to a "dead stop" at preferential streets for the purpose of insuring greater safety. It gives protection to the users of the boulevard against cars that might suddenly swing in from a side street, while the same protection accrues to the car that would cut in on the tide of traffic.

In connection with the preferential streets quite the same as with the grade crossings the purpose is the same. Aimed at prevention it recognizes that the line must be drawn somewhere. The right of way is given to the railroad or to the much used boulevard and those who would cross or those who would enter must do so only after there has been a real effort to bring the car under full control.

Under such conditions it may be that all accidents will not be eliminated. Accidents will happen in the best of families but there is a marked difference between those that happen after proper safeguards have been observed and those which occur when absolute carelessness is displayed. The full stop may be unnecessary at all crossings but if the habit is cultivated it is certain the death lists at such points will be greatly reduced.

MAURICE F. EGAN.

Both as to length and the manner in which it was rendered, the service of Maurice F. Egan as United States minister at Copenhagen under Presidents Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson was conspicuous. He administered the post not only to the satisfaction of this country but that of the Danish government. Had he been a man of larger means he would have been named as one of our ambassadors. Only the fact that he could not afford to take such a job prevented his appointment.

He was one of those ministers who stood at vantage points during the period of the war and with high credit to his country and himself did he direct such duties. As can be appreciated, it is men of such character and qualifications as he that give prestige to this country and its diplomatic corps.

His achievements were not by any means confined to the diplomatic service of his country, although it was there he stood out prominently in the public eye. He was a leader in educational activities, an author widely known and one who had by his grasp of history and politics qualified himself for that service for country to which he was called, and where he so admirably acquitted himself.

A scholar, a man of broad vision fine characteristics and one whose manner and spirit easily cultivated many friendships, Dr. Egan was the example of a high type of American citizenship. His was a life that leaves its mark. He was a teacher whose good work is not easily forgotten, a patriot at all times and a man whose removal means a distinct and lasting loss.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There's little chance of anyone remaining dry who has to be out in a southeaster.

The man on the corner says: Lack of time is a great handicap for the self maker.

A man may be down but never out, but that certainly cannot be applied to all trolley roads.

The fishing season has opened strong for those who persist in trying to skate on thin ice.

Benjamin Franklin wasn't born so long ago that there is any danger that he will be forgotten.

Orders for the removal of railroad crossings will disappoint those who like to take chances with a locomotive.

With the price of coal reduced in Boston to $15.50 there's some offset for the boosting of the price of gasoline.

When he completes his work at Philadelphia Smedley Butler might be a good man to put in charge of regulating the coal industry.

Now that the American public debt is but $223 per capita those who wanted to burn their Liberty bonds might club together and pay it off.

The further successful test of an automatic stop on the New Haven road is gratifying. Progress in keeping with the demands of safety in transportation is being made.

FROM LUCILLES DIARY

Somebody told me that the autumn caves at Naperville were gorgeous this year and it occurred to me that it would be jolly to have a picnic there. I called up Cousin Mary Goodworth and asked if I could have a picnic in the woods at her beautiful Naperville estate.

"Yes, Lucille," she answered genially, "only I won't be home. I have to run in town for a fitting that morning, but I'll be out early in the afternoon, for I'm having a dinner that evening and I must be home to attend to things. You must make yourselves at home."

"You're a love, Cousin Mary," I said, "and my only regret is that you cannot be with us all the time."

"I'm sorry, too, but I'll see you anyway," she responded gayly, and I immediately invited Dexter Haines and George Requier. After a little coaxing they consented to leave dull care, as I put it, for a day in the woods. I promised to go in Dexter's car and to return in George's, as I did not wish to show any favoritism. When the time came I had some difficulty in maneuvering Ursula Moore into George's car.

"Where are we going to build our fire?" asked Marguerite Dawson as soon as we reached the Goodworth place. "I'm chilly."

"I think it best to have it right here at the edge of the woodland. We can get water and everything else we need from the house easily then," I said, and the boys went to work at once and soon we had a huge bonfire.

It was really too hot for comfort, so I suggested that we take our coffee and beefsteak in the house and use Cousin Mary's gas stove. I am sorry to say that her cook was most ungracious, but when I assured her that Mrs. Goodworth had begged me to make myself perfectly at home she retired and gave us the freedom of the kitchen.

"Where's the cream for the coffee?" I inquired of Louise Fuller. "Don't tell me that you forgot it."

"No, Lucille, I didn't forget it. You didn't tell me to bring it. I brought everything else you told me."

"I suppose you didn't understand me over the phone," I said, sweetly. "I do wonder, dear, if you are growing a little deaf. I can get some cream here, perhaps."

I opened the refrigerator and found plenty of rich cream and a jar of Dutch cheese and a large bowl of mayonnaise.

"Dear me," I remarked, "what an abundance Cousin Mary always has of everything. With these fresh tomatoes, this cheese and mayonnaise we'll have a delectable salad."

"Why, Lucile, do you think we should take all these things?" asked Ursula.

"Of course. I'm perfectly at home here," I said, and we certainly did enjoy our luncheon. I found some delicious mocha cakes in the pantry, and we added those to our menu.

We were just finishing our repast when Cousin Mary appeared. She looked astonished.

"Thanks to you, we are having a wonderful time, dear," I said.

"Thanks to you, Lucile, there'll be a large fire scar on the lawn," she said wryly. I often wish that Cousin Mary wasn't quite so outspoken. I tried to pacify her by explaining that Marguerite Dawson was so cold when we arrived that she didn't wish to go any farther before starting the fire. Marguerite was grouchy enough to throw me a most indignant glance. Indeed, all the jollity of the party suddenly vanished and we decided to drive home early in the afternoon.

Mother is fatuously devoted to Cousin Mary. Even when she called mother on the phone and told her that I had "pirated" her house, taking all the things she had prepared for her dinner party, mother sympathized with her instead of seeing my side.

"You're always saying how hospitable Cousin Mary is," I said, "and it was quite natural, mother, that I should have fancied that she had thoughtfully left those things in the larder for us."

"Didn't you know she was going to have a dinner party?"

"I couldn't be expected to remember that, with all I had on my mind about my own picnic party," I replied patiently, and mother just sighed.—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

King Boris of Bulgaria, who reaches his 30th birthday today, has recently stated his intention to pay a visit to America as soon as conditions will permit. The youthful king came to the throne in 1918, when the fortunes of war forced the abdication of his father King Ferdinand, who has since lived in exile in his native Coburg. It was in the nineties that Boris first came into prominence in connection with the recognition by the powers of his father on the Bulgarian throne. Ferdinand mounted the throne in 1887, in succession to Prince Alexander of Battenberg. Russia, however, withheld recognition of his title as did also the other powers. Nevertheless, Ferdinand maintained himself in his position until the way was finally paved for a better understanding with Russia, and when he consented to have his son Boris received into the Greek church in 1896, Russia formally acknowledged Ferdinand as the sovereign of Bulgaria.

"Well, will you please ask Hortense if she's the one I borrowed that dollar and a half from New Year's eve?"

Take the Fruits With the Tree

Out in Salem they still chew tobacco. A visitor took three of the men of Salem out for a drive. Two of them chewed; one didn't. And he was continually annoyed when they opened the door of the sedan to expectorate. He said a draft played around his feet.

Finally he grumbled out his final suggestion. "It seems to me that if you fellows think enough of that weed to chew it you'd want to swallow the juice."

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

Taxpayers who discovered a debt to be worthless in 1923 and have in that year charged the account off their books may claim the amount as a deduction in their income-tax returns for that year. Bad debts may be treated in one of two ways: (1) By a deduction of the amount of the bad debts from gross income; (2) by a deduction from income of an addition to a reserve for bad debts.

Taxpayers who adopted for the year 1921 either method must continue the use of the same method, unless permission to change is obtained from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Permission to adopt the reserve method is restricted to taxpayers having a large number of accounts, where credit is extended over a considerable period, and is not granted for the purpose of handling one specific bad debt.

Bad debts may be deducted in whole or in part. When deducted in part, the taxpayer must be able to show with a reasonable degree of certainty the amount uncollectible. Partial deductions are allowed with respect to specific debts only. To be allowed as a deduction a debt must be charged off in the year in which its worthlessness was discovered. The taxpayer should attach to his return a statement showing the propriety of any deduction claimed for a debt. Where the surrounding circumstances indicate that a debt is uncollectible and that legal action in all probability woul dnot avail, proof of these facts is sufficient evidence of its worthlessness.

A valid debt proved to be worthless is not always a proper deduction. For example, unpaid amounts representing wages, salaries, rentals, or similar items of taxable income, are not allowed as deductions unless the amounts claimed as deductions have been included as income in the creditor's return for the year in which the deduction is sought or previous years.

Unpaid loans made to needy relatives or friends with little or no expectation of their repayment are not deductible, but are regarded as gifts.

TO DISCONTINUE USE OF SEIZED WHISKEY

New York, Jan. 17.—United States Attorney Hayward today announced that the poor quality of the whiskey seized recently by government agents had forced him to discontinue the practice, begun after passage of the federal prohibition law, of supplying from 25 to 30 local hospitals with high grade whiskey at moderate prices.

"We find," he said, "that ships in the rum fleet are now floating chemical laboratories. The bootleggers' printing presses spin and do print labels of well known brands which it takes the keenest counterfeiting experts of the secret service to distinguish from the genuine labels. The corks, bottles and containers are also cleverly imitated as to almost defy detection.

"I do not mean that it is all actual poison but it is either cut, flavored, tinctured or synthesized in some way which makes it highly deleterious.

"The rawness of the rye 'hooch' is glossed over by the addition of glycerine. The diluted grain alcohol, or re-distilled denatured alcohol is converted into Scotch whiskey by the addition of coloring matter and just a dash of creosote in lieu of the old 'dash of absinthe' that used to go in a cocktail."

Many a successful business has been overthrown by side issues.

Home Made Cough Mixture Considered Best

Spreads Over Membrane, Soothes, Heals and Stops Cough Almost Instantly.

Cost But a Trifle

Make your own cough syrup in two minutes at home if you want the best. Simple coughs, or stubborn coughs, it doesn't matter which, this home made mixture will stop them quicker than any expensive cough syrup you can buy ready made.

It's fine for chest colds too and for acute nasal catarrh.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength) — to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint —that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

And remember — any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

"Farewell! But Whenever"

Farewell!—but whenever you welcome the hour
That awakens the night-song of mirth in your bower,
Then think of the friend who once welcomed it, too,
And forgot his own griefs, to be happy with you.
His griefs may return,—not a hope may remain
Of the few that have brightened his pathway of pain,—
But he ne'er will forget the short vision that threw
Its enchantment around him, while ling'ring with you!

And still on that evening, when Pleasure fills up
To the highest top sparkle each heart and each cup,
Where'er my path lies, be it gloomy or bright,
My soul, happy friends, shall be with you that night;
Shall join in your revels, your sports, and your wiles,
And return to me, beaming all o'er with your smiles,—
Too blest if it tell me that, 'mid the gay cheer,
Some kind voice had murmured, "I wish he were here!"

Let Fate do her worst, there are relics of joy,
Bright dreams of the past, which she can not destroy!
Which come, in the night-time of sorrow and care,
And bring back the features that joy used to wear.
Long, long be my heart with such memories filled;
Like the vase in which roses have once been distilled—
You may break, you may shatter the vase, if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang round it still.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

A Visit to the Lord of the Castle.

"Don't be afraid," said the Big Black Snake, who, you remember in the last story had crawled out of the rocks to speak to Little Jack Rabbit. "So the Gnome of the Mountain told you to speak to me?"

"Yes, he did," answered the bunny boy bravely, "what is his wish?"

The Big Black Snake coiled himself into a ring, and, resting his head on the tip of his tail, answered thoughtfully:

"Not far from here stands a stately castle in which a wicked Lord has imprisoned a beautiful maiden. Now the Dream Fairy has sent a dream to tell her that a little rabbit will set her free. Listen and I will tell you how it can be done."

Uncoiling himself, the Big Black Snake crawled toward a little bush that grew near by. "Get off your horse and hop over here. Don't be afraid—I won't hurt you."

Although his heart was going pitter patter, the brave little bunny boy hopped over to the Snake.

"When you reach yonder castle," went on the Snake, "knock on the postern gate three times, and when it opens, say that you wish to see the Lord of the Castle. Very likely you will be told that the Lord is not at home. But don't take 'no' for an answer. Once inside the castle walls, a little bird in a cage will tell you what to do."

Once more the little rabbit hopped on Dapple Gray, and, after a long way, reached the castle. Knocking three times on the postern gate, he waited for it to open.

"The Lord of the Castle is not within," said the retainer, with a low bow.

"What!" exclaimed the brave bunny boy, as if much surprised. "Not in when Little Jack Rabbit calls upon him!"

Well, when the retainer heard that, he said:

"Wait a minute, Sir Bunny, while I make sure. Often times my Lord comes back unexpectedly."

"After a while the retainer returned and said: "Step inside, Sir Bunny, my Lord will see you."

Giving Dapple Gray in charge of a servant, the bunny boy hopped up the castle steps and the next moment found himself in the presence of the Lord of the Castle.

Dear me! He certainly was a wicked looking man. His small black eyes and cruel mouth seemed to say, "What do you want, you small rabbit?"

"I am seeking adventure," answered the little rabbit, "and I have travelled far. May I spend the night in your beautiful castle?"

This so pleased the Lord that he gave his consent, and, the bunny boy was shown to a room near the turret. Toward midnight the brave little rabbit peaped out of his door and saw a bright moonbeam pointing to a cage in which was a little bird. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

New Cough and Cold Remedy

In Lozenge Form—Acts Quickly—Folks Everywhere Using Them.

Old folks, middle aged people and children are now using a wonderful new form of Cough and Cold Remedy in pleasant lozenge form. The quick effects produced are said to be due, not only to the rare potency of the ingredients, but to the fact that the lozenges dissolve slowly in the mouth, thus carrying constantly soothing, healing medicament to the inflamed membranes of the throat and congested parts.

The very first lozenge loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon the phlegm will thin out. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold. This remarkable new form of cough and cold remedy is sold by most druggists under the name of Hayph's Honey and Tar Cough Lozenges. For sale at Lee & Osgood

CHRIST CHURCH WOMEN ENJOYED SOCIAL PROGRAM

The women of Christ Episcopal church parish enjoyed an informal do-as-you-please day Thursday at the home of Mrs. Eben Learned at 180 Broadway from 11.30 to 6 o'clock, about 60 women attending.

At noon a buffet luncheon consisting of cold baked ham, creamed potatoes au gratin, carrots, peas, hot rolls, apple pie, cheese and coffee, was served by Mrs. Learned and the joint hostesses Mrs. Joseph C. Worth, Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, Mrs. Joseph H. Hall, Mrs. W. Russell Baird Mrs. Charles H. Preston, Miss Mary Osgood and Mrs. Earl Mathewson poured coffee. The luncheon was served in the dining room which was beautifully decorated with cut flowers.

During the afternoon the "do-as-you-please" program was carried out, the women enjoying themselves by playing Mah Jongg, or learning to play the game under the direction of Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins and Mrs. Earl Mathewson. Several tables of bridge were played and the Missionary society members sewed. There was also the radio, with loud speaker, and the Victrola for those enjoying music, and Mrs. Baird pleased with several vocal numbers.

Through the courtesy of W. Russel Baird a number of members who would have been unable to attend the meeting, were carried to and from the home of Mrs. Leonard by automobile. The get-together was a most successful one and it is likely that more like gatherings will be held in future months.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH REPORTS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

A year that has been one of the most active and encouraging in all departments was indicated in the reports made Thursday evening at the 86th annual meeting of the Central Baptist church, which was preceded by a chicken pie supper at 6.30 with about 350 attending.

The pastor, Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., presided at the business meeting at which the reports of church officers and the different organizations were presented in a printed pamphlet. That of the church clerk, George A. Ashbey, showed 40 members received by baptism, 24 by letter, 8 by experience; total 67; and 13 decreased by death, 13 by letter, 51 by erasure, total 77, net loss 10; present membership 800, of which 605 are resident and 195 non-resident.

Treasurer John P. Post reported total expenditures for the year of $36,184.05, balance on hand of $476.75, and George A. Ashbey, treasurer of the New World Movement, showed that the church members had contributed to this $64,948.63 in the past four years.

The report of the board of managers, through C. Edward Smith, president, showed a reduction of $500 in the outstanding debt of the church, acknowledged the gift of the Gale Memorial organ from Mrs. Charles W. Gale, the receipt of a trust fund from George W. Carroll in memory of his parents, and mentioned that the pledges for the budget of 1924 are the greatest in number and amount in the history of the church, representing over 400 contributors and a total of over $12,000.

Superintendent James L. Case reported an enrollment of 787 in the Sunday school and an average attendance in the month of March of 486.

The following officers and committees were elected by the meeting: Clerk, George A. Ashbey; assistant clerk, Joseph S. Adams; treasurer, John P. Post; assistant treasurer, Edward Y. Messenger; deacons (6 years) Charles S. Storms; board of managers (5 years) Charles D. Noyes, Charles S. Storms, Carl W. Brown; trustee (3 years) A. Thatcher Otis; nominating committee, Charles L. Stewart, N. Eugene Smith, William S. Spencer, Emery Davis, Walter A. Forschler; printing committee, Charles F. Whitney, Gilbert S. Raymond, Miss Helen B. Moore.

At the close of the business meeting, Rev. Dr. Pitt introduced Rev. Charles Decker, pastor of the First Baptist church, Bridgeport, who gave a brief but impressive address upon the Mission of the Church. Jesus told his disciples what their mission was and it is exactly the same today as it was Jan. 17, A. D. 24, but in every age the church has to justify itself to the age in which it lives. We may say it is axiomatic that the world can't get along without the church, but we have got to realize that there are many who don't agree with us. Russia is determined to eliminate the church, and the leaders of that nation have no hesitancy in saying that the time is coming, and is not so far off, when any god will be worshipped in that country. There are great groups indicating that they don't think the church is essential to the world today. But in spite of all this the speaker said he believed there was a trend back to the church today.

The church has a mission in interpretation, mediation and application. This is no time for reaction in any of the forward movements of the church but a time for leadership. We must make God known to men and if the church of God cannot do that it cannot do anything worth while. We must meet the challenge of this practical age. Unless the church can function, can apply its faith and doctrine to the world today, it will be in the position of an outworn piece of machinery to be cast aside.

For the supper hour before the business meeting, the following served as hostesses at the tables in general charge of Mrs. W. B. L. Cranston; Mrs. D. A. Pitt, Mrs. A. L. Brown, Mrs. J. M. Young, Miss Alif Stephens, Mrs. J. H. Ford, Mrs. J. P. Post, Mrs. S. B. Palmer, Mrs. F. A. Mitchell, Mrs. C. W. Brown, Mrs. C. L. Stewart, Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve, Mrs. J. H. Barnes, Mrs. A. F. Wyman, Mrs. J. H. Powelson, Mrs. H. E. Church, Mrs. A. T. Utley, Mrs. C. E. Smith, Mrs. E. Y. Messinger, Mrs. G. A. Ashbey, Mrs. W. H. Whiteman, Mrs. A. P. Carroll, Mrs. A. Thatcher Otis, Mrs. H. H. Pettis, Mrs. J. E. Hawkins, Mrs. B. H. Palmer, Mrs. Harrison Noyes, Mrs. J. S. Adams, Mrs. J. P. Holloway.

The supper was served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, chairman, Mrs. Jennie Davis, Mrs. James Parker, Mrs. W. H. Covey, Mrs. C. J. Bushnell, Miss Maria Briggs and Mrs. Shields, and the waitresses were Mrs. Lee Clegg, Mrs. Racine, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Herbert Brown, Mrs. Clarence Sholes, Mrs. Luther D. Packer, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Carl Geib, Mrs. W. S. Spencer, Mrs. Herbert Rogers, Mrs. Willis Hill, Mrs. E. J. Cass, Mrs. Henry Richardson, Mrs. De Grenier, Mrs. H. Kromer, Mrs. Charles Chapman; Mrs. Edward Wigley, Mrs. Irene Wilson, Mrs. Fred Bunch, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Hargreaves, Mrs. J. O. Peckham, Mrs. S. Wilson, Miss Amie March, Miss Dorothy Gildersleeve, Miss Mildred Case, Miss Marion Royce, Miss Eugenie Dean. The table decorations were baskets of flowers from Hawkins, the florist.

Mrs. Joseph Elliott

After an illness of about three weeks the life of Annie Clark Elliott, wife of Joseph Elliott of Taftville, came to a close Thursday in this city.

Mrs. Elliott was born in Walton, Nova Scotia, but had made her home in Taftville for 18 years where she had many friends. She was twice married, her first husband being William E. Thurlow of Nova Scotia, and there were five children by this marriage. Some years after the death of Mr. Thurlow she was again married, her second husband being Joseph Elliott. Shortly after their marriage the couple came to Taftville from Nova Scotia.

Surviving Mrs. Elliott besides her husband are the following children by her first marriage: Charles and Harley Thurlow of New Market, N. H., Harry and Burlee Thurlow of Taftville and Mrs. Edward Shannon of Norwich.

Mrs. Elliott was a woman of likable qualities and news of her death will be received with sorrow by her many friends. Sympathy is extended to the family in their time of sorrow.

PARK CHURCH WILL CELEBRATE HALF CENTURY ANNIVERSARY

Announcement was made Thursday evening at the annual meeting of Park Congregational church at the Osgood Memorial that the 50th anniversary of the church will occur April 26th. Henry A. Tirrell and Oliver L. Johnson were authorized to meet a committee from the Woman's Federation of the church to consider plans for the observance of the anniversary. The business meeting was preceded by a chicken supper served the 135 present at 6.30. The supper was in charge of a committees from the Woman's Federation.

After the supper the business meeting was called to order by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of the church. The report of the clerk, Robert C. Johnson, showed the total church membership to be 334, the same as last year. The clerk's report was as follows:

The number of members on the church records is just the same as last year, 334.

Admission by letter	5
Admission on confession of faith	5
	10
Removed by death	6
Dismissed by letter	4
	10
Number of baptisms	8

The church committee has met a number of times and has acted on such matters as the authorization of certain sums to aid in the securing of motion pictures of a religious nature for the Sunday school, summer services on daylight time, and further appropriations for the Camp Fire Girls, American Board of Foreign Missions, purchase of Bibles, Federaiton of churches and for a census of the membership of the Protestant church of Norwich.

Of most vital interest during the past year was the refusal of the members to accept Dr. Howe's resignation which was accompanied by expressions of loyalty and support. The incident was closed on Sunday, May 27, when Dr. Howe at the close of the services in brief remarks signified his willingness and pleasure, in harmony with the vote of the special meeting in withdrawing his resignation, stating how much the expressions of affection and devotion had meant to him, all of which should tend to greater cooperation in the future.

Sunday, Nov. 11, was a day to be remembered and cherished as it marked the 40th anniversary of the commencement of Dr. Howe's pastorate of Park church. Now after this long period as our beloved pastor he preached a special sermon, "Forty Years in a New England Pastorate." At the close opportunity was given Frederick Carey to present a gift of money to Dr. Howe, subscribed by his loving friends and admirers to commemorate the event.

In Dec. on account of the death of Mr. Prentice, Mrs. Allen Latham was appointed church treasurer; Mr. Latham assistant treasurer, and at the same meeting Miss Adelaide Butts was made a member of the church committee, the terms of all of them to run until this annual meeting.

In closing may I be permitted to offer the following resolutions pertaining to two of our beloved members who have passed beyond during the year.

Through the death of Myron B. Prentice, we have lost a fellow member who in his daily life and contacts consistently showed himself a Christian gentleman in the broadest sense of the word. Ever ready and willing to do his share in the church work, he gave of himself in full measure often at the expense of his time and bodily strength.

As a worker in the Sunday school, Deacon, clerk and church treasurer he will long be remembered with affection and respect, and we tage this opportunity to pay tribute to his memory.

There has also passed from among us, one of the charter members of the church, Miss Sarah B. Huntington. She will be best remembered by the older members, for sickness and ill health forced her to spend the latter years of her life in retirement.

Her beautiful Christian spirit gave her unbounded faith, which communicated itself to those who were privilege to know her and come under the influence of her winning personality. From the inception of our organization she was leader and director of the primary department. In this capacity she gave an impetus to the Christian life to many hundreds, who have since grown to maturity, appreciating the qualities of mind and heart which so endeared her to all. In her death the church loses one of its best friends.

Treasurer's Report

The report of the church treasurer, Mrs. Allen Latham, showed that the total receipts for the year were $5,508.75. The disbursements were as follows: For charitable work in America, $1,050; for Christian work in foreign lands, $1,058.87; for benevolent work in Norwich, $61.80; expended in the church, $7,226.83, leaving a balance of cash on hand of $103.

The report for the church society committee was given by F. S. Bunnell.

Woman's Federation

Reports for all the departments of the church were made by the department heads, showing the church to be in excellent condition. Following is the annual report of the Woman's Federation as submitted by Mrs. Gertrude B. Browne.

As we close the third year of the work of Women's Federation we find that the standards of former years have been maintained and in some directions an advance has been made. During the entire three years Mrs. Arnold has brought to the executive and general business meetings, not only dignified and tactful leadership, but a spirit of consecration that has been an inspiration to every worker.

Owing to the effects of the chairman, Mrs. Allan Lathan, the missions department has met its appointment of about $1680, placing Park church at the head of the list of Connecticut churches for having contributed $2 for missions for every $3 used for home expenditures. Of this amount $892 was given through the weekly offerings, $60 received in interest from the Lee, Ewarts and Gilman funds, $110 from box money and the remainder, over $500, has been raised by food and Easter sales, gratitude gifts, holiday calendars and thank offerings. Also a check of $50 was sent with three cartons of clothing to a missionary in North Dakota, two smaller boxes to Oklahoma and seven cartons of clothing for the school at Pleasant Hill, Tenn.

Some posters which were designed by Miss Pauline Mather, showing our methods of raising talent money have been exhibited not only at the meeting in Hartford, for which they were designed, but at various other meetings throughout the state.

The programs have been varied and interesting. In January Miss Hannah Crowell gave an entertaining review of the study book entitled "Building With India." In February the women of the city were invited to meet with us for the interdenominational prayer service. In March Miss Helen Marshall gave a resume of the text book for Home Missions, The Trend of the Races, which was written by Dr. Haynes, a talented negro, and negro spirituals were sung and later in the month a utility sale was held which netted a good sum toward the Home Mission.

An intimation was accepted in April from the department of the United church to hear an address by the young African missionary, Mrs. C. Kamba Simango, and $12.50 were contributed toward her work. For the May meeting, Miss Hartig, pastor of the Goshen church gave us a glimpse of her experiences during the 21 years in which she had been engaged in rural work. This was followed by an amusing parody of a missionary meeting, given by a number of girls who were dressed in antiquated costumes. This had won the loving cup at the interchurch contest.

Reports from the conferences at Northfield by Miss Coggswell, and accounts by several delegates of the branch and district meetings held in Bozrah and New London were features of the October meeting and in November a very interesting address concerning the mission at Madeira, India, was given by Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro.

For December an exposition of the meeting of the Woman's Board, which was held in Wellesley was given and the delegates attending from the United and Norwich Town churches assisted in impersonating the speakers and reproducing the speakers and reproducing the addresses.

A year of interest and activity under the chairmanship of Miss Louise C. Howe has marked the work of the Parish House department.

The program for January afforded an unusual opportunity—when Miss Eleanor Goodenough spoke of work among the fisher-folk of Newfoundland and Labrador under the direction of Dr. Gernfell.

The February meeting was held in the evening as a Washington social, when a most interesting paper on the Constitution and its Makers, written by Mrs. William B. Birge, was read by Mrs. Robert W. Perkins. Tableaux representing scenes in the life of Washington, posed from famous paintings and the dancing of the graceful minuet by eight young ladies completed a most attractive entertainment.

Again in March an invitation was extended to the congregation when the photoplay, The Little Minister, was shown. April was appropriately observed when the earliest wild blossoms were shown and a talk on Messengers of Spring, was given by Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers and spring songs by Mrs. James Bidwell and piano solos by Miss Wightman brought a realization that cold and ice were over.

For the May meeting we had the pleasure of hearing Miss Anna Hempstead Branch interpret her own poems.

During the spring weekly gatherings had been held in the dining room where the hum of sewing machines and the rustle of cloth and crepe paper could be heard, as dainty articles and wonderful flowers were fashioned, until in June all roads led to the Wayside Fair, which could be seen from afar by the fluttering of long lines of dainty colored pennants not only about the grounds of the church, parish house and parsonage, but neighboring lawns had been included in the gala setting. Under the general direction of the chairman, Mrs. Leonard P. Church attractive booths had been erected where articles of many varieties were on sale. So many nooks were devoted to the sale of food suitable for every hour of the day, from the "hot dogs" at noon until the supper in the evening, that it seemed as if no one needed to have felt either thirst or hunger. All worked with ardor, and fatigue was forgotten when the announcement was made that the receipts were $1,214.01.

Vacations over, the October meeting brought the pleasure always given by an interesting and instructive talk on Current Events by Dr. Frank S. Bunnell and in November, Charles A. Dyer entertained us in reenacting some of the customs, hospitalities and characteristics of the people whom he had known in the years when he had lived abroad. With the covered dish luncheon at the annual meeting for reports and election of officers in December, the record of meetings for 1923 closes. However only a fraction of the activities can be related in the accounts of the meetings for a large part of the success has been due to the quiet, efficient work of the standing committee. Time forbids mention of only the chairman, but several committees require the co-operation of practically every woman in the church.

The hospitality committee under the leadership of Mrs. Frederick W. Cary served the ministers' luncheon for 51 guests last January and over 100 members of the church were present at the annual church supper. The committee has planned and served tea for the meetings of the federation and assisted for the covered dish luncheon for the December meeting.

For the finance committee, Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn has sent the pledge book to 58 families and from Jan. 1st to December 5th, $581.68, had been contributed.

The membership committee, Miss Matilda Butts, chairman, has secured 104 memberships, the annual dues being $1.00.

Mrs. Edward J. Graham, chairman, attended to the printing and distribution of the programs last January.

The Custodians, Mrs. F. T. Sayles, chairman, have attended to the usual routine work, purchasing kitchen utensils and supplies and repairing linen, some plumbing has been repaired and an oak table and six chairs have been purchased for the dining room; also new sahdes for the parlor.

The corresponding secretary, Miss Alexandrine Trumbull has sent out the notices for the executive meetings, and Mrs. James A. Bidwell, in charge of publicity, has attended to the reports for the newspapers and Mrs. Weston C. Pullen has arranged the notices for the church calendars.

The church interior, Miss Mary A. C. Avery, chairman, has repaired the choir-chairs, arranged the hymn books in the racks and attended to other necessary details.

The hospital committee, Mrs. William H. Geer, chairman has only one visit to report owing to a change of dates for church visitation. Members of the committee carried the usual gifts of old linen, receptacles and reading matter. On February 22nd, special jams and napkins were provided for the ward patients and also flowers through the generosity of Miss Bill. A generous amount of cake was sent by members of the committee for the nurses home. No disbursements have been made from the church fund, so $18.05 remains.

The flower committee, Mrs. Wallace S. Allis, chairman, has arranged the flowers sent by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Osgood and others, and after the church services has sent them to different homes where they have given cheer and comfort. The decorations for Christmas and Easter were paid for from the church treasury.

No especial emergency has arisen for the attention of the sewing committee, Mrs. Herbert Branche, chairman, but assistance was given in cutting articles for the work for the Wayside Fair.

The friendly committee, Mrs. O. L. Johnson, chairman, feels that its work is the most enjoyable of any in the church, for they have the privilege of touching hands with the shut-ins, who always give the visitors such a heart-warming welcome. It is delightful to be able to send remembrances from the church to those in affliction and those who are emerging from the clouds of trouble and illness. $200 has been received from the church fund and with a balance from last year and special gifts, $280.77 have been expended. $46.26 were spent at Thanksgiving, $15 contributed to the Camp Fire expenses and $15 toward the expenses of the Northfield delegates and the rest has gone for remembrances to the sick and assistance in different ways. The committee will be grateful for suggestions as to whom and how this sum can be of service.

Probably the work of greatest importance is that for the young people of the church for to them we must look for its growth and prosperity in the future.

The committee for the Sunday school library, Mrs. Frank S. Bunnell chairman, has placed fifty new books in the library this year, besides buying several study books for the women's bible class. $25 also has been contributed towards the moving pictures. The open shelf system which was started several years ago has proved a great success. The boys and girls plan to spend the ten minutes before Sunday school opens, in the library and they have learned to be very discriminating in their choice of books.

Under the direction of Mrs. Louis H. Walden, chairman of young people's work, the Okiya Camp Fire was organized January 16, 1923 with a membership of eighteen girls which has since increased to twenty-nine. The meetings during the spring were devoted to choosing names, symbols, weaving bead bands and making ceremonial gowns. With the autumn a regular program was adopted for every Tuesday, with ceremonial fires alternating with suppers; every month talks and demonstrations by a public health nurse; two mothers, as hostesses, entertain each month giving talks or demonstrations, and some outside speaker is secured at intervals, the remaining meetings being devoted to craft-work. During the year there have been two ceremonial fires, sixteen girls receiving their first rank of wood gatherer, suppers at Easter and Hallowe'en and three hikes terminating in a picnic. In February there was a candy table at the Washington Social of the parish house department and in March an entertainment was given. In April some of the girls participated in the Y. M. C. A. circus and in June they assisted at the Wayside Fair in dances. In November a rummage sale was held to earn money toward a camping trip next summer. The girls have contributed to the support of a missionary in China and assisted in sending two girls to Northfield last summer. Under the guidance of Mrs. Bunnell the girls won the loving cup at both the fall interchurch meetings. Undaunted by the rain on the Sunday evening preceding Christmas, carols were sung where lighted candles were placed in the windows. Fifteen poor children were entertained with a Christmas tree and gifts. Mrs. Benedict Pullen and Miss Helen Tirrell have been most capable assistant guardians.

The Blue Birds, the junior society, under the direction of Misses Helen Burdick and Helen Clapp meets on Thursday afternoons at four o'clock. They have given $5 for the children of the kindergarten conducted by Miss Alice Cary at Osaka, Japan. A box of books and toys has been sent for the work of Mrs. William Pratt missionary at Ellis Island. The attendance at the meetings has not been as large as desired and the cooperation of the mothers is asked in arranging for the children to attend.

Under the leadership of Mrs. O. L. Johnson the 23rd annual cradle roll party was held on May 25th with thirty-seven children and forty-five adults present. Eight new babies were joyfully received. As usual the play hour and program were followed by refreshments for the children and tea for the mothers. The mite boxes yielded $11.21 to be sent to help a new kindergarten at Osaka, Japan. "It is difficult to give a formal report, for the laughter of children and the joy of the mothers cannot be recorded" but "we hope that the love developed in these little hearts for their church home will abide through the years and the habit of "giving to missions" begins here, will never be relinquished."

The financial report of the missions department of the Woman's Federation as submitted by the treasurer, Louis L. Jones, showed total receipts including the balance on hand in local banks at the opening of the year to be $2,768.77. Disbursements totaled $1,154.11. The financial report of the parish house department for the year as submitted by Mrs. Jones, the treasurer, showed receipts from all sources as $6,741.15 and total disbursements of $1,263.47.

George L. Ingalls, superintendent of the Sunday school gave a verbal report of the activities of the school during the year and other Sunday school reports given included those of the primary department by Mrs. George L. Ingalls, the secretary, Stanley Vaughn, treasurer, John Evans and librarian, Manley Eastwood.

Boy Scouts

The troop started the year with only one first class scout and several among the other boys well advanced in their work towards this grade. During 1923 four scouts passed their first class tests and several others are approaching that rank. A large number of merit badges have been secured by these scouts.

Through hard work on the part of every scout Troop 12 secured first place in the annual contest for the Ferguson Trophy thereby gaining possession of the cup for one year.

Troop 12 has acquitted itself very well in all the events it has participated in with the other troops in the city. During anniversary week in February a very pleasing stunt was carried out by the boys on Stunt Night.

On July 4th an inter-troop field day for the Norwich Council Troops was held. On that occasion Troop 13 demonstrated its proficiency in all branches of scout work winning the first place.

Assistant Scoutmaster H. Downer Johnson, Jr., attained the highest grade in scouting, that of Eagle Scout, in 1923, a rank previously reached by only three other scouts in Norwich, since scouting was inaugurated over ten years ago.

Good turns of note on fire-fighting in and around Norwich, and the arrangement of a Christmas good turn for a needy family with a Christmas tree, presents for the boys who knew very little of what the word Christmas meant and a good start towards the family's dinner on that day.

The outlook for this year indicates as useful and successful a one as the past year has been.

Election of Officers

The final business of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The meeting unanimously accepted the report of the nominating committee Henry A. Tirrell and Oliver L. Johnson, as follows:

Honorary deacon, Leonard O. Smith.

FOR FATHER'S COUGH

January is usually one of the coldest months and brings its share of coughs, colds and hoarseness. Take FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough or cold, as it loosens the phlegm and quickly brings relief to the inflamed membranes of the throat. "YOUR HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND has done wonders for my father, who had an awful cough. He is feeling fine now," writes Nicolasa Gonzales, Cuero, Texas. Lee & Osgood Co.

RICKARD SETS DEMPSEY-GIBBONS BOUT FOR FIRST WEEK NEXT JUNE

New York, Jan. 17.—(By The A. P.)—Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight title against Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul challenger, in a 15-round decision match in New York, probably at the Polo grounds, the first week in June, Tex Rickard announced today.

The promoter, who announced several days ago that he had arranged the return match between these rivals, revealed further details in denying reports that he planned to conduct the bout during the democratic national convention, which opens here June 24 in Madison Square Garden.

At the same time, Rickard disclosed that after the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, contracts for which he expects to have signed within a fortnight, his next ficti venture will not take place before the middle of July, when he hopes to stage a heavyweight elimination test between Harry Wills, negro contender, and Luis Firpo, "wild bull of the Pampas." The winner of this match, if Rickard's plans materialize, would fight Dempsey in September, providing the champion succeeded in disposing of Gibbons in June.

Rickard, who was a member of the citizen's committee that worked to bring the democratic convention here, declared he wanted to make it plain that there will be no bouts held here under his auspices during the political conclave or any effort on his part to commercialize the event.

In this connection, the promoter pointed out that the $55,000 guaranteed the convention for concessions at Madison Square Garden was fixed merely as a minimum return from this source. Any and all profit over that amount will go to the convention, he asserted.

Mr. Rickard tonight made it clear that his plan to have Dempsey defend his title against Gibbons in New York the first week in June was tentative and depended upon the consent of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, who said, he expected would be here in a few days.

Commenting on Kearns' announcement in Hot Springs, Ark., tonight that his project for a return match early in June "was news" to both Kearns and Dempsey, Rickard said:

"It's true that I have not yet made this arrangement with Kearns but I confidently expect he will agree to do it when he arrives here in a few days. In view of the discussions we had recently on the subject, I don't think there should be any difficulty in the way of an agreement."

It Is News to Kearns.

"It is news to me," commented Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, when informed tonight of the announcement made in New York today by Tex Rickard, to the effect that the champion would defend his title against Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, early in June.

"If Rickard has arranged for a Dempsey-Gibbons match it is news to both Dempsey and myself," Kearns said. "I wish to state again I have made no arrangements whatever of that nature. In fact, I did not talk very seriously with Rickard about the match before I left New York, and have not signed any agreement or made arrangements for a fight for Dempsey with anyone.

"I expect Dempsey will meet Firpo some time in July in a return match. It should be understood there are other places than New York who are after not only a Dempsey-Firpo bout, but a Dempsey-Wills fight and a Dempsey-Gibbons contest. It is not possible, either that we might meet Wills, but as for the Firpo-Wills elimination contest Rickard is said to have announced. I am not interested in what these two do in that respect: I do want to make plain, however, that other places besides New York are after the champion to meet Gibbons, Firpo and Wills. New York is not the only state where such bouts can be held."

LANDIS SAYS BASEBALL INTEREST IS INCREASING

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 17.—Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner who spoke at the Ben Franklin birthday dinner of the Franklin Typothetae tonight said the interest in baseball is more than keeping pace with the growth of population in America. Last year he said saw a handsome increase in the attendance at major league games and the prospects are that 1924 will be a great year provided that the two leagues "deliver".

NATIONAL INDOOR SCHEDULED FOR NEW YORK ON MAR. 5

New York, Jan. 17.—The 1924 National senior indoor track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic union, will be held in the Twenty-Second Regiment armory here, March 5, it was announced today, because of preparations for the Olympic games one of the most imposing fields in the history of the event is scheduled.

The championships were sought by Louisville, but inability of the Kentucky city to arrange a suitable date resulted in accepting New York's bid.

Game Called 8:00 P. M.

The Illinois Athletic club of Chicago, winner of the team title in 1923 at Buffalo, plans to send a formidable array of talent to defend the championship, the New York and Newark Athletic clubs also will enter strong teams.

The fact that the meet will come four days after the eastern intercollegiate championships at the same armory is expected to result in an unusually large entry from college ranks.

Twelve events are on the title program, as follows: 60, 300, 600 and 1,000 yard running events, two mile run, one mile walk, 70 yard high hurdles, standing high and broad jumps, running high jump, 16 pound shot-put, medley relay at one mile and seven-eights.

LARGE NUMBER OF BOWLING TEAMS AFTER "MET" TITLE

New York, Jan. 17.—Entries for the New York State Bowling association tournament to be held at the Recreation alleys, Brooklyn, from January 26 to February 13 closed today with 160 teams registered from all parts of this state, besides cities in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

Buffalo will send 24 five-men teams and also will seek to land the 1925 tournament. Other up-state cities from which entries have been received include Rochester, Syracuse, Auburn, Binghamton, Oneida, Newburgh, Utica and Yonkers. In addition, metropolitan bowlers will be strongly represented.

New Jersey will be represented by Newark, Passaic, Paterson, Hoboken, and Trenton entries. Pennsylvania teams will come from Philadelphia, Allentown and Reading while Stamford is the only Connecticut entry.

Richard Wallace of Utica, who won the singles championship at Buffalo last year, will defend his title. Other stars who will compete are Charles Trucks and Billy Knox of Philadelphia, Otto Kalliusch, Rochester, and Larry Sutton of Rochester; Leo Lucke, Glen Riddell, Lee Johns, John Koster, Joe Falcaro and Mort Lindsey, all of the metropolitan district. Knox, Kalliusch and Sutton are former A. B. C. champions.

HAUGHTON WILL REMAIN AT COLUMBIA IN 1924

New York, Jan. 17.—Percy M. Haughton, veteran football coach, will not relinquish his post at Columbia university, as had been reported in athletic circles, it was declared tonight by Chairman James R. Knapp of the football committee at the monthly meeting of the Columbia University club.

Mr. Knapp's announcement was followed by a declaration by Haughton himself that he would be at Columbia next year. After describing the plan of action he had followed last season, he declared he could guarantee Columbia would have a better team in 1924 than it had in 1923. He made it plain that he and his assistants had been working with green material and had had in mind the development of a machine rather than that of a one-season winning team.

Mr. Knapp and R. W. Watt, graduate manager of athletics, gave out a joint statement in which they said Haughton's statement in Boston, from which the inference had been drawn that he would not be at Columbia next year, probably had been misunderstood.

SANDLOT BASEBALL HEADS GATHER FOR MEETING

Baltimore, Jan. 17.—Amateur, industrial and semi-pro baseball leaders representing a dozen states and well over a score of cities, were gathering in Baltimore tonight for the nines annual convention of the National Baseball Federation, the governing sandlot organization. The meeting will continue over Friday and Saturday, and is expected to be the largest and most important ever held by the federation. Every city affiliated with the N. B. F. has sent delegates, and there will also be in attendance a number of non-members whom it is hoped to bring into the organization.

The meeting is expected to result in a complete reorganization of the federation. Among the plans to this end, is one which would revise certain rules, objection to which has caused many cities to decline to join the organization. These cities are then expected to affiliate, and with the resulting increase in territory, the country would be divided into sections. Champions of each section would be decided and sent to the national championship tournament.

OLYMPIC QUOTAS ASSIGNED TO 18 AMERICAN TOWNS

New York, Jan. 17.—Quotas aggregating nearly $300,000 have been assigned to 18 cities and towns scattered from New York to the Pacific coast in the campaign for funds to send America's 350 athletes to the Olympic games. Maj. General Henry T. Allen, executive officer of the American Olympic committee, announced today.

New York's quota of $100,000 heads the list. Amounts asked of other cities include: Philadelphia, $50,000; Boston, $35,000; Cleveland, $25,000; Detroit, $15,000; Buffalo, Newark and Washington, $10,000 each; Trenton, N. J., Worcester, Mass., and Youngstown, O., $5,000 each; El Paso, Tex., Harrisburg, Pa., and Kingston, N. Y., $1,000.

Rockville at Plainfield Tonight.

Tonight in the Plainfield Community House the fast Loom City hoop tossers of Rockville will take the floor against the Plainfield quintet.

With such men as Leonard, Sullivan, Stone, Hupner, O'Connell and Thompson, the Rockville team has been giving the best of them a tough battle.

The Plainfield team under Coach Belair and Capt. Benjamin was given a stiff workout Monday night in preparation for tonight's battle.

Siki to Fight Owens.

New Orleans, Jan. 17.—"Battling" Siki, Senegalese pugilist, will meet "Battling" Owens, New Orleans negro, in a 15-round bout here Monday night. Fight fans declared Owens to be one of the best negro heavyweights developed in New Orleans since Harry Wills deserted the home soil for the east. Owens has challenged Harry Wills to a match to be staged in New Orleans.

Burman Going to Australia.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Joe Burman, of Chicago, until recently a contender for the world's bantamweight boxing championship, is going to Australia to engage in five 20-round contests.

Burman today arranged to sail from Vancouver, January 26. He will box in the featherweight division, Eddie Anderson, a Moline, Ill., bantamweight, who will accompany Burman also has been signed for a series of battles.

WILLS MAY BE SUSPENDED IN THIS STATE BY THE BOXING COMMISSION

Hartford, Jan. 17.—Harry Wills, heavyweight contender, faces possible suspension by the Connecticut athletic board because his manager, "Paddy" Mullins, today refused to allow the local boxing commission to examine the hand he is said to have injured Monday afternoon on the head of "Dummy" Purvas.

The local commission has requested the state board to take action toward forcing Wills to come to Hartford and be examined by local physicians and to also take action toward preventing Harry Wills from appearing in any other ring until he has fought Jack Taylor for the American Legion in the local state armory."

Mullins and Wills appeared in Hartford this morning long enough to display to the chairman of the local commission, who was waiting at the railroad station, the fighter's bandaged hand and an X-ray picture said to have been taken of that hand. Mullins refused to accompany the commissioner to a hospital at which an X-ray picture of Wills' bandaged hand was to have been taken.

He arrived on the train bound for New York and he departed on the same train, remaining in Hartford not more than ten minutes.

LOCAL BOY LOSES BOUT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Baltimore Joe Gans, local light heavyweight, lost his bout with Silas Greene at Claremont, N. H., on Wednesday night due to an injury to his right hand in the first round. Gans put up a good fight for four rounds against Greene, who outweighed the local boy by at least 30 pounds, and at the beginning of the fifth round Gans' seconds threw in the sponge to save him as his hand was giving him intense pain, and practically useless.

Gans broke two of the small bones in the hand when he hit Greene a crashing blow in the head in the first round. In the second round Gans outpointed Greene and carried the fight to the New Hampshire lad. After the second Gans' right hand began to trouble him and was practically useless, either to hit with or on the defense. From then on it was easily Greene's battle.

CORNELL HAS 22 DIAMOND ENCOUNTERS ON SCHEDULE

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 17.—The Cornell university baseball schedule as announced today contains 22 games. Ohio State university is a newcomer, playing here on May 31. The spring date at Ithaca on May 24 will be filled by Yale.

The schedule is as follows: Spring vacation trip, April 2 and 4, Washington & Lee at Lexington; April 5, Virginia Military institute at Lexington; April 7 and 8, University of Virginia at Charlottesville, Va.

Regular schedule (all games are at Ithaca, except where otherwise noted). April 16, Niagara; April 19, St. Lawrence; April 26, Princeton at Princeton; April 29, Syracuse at Syracuse; April 30, Columbia at New York; May 17, Yale at New Haven; May 21, Syracuse; May 24, Yale; May 28, Dartmouth; May 31, Ohio State; June 13, Pennsylvania; June 14, Alumni; June 16, Dartmouth at Hanover; June 18, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

NORWICH BUSINESS MEN LOSE TO THREAD CITY MEN

In the opinion of the members of the business men's team of the Willimantic Y. M. C. A., Norwich is not the Rose of New England insofar as volleyball is concerned. They based their contentions, it is rumored, on the fact the Norwich volleyballers were beaten in the four out of five games. The games were played at the Willimantic gymnasium Wednesday night. Willimantic initiated activities by taking the first contest, 16 to 6. Norwich turned turtle in the next contest and came out of the long end of a score of 15 to 5. The honors of the final three games went to Willimantic, 15 to 9, 15 to 13 and 15 to 10. The lineup:

Norwich—E. Gleason, W. Frisbie, A. Finlayson, H. Hargreaves, W. Roberts and A. Anderson.

VARSITY RACE BETWEEN CORNELL AND M. I. T. SLATED

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 17.—A varsity race with Massachusetts Institute of Technology to be rowed on Cayuga lake on May 10, is a feature of the Cornell university rowing schedule announced here today. The race will be over a two mile course but no observation train will be available. It will be the first time that the New Englanders and Cornell have ever met on the water.

For the first time in years Cornell will also have two races at home. Harvard will row here on Saturday, May 24.

The schedule follows: May 10, Mass. Institute of Technology at Ithaca, varsity race two miles; May 17, Yale and Princeton at Princeton, varsity and freshman races; May 24, Harvard at Ithaca, varsity and freshmen race; June 17, Poughkeepsie regatta, varsity, junior varsity and freshmen races.

GREB A SLIGHT FAVORITE OVER WILSON FOR TONIGHT

New York, Jan. 17.—Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, will defend his world's middleweight title tomorrow night in a 15-round return match with Johnny Wilson, of Boston, who lost the title to Greb last summer at the Polo grounds.

Greb has been installed a slight favorite among ring followers but Wilson's chances of regaining the crown have been brightened as a result of improved form he has displayed recently.

Greb, who does most of his fighting in the light heavyweight class, declared today he would have no trouble making the 160 pound limit at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon when the fighters weigh in.

Heavyweights will box in the semi-final contest which will bring together Tiny Jim Herman of Omaha, and Jack McAuliffe, 2nd, of Detroit.

BIBEAULT'S TEAM TO ROLL OLYMPIC FIVE

Next week at the Olympic alleys in Taftville, Phil Bibeault's bowling team from Hartford will clash with Chip Dugas' five in a match for a purse of $100. Bibeault is well known in this part of the state as one of the best men that ever hurled a ball down an alley. Phil at one time conducted bowling alleys in this city. The Norwich team comprises Fred and Mike Aldi, Roy Fillmore, Mike Morin and Chip Dugas. This team claims the eastern Connecticut title and will roll any five-man team for a good purse at any time.

Bradshaw Sold to Giants.

Toledo, O., Jan. 17.—Pitcher Joe Bradshaw of the Toledo American Association ball club has been sold to the New York Nationals, according to announcement made today by Roger Bresnahan, president of the local club.

The local club will receive in return Catcher Gaston, formerly star of the Milwaukee club and Pitcher Scott, world series hero of 1922. Bresnahan intimated that he had received some cash in addition to the players.

Crescents Lead Basketball League.

Some exciting basketball games were played in the junior boys' league in the Y. M. C. A. gym yesterday afternoon, the Crescents winning their eighth consecutive game. The Crescents' squad consists of F. Barber, capt., N. Hodge, A. Covey, H. Oguinick, W. Wilson, J. Johnson, Graham, R. Thumm, B. Bruckner.

The league standing follows:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Crescents	8	0	1.000
Triangles	3	2	.600
Squares	2	4	.333
Rectangles	2	5	.200
Circles	1	5	.167

TWO WORLD'S SKATING MARKS BROKEN AT PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 17. — Two world's records were broken on Onato lake today by Everett McGowan of St. Paul, Minn., and Miss Gladys Robinson of Toronto, who set new marks for skating 100 yards. McGowan, skating 100 yards paced, covered the distance in 5 1-2 seconds. He was able to keep up with the automobile which paced him and which, the timers said, attained a maximum speed of 52 miles an hour.

The amateur women's record for 100 yards was broken when Miss Robinson, skating unpaced from a standing start, established a mark of 10 2-5 seconds.

GIANT PITCHING SQUAD GOES SOUTH ON FEB. 22ND

New York, Jan. 17.—Marching orders for the first training camp contingent of the New York Giants were issued today by Manager John McGraw. The entire corps of battery men, veterans and recruits alike, will report at Sarasota, the team's new Florida camp, on February 22, he announced.

Hughey Jennings, who signed a 1924 contract today to continue as assistance manager, will lead the vanguard into the Everglades state.

The signed contract of Perce Malone, rookie pitcher from Portsmouth, Va., also has been received.

McKown May Make Olympics.

Emporia, Kan., Jan. 17.—Earl McKown of Pratt, Kansas, pole vaulter, of the Kansas State Teachers' college here, is being mentioned as likely material for the American Olympic team. McKown is rated as one of the four best pole vaulters in the United States.

Burns Goes Under Knife.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 17.—Tommy Burns, light heavyweight boxer of Detroit, Mich., today underwent an operation for removal of his tonsils. His manager cancelled an engagement with Joe Packe at Toledo, January 21.

St. Louis After Claycourt Title.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 17.—St. Louis is in the race for the national claycourt championship tournament, it was announced today. The award will be made in New York February 2 by the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Rickey After Eastern Catcher.

St. Louis, Jan. 17.—Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Nationals, is enroute to eastern cities in search of a catcher. Boston and New York are the principal points on his itinerary, and the cardinal pilot said he also might acquire a "pitcher or two."

"Y" Team at Stonington.

The Y. M. C. A. senior basketball team is scheduled to play in Stonington tonight. The lineup will probably include Rosch, Finlayson, Williams, Grebe, Charnetski and Harris of the regular squad.

Indoor Baseball Game.

On next Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, the St. Patrick's Boy Scout indoor baseball team will play Troop 6. A fast game is expected.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS INSTALL AT WILLIMANTIC

Willimantic, Jan. 17.—The annual gatherig and istallation of officers of A. C. Tyler camp Spanish American War Veterans was held in the G. A. R. Rooms this evening and an appetizing supper served by members of the auxiliary. Guests were present from Danielson, Rockville, New London and South Manchester. Following the installation work brief remarks were made by several, Past Commander Frank P. Fenton being toastmaster. The officers elected were: Commander, William H. Peck; Senior Vice Commander, Samuel Mullen; Junior Vice Commander, Jean Bibeault; chaplain, Jean Paulhus; adjutant, William E. Jackson; quartermaster, Jeremiah McCarthy, quartermaster sergeants, Frank P. Teevans, John Brown Jr. of Storrs and John J. Gingrass; patriotic instructor, Elmer Mathewson of Willington; trustee, Michael Cronin.

During the session words of regret were expressed at the recent serious accident which befell Comrade Arthur W. Sweet while the latter was engaged in making prepartions for the gathering. The veterans pledged themselves to give their assistance during his period of recuperation. Several of the members were veterans of the Civil war.

"THIS NATIONAL DISEASE OF EXTRAVAGANCE AND WASTE"

(Written Specially For The Bulletin.)

Two utterances from two wholly unlike men, published in the same day; last week, set my old brain simmering.

Both were from men high in public life and governmental position. Yet both were so free from vote-hunting clap-trap which too often characterizes the words of such men as to deserve attention and call for discussion among those who still use their brains in considering public affairs.

One was from Secretary Mellon. In a letter to an inquiring congressman, defending his plan for reducing national taxation, the secretary explained its purpose and its working details, and dwelt on the evils which are threatening us, as a nation. At the end he said:

"What is the remedy? Let us have diagnosis and cure—not autopsy and verdict."

That is neatly and effectively put. Even our slow-going ancestors used to make fun of the fellow who locked the stable-doors after the horse had been stolen.

An autopsy may perhaps be good practice for fledgeling surgeons and may, now and then, disclose facts which will help in the treatment of some other patient. But I never yet heard of a post mortem which restored the dissected subject to life. Correct diagnosis, on the other hand, while the patient is still living, may sometimes indicate a remedial and curative treatment.

After the United States have joined the dead and entombed empires of the past, an autopsy searching through the dead nation's once vital organs may perhaps, by disclosing the cause of its death, assist Jugo-Slavia or Poland or Lithuania or Liberia in avoiding the same end. But that won't help us. Not a whit. And, really, we are and ought to be more interested in maintaining our own national health than in supplying, from the dissecting-table, a warning to some other people.

What we need is a diagnosis, while we're still alive, which shall lead to a treatment for restoration to health. Somebody else may be interested in the autopsy performed on our remains. But we shall be beyond all interest in it, by that time—or in anything else.

Really intelligent and brains-using Americans can't help seeing the distinction which Secretary Mellon makes, and appreciating its importance.

There is something very serious the matter with American life. Only self-blinded optimists fail to see the disease and to realize its sinister threat. At the same time, only the confirmed pessimist looks upon the case as hopeless. We middle-of-the-road folks, who are more anxious for a cure than for the triumph of either the optimistic or the pessimistic theorists, want a correct diagnosis and an effective remedy. We are not yet ready to call for an autopsy and a coroner's verdict.

But, as Mr. Mellon asks "What is the remedy?" To find that out we must first of all, discover what the disease is. The same remedy doesn't help all ills. We don't give toothache drops to relieve dyspepsia, nor quinine tablets to cure arterio-sclerosis. Not till we know what the disease is can we intelligently apply any remedy.

While we're still alive, diagnosis may suggest a cure. After we're dead the autopsy can't suggest anything of any further use to us. Secretary Mellon, whose work keeps him vigilantly attent to all financial symptoms, thinks that the case calls for a reduction of taxes, done in such a way as to relieve the smaller fry from part of their burdens, and compel the big fish, who now drive bodily through the tax-exempt gaps in the net, to bear a fairer share. You see, he may be classed as a specialist—a very clear-eyed and shrewd one, but, for all that, a specialist expert in reading financial symptoms and planning financial treatment. He puts the broader aspects of the case plainly before us in his expressed preference for diagnosis and cure rather than autopsy and verdict. But there is grave doubt whether his proposed remedy, admirable as it unquestionably is for the relief of the symptoms he sees most plainly, is adequate for a complete cure.

No fair-minded and unbiased man can deny that tax-revision along the Mellon lines will help the people and remove some of the evil symptoms now too ominously present. But—will it, after all, touch the hidden seat and source of the organic disease? It will relieve without doubt but will it cure? That's the more important question.

And so, to take that up, let me quote from the second utterance to which I referred at the beginning of this talk. It is from a speech by Senator Borah:

"Out in the great agricultural areas," he said, "where, in the last analysis, must be found the source of national wealth and contentment—the place from which we are fed—there is going on a patient, dogged struggle for the preservation of homes and farms such as no man can appreciate who has not witnessed it."

"Have we the courage to do our plain duty? I beg the people to understand that it is not alone a question of reducing the taxes. It is also this: Can we throw off this national disease of extravagance and waste?"

Now, I own up to no special liking for Senator Borah. In some things he's about as big a crank and about as unwise a radical as the unspeakable LaFollette. This Russian matter, for example. His endeavor to get our government to recognize as its peer and equal that cess-pool of murder, larceny, spoliation, rapine, immorality, atheism and all uncleanness which bolshevism has made of what was once Russia—why, it's enough to make decent men gag! But that's mainly because he doesn't know that cess-pool. He hasn't had to swim in it, and smell it, and be forbidden by the cheka to clean his malodorous garments after he has managed to crawl out. But he does know the west and the western farmer and that farmer's situation. And he sees that our national disease is something deeper than taxation; something worse than extortionate freight rates; something more serious than high rents and high prices.

In the last seven words quoted from his speech he has diagnosed the case with completeness and accuracy. "This national disease of extravagance and waste."

There you have it; there's the diagnosis; there's the statement of exactly what's the matter with us as a people and a nation. "Extravagance and waste."

Not only by the national government but by state and city and town governments. Not only by governments but by individuals. Not only by "new-rich" profiteers, but by holders of inherited wealth. Not only by the rich of all sorts, but by the poor of all ranks. Not only by labor-employing capitalists but by wage-earning workers. "Extravagance and waste." They are the common thing; the regular order; the accepted custom fast becoming a fixed habit.

Newspapers and pulpits ring with denunciations of the lawlessness which breeds bootleggers and hi-jackers and moonshine distillers and pay-roll "bandits," and the like. These are all violations of man-made laws.

The violation of economic and moral laws—which man did not make and cannot unmake—is a vastly more serious matter. Moreover, the results which flow from violation of these fundamental laws are not only destructive, they are absolutely irresistible. Once the great reservoir dam has yielded and given way, no human power can stop or hinder the engulfing deluge till it shall have done to the uttermost its devastating work.

The banks of the stream of history are littered from its source to the sea with the wrecks of empires, once as proud as our own, but now mere rubbish; all of them swept into ruin when luxury, extravagance and waste had sapped the foundations of their defences. What has been will be. The eternal and unchangeable laws which turned Babylon into a dust-heap, Egypt into a tomb, Greece into a grease-spot and Rome into a refuge for lazzaroni will do as much for us—unless we take thought today against tomorrow's dangers.

The disease which first corrupted and then killed them will corrupt and kill us,—unless we diagnose it correctly and apply the proper.

"This national disease of extravagance and waste." That is the cancerous growth which is infecting the source of national life. We will do better to recognize it and face its threat, than to deny or seek to explain away its existence.

Its seeds have been known from of old. So long ago as when Irving wrote of "the worship of the almighty dollar," it was growing in our veins. But its present sudden access of vigor and virulence came with the world-war. That upheaval spewed up to the surface shoals of conscienceless profiteers in finance and business, but profiteers in labor, just as truly, and much more deplorably. The dealer saw a chance to double his profits because of soaring war demands, and seized the chance with both hands. The manufacturer saw the chance to swell dividends by trading on the necessities of the government, and grabbed at it. The railroad employees saw the chance to choke higher wages out of the imperative needs of a congested transportation, and promptly choked them out. Other wage-earners followed suit. The getting was good for everybody, and everybody made the most of it. Big profits were common and high wages the rule. Money was plentiful in every pocket.

The natural result followed. "Easy come, easy go," says the old saw. The money which cost little to make or earn was spent with little regard to any such bye-gone superstition as that of thrift. Business men whose normal income fitted suburban cottages and commuters' tickets, moved into sumptuous ten-thousand-a-year apartments in palatial hotels. Workingmen whose normal earnings called for blue overalls and a liberal use of "shank's mare," ride to their work in automobiles, wearing silk shirts and patent-leather shoes.

The latter part of the war-period and all the time since has been a carnival and riot of extravagance and waste, not only among the undesirable rich but in all other classes and conditions. There's no sense playing ostrich and pretending that we can abolish this pernicious fact simply by sticking our own heads into the sand so we can't see it. It remains, just the same, whether we see it or not. Morever, the sooner we all take our heads out of the sand and face it squarely and unflinchingly, the better it will be for us.

There is going to be no real and permanent prosperity for this nation till we cure ourselves of "this national disease of extravagance and waste,"—all of us, financiers and capitalists and business men and housewives and wage earners and farmers. We're all infected. There is neither profit nor hope for cure in the pot calling the kettle black, nor in any attempt of one class to unload its responsibility on another. The disease is nation-wide and involves practically all of us.

Secretary Mellon can't cure it; congress can't cure it; no addition of law or stringness of law enforcement can cure it. Only a radical and universal purge can cure the universal disease. Senator Borah asks: "Have we the courage to do our plain duty?" The answer is up to us and to us alone. That means, to you and to me.

Furthermore, it is up to us individually to apply the cure to our own cases. It won't do any good for any of us to point fingers at the other fellow and bid him begin. He will retort by telling us to, and the result will be that nobody will get anywhere.

Charity begins at home. And so must any successful treatment of this continent-poisoning disease of extravagance and waste. Every Man-Jack and Woman-Jenny must cure himself or herself.

Perhaps we'll do it. Perhaps we won't. Whichever we do, we shall get what's coming to us. Never doubt that!

THE FARMER.

ENJOYED A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

"I wish to say that FOLEY PILLS worked O. K. on me in a couple of hours and the pains left me at once. I took a couple of them in the afternoon and went to bed and had a good night's sleep and have slept good ever since," writes Con Thiel, 118 E. Columbia St., Fort Wayne, Indiana. FOLEY PILLS are a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys and will increase their activity. Refuse substitutes. Lee & Osgood Co.

PLAINFIELD

During the unusual rain and wind storm Wednesday night, a good sized apple tree was uprooted near the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Gallup. Fierce as the storm was, the activities of the Community House were progressing, although only with a small attendance. The library was open, the regular executive board met with the president, Louis Lamothe presiding, and there was some enthusiastic bowling going on in the basement.

William Hall and Irving Dawley are progressing steadily with their new barn. They have the walls boarded and the roof nearly covered and shingled.

Mrs. Sadie Hohman of Armonk, N. Y., has been visiting Mrs. Charles Barber, returning home Thursday night.

Harry Cooper, who was taken ill Monday evening, after returning home from the Lincoln club where he served as one of the waiters at the supper tables, was able to resume work Thursday.

The three children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Jeffers are at home sick with whooping cough.

The January meeting of the Lincoln club was held Monday evening in the vestry of the Congregational church. An excellent roast beef supper was served at 6.30, Clarence Winsor in charge. There was an unusually good attendance, several visitors from out of town being present.

The entertainment, in charge of James Royle, consisted of flute solos by Joseph Heap, of Baltic, his son, Arthur Heap, accompanist, on the piano, vocal selections by Albert Hilton of Baltic, Robert J. Bethel of Wauregan accompanying him at the piano. Mr. Hilton also sang with the piano and flute to accompany him. The musical program was well received and greatly appreciated by all.

The address of the evening was by Rev. Thomas M. Melrose, rector of St. Paul's church, Plainfield, who took for his subject, In the Wilds of the Northwest. He spoke most interestingly of an early experience when he rode in the saddle over a vast region in the northwest of Canada, ministering to a people scattered over the newly settled country, carrying on his work amid great hardship and exhibiting much heroism in the meeting of difficulties in his task. Mr. Melrose related his experiences in a way to hold the closest attention of his hearers, using wit and pathos in telling in a modest way the story of the service of a sky pilot in the pioneer days of a great country in its early history.

The new president, Alfred D. Ashley presided and the newly elected secretary, William F. Hall read the minutes of the last meeting. Several important business matters were brought up and discussed freely from the floor. The membership committee reported two candidates who were voted into the club. The president appointed his committees, an entertainment, membership and public welfare. The club voted to contribute a periodical, Field and Stream to be placed on the reading table of Plainfield Public Library. The next meeting is to be held the day before Lincoln's anniversary and will be observed with a special program.

GALES FERRY

Mr. and Mrs. John Harold of the submarine Base, entertained a party of young people, Tuesday evening for the 14th birthday of their daughter, Miss Matilda Harold.

A birthday cake, with fourteen pink lighted candles was a feature of the table.

Miss Harold received gifts, including books and money. Games were played, Victrola music was furnished and ice cream and cake was served.

Among those attending the ritz Kreisler concert, in the state armory, New London, Monday evening, the third concert, in the Connecticut College series, were Mrs. Allen S. Bush, Mrs. Mary C. Watrous, Mrs. Delphine Fish, Mrs. E. H. Latimer, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins, Misses Adelina and Grace E. Povey, Caroline B. Freeman, Jennie G. Perkins of the village, with Mr. and Mrs. Courtland E. Colver of the Submarine Base.

Mrs. Nelson Parker left Wednesday, to join Mr. Parker in Hartford, to attend the Master Painters' Association annual banquet and ball, at the Hotel Bond that evening.

Mrs. E. L. McQuade and son Edward, have returned to Brown's Crossing, after spending some weeks, with relatives in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeRusha and daughter Helen, with their son Joseph, and Mr. and Mrs. Carell S. Hurlbutt, motored Sunday to Sterling and were visitors at the M. E. parsonage with Rev. and Mrs. George H. Wright.

Courtland E. Colver of the Submarine base motored to State Line, on a business trip Wednesday.

Mrs. Franklin H. Brown of Norwich was at her summer home Monday.

The Long Cove auxiliary of the Ladies' Aid society, of the M. E. church held its meeting, Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Everett T Bruce.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Stoddard, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac S. Geer at Geer Hill, Ledyard, Sunday, where Mr. Stoddard's mother, Mrs. Ellis Stoddard is a guest.

WAUREGAN

An Improvement Society was organized at the parsonage, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Fryling was elected president, Mrs. Charles M. Robinson treasurer and Mrs. Arthur Mott secretary. The object of the new society is to work for improvements in the church buildings.

BETTER WIVES AND MOTHERS

The emancipation of women as evidenced by the evolution in dress from steel stays that laced a twenty inch waist and the long street sweeping skirts to the sports clothes of the present day has certainly had its effect upon the health of women. With proper attention to diet and exercise a race of better wives and mothers is assured by it. If, however, ailments develop as evidenced by irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness and irritability, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be depended upon to overcome them. Thousands of women testify to its success.

EDWARD FOLEY, 23, ADMITS ROBBING NEW LONDON THEATRE

New London, Jan. 17.—Charles E. Waller, administrator of the estate of Charlotte L. Beckwith, has sold a house and lot on Huntington street to Thomas T. Wetmore of Old Saybrook, formerly of New London.

Miss Irma Ampanielli of Smith street, Mrs. Joseph Capelbo of Waverly, Mrs. Henry Chapin and infant son of Niantic, Max Skoczylas of Gardner's Lake, Mrs. Ray Sanjoy and infant daughter of Fifth avenue and Mrs. Patrick McGrath of Allen street, Groton, were patients discharged today at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital.

Andrew J. Maher, who has been seriously ill at his home, 368 Broad street, for a number of weeks, was reported as being slightly improved today.

Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operator's license of Daniel S. Sheehan of 178 State street to be suspended.

The automobile owned and operated by Albertus Mather of 9 Custer street, struck Miss Annie Shepard of 19 Summer street, corner of Bank and Summer streets last evening. She was knocked down and sustained bruises. The accident occurred as the young woman was about to cross the street. The vision of Mather was obstructed by the heavy rain.

Alexander Gibbs, a stranger, who declared that his home was in New York, was taken into custody at the union station last evening by Special Agent S. A. Davis of New Haven railroad, when he was found loitering about the place. This morning Gibbs was delivered to the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who caused Gibbs to be provided with transportation out of the city. Gibbs stated that he did not have any funds when he reached New London, having been robbed by a gang of thieves in New York.

The banquet of the F. L. Allen Hook and Ladder company is to take place on the night of the 24th inst., at the clubhouse of the company at Richards' grove.

During the heighth of the storm last night all traffic across the Thames river was by means of the Thames river highway bridge for the terrific gale and the strong tide made it impossible for the ferryboat Mohican to make a landing. The craft was tied up at the Groton slip until the storm abated.

The freight steamer New York, of the Central Vermont line, went ashore in the harbor early this morning when backing from her pier to make the trip to New York. In order to float the craft tugs of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company had to be called upon.

The New York left her pier at East New London about 1 o'clock and backed into the Thames river to turn around and head for the mouth of the river. The high wind and strong tide carried the craft to a point near the New London Ship & Engine company plant and in spite of expert handling the boat finally struck on the sand-bar at the north end of the plant, where she was held fast, although repeated attempts were made by the craft to float herself. This failing, the steamer's signals for assistance were answered by the wrecking company sending tugs Bess and Harriet to the freighter. The tugs made lines fast to the boat and after tugging at her over an hour the steamer was hauled into high water. The steamer then headed for the Sound and proceeded to New York. It is not believed that the craft suffered damage to her hull as the point where she grounded is free of rocks.

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. John Loftus of 17 Cole street, died this morning, the child having been ill since birth.

Miss Josephine Hewitt returned to her home on Linden street this afternoon after a minor operation at Home Memorial hospital yesterday

Edward Foley, about 23, was taken into custody today on a charge of having robbed the theatre office at the Capitol. The theatre management went about discovering who the thief was for it was apparent that the robbery was an inside job. A detective was summoned here from Springfield and he went to the Capitol and there obtained all the information obtainable. He observed that in working around the money drawer the thief had soiled hands and left the impression of his fingers on the drawer and its contents, that were not taken away. Foley was at that time in custody as he was brought from the police station to the theatre and there his finger prints were taken. They corresponded with those left on the money drawer. Turning to the young man, after the prints had been examined, the detective said to Foley, "Young man, you are in bad. Now the best thing you can do is to own up!" Foley confessed his guilt and was then held for appearance in court tomorrow. He said he did not want a bail bond, but was guilty and was willing to take the consequences, the police say. Foley was the owner of a Ford car last summer and resided in Waterford. There he frequently entertained females who appeared at the theatre. Foley says he has not been residing at home of late. He was an employe of the theatre for a considerable time.

Thomas Ochilani, 4 Chelsea street is to appear in the police court tomorrow to answer for operating a car with defective brakes. He was ordered this afternoon to appear in court Friday morning at 9.30.

Members of the Order of Elks are being entertained this evening by the Hebrew members of New London lodge. The hosts have secured vaudeville talent from Boston and an elaborate program has been arranged. A feast was served after the work of the lodge was completed.

Last night Officers Hill and Opperman, while on State street, witnessed a bit of freshness on the part of a travelling salesman when a couple of ladies passed a hotel. The drummer accosted them and insisted upon carrying the umbrella the women were tussling with in the southeast gale that prevailed. The women thought they were abundantly able to manage the umbrella, but the fresh young man persisted in his attention until the officers interfered. Then it was apparent that the drummer was under the influence of liquor, so he was arrested. He said he had business at the mill of the Robert Gair company, but was detained and took a few drinks before and after dinner at the hotel, so he was in the mood of molesting the women when they passed and were in jolly conversation with each other. The drummer supposed they spoke to him and he desired to know what they said. The women did not speak to him and did not desire his attention. He discovered that, when a friend put up a bond of $100 for the appearance of the drummer in court this morning. The court accepted his rambling story as possibly true and then gave him some sound advice. Judgment was suspended in his case. He begged the reporters not to expose him and said it was his first offense.

More street lights were reported out of service last evening and Wednesday evening than in many nights. Some half a score were reported as failing to illumine previous to 9 o'clock this evening. Last night, on account of the storm, the number out of use was very large.

Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, was host tonight, as entertaining the members of the church choir at the cottage of Mrs. J. H. Forrester at Ocean Beach. The evening was spent in a social manner, and the guests numbering about 25 were served supper.

David Elfenvien, employed at a Bank street pawnshop, who was arrested by Sergeant Frank Howard yesterday, charged with breach of the peace upon complaint of Bernard Burman of Bank street, was not prosecuted in the police court this morning, the case being thrown out when Burman withdrew his complaint.

Five of the state policemen who received their appointments by Superintendent Robert E. Hurley reported for duty this morning at the Groton barracks. Included among the number was Robert H. Church of Norwich, a former prohibition enforcement agent.

John Soddy and George Lewis of New Bedford, Mass., and Harvey Kenyon of Providence, the youths arrested near Saybrook Tuesday morning by State Policeman Williams, of the Centerbrook barracks, charged with the theft of an automobile from the Pawcatuck garage, which machine was recovered in New London yesterday morning following its abandonment by the thieves, were presented in the town court at Pawcatuck this morning charged with the theft of the machine. Probable cause was found and the trio were bound over to the next term of the superior court. In default of a surety on their respective bonds of $1,000 for their court appearance they were remanded to jail in this city.

Mrs. Alexander Steinberg and infant of North Bank street, and Mrs. Mary Jackson of Belden street, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

Former Mayor James P. Johnson has returned to his home on Broad street, having spent a week with friends in Trenton, N. J.

The controversy over the project to erect a junior high school is growing intense as the matter is discussed by people in general. Now there is a considerable sentiment expressed against the erection of the school, the contention being that the grammar school can be added to and all the accommodation supplied that is needed. It is also claimed that the Bartlett school has a vacant lot owned by the city along side of the building and that the same is true of the Nameaug school building and that additions may be made at comparatively small expense to either of the buildings to accommodate all the children that are seeking education.

Announcement of an increase in trolley fares, from two tokens for 15 cents to three for 25 cents will be made in the papers tomorrow. It is understood that President Storrs of the Connecticut company will make public announcement giving the reasons why the road is increasing fares 10 per cent.

RICHMOND GARDNER'S RECITAL DELIGHTS GREAT AUDIENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Jewett City, Jan. 17.—Richmond Gardner received a most enthusiastic ovation at Finn's theatre Thursday evening, when he gave the finest song recital ever heard in Jewett City. As he appeared upon the stage each time he was greeted with prolonged applause and calls for encores were insistent. The young man has a baritone voice of unusual range, sweetness and power and his enunciation is flawless. His various selections proved the splendid training he is receiving and the close application to his work of the talented young soloist.

Frederick W. Lester of Norwich was the accompanist to whom sincere praise must be accorded for his wonderfully sympathetic accompaniments.

Mr. Gardner's first number was a group of songs, all by Schubert. They were: The Wanderer, Faith in Spring, The Linden Tree, Who Is Sylvia?

The second number was Vision Fugitive, by Massenet, from the Opera Herodiade. King Herod is supposed to have sung this pathetically passionate love song, after a fleeting vision of Salome, who danced before him at the banquet.

Four group folk songs formed the third number. The first was a Hungarian song, Had a Horse, a Finer No One Ever Saw, based on the defeat of the Hungarians by the Turks, when twenty thousand men were killed, in the time of Louis the Second. Shepherd, See Thy Horse's Foaming Mane, was another Hungarian song, which tells of a jealous lover racing revengefully to stop the marriage of his lady-love with his rival.

Two characteristic Irish songs, Would God I Were the Tender Apple Blossom, and A Ballymore Ballad, completed this group number.

Air de La Jolie Fille de Perth, by Bizet, was the closing song. It was the heart-broken wail of a drunkard, who, through his folly, has lost the girl he loves.

The three encores given by Mr. Gardner were: Qui Sait? from the Opera La Reine Fiametta, by Leroux; The Port of Many Ships, by Frederick Keel, and the Second Song of Wolfram, from the Opera Tannhauser.

Through the courtesy of Whiting's greenhouses the stage was effectively arranged with beautiful baskets of roses, sweet peas, carnations and dahlias, interspersed with decenaes, ferns and palms. During the the program an exquisite basket of carnations from the Jewett City greenhouses was presented Mr. Gardner.

The recital was given under the auspices of the Jewett City Chamber of Commerce, Inc., the committee in charge being Prentice W. Chase, Chester Dudkowski, James G. Dolan, Eudor Le Claire and Wallace H. Payne. The grand piano was furnished by The Plaut-Cadden company of Norwich.

Musicians and others from Norwich and surrounding towns were in the large and enthusiastic audience.

Mr. Gardner is one of two students in Connecticut to be awarded scholarships in 1922, to the French-American Conservatory of Music at Fontainebleau, France. He began his musical education with Frederick Weld of New York, and later studied with William Wheeler Ph. B., also of New York. When Mr. Wheeler became head of the vocal department at the University School of Music at Ann Arbor, Michigan, Mr. Gardner went with him, and last June completed the three year course, graduating with honors and as president of his class. After passing his examinations for the scholarship, he received most complimentary recommendations from Dr. Albert Stanley, head of the University School of Music, Albert Lockwood, acting director, Mr. Wheeler his instructor, and also from ex-Governor Everett J. Lake of Connecticut.

June 14 he sailed on the Paris for France, and at the annual exercises at the Conservatory at Fontainebleau, Mr. Gardner received honorable mention. At the close of the term, on the advice of his teachers, he remained in France, where, in Paris, he continued his study of opera, under the professorship of Mademoiselle Marcelle Demouget of the National Opera, in singing, and in stage acting and technique under Monsieur Thomas Salignac, of the National Opera Comique, formerly with the Metropolitan Opera company in New York. He is specializing in French comic roles and has received favorable criticisms with personal felicitations from the critics.

At the end of the last term, a few students of the highest rank in the different departments were given the opportunity to perform at the Theatre Municipal, Fontainebleau. The leading role, Jean, of the comic opera Les Noces de Jeanette, was sung by Mr. Gardner.

Just previous to the opening of the term of 1923 at the Conservatoire Americain, Mr. Gardner's voice was broadcasted by the Concerto Radiola. Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, and Monsieur Maurice Fragnaud, sous-prefet of Fontainebleau, were listening in on this concert and were enthusiastic in their praise of his work.

During his studies in France he has been heard by some of the best musical critics, who have the highest praise for his work and encouragement for a successful future. He will be enrolled at the Conservatory at Fontainebleau again the coming summer, leaving in February and going to Italy for a few months.

Support of the Kelly-Stevens bill and Merritt bill, now pending in congress, was voted by the members of the Connecticut State Pharmaceutical association at its convention in New Haven.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

New York, Jan. 17.—Extensive readjustment of speculative accounts imparted an irregular trend to today's active stock market after an early period of moderate strength. Attempts of operators on the long side to take profits in some of the recent speculative industrial favorites under cover of the buoyancy of the steel shares led to a series of attacks by professional shorts, giving the afternoon market a spotty appearance.

Strength of U. S. Steel common, which touched 101 5-8, the highest since last May, was counteracted by the weakness of Studebaker, which broke 4 points to 101 1-4. Steel closed a point below the top while Studebaker, which had been sold on ports for the last quarter, rallied to 102 on President Erskine's announcement that the books had not been balanced, and that the reported figures were purely guesswork. Baldwin and American Can, the other members of the so-called "Big Four," closed at net losses of 1 3-8 and 1-2 at 122 5-8 and 106 7-8, respectively, after selling well above those figures.

Payment of the last back dividend on Republic Steel preferred, testifying to the improved earnings position of the industry, was responsible for the brisk demand for the steel shares. Republic common jumped 3 3-4 points to 55 and then eased to 54 while Bethlehem, Crucible, Gulf States and Sloss Sheffield recorded substantial gains only to forfeit most of them in the late wave of selling.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe made a quick response to the declaration of a full year's dividend of 7 per cent on the preferred stock, jumping 7 points to 76 and then easing to 75 1-4. Action of the directors of the G. R. Kinney company today in clearing up accumulated dividends of 8 per cent on the preferred stock apparently had been discounted as the stock closed only 1-4 higher at 61.

Pan-American Oil shares had another sinking spell in reflection of the unfavorable Mexican news, the common dropping 2 1-4 and the "B" stock, 1 1-2. Other oil shares held relatively steady, the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute showing a slight gain in crude production, which was more than offset, however, by the sharp drop in oil imports.

A bullish demonstration in Davison Chemical sent that stock up more than 3 points, the closing price, 67 5-8, being about half a point from the top. Special strength also developed in Westinghouse Air Brake, General Electric, Fisher Body, and Columbia Carbon.

Lehigh Valley was one of the strong spots of the railroad group, considerable discussion taking place as to the value of "rights" under the completed segregation plan. Erie common dropped more than a point on profit-taking. Southern railway touched a record top at 43 1-8. Other changes were mixed and narrow.

Foreign exchanges developed a reactionary trend after the brisk rally of the last few days. Demand Sterling dropped more than a cent to $4.24 3-8 and French francs were quoted around 4.64 cents, off 2 points, despite the raising of the Bank of France rediscount rate to 6 per cent.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 and dropped to 4. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. were excluded from the court room,

BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 17.—With buying activity centered in foreign and speculative rail issues, bond prices today moved to higher levels. Demand continued good for all classes of securities, with no apparent slackening in the recent heavy volume of trading.

Trading interest again centered in the St. Paul issues, although profit-taking checked the advance which has been in progress several days. The convertible 4 1-2s made a substantial gain, however, and the debenture 4s of 1934 touched 57 1-4 before reacting to 56 1-2 at the close. Another feature of the railroad list was a gain of almost 3 points in Colorado & Southern refunding 4 1-2s. Advances in Pennsylvania 6 1-2s, Great Northern Adjustment 6s, Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 5s and Denver & Rio Grande refunding 5s were offset by fractional losses recorded by Southern Pacific convertible 4s, Central Pacific first 4s and Virginia railway 5s.

Strength of Pierce Arrow 8s was a feature of the industrial list although weak spots included Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7 1-2s with Warrants, Sinclair Oil 7s, Magma Copper 7s, American Cotton Oil 5s and American Water Works 5s. Dealers reported a heavy turnover of public utility bonds at higher prices. Prices of U. S. government and treasury issues held steady.

Considerable interest was shown in the sale of the $40,000 000 Argentine government loan, which met with an excellent response.

French municipal bonds, particularly Bordeaux 6s and Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s, led the advance in the foreign group.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 17.—After a rush to buy during which all future deliveries of corn brought more than 80c a bushel today, the corn market underwent at least a temporary reaction. High price records for the season were again broken on today's advance. The close was unsettled, 3-8c to 50c net lower. May 79 1-4 to 79 3-8c. Wheat finished easy, 1-8@1-4 to 3-8c decline to 15c advance.

Heavy and persistent profittaking sales here were chiefly responsible for the setback in the value of corn. The buying rush took place when the market opened, and for the first time this season the May delivery touched 80c. On a subsequent bulge, May went to 80 1-8c but throughout the remainder of the day the buying was of less force, and with sellers in a majority the market had a downward slant. Sentiment, however, was generally bullish, and the reaction was regarded in most quarters as transient. Country offerings were large, but in the main were held above the market.

Attention to the fact that shipments of corn, wheat and oats from Chicago exceeded the receipts did more or less to uphold bull confidence in corn, despite today's price downturns. On the other hand, some gossip was current that prolonged holding back of corn by farmers suggested a greater surplus to come out later on.

Wheat eased down with corn, notwithstanding talk of an international loan to Germany. Some selling of wheat was said to have been induced by the threatened British railroad strike.

Elevator interests were sellers of oats.

Provisions averaged higher in response to the course of hog values.

CURB MARKET

New York, Jan. 17.—Mixed price movements took place in today's curb market as opposing speculative forces struggled for control. Gains and losses were about evenly divided at the close with most of the changes of a fractional character.

Standard Oil of Nebraska, Cities Service, and Indiana Pipe, up 1 to 2 points, were the leaders of the oil group. Increased activity took place in Concinental and Mutual Oil on reports of a merger whereby one share for four of the former would be exchanged for four of the latter but the stocks closed practically unchanged on the day.

In the industrial section Glen Alden Coal and Gillette Safety Razor each moved up about a point while Gold Dust lost ground, Motors were heavy, Durant dropping 1 point to 31. Considerable trading took place in the Radio shares, but not changes were unimportant.

William H. Clapham was elected master of Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., at the 67th annual meeting in the Masonic rooms, 68 High street, Thursday evening, the anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, from whom the lodge takes its name. Sixth District Deputy Grand Master Arthur Whitehead, a past master of Barney Merry lodge, No. 29, of Pawtucket, presided at the election and installation. He was assisted by Chester M. Aldrich as master of ceremonies.

The officers elected, appointed and installed were: Senior warden, Frederick N. Robinson; junior warden, Clarence A. Vars; treasurer, R. W. Albert H. Spicer (43rd year); secretary, Albert E. Barber; chaplain, Harry L. Bolles; senior deacon, Raymond H. Hiscox; junior deacon, Lewis R. Greene; senior steward, J. Albert Pawson; junior steward, Frederic G. Kennedy; marshall, Eugene B. Pendleton; sentinel, James P. Campbell; musical director, W. Porter Hoxie; tyler, William A. Stillwell. Arthur H. Coy was elected a trustee of the permanent fund for three years, the other members of the committee being W. Albert H. Spicer, Jr., and W. Frank F. Dodge. The finance committee members appointed were W. Walter C. Hiscox, W. Lewis Stanton and W. Fayette F. Freeman.

Following the opening of the lodge by Worshipful Arthur H. Coy, the annual reports of the officers were read which showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition, the secretary's report showing the present membership of the lodge to be 400.

At the election Worshipful Master Friends of Pawcatuck lodge and W. M. Slade of Asylum lodge, Stonington were named as tellers. There were 141 members present and 50 visitors. Special guests of the evening were the members of Pawcatuck lodge, No. 90, F. and A. M., of Connecticut. The committee of Franklin lodge in charge of the evening were Lewis R. Greene, John Albert Pawson and Harry O. Williams.

The living past masters of Franklin lodge are Albert H. Spicer, Peter Cahill, Everett A. Codlin, Albert E. Barber, William A. Burk, John H. Champlin, Abel P. Randall, Arthur D Remington, Lewis Stanton, George E. Broughton, Albert H. Spicer, Jr., Harry L. Bolles, Frank F. Dodge, Robert F. L. Barr, Walter C. Hiscox, Daniel F. Larkin, George H. Harper, Carl E. Burdick, Samuel H. Davis Harold D. Livingstone, Fayette F. Freeman and Arthur H. Coy.

Retiring Master Arthur H. Coy was presented a past master's jewel by W. M. Albert E. Barber and from the officers who served under him a past master's apron, which was presented by W. M. William H. Clapham. After the business meeting, refreshments were served in the armory of the Masonic rooms.

At Providence Thursday, Gleason M. Southwick, at one time acting postmaster at Westerly, was sentenced in the U. S. court to a year and a day in the Providence county jail. He pleaded nolo, to an indictment charging him with embezzlement of post office funds, totalling $1,744.66.

Fire of unknown origin Wednesday night about 9 o'clock destroyed what was left of the ruins of the old King Tom farm, on the Post road, just this side of Charlestown, R. I. Two years ago fire visited this historic place, at one time the "palace" of King Tom of the Ninigret Indians, and then the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilkinson, which left the structure half burned and it was not rebuilt. The fire of Wednesday night starting in what was formerly the sun room completed the destruction of the ruins.

George H. Clark, 76, organizer of the Columbia Narrow Fabric Co., of Shannock, died at his home in that village Thursday morning. He was born in Carolina, R. I., Aug. 6, 1847, passing his early years in Shannock, attended East Greenwich Academy and Schofield Commercial school, Providence. At 18 he entered the cotton yarn business with his father and in 1901 incorporated the Columbia Co., of which his son, George P. Clark, is treasurer and general manager. Mr. Clark married Miss Celia E. Carr of Jamestown, R. I., having four children, Miss Harriet, George P., Henry G. and Miss Florence, by whom he is survived. In politics Mr. Clark was a republican and at one time was postmaster of Richmond. He was actively interested in the civic betterment of Shannock.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hope and daughter Fay of Putnam were visitors in Westerly and Potter Hill Wednesday.

Raymond C. Vars was a business visitor in Boston Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Drysdale and Mrs. Fred Heflin of Westerly were in Providence Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Karl Koelb of Stonington was a Westerly visitor Wednesday.

Louis Matthews returned Wednesday after several days' business visit in Hartford.

Rev. Dwight C Stone of Stonington was in Westerly Wednesday.

Miss Marion J. Keeffe, assistant director of Mothers' Aid, of Providence, addressed a meeting in the council chambers of the Westerly town hall Thursday afternoon, when she explained the operation of the Mothers' Pension act of Rhode Island and expressed the hope that the voters of Westerly would have the town avail itself of its benefits.

When Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock Deputy Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell was about to dispose of the stock and fixtures of the Workingmen's clothing store on Canal street, Louis Alberts, proprietor, in pursuance of an order of the Third district court to satisfy a judgment obtained for Cluett, Peabody, Inc. of Boston, and five other attachments which had been placed on the establishment, United States Deputy Marshall Patrick J. Payne of Providence stepped in with an injunction which prevented the auction. A citation for appearance on Jan. 21st was served. Seeking an involuntary petition in bankruptcy are said to be three New York firms, Wetman & Schwade, Golden & Simon and N. Buch & Son.

Edward M. Burke was appointed temporary receiver until the hearing and when appointment papers are given him will be placed in charge of the store.

BLAMES REPUBLICANS FOR BOOTLEGGINB IN BOSTON

Boston, Jan. 17—Mayor Curley in a statement today asserted that "bootlegging in Boston is a republican proposition and the odiom for its continued existence rests with the dominant party in the state."

"A recommendation by the police commissioner," he said, "for the abolition of the licensing board and the purchase of about one thousand locks to be placed on the soft drink establishments to which licenses are issued by the lame duck republican licensing board, and a better spirit of cooperation between the republican agencies in control of the enforcement of the Volstead act in democratic Boston would in a measure solve the bootlegging problem in our city."

"Mamma," said 4-year old Robert from the nursery, "please come and sit by my bed until I go to sleep."

"Mamma's busy now, was the reply. "Just keep quiet and the angels will be with you."

"You said that before mamma," rejoined the little fellow, "and I kept quiet ever so long, but not an angel showed up."—Chicago News.

"So you desire to become my son-in law?"

"No, I don't. But if I marry your daughter I don't see how I can get out of it."—Upper Iowa Collegian.

NUMBER FIVE

was to Captain Heinen that many gave a great part of the credit for the ship's safe return and to him that other officers on board looked for advice. Both Lieutenant Commander Pierce and Captain Heinen said the ship started to drop when she first broke away and they, with Lieutenant E. H. Kincaid of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., were the first to leap for the ballast levers.

Were Discussing Turning Loose

Just as the airship broke away there was a discussion aboard her as to the advisability of turning her loose. Lieutenant Commander Pierce and Captain Heinen had pointed out to each other that the wind registered 60 miles an hour at that time and they estimated her "staying" capacity at about 65 miles. Then a sudden gust of wind brought the velocity to more than 70 miles an hour. There was a crash, the discussion ended and the Shenandoah began her runaway voyage.

"We had been expecting several heavy guests," Lieutenant Commander Pierce told the Associated Press. "Suddenly a heavy swell of air hit us and the ship gave a wrench. There was a rumbling sound just before she broke loose very suddenly. We started rapidly to the ground and Captain Heinen called to let go the water ballast. Lieutenant Kincaid, Captain Heinen and myself grabbed all the ballast pulls and let go everything—five thousand pounds of water. At the same time we gave the signal to start the engines." By this time the ship had started drifting rapidly. He said and was well away from the station.

Only One Man to Each Engine

"Although there was only one man in each engine car," he continued, "we got them started quickly. The ship was heavy-nosed—heavy and hard to handle. Just then Lieutenant Mayer, the construction officer, reported the upper part of the after-fin had buckled and that the entire bow was torn off and that bags 19 and 20 had lost their gas.

"We let go three emergency fuel tanks containing 700 pounds of fuel oil and moved aft every available weight in the ship. This corrected the trend, and, by that time, had the ship under fairly good control.

"The wind had been hailing around from southeast to southwest, an indication that the center of the storm had passed. After we reached Staten Island, we gradually began to make headway against the storm and felt sure we would reach Lakehurst in a few ours and return the Shenandoah.

All Aboard Behaved Splendidly

"All the personnel aboard behaved splendid and the experience and knowledge of Captain Heinen were of invaluable aid.

"The trip demonstrated the airworthiness of the ship in any weather."

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Friday, Jan. 18, 1924.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

The disturbance central Friday north of Lake Ontario advanced rapidly northeastward to New Foundland and it has diminished rapidly in intensity. Pressure was uniformly high Thursday night east of the 100th meridian and it was low over the plateau and northern Rocky Mountain regions and high and rising over Alberta, Canada.

There have been rains within the last 24 hours in the Atlantic states and along the north Pacific coast and local snows in the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley, the southern plain states and the northern Rocky Mountain region.

The weather became colder generally throughout the Atlantic and Gulf states, the great central valleys and the regions of the Great Lakes. Temperatures continue below normal generally over the United States, except along the Pacific and Atlantic coast.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Friday and Saturday in the Washington forecast district, although local rains are probable in Florida.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate northwest becoming variable and weather fair Friday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras, and Hatteras to Florida Straits: Moderate northwest and weather cloudy, Friday.

Forecast.

For Northern and Southern New England and Eastern New York: Generally fair Friday and Saturday; no change in temperature.

GREENEVILLE

The monthly meeting of the Men's club of the Greeneville Congregational church was held Monday night at the church with President Alex Finlayson in the chair.

The feature of the program of the evening was a talk on Bees, Their Habits and How to Raise Them, given by John Sherman. Mr. Sherman had a hive of bees with which he demonstrated his talk, which was most instructive and enjoyable to the members. Professor Hugh Kinder favored the audience with a group of selections and there was singing by the Misses Fowler and Wright, whose interpretation of difficult numbers also charmed their audience.

Announcement was made by Charles Levitsky, chairman of the entertainment committee, that the club would enjoy the pleasure of hearing the Connecticut Power company minstrels at the February meeting.

After the meeting a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

TAFTVILLE

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Benevolent Society of the Taftville Congregational church was held Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the church. The business session at which the president, Miss Gertrude M. Young presided, was followed by a social hour at which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis is spending the remainder of the week in Hartford.

STORM CLEARED OFF LIKE SPRING MORNING

The heavy rain of Wednesday night gave a measurement of 1.07 inches in about five hours, according to the record taken at the water department office.

After the storm stopped, the weather cleared off like a warm spring morning.

Returning From Paris.

Jean Kieffer, for several years X-ray specialist for Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, superintendent of Norwich State Tuberculosis sanatorium, left Paris this week sailing on S. S. America, of the United States Line. He has been abroad for two months, visiting relatives.

Radical measures have been taken by General Arnulfo Gomez military commander of Mexico City for the maintenance of order in the capital.

CONNECTICUT CO. EXPLAINS NEED FOR RAISE IN TROLLEY FARE

In connection with the state-wide raise in trolley fares by the Connecticut company from two tokens for 15 cents to three tokens for 25 cents, which will be effective Feb. 10, the Connecticut company has issued the following statement:

Effective February 10th, the token rate will return to that in effect before the last voluntary decrease which was made on April 1st, 1923. Tokens will be sold at the rate of three for twenty-five cents.

Reference to the accompanying statement made in connection with the decrease of last April will show that the change at that time was made "in anticipation that operating costs will not increase and in the expectation that the reduction will result in an increased use of the cars."

Unfortunately, costs have greatly increased through necessary wage advances, and riding has not increased to an amount sufficient to overcome the decrease in revenue as a result of the reduction in the rate of fare.

In order to maintain the standard of service that the needs of the communities require, it is necessary to make this increase in rate.

Explains the Situation.

The story of the Connecticut company's finances immediately following the war, until relief was obtained from some of its burdens in 1921, has been often told and repeated. Everybody now understands that during that time, costs rose so rapidly that rates of fare could not adequately keep the pace. The fact that The Connecticut company owed the state of Connecticut slightly over $1,800,000 in back taxes was also generally known throughout the state.

In 1922, after relief measures had been put into effect, particularly the regulation of severe jitney competition, the company was able to pay over $360,000, to the state on its back taxes, and in 1923, $655,000 was paid on this particular item. In addition to this, current state taxes of over $840,000 were paid during the two year period. In the matter of back taxes, due since the war period, there still remains to be paid to the state, however, about $800,000.

In an effort to keep the street car rate of fare at the lowest possible point, the company made a voluntary decrease in the then existing rate of fare of ten cents in March, 1922, by the introduction of the token fare, selling three tokens for 25c. At the time this was put into effect, the trend of revenues was upward (because of the 10 cent fare) and the trend of wage rates and other costs of operation was downward.

Continued increase in riding and a reduction in rates of wage, together with numerous economies of operation put into effect made possible another voluntary reduction in rate by the company, when, in April 1923, the token rate was reduced to 2 for 15c.

Since the latter date, material increases in wage rates were necessary and were made in June 1923. This marked increase in payroll costs has resulted in an upward trend in expense of operation. The rate reduction of April has resulted in a steady downward trend in revenues, and it is obvious that a readjustment of the token rate is imperative, by withdrawing the second voluntary decrease put into effect last April, and returning to the former 3 for 25c token rate. The following figures will completely show the present conditions referred to.

If the reduction of last April in token fare, that is the reduction from an 8 1-3 cent fare to a 7 1-2 cent fare, is considered in a percentage way, it will be seen that the fare reduction was exactly 10 per cent.

From June 1st (the date of the wage increase) to December 31st, 1923, the decrease in revenue compared with the same period of 1922 was $197,000, or 2 per cent. More passengers were carried than in the 1922 period, but not enough to offset the token fare reduction. If the decreases in revenue by months is considered, however, the trend is readily perceived. As stated above, the decrease for the entire period (June to December) was 2 per cent. The loss in revenue for the month of November, 1923, compared with November, 1922, was $41,000, or 4 per cent, and the loss for the month of December, 1923, compared with December, 1922, was $86,500, or 7 per cent. The decrease in December was at the rate of $2,800 per day.

As more passengers were carried than during the same months of 1922 it is undesirable to economize any further by reduction in service.

The wage increase of last June has a most important bearing on this situation. The increases in rates of pay at that time increased the payroll over the same period (June 1 to December 31) in 1922 by $459,000. In percentages, this is a 9 1-2 per cent increase over 1922, and amounts to a payroll increase of $2,150 a day.

The loss in revenue during last December as compared with December 1922, of $2,800 per day, coupled with an increase in payrolls of $2,150 per day shows the cash condition with which the company is faced.

This decrease in token rate and increase in payroll charges has resulted in a decrease in the net income from June 1st to December 31st, of $583,000, or at the rate of one million dollars per year.

SPEEDERS IN WATERFORD DRAW FINES IN COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 17—The authorities of the town of Waterford are determined to put an end to the practice of automobile drivers speeding and to that end practically every automobilist presented in the town court of late has received a fine. Last night Irving J. Dean of 79 Garfield avenue, New London, was presented before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Morton and was fined $25. Dean was arrested Sunday, when State Policeman Fred Caron of the Groton barracks detected Dean operating a machine at a rate of speed estimated at 50 miles an hour.

This morning Earl J. Taggart of 219 Broadway, Norwich, was before Justice Morton on a charge of reckless driving. He also received a fine of $25.

Taggart admitted his guilt for he informed the court that he was speeding toward New London with two passengers last Saturday from the Norwich Y. M. C. A. and that he had but 24 minutes to make the trip. Because of the short time he was allowed to reach New London he speeded his machine. When near Quaker Hill he was observed driving fast and State Policeman B. W. Kenerson put chase on his motorcycle, but he was unable to overtake the speeding car until New London was reached. Taggart was then ordered to appear in the Waterford court today.

CELEBRATED FORTY-FIRST WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Chappell of 54 Oak street celebrated their 41st wedding anniversary Thursday at their home. Friends called during the day and the couple received congratulations on the happy event. Dr. and Mrs. Chappell were married 41 years ago January 17th in Norwich and have always made their home here.

Ten Delinquents in City Court.

Ten delinquent personal tax payers paid the $5 fine, besides the $2 tax in the city court Thursday morning. Five did the same Wednesday morning.

GIVES FURTHER TESTIMONY AGAINST WATERFORD DOCTOR

Further testimony as to illegal operations alleged to have been conducted by Dr. Charles A. Gasson at his home in Waterford was presented in the criminal superior court here Thursday before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury when the trial of the doctor was continued on this charge.

Dr. Harry M. Lee of the staff of the Lawrence Memorial hospital at New London was called to the witness stand by attorneys for the state Warren Burrows and Thomas E. Troland, giving testimony as to one of the woman accusers of the doctor being in the hospital for observation in November, 1923. Dr. Joseph M. Ganey also testified to the young woman being in the hospital and said he could not see any need of an illegal operation to save her life.

Mrs. Bernice Kroupa of Clinton, testified to seeing Dr. Gasson at his home in September in consequence of which she was told to call on Oct. 22 and to bring $100 with her.

At this point Attorney Burrows laid in evidence a letter from the doctor to the witness, dated Sept. 18, in which it was stated that the witness was welcome to call on the doctor and it said she would know what that meant.

The woman witness told of going there with her sister on Oct. 22 and while she was there the place was raided by the police. She showed the officers, she said, the $100 she had brought with her. After the arrest of Dr. Gasson, the witness said that the doctor and Attorney Smith came to her house in Clinton and there the doctor urged her to change her testimony in the case.

In the afternoon session of court Nellie Fitzgerald of New London was on the stand. She also gave testimony as to being at Dr. Gasson's for an operation, and she described what was done while she was there. She was apparently an unwilling witness, but she denied on cross examination that she had been intimidated to come to court or had been told that something would be done to her or that any promises had been made to her.

Abraham Davidson of New London, a taxi driver, testified that on or about Nov. 21, 1921, he took Agnes Finnegan at night to Dr. Gasson's and when he returned to New London she did not return with him.

William Lewis, county investigator, attached to the state attorney's office, gave testimony regarding the case. He told of going to Dr. Gasson's house on Oct. 23 to arrest him on a warrant charging an illegal operation. State Policeman Gorgas was with the witness and they saw at the house Mrs. Gasson and Miss Bernice Kroupa, who testified in the case in court Thursday. The witness said she seemed to be in a stupor when he first saw her. Dr. Gasson said she was a friend who was visiting his wife. Later she gave him a statement. On Nov. 24 the witness said he went to Dr. Gasson's with a search warrant for illegal instruments. Miss Agnes Finnegan was there at this time, the witness said. The next morning he went back with a warrant for her, but she was gone and she has not been found since then. Officer Lewis said he saw her coat in the house and he searched the place but could not find her.

State Policeman Fred T. Caron of New London, testified to going to Dr. Gasson's on Oct. 26 with County Investigator Lewis with a warrant to arrest a woman, but she wasn't there. Dr. Gasson at that time said he had a right to do what he was doing, the witness said, like any other doctor.

Clarence D. Martin of New London, formerly a state police officer from Oct. 4 to Jan. 10, testified to watching the Gasson house from Nov. 19 to Nov. 23. He said he saw Davidson, the taxi driver, come to the house on Nov. 21 about 7.05 p. m. The taxi had no passenger upon arrival, but took a woman away with her baggage and later brought another woman to the house about 8 o'clock. The next night the same taxi came again and stayed about two hours. Officer Martin testified to the drugs and instruments he saw at Dr. Gasson's place when he was one of a party who searched the place under a warrant.

State Policeman James M. Ennis, Jr., stationed at the Groton barracks, testified to orders given him on Nov. 18 to watch the Gasson house. Officer Ennis also told of the raid on the Gasson house with County Investigator Lewis, State Policemen Gorgas, Caron and Martin, and Dr. Walter Douglass.

The trial will be continued today (Friday).

THAMES HIGHWAY BRIDGE HAD TRAFFIC TIE-UP

Slipping of the new state bridge, between New London and Groton has been the source of much annoyance and traffic tie-ups lately. There was a protracted tie-up of pedestrian and automobile traffic Thursday morning. For more than a half hour traffic was kept waiting on both sides of the river while workmen of the American Bridge Co., of Pennsylvania endeavored to "jack up the bridge. Several attempts had to be made to open and close the bridge before it would make accurate alignment with its stationary parts.

The bridge is said to slip more or less continually towards the east. The amount of displacement is estimated roughly by one of the bridge gatemen at from one to two inches. A new mechanical device installed Thursday morning by workmen of the American Bridge Co., will serve to prevent further trouble in this respect it is believed.

STATE HAS YET TO BUILD 252 MILES OF ROAD

Approximately 252 miles of roadway remain to be built in Connecticut before the state's trunk line system, as outlined by the general assembly, is completed, according to the state highway department.

Connecticut today has about 1,775 miles of improved trunk line and state aid highways. The original trunk line system, mapped out by the legislature, took care of 1,032 miles of roads, but due to amendments by succeeding sessions of the general assembly, about 324 miles have been added since the original lay-out.

Of this amount, the department announces that 2,114.4 miles have been completed in the trunk line system, leaving a remainder of about 252 miles which awaits completion.

The mileage of state aid highways already built, which, are not in the trunk line system totals about 661 miles. The department estimates that the mileage of all public highways of the state is about 12,000 miles.

The total cost of the highway system in Connecticut to date reaches $50,418,835. This includes, new construction on trunk line and state aid roads, maintenance, dangerous road elimination, bridges and ferries, etc This amount is divided as follows:

1. New construction, which includes state aid, the towns contributing a portion of the cost; trunk lines for which the state paid all; uncompleted intervals for which the towns contributed a portion; federal aid, for which the U. S. government contributed part; and special appropriations of the legislature—$21,279,978.

2. Trunk line reconstruction of which the state paid all; dangerous trunk line eliminations; trunk line bridges; toll bridges and ferries (maintenance)—$7,827,853.

3. Repairs-Trunk Line (state paid all); state aid, (towns paid one-quarter); and crushers—$21,312,222.

This gives a total of $50,418,835 or the approximate cost of building, and maintaining the state's highways since the formation of the department.

LIONS ENTHUSE OVER PLANS FOR CONCERT

Jan. 12, 1924.

Lions' Club, Norwich.

Attention Mr. C. E. Carpenter, Treasurer.

My dear Mr. Carpenter: Aren't you all good to keep our work and its needs in mind in such a splendid practical way. I realize it takes no small amount of work and effort to "put over" entertainments of this nature, and my big family and myself appreciate most thoroughly all the interest and service that the Lions' club devotes to us.

I hope the entertainment will be a wonderful success and I feel it can hardly be otherwise with such a splendid spirit back of it.

Thanking all the members of your club so much, I am

Very sincerely yours,

CONSTANCE LEIGH,
Superintendent.

President George Finn exorted every Lion present to put forth the most earnest effort to bring this concert to the attention of the Norwich citizens, so that the net proceeds should net a substantial amount for the crippled children of the Newington Home. Every Lion present, feeling that this is the kind of public work for which a Lion should enlist pledged to spare no effort to make the concert a great success.

The committee in charge of the concert submitted a report of the arrangement for the evening together with the programme as outlined by Miss Grace Sage and the Philharmonic Quartet, and it was greatly applauded by the members. The committee promised that buyers of tickets will also be given several surprises during the evening of the concert, assuring the public that besides their helping a very worthy cause they will be given a very real entertainment.

The Lions passed a vote of appreciation to the Rotary club for its co-operation in the plans for the concert.

PROMISES MORE MONEY TO COUNTY DAIRYMEN

What breeders of purebred dairy cows have accomplished in increasing the milk production in their herds can be duplicated by farmers owning common-blood cows, if they will only use pure-blood bulls, says a statement from the New London county farm bureau, which has been conducting meetings this week in the campaign for pure bred bulls.

The first cross of a pure blood bull on the cows now back on your farm will produce a fifty per cent pure blood cow; the second cross will add 25 per cent. to the pure blood, giving a cow which contains seventy-five per cent pure blood of the breed. From this simple formula, it can readily be figured how near a farmer can come to having pure-blooded dairy animals without going to a great expense in importing high grade cattle from nearby states. New London county dairymen now have the opportunity to secure good bulls, of breeds of their choice at most reasonable prices.

One of the leading dairy herds in this section is owned by G. G. Grant of Montville. This herd of Ayrshires produced 90 quarts of milk Tuesday morning. It is interesting to note that he had but eight cows to milk. One of his cows made an official record last year of 11,860 pounds of 4 per cent. milk, her daughter just finished her record with first calf with 8000 pounds. Another cow freshened January 3d, and is now milking 30 pounds without receiving any grain.

LEILA TROLAND GARDNER IN NEW YORK CONCERT

Mrs. Leila Troland Gardner, of New York, formerly of Norwich, had the star number in a remarkable bill of Broadway lights, Tuesday afternoon, when the New York Theatre Club, Inc. had a social at the Hotel Astor. The honor guests were Kenneth MacGowan Mme. Olga Petrova of "The Hurricane, Miss Mary Boland of "Meet the Wife" Miss Lucille La Verne, Allen Birmingham, Miss Anne Elstner of "Sun Up", Miss Lulu Vollmer, Donald Meek of "The Potters".

Mrs. Gardner opened the program, following the President's greetings, being listd as follows:—Leila Troland Gardner, The Cello Contrallo, in Negro Spirituals and her Own Songs.

Spirituals—'Tis Me, O, Lord, De Ole Ark Is a Moverin, Sweet As Any White Chile, by Edwin Walker. When Chloe Sings—Plantation Song, My Gift Leila Troland Gardner.

De Wheel of Love—14th Century Spiritual.

The remainder of the program was: Dance—From "Kid Boots", by Beth Derri, Miss Halpern at the Piano; Group of Songs, Miss Grace Hoffman, Soprano; Elmer Hedges, Alto; One Act, from "The Potters". Introduction of honor.

The club officers, with Mme. Petrova entertained Mrs. Gardner at tea after the performance.

Her negro spirituals are making a great hit and she is booked up to March 26th. Several Norwich people were in the audience who heard her Tuesday.

WILL GIVE ALL FACTS ABOUT ANTHRACITE COAL

Hon. Byron R. Newton of New York will tell the members of the Chamber of Commerce and their friends some interesting facts concerning the anthracite coal situation at the January membership meeting next Monday night. He will tell how this industry is fettered by various causes. He will explain the cost and profit of the business, wages paid to operatives, efforts of legislation on the business and control of production and its distribution.

Mr. Newton's address will be devoted entirely to facts, gained from keen observation, and told in an unbiased manner. Reservations for the dinner are now being made and the subject of such importance to every householder that those who are not members of the chamber have the privilege of attending the meeting. Reservations must of course be made at the office of the chamber. The meeting will be held Monday, Jan. 21st in the Wauregan Hotel and will commence promptly at 6:15. Arrangements have been completed for an enjoyable and instructive evening for this meeting.

Mr. Newton was formerly Assistant Secretary of the U. S. Treasury and Collector of the Port of New York and he is an interesting speaker.

USUAL 100 PER CENT RETURN PREMIUM VOTED

At the 130th annual meeting of The Mutual Assurance company of the city of Norwich, which is regularly held on the second Monday in January, the following directors were elected: Charles R. Butts, Zebulon H. Robbins, Herbert L. Yerrington, Shepard B. Palmer, Frank D. Sevin.

Harold P. Hull was elected secretary and treasurer, succeeding Charles R. Butts, who has held these offices for the last nineteen or twenty years, but this year desired to be relieved.

At the meeting of the directors, which followed that of the stockholders, the usual return premium of 100 per cent was voted, as has been done for the last one hundred years, which is a unique record in fire insurance annals.

CUTS BUILDING AT NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

The state board of control at its meeting in Hartford Thursday voted to authorize the erection of two buildings at the Norwich State hospital at an expense of $400,000. One of these buildings will be for Wards for 125 patients and to cost $225,000, and the other is a nurses' home for $145,000. At the last session of the general assembly an appropriation of $570,000 was voted for two ward buildings and a nurses' home. It has been found that the three buildings could not be erected within the appropriation. It has, therefore, been decided to erect two buildings. This will leave a balance of $170,000 out of the appropriation and it is expected the legislature at the next session, will add to it a sufficient sum for another ward building.

ST. PATRICK'S RECTOR HOST TO PARISH HELPERS

Each year the rector of St. Patrick's church entertains the choir, ushers, collectors and other church workers, whose service is volunteer, and this year's entertainment took the form of a supper and social evening held at the Elks' Home, Monday. Rev. M. H. May placed the project in the hands of his two assistants, Rev. Myles P. Galvin and Rev. Remo J. Querriero, who arranged a most enjoyable evening.

The assemblage numbered fifty-seven. A five-piece orchestra furnished music during the supper and for the dancing which followed. At the close of the appetizing supper, before which grace was said by the host, Father May, he expressed his appreciation of the faithful and rendered Sunday after Sunday by the workers. Father Galvin, who has been an active and able assistant at St. Patrick's for over eleven years, also voiced his appreciation of the valuable service of the parish helpers.

In the social period following, Father Guerriero was song leader, also sang several solos and there were pleasing numbers by a sextette from the choir.

FRENCH DEPUTIES APPROVE POINCARE FOREIGN POLICY

Premier Receives Another Strong Vote of Confidence in Chamber, 415 to 151—Expressed Hope That the Committee of Experts Would Find a Solution of the Reparation Problem, Which Might Lead to a Settlement of Inter-Allied Debts—Declares French Will Remain in the Ruhr Until a Satisfactory Arrangement of the Controversy is Obtained.

Paris, Jan. 18.—(By the A. P.)—The chamber of deputies this evening gave Premier Poincare another strong vote of confidence, on his government's foreign policy. The vote was 415 to 151.

M. Poincare previously had made exhaustive review of his foreign policy during the past two years. It was in reply to the recent speech of Edouard Herriot, the radical leader, who adversely criticized the government's conduct of affairs and announced that should the radicals be successful in the May elections they would stand for an equitable settlement of the reparation controversy, rather than by means of strong measures of coercion.

M. Poincare took the chamber by surprise when he mounted the tribune and made the announcement that he purposed to discuss France's foreign relations as conducted by his government and make them a question of confidence. During his address he laid special stress upon the importance of the work of the committee of experts, presided over by Brigadier General Dawes, the American unofficial representative, which is endeavoring to straighten out the financial and economic situation in Germany. He expressed the hope that the committee's work would be successful and that it would find a solution for the reparation problem, upon which he declared hinged a settlement of the inter-allied debts which were weighing heavily upon France's credit.

The premier announced that the French government did not oppose an international loan to Germany provided the bulk of the proceeds from it was applied to the payment of reparations. He added that he would welcome inter-allied control of the occupied territories in Germany. What was characterized as the consistent neutral attitude of the United States on the Ruhr situation was lauded.

Once again M. Poincare declared that France would not accept any reduction in the German debt as fixed by the London conference. He surprised the deputies by saying that passive resistance had not terminated in the Ruhr. He reiterated France's determination, if the committee of experts failed to find a solution of the reparation question, to remain in the occupied territory until a final and satisfactory arrangement of the controversy was obtained.

The premier upheld the attitude of General de Metz on the Bavarian Palatinate controversy. He assured the chamber that French occupation of the Palatinate was merely insuring the citizens the right to dispose of themselves, the separatist movement being a spontaneous expression of a desire to escape from the yoke of the Bavarian nationalists.

M. Poincare had been on the defensive in the chamber since Tuesday on questions of internal politics when today he suddenly assumed the offensive on his government's foreign policy. The six-hour session which culminated in the vote of confidence in the government at times was a stormy one. M. Herriot several times interrupted the premier during his speech, and M. Poincare replied each time in a vigorous manner to the radical leader. The victory over his opponents obtained by the premier was his fourth in as many days.

Today's resolution approving the policy of the government, which said: "Parliament endorses the government's attitude and its foreign policy, particularly concerning the Ruhr occupation," obtained a larger majority than any of those during the present week on internal questions. A portion of the radical party, which steadily voted against the cabinet on internal questions, sided with it today on its foreign policy.

LATEST REPORT FROM THE EXPERTS COMMITTEE

Paris, Jan. 18—(By the A. P.)—The first committee of experts, which, under the auspices of the reparation commission, is seeking a solution of Germany's budget difficulties and the financial situation generally, finished its first week's work tonight. Although the few communiques issued have shown no great progress, it appears that the committee has been successful in the essential work of getting ready information required in taking up proposed financial reforms in Germany.

The floor will be left to assistants until Monday, when the full committee will grapple with the largest phase of the inquiry. Most of this afternoon's session of the committee was devoted to preparation for hearing Doctor Schaht, president of the Reichsbank, who is expected to-arrive in Paris tomorrow in answer to the committee's summons.

After tonight's session, a communique was issued which, it was explained, applied to the work of the week. It reads: "The committee of experts on German currency and budget has during the last few days entrusted the particular investigations to sub-committees which met mornings and reported to the full committee afternoons. This procedure will be continued during the week end.

"The full committee will hold its next meeting Monday at 3 p. m. to receive any reports from the sub-committees and resume examination of the currency questions with the collaboration of Doctor Schaht.

"At the meeting this afternoon the committee decided to invite Sir William Acworth, well known British expert on international railway matters, and M. Leverve, general secretary of the European railways, to draw up, in collaboration, a report on certain railway questions."

Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, whose arrival at Cherbou , from the United States was reported today, will re-enforce the staff of expert assistants next week. The French and British also are contributing expert help to the committee.

It was decided today to refer to Sir William Acworth, and M. Leverve certain questions concerning the railways in Germany. This action is interpreted as suggesting that the committee is preparing to study a plan for taking over the German railways, as a guarantee for outside help in stabilizing the German currency.

ANOTHER INTENSIVE DRIVE IN PHILADELPIA CLEAN-UP.

Philadelphia, Jan. 18.—Fruit stores, garages, billiard rooms and stores, operating as blinds for bootleggers or gamblers, were raided by police and prohibition agents today in Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler's second 48-hour crusade against vice and crime. All of the 42 police districts were hives of activity when the drive opened at noon.

More than a dozen pool and billiard rooms in the center of the city were raided and about 150 persons arrested as suspicious characters. The proprietors were not taken into custody, the raids being directed against the frequenters, booked at police stations as "idle and disorderly" persons. In several of the places visited blackjacks and other weapons were found on the floor where the men had dropped them on the approach of the police, and in one place several packets of narcotic drugs had been dropped into the pocket of a pool table.

Soon after the prisoners had been crowded into cells to await hearings tomorrow the lieutenants in charge were besieged by friends of he men demanding copies of the charges, so their re ease might by obtained. In every instance the requests were refused.

As the police swung into action General Butler sent word to them they were to disregard absolutely threats of politicians.

During the two day drive Director Butler said a motorcycle patrol would be maintained continuously. "Our six new bandit-chasing armored cars, with bullet proof windshields, have arrived," he added, "and will go into service at once."

The director told the police that the first one to kill a bandit would be promoted.

Lieut. John J. Duffy, one of the eight police lieutenants suspended during the cleanup drive last week for alleged failure to cooperate, was restored to duty by Director Butler today after he had received the report of inspectors.

SON'S IDENTITY PROVEN BY A SILVER THIMBLE

New York, Jan. 18.—A silver thimble, carried through the Revolution, the Civil and the Indian wars by three mmebers of an old family of New Jersey, was exhibited today in Raymond street jail by 70-year-old George Doty, to prove to 92-year-old Margaret Lateer that he was her long lost son.

The first soldier Doty, a member of Marion's men, was given a thimble for his kit when he left his cabin home in the Jersey wilds. He used it in patching his uniform and when he died gave it to a son. That son's wife used it in sewing for soldiers of 1812 and it was passed on to her son, who carried it through the Civil war.

It fell into the hands of George when he went west of the Mississippi for the Indian wars. Twenty-five years ago he left his home in Branchville, N. J., for a trip to Brooklyn, his father died and his mother married again and George's whereabouts was unknown to her until she read last week that a George Doty had been arrested here for stealing a photograph.

Today Mrs. Lateer, carrying a box of chocolates and a pair of slippers went to the jail. George had changed and she declared that she could not recognize him, but did he carry the "war thimble."

He reached into a pocket of his tattered vest and drew it forth.

"You bad boy," scolded his mother, "why did you run away?"

George asked forgiveness, so his mother promised to appear in court Monday and ask his release so that he could go back home to Branchville.

KRUPP CO. TO CONDUCT FACTORIES IN SPAIN

London, Jan. 18—The famous Krupp Company of Germany is to take over Spain's oldest engineering works, La Maquinista Terrestre Y Maritima, established in 1855, and also the Cardona Dockyard, both in Barcelona, Spain, according to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Barcelona.

The Germans are to supply the technical staff and Spanish banks will subscribe the necessary capital for expansion. The Krupps will immediately place large orders for work which cannot be undertaken in Germany under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles. They will build steamers for German and South American lines and locomotives for the Spanish railroads.

EXPLOSION WAS CAUSED BY OVERHEATED BEARING

Washington, Jan. 18.—An overheated bearing in a starch conveyor caused the disastrous explosion in the Pekin, Ills., plant of the Corn Products Refining company on January 3 that resulted in the loss of 42 lives, injury to 21 persons and property damage of approximately $1,000,000, Davis J. Price, engineer of the department of agriculture's bureau of chemistry, announced today as a result of his investigation. Information was obtained which will make possible the adoption of new control measures in all sorts of industrial plants where combustible dusts are produced.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Received by Pope Pius

Rome, Jan. 18.—Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, commander of American naval forces in European waters, accompanied by Captain John B. Hleamann, in command of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, Lieutenant Commander Rufus King, and Lieutenant Harold Hunter, was received in private audience today by Pope Pius. Father Burke, vice rector of the American college here, who at one time was a naval chaplain, made the presentation.

ALBION COLLEGE STUDENTS HISSED PRESIDENT LAIRD

Albion, Mich., Jan. 18.—The bag of charges untied at Albion college chapel exercises this morning when 850 students booed and hissed President John W. Laird from the room, will be opened Monday in Detroit when the board of trustees of the school meets with Theodore S. Henderson, bishop of the Michigan area, Methodist Episcopal church.

The trustees will have before them: A report of today's disorders, which began with the throwing of hymn books when Dr. Laird entered the room and continued for 10 minutes, punctuated by hisses and cat calls, subsiding only when the president walked from the room.

A copy of the resolution read at chapel in which Dr. Laird's resignation is asked on the grounds of inefficiency, failure to cooperate properly with faculty members and because of his alleged attack upon Dr. Samuel Dickie, president emeritus of the college.

A statement from the office of President Laird in which he declared himself ready to face any inquiry and in which he denies "positively any allegations derogatory to my character." The statement further says that the trouble precipitated today is not due to causes alleged in the student resolution but to the dismissal from college some weeks ago of "a certain young woman" on charges of "conduct unbecoming a student."

In the meantime several persons connected with the college have entered the controversy. Dr. Bickie said that at a conference late last year in Detroit attended by Dr. Laird, Bishop Henderson and himself, "Dr. Laird gave up his word that he would leave Albion so as not to be present when the students returned January 2, and that he would tender his resignation to take effect January 15."

To this Dr. Laird replied: "I have not submitted my resignation, nor told anyone I would resign."

FILIPINOS OPPOSE COASTWISE SHIPPING LAWS

Washington, Jan. 18.—Opposition of the Philippine government and people to the extension of the coast-wise shipping laws to their territory has made President Coolidge loath to take such a step and indications were given today that the extension would not be proclaimed, at least for the present.

Final decision however, has been withheld on the extension proposal which recently was recommended by Chairman Jones, of the senate commerce committee. Soon after Senator Jones submitted his recommendation to the executive, the Philippine mission now in Washington made public a protest on the ground that it would result in a monopoly of the Philippine carrying trade.

The president as a result of this protest and others which have been received believes extension would arouse further ill feeling among the Filipinos towards the United States. He is desirous of building up the merchant marine but is not willing to do so at the peril of endangering friendly relations with the Philippines.

Mr. Coolidge proposes, however, to take all other possible steps to carry out provisions of the merchant marine act of 1920. The shipping problem in his opinion will continue until this law is carried out or until the government retires from the merchant shipping business.

No decision has been reached as yet by the president relative to filling the vacancy on the shipping board. The executive is attempting to find someone who will represent primarily the agricultural interests of the middle west and at the same time will have the viewpoint of the industrial and transportation interests of that section.

FELL DEAD WHILE TAKING HIS MORNING EXERCISE

Seymour, Jan. 18.—Frank G. Thornton, proprietor of the Seymour House and one of the owners of the Seymour Sand and Stone company, fell dead on Cedar street this morning as he was taking his morning exercise. Mr. Thornton had not been in the best of health for some time past, and had been suffering from dizzy and fainting spells. This morning, while near the Castle Rock school house, he pitched forward and died instantly. A small boy was the only one to see him fall and he aroused several people in the neighborhood. When they went to his assistance Mr. Thornton's faithful dog "Bonnie" fought them off and would let no strangers go near his master's body. It was only after much persuasion that Medical Examiner Davis was permitted to make an examination of the remains. He pronounced death due to apoplexy. "Bonnie" accompanied the body to a local undertaking establishment and refused to leave the remains of his master.

"ENEMY" DEFEATED BY THE AMERICAN ATLANTIC FLEET

Colon, Canal Zone, Jan. 18—(By the A. P.)—The American Atlantic fleet was defeated today by the "enemy" fleet in a two and a half hour engagement in Colon Bay. By the victory Admiral McCully, commander of the "black" or "enemy" fleet is believed to have gained control of the Caribbean Sea and perhaps of the Panama Canal.

This morning at the short range of thi amorning at the short range of 6,000 yards at about 10 o'clock the "black" main fleet, screened by torpedo destroyers and submarines, attacke dthe "blue" or Atlantic fleet, commanded by Admiral Samuel S. Robinson. The "blue" submarines and destroyers were outside the breakwater and the battleships behind the breakwater. A decisive combat ensued immediately.

INFANT IN WALLINGFORD WAS SCALDED TO DEATH

Wallingford, Jan. 18.—John Kisosky, year and a half old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kisosky, of 100 Washington street, was scalded to death last night when he backed into a tub of hot water that was on the floor. His mother was scrubbing the floor and went to his assistance. In spite of the efforts of the physician, who was called, the child died at 3 o'clock.

Coolidge Unwavering While Solons Haggle

President Will Accept No Compromises in Main Principles of the Mellon Tax Plan.

Washington, Jan. 18. — Secretary Mellon's program for tax reduction was a storm center in legislative and political discussions today.

While views for and against the proposed income tax rates were placed before the house ways and means committee at public hearings the bill's course in the house was confronted with parliamentary developments which majority leaders admitted threaten its major provisions. At the same time President Coolidge let it be known that he still intends to accept no compromises in the main principles of the treasury secretary's proposals.

Mr. Coolidge told visitors he believed the Mellon plan was gaining favor both in and out of congress, although he reiterated that he expected some changes in the bill.

Republican leaders admitted that with the rules revision adopted by the house today it was possible the entire rate structure of the Mellon plan might be changed when the measure reached the floor as a result of elimination of the rule restricting amendment of revenue and tariff measures.

In this connection Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, democratic whip, announced he would offer an amendment when the bill reached the floor to restore the excess profits tax with lower rates and Representative Rear of Wisconsin, insurgent republican member of the ways and means committee sought support for his proposal to provide revenue for a soldiers' bonus in the tax bill in a letter directed to members of the house.

Chairman Snell of the rules committee said republicans could not hope to get a special rule to protect the tax bill against amendments when it is brought to the floor and admitted it was open to attack in all its major rate provisions. He expressed doubt, however, that amendments proposing an excess profits tax or bonus would be considered garmane under provisions of a rule still in effect.

Representative Garner of Texas, author of the democrat's substitute tax proposal, has declared that if he is not successful in the committee in obtaining normal income tax rates of two and four per cent. in place of the three and six per cent. rates suggested by Secretary Mellon, and higher surtax rates than those suggested by the treasury secretary, he would seek to amend the bill to this effect on the floor.

TO PREPARE SHENANDOAH FOR HER POLAR FLIGHT

Lakehurst, N. J., Jan. 1.—Undaunted by the mishap to the Shenandoah when she was torn from her mooring mast Wednesday night and sent on a mad ten-hour flight over New Jersey, officers at the United States naval air station here tonight had completed preliminary plans to prepare the giant ship for her trip to the polar regions next summer.

On receipt of orders from the navy department at Washington this afternoon the Shenandoah, battered and torn, was shifted from the south side of the hangar to the north side where she was placed on supporting posts. Tomorrow her eighteen gas cells which are still inflated will be deflated and the 1,720,000 cubic feet of helium gas pumped into tanks.

Work will then begin on patching the torn covers of the ship and in restoring the nose cap that was ripped out by the gale which was officially measured as blowing 118 miles an hour when the Shenandoah was twisted loose. It is estimated that within a month the ship will be ready for service.

When two of the gas cells in the bow of the Shenandoah were broken Wednesday night 250,000 cubic feet of helium gas escaped. This is expected to represent the largest loss from the mishap. The gas is valued at $50,000 while it is estimated that another $50,000 will restore the ship to perfect condition.

WOUNDS INFLICTED BY WIFE PROVED FATAL

Waterbury, Jan. 18.—The death occurred today of Carmine Mongillo, 42, of Chestnut Hill road, this city, who was taken to a hospital Sunday night, after he had been shot three times by his wife, Mary, at the latter's grocery store at 2040 North Main street. It is alleged the man had gone to the store and had slashed the woman about the face, shoulders and arms with a razor. Mrs. Mongillo is still at the hospital, where she also was taken Sunday night, and where she is now recovering from the razor slashes.

Mongillo and his wife had been separated for about a year, each living in a different part of the city. It is claimed that the shooting Sunday night occurred as a result of a dispute over a tax bill.

House Has Adopted A New Set of Rules

Sharp Break in Party Lines on Vote to Eliminate the Committee Discharge Provision.

Washington, Jan. 18.—The house rules fight, in progress since Monday, ended late today with the adoption of a resolution providing among other things for repeal of the Underwood amendment rule, votes on discharge of committees on petition of 150 members, and creation of a new house committee to handle legislation affecting war veterans.

An unsuccessful attempt was made at the last minute to eliminate the committee discharge provision, which with the Underwood rule, was the main point at issue. Representative Madden, republican, Illinois, offered a motion to strike out the section but it was rejected 252 to 114.

There was a sharp break in party lines in the vote on the motion by Mr. Madden, who is chairman of the appropriations committee. Its supporters, who included Representative Tilson of Connecticut, and a number of other republican leaders, were those either opposed to the whole proposition of facilitating the discharge of legislation from committees or of the opinion that at least a majority of house members should be required to sign petitions.

Representative Longworth, the republican leader, joined Chairman Snell, of the rules committee, in opposing the Madden motion, as did Representative Garrett, the democratic leader, and Representative Nelson, leader of the republican insurgents, who yesterday led a futile fight to reduce the rules committee recommendation of a minimum of 150 names to 100.

Mr. Snell declared that in the main the republican organization got the best of the rules fight which was forced by the insurgents as a condition to their voting for Speaker Gillett for re-election. The democrats and insurgents by forming a coalition, he pointed out, succeeded in having the Underwood rule, which restricted amendments from the floor to tariff and revenue bills, repealed but they failed to muster enough votes to gain their point on the provision for discharge of committees.

During consideration of amendments to rules today the house adopted one proposed by Representative Moore, democrat, Virginia, providing committee cannot be put to a vote in the house within 24 hours, unless two-thirds of the house members voting so decide. This restriction, however, would not hold during the last three days of a session.

With its new set of rules in force the house tomorrow will resume consideration of the interior department appropriation bill. Mr. Snell has given assurance that the rules committee will consider other proposals for amendment to rules with the view of presenting a report to the house at a later date.

MEXICAN REBELS DRIVEN BACK WITH HEAVY LOSSES

Revolutionists Operating From Vera Cruz Have Met Heavy Losses in Every Engagement—Success of Government Troops Moving Against That Seaport Seems Assured—For the Present the United States Will Not Dispatch Warships to Tampico, But American Naval Forces Will Remain in That Vicinity in Case They Are Needed.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Severe fighting has been in progress between Mexican federal troops and revolutionists from Vera Cruz since January 16, a statement issued today by the Mexican embassy said. The rebels, the embassy added, had been driven back with heavy losses at every engagement.

"Troops under General Urbalejo," the statement said, "continue advancing to join the forces under General Martinez, and although a detailed report of this maneuver has not been received it is believed these two bodies of troops already may have effected this movement which would ensure complete success for the government troops operating against the Vera Cruz rebels.

"In Northern Coahuila, where General Vicente Davila revolted against the government, the rebellion has been stamped out and its leader forced to flee with six others into the United States where they were arrested by the United States for violation of the neutrality laws.

"In Tamaulipas a group attempted to revolt at a point near the American border but it was dispersed by government troops. Military operations are being continued throughout the petroleum region.

"Most of the supplies destined for the Jalisco front have been received and federal leaders there are hopeful that rebel forces may soon be made to stand and give battle in a decisive engagement.

"The remainder of the country continues tranquil with public services functioning as usual."

Despite the refusal of the acting governor of Texas to permit passage of Mexican federal troops through that state, President Coolidge still is hopeful that the state department's request for such permission eventually will be granted.

State department officials are expected to explain further to the Texas executive the necessity for transportation of troops on this side of the border. Should the attitude of Texas remain unchanged, however, the president feels that there will be nothing left to do but inform Mexico City that such troop movements are not feasible.

MAYO INDIANS PROCLAIM LOYALTY TO OBREGON

Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, Jan. 18.—Three thousand Mayo Indians, who have proclaimed their loyalty to President Obregon, started from here this morning through the state of Sonora, to Naco, it was announced today.

The troops are being moved over the Southern Pacific De Mexico. Although it was planned to send the troops over American territory, Mexican officials decided to keep the Mayos in Mexico because no advices authorizing the move over United States soil had been received from the state department.

NO U. S. WARSHIPS HAVE BEEN ORDERED TO TAMPICO

Washington, Jan. 18.—For the present the United States will not despatch warships to Tampico to protect the rights of its nationals against possible infringement by the blockading forces of the rebel leader, De La Huerta.

After a day of consultation regarding the latest turn of the Mexican situation, President Coolidge and his advisers have decided that no difficulty is likely to arise requiring the presence of American naval units.

A long cabinet discussion was followed by preparations for the issuance of a statement by Secretary Denby at the navy department, but when the time for the announcement came the secretary said he had no announcement to make.

State department officials also were silent. It was apparent, however, that advisers had been received which led the president to believe that the warning already sent to De La Huerta against encroachment on American interests would be respected without the presence of armed forces to support it.

American naval forces in some strength will be, nevertheless, in that vicinity in case they are needed. The cruiser Richmond is nearing Vera Cruz, and has been ordered to take aboard 278 men from the stranded cruiser Tacoma. These men now are ashore at Vera Cruz, the state department was advised today and "under the protection of the American consul."

AMERICAN SHIPS RUN BLOCKADE AT TAMPICO

Boston, Jan. 18.—A radio message picked up at station WEAY stated that the steamship Virginia, merchantman, and Eugene V. Thayer, a Sinclair oil tanker, had run the blockade of the harbor at Tampico early this morning under severe shell fire and had come through into the gulf. The message did not state whether the ships were damaged but reported that the bombardment had been severe.

CONSIDERALBE FIGHTING IN INTERIOR OF MEXICO

Mexico City, Jan. 18.—(By the A. P.)—The last three days have seen considerable fighting at different points within the quadrilateral formed by the railway lines extending from Puebla to TeHucan, thence to Esperanza, to San Marcos, to Puebla.

The main federal column under General Martinez is still holding Tehucan, although cut off from Puebla. However, the road has been cleared of rebels by General Urbalejo who at present is at Tecamachalco, midway between Puebla and Tehuacan. General Urbalejo is endeavoring to repair the greatly damaged railway so as to reach Tehuacan and reinforce General Almazan, whose cavalry forces, ordered to advance upon Esperanza, have reached Miahuatlan.

Almazan has been fighting for two days in the vicinity of Miahuatlan where the rebels approached San Marcos for the purpose of recapturing that important junction, but immediately withdrew toward Esperanza when warned of Almazan's presence in the region of Miahuatlan.

(Wireless despatches received at El Paso today said San Marcos had been captured by the rebels.)

War Minister Serrano is at Puebla directing the federal operations, and has ordered the regional forces under General Jose Maria Sanchez at Tepeaca to protect Urbalejo's rear.

CABINET CONSIDERED THE MEXICAN PROBLEM

Washington, Jan. 18.—The Mexican problem, particularly with relation to the attempted rebel blockade of Tampico, occupied cabinet attention today almost to the exclusion of other matters.

For a time it appeared that some action to insure the freedom of American commerce with the port was impending, but developments of an undisclosed character later prompted an authorized statement at the White House that the president was not expecting any difficulties on account of the Tampico situation.

Before the White House statement was issued the state department announced that on arrival of the cruiser Richmond at Vera Cruz, probably tomorrow, she would take aboard the 268 members of the crew of the wrecked Tacoma who are ashore in the rebel controlled city under protection of American Consul Wood. Captain Sparrow and 48 men of the Tacoma's crew are still aboard the stranded vessel and, presumably navy personnel will remin aboard until wrecking or salvage operations have been completed.

Foreknowledge that the state department was preparing to issue some statement with relation to the Tampico blockade led to the strong impression that the sending of American war vessels to Tampico for the protection of American commerce and other interests was under contemplation. Cabinet officials did not deny that the question had been discussed during the day but the nature of the state department's announcement, containing as it did nothing that has not been known to the public through navy department statements ever since the Tacoma went aground, was the only word obtainable in official quarters with regard to the situation on the Mexican Gulf coast.

It has been emphasized in connection with the warning from the state department to Adolfo de la Huerta, revolutionary leader, against interference with American shipping passing in and out of Tampico, that the Washington government had made no threats. In view of the evident desire in Washington to avoid, if possible, any clash with the rebel faction, it is conceivable that the state department reiterated in an official way the purpose of the Richmond's visit to Vera Cruz in order that there might be no misunderstanding of her mission.

Secretary Hughes was in conference during the day with representatives of American oil interests in the Tampico region and other fields but no word of what occurred was obtainable.

The visit of the oil men, however, served to emphasize the delicacy of the present situation in Mexico. American holdings there represent very great investments and there are many Americans working in and about the oil fields.

1,500 MEXICAN TROOPS ON BORDER AWAIT PERMISSION

Bisbee, Ariz., Jan. 18—Fifteen hundred Mexican troops from the interior arrived at Naco, Sonora, Mexico, early this afternoon and are awaiting permission to cross the international boundary for transportation across the states of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas to a point along the Texas border where they will re-enter Mexico.

PASSERBY KILLED IN COLLISION OF TRUCKS

Newark, N. J., Jan. 18.—A collision between an armored motor truck carrying $20,000 in payrolls and another motor truck today caused the death of Mrs. Angelina Cattamo, a passerby. Two armed guards within the car, Michael Burns and James Cummings, were cut and bruised.

A wheel was ripped from the armored car and the truck plunged on its side, striking Mrs. Cattamo.

YALE STUDENTS VOTE FOR VOLSTEAD MODIFICATION

New Haven, Jan. 18.—A ballot on prohibition giving opportunity to express preference on one of three questions prepared by the Yale News and tabulated today showed a plurality for modification of the 18th amendment. The vote taken from the faculties, the undergraduate and graduate schools showed a total of 982 for modification, 585 for enforcement and 536 for repeal.

BANDITS ESCAPE WITH $4,572 PAYROLL IN BROOKLYN

New York, Jan. 18—Three armed and masked bandits late today held up three men and a young woman in the office of the Ashford Plumbing Supply Company, Brooklyn, and escaped with $4,572 which had just been put in pay envelopes for 102 employes.

Haling of the improvement fund. Lay delegates to the annual conference, March 25, at Providence, will be elected by the board.

The storm which swept through the Ripley Hill district, South Coventry, Wednesday night, was the source of considerable worry to the residents, according to Robert Brooke, Coventry grand juror. There being no protection against the wind in that section, the full force of the gale was felt. Windows in the home of Edward Hawkins were blown out. Mr. Brooke came out of his house in the morning and found his large storage shed, 32 by 22 feet, strewn in pieces all over a two-acre lot. The shed had been blown from the summit of a hill. It is believed that a sudden whirlwind struck the structure which had been recently constructed on a solid foundation. A corn crib owned by Frank Boynton, another Ripley Hill resident, was blown over and wrecked in the storm a week ago.

The officers of Ohwabetuck lodge, No. 16, I. O. O. F., were installed, at a meeting this week, by District Deputy John F. Amburn and suite of Uncas lodge, Norwich. A roast pork supper was served after the meeting, and was followed by a social hour.

The Men's Club and Everymark's Bible class of the Methodist church will be guests of the Baltic Men's League at a gathering next Monday evening.

Willimantic people could vision the increase in the price of ice next summer, as the sun steadily melted away the four or five inch layer of this hot weather necessity, which covered the ponds and rivers previous to Thursday morning. Wednesday night's rainstorm and Thursday and Friday's warm sunshine served to thin down the ice. Some sections, however, reported that the ice remained intact. It was said that the ice on Eaton's pond in Mansfield was seven inches thick and skaters were on a number of the smaller ponds and at Recreation park.

Fred Windmiller, a former Willimantic man, now of Monticello, Ind., has been a visitor here with friends while recovering following a severe accident which he met with last April. He was recently discharged from the hospital.

Sewing and music were enjoyed at a meeting of the Jolly Ten 8 Ning club, who were guests of Mrs. Harry Avery in South Windham, Thursday evening.

The Community Entertainment association has enjoyed a very good season. A series of entertainments was run and the attendance was such that the affairs were not only self-supporting but a balance was left in the bank. The excess fund will be used toward procuring artists of the highest class to appear in this city during the next season.

Arrangements were made with a prominent French society member recently to secure a story of the installation of officers of one of the French organizations. The story was printed in The Bulletin but was considered too short by a certain correspondent who does not seem to realize that with a modern newspaper, brevity is the spice of reading. Why this correspondent attempts to attend to business which is not strictly his own, remains a problem. The columns of The Bulletin are, as always, open to news which is news—a fact well known to readers and citizens of all nationalities.

LEDYARD

A special meeting of the town school committee was held at Ledyard Center Monday, Jan. 7. This meeting was called to see what the board would do in regard to transportation of high school pupils who attend Norwich Free Academy and who had formerly been transported by the Norwich and Westerly trolley line. The trolley service being discontinued it was essential that something be done to transport the seven pupils who went by this trolley line from Ledyard. It was voted to transport the pupils and to pay all the transportation. It was also voted to meet on the following day, Tuesday, at Poquetanuck with the Preston school board who also sent seven pupils by the same means of transportation. In compliance with the former vote, both school boards met at Poquetanuck school house Tuesday forenoon. Billings T. Avery of Ledyard was chairman and S. Hussey Reid of Norwich, supervisor of schools in Preston and Ledyard acted as clerk. It was voted to let the contract to Henry Bates of Preston who will carry the Academy students from both towns who formerly used the trolley until the end of the school year, 1924.

SENATOR McLEAN GIVES HIS SUPPORT TO THE BONUS

Speaking in the senate this week Senator G. P. McLean urged the voting of a bonus. He belittled the idea that the bonus would commercialize patriotism, asking "what excuses the country had in denying the soldiers' bonus while allowing the stay-at-homes to receive increased wages.

"In the old days when the respectable portion of society fought all the time the expenses were largely paid by the conquered in the form of slaves or other plunder. When loot was scarce the home chaps who worked the soil were impressed for supplies necessary to keep the army fed. Pay rolls were out of the question, except in cases where monarchs could steal enough from their own or another monarch's subjects to hire the subjects of a third monarch. The idea that the soldier should not be called upon to offer more than his life for his country unless it was necessary and just began to dawn upon the American people a century ago or more, but the traditions and habits which a race has carried for thousands of years are stubborn things, especially when they combine in defense of its bank accounts.

"If another war should come—which God forbid—everybody and everything should be called to the service under the same interpretation of duty. Rich and poor, at home or in the army, should be under common orders to work or fight as necessity may demand. This habit once contracted by the peoples of the earth would soon make an end to war. Everybody then would be able to see that wars do not pay and act accordingly. The fact that we did not do this in the last war does not excuse us from recognizing and paying a just debt if we can afford to pay it.

"If we were willing to spend 1 per cent less on these luxuries for the establishment of a bonus fund, if we think we could endure the awful sufferings that would result from this economy, we would save $242,190,000, considerably more than double the annual bonus requirements. The fact is that no nation in all history has lived as luxuriously and extravagantly as the American people are living today. Luxury and laziness are fast becoming a habit as fixed as that which has silenced the "subtle angels of our nature" in our discussion of the bonus question.

"The foundation of lasting peace and prosperity is the same as the foundation of true and pure religion, namely, service, honest service. If I could vote in secret on this question, and should vote against the adjusted compensation act, I would be ashamed of myself for the rest of my life, because my conscience would tell me that my vote was entirely controlled by my desire to have my taxes reduced.

"Last session I advocated a paid-up insurance policy for the ex-service men. This could not be dissipated and would invite industry and economy on the part of the recipient. Such a disposition of this question would be the best investment the well to do could make for their children and grandchildren.

The claim that the ex-soldier will be better off if the bonus is defeated is without foundation.

He claimed the country would find prosperity sooner by the payment of a bonus and said that the representative national platform sets forth that "we pledge ourselves to discharge to the fullest the obligations which a grateful national justly should fulfill in appreciation of the services rendered by its defenders on sea and on land."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre Sunday Night

It was Charles Rag's sister who suggested his making a big picture out of Longfellow's legendary tale the legendary tale of the sailing of the Mayflower and to make the most famous love story in American literature as elaborate and pretentious as possible. The story of Captain Myles Standish John Alden and the sweet, comely Puritan miss, Priscilla Mullins, is as old as the hills and while it was told by the famous poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow with pathos and beauty, with full significance of verse impressed with its beautiful and simple melody, it remains for the motion picture camera to make the story greater and more impressionable.

The full story of John Alden, for he is the hero of both poem and of the Charles Ray picture, is depicted with colorful brilliance, thrilling rapidity, animated scenes both on sea and land—nad given a truly amazing interpretation by the star, Mr. Ray as Alden Enid Bennett as Priscilla, E. Alyn Warren as Standish, William Sullivan as John Howland, Joseph Dowling as Elder Brewster, Sam De Grasse as William Bradford and Thos. Holding as Edward Winslow, with the remaining cast giving a highly creditable performance.

There are many thrilling climaxes, with some of the scenes aboard the Mayflower being exceptionally well done. On the briny deep great perils beset the Pilgrims, who made the trip to new America in safety, with John Alden making a sensational rescue of John Howland, who had been swept over the side of the board in one of the most terrific storms ever placed on the silver sheet. There is the pirate crew, a band of Ishman seadogs, whose favorite pastime was hurling knives into targets. John Alden has no fear for the band either individually or collectively and he exchanges steel with them in a way that excites admiration.

It is a big picture that will live forever.

The supporting feature The Power Divine, has answered the insistent cry of the public for better pictures by presenting this gripping photo-drama, which, by its sheer power, is far off the beaten path of the usual run of pictures.

It tells a story of the simple hill folk of Kentucky, of their primitive passions, their loves and their hatreds. We have had several pictures of this type before, but never one which had more sheer dramatic intensity, suspense and romance. For it is not only an exceedingly absorbing tale but it is also well told. To us it seems to be the answer to the eternal question, "what does the public want?"

The leading roles are portrayed by pretty Mary Wynn and handsome Jack Livingston, and the principal supporting characters are enacted by Ralph Parker. The thing 'Em Again series will also be shown.

Interesting Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A.

Moving pictures of an interesting character will be shown at the Y. M. C. A. building on the coming Sunday at 4 p. m. when men and older boys are cordially invited. It would be a good thing for fathers to bring their boys to this service. Among the reels to be shown are the following, Love One Another, being an impressive illustration of what love can do in this old world. "Christ and Pilate," is another reel of interest; this picture always makes an inspiring and lasting impression on the audience. "The tides and the Moon," will be shown in one reel; this film portrays the wonderful relationship between the great tides and the wonderful luminary of the night, and the picture suggests the thought that we have a most wonderful God. Withal the hour promises to be an intensely interesting one, and it is hoped that a large number of men and boys will take advantage of this opportunity. In addition to the pictures there will be a brief talk by Secretary Hill and Hugh Kinder will officiate at the piano and also render vocal solos.

The missions department of the Guild will hold an all day "Homeland Meeting, With a Look Across the Sea" on Friday. All women of the parish are most cordially invited to report at the Community House at half past ten in the morning, bringing with them a basket lunch, thimble, thread etc. The committee will serve bouillon and coffee at a small expense during the noon hour. Baby clothes and surgical dressings are to be made for a hospital in the south and a most interesting program has been planned for the afternoon session. Important plans are also to be discussed and a large attendance is eagerly desired.

The Camp Fire meets at the Community House at seven o'clock on Friday evening, for regular Camp Fire work.

NEW YORK OPERA GUILD TO GIVE CONCERT HERE

Under the auspices of Norwich Council of the United Commercial Travelers, a fine concert is to be given Friday evening, Jan. 25, at the Community house on Church street by the New York Opera Guild.

The New York Opera Guild has been organized to bring opera to Main Street. Its primary object is to familiarize the great American public, which has neither the chance nor the means to hear the larger companies, with opera by means of significant excerpts. Its purpose is educational as well as generally cultural. By its own high standards of staging, costuming and musical interpretation it hopes to stimulate students of the country to greater efforts in their own work. The New York Opera Guild will also serve as a medium of opportunity for the young artist of tested public ability who would otherwise not have a chance for operatic experience in America. By its performance the Opera Guild feels that it is helping to bring a little nearer that day when every city in the United States will have its own opera house supported by its own operatic tradition.

The members of the Guild are all American girls who have received their vocal education in this country. Their entire operatic training musically has been built up by Ore McCord Wheatcroft, a prominent coach of New York city, and the dramatic interpretation of their roles has been in charge of Armando Agnini, stage manager of the Metropolitan Opera house.

The artists appearing will be Miss Mildred Pearson, of this city, lyric soprano; Miss Mildred Scoba, soprano; Miss Helen Denny, soprano; Miss Mary Lathrop, soprano; and Miss Eunice Forrester.

Woman barbers will never become popular with men, who can't forget the scrape Samson got into by going to a woman for a haircut.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Lionel Barrymore and Seena Owen in "Unseeing Eyes" at the Breed Theatre.

Characterized as the most thrilling and picturesque photoplay ever woven around a story of life in and around the majestic Canadian Rockies, "Unseeing Eyes," a screen version of an Arthur Stringer story, will have its first showing in Norwich on Sunday when it begins an engagement at the Breed theatre.

Headed by Director [illegible] H. Griffith and Lionel Barrymore [illegible]d Seena Owen, who are featured [illegible] the picture, the Cosmopolitan company making the production spent more than 12 weeks on location in the rugged country around Banff Lake Louise and other sections of Canada. More than a week was devoted in Montreal to the filming of a mid-winter carnival, which serves as one of the pictorial hight lights of the film.

In making scenes in the vicinity of the Canadian Rockies the "Unseeing Eyes" company achieved several new and distinct records in photoplay making. For the first time in the history of the motion picture industry aeroplanes play a predominant part in a film of the great Canadian Northwest and, through their medium, the new film is said to have the most gripping and picturesque scenes of the snow-clad terrain ever filmed.

According to Director Griffith, the "Unseeing Eyes" company covered more ground in an aeroplane in a day than it would have been possible to cover in that country in a year by any other means of transportation. Many of the most striking scenes were made around Castle Rock, in the Columbia Valley, between the Selkirk Range and the Canadian Rockies. Three huge planes were utilized and they soared more than 10,000 feet above sea level. The filming of the picture involved many dangers, as the hundreds of small valleys thereabouts have extremely strong air currents. While in search of a suitable location for a trading camp scene one of the planes dropped more than 3,000 feet in a tail spin after being caught in an air current. This occurred at a height of more than 5,000 feet, but fortunately the plane was righted.

In filming these spectacular aerial scenes the Cosmopolitan Corporation had three gigantic Curtiss planes, Charles Sherman (Casey) Jones, chief test pilot of the Curtiss company, was the supervising pilot of the expedition, and Captain William G. Knepper who served as a flier with the British army in Mesopotamia during the war was the licensed Canadian pilot.

Erno Rappee has especially composed an original musical score to accompany the picture.

Today's bill consists of Clara Kimball Young in "A Wife's Romance"—Edna Murphy in "Her Dangerous Path", the Pathe news and an Educational comedy. Continuous show today from 1.30 to 10.15 p. m.

Virginia Valli With Star Cast at Broadway

Millions of people have read and loved Frances Hodgson Burnett's novel, A Lady of Quality, and now they have the opportunity of seeing their beloved classic on the screen at the Broadway theatre where it opens a four day run starting Sunday.

As a Universal super Jewel, the highest form of photoplay, which produced by the Universal Pictures Corporation, averaging one a year, "A Lady of Quality" is, of course, an elaborate production.

The star is Virginia Valli, portraying the winsome heroine, Countess of Dunstonwolds, nee Clorinda Wildairs. Her personal characteristics of beauty and manner contribute a charming sincerity to her portrayal. To many she will represent the ideal type the author had in mind.

This is Miss Valli's first starring appearance under the long term contract which she signed with the Universal Pictures Corporation following her highly commanded work in "The Storm." This production was directed by Hobart Henley whose productions, such as "The Flirt" and "The Flame of Life" have been leading Universal attractions.

There is historical interest in the story in the portrayal of the period of the "Good Queen Anne," a conspicuous figure in the annals of England, who was known as the sovereign with a motherly heart. Miss Manning was cast for this from old woodcuts being a near-perfect likeness.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

It is a regular—and legitimate—thing for citizens to ask mention in the news of many and sundry topics of timely interest. This morning the request is that attention be called to the present condition of Plainfield street. The street surface has broken down under the heavy traffic to which it has been subjected during an unusual winter period when heavy rains and mild days have combined somewhat the same kind of conditions as exist during the early spring season. Motorists are making sharp complaints about Plainfield street which is part of the trunk line highway between Norwich and Worcester.

Near the crest of Hopkins Hill the roadbed has given out, evidently cut through during a thawing period by heavily loaded trucks and the condition at that spot is bad if not positively dangerous. All through the street there are places where the going is very bad and drivers are calling for adequate repairs. This same stretch of highway broke down late last winter and at one time was impassable in spots.

As clearly as can be ascertained, what the motorists are asking for now is sufficiently substantial repairs to put the stretch of road in reasonable good condition. Some gravel has been used upon it during the past week or ten days, but this has not served to more than ease the bad conditions. They have not been corrected.

There is satisfaction in anticipating that Plainfield street is to be corrected by the state this year, but in the meantime months must elapse during which owners of cars feel the road should be freed of ruts and bumps and made reasonably good for travel.

Complaints about the street have been heard not only from Plainfield residents but also from those who live in various towns between Putnam and Norwich and who use the highway regularly.

There seems to have been no way of avoiding for any longer period a series of reports as to unseasonable happenings in this unusual winter. Friday there came a story of a dandelion blossom—bright and golden as in balmy May—picked from the lawn of the J. Carl Witter place on Cottage street. In the rear of 37 Academy street crocuses have ventured forth to a height of three inches above the ground. Pussy willows are available for anyone with ambition enough to seek them where they usually are to be found. But development is reported on trees in various localities hereabouts. And so it goes. The lamb-like winter is playing tricks on sleeping things, but may make them pay later for venturing into activity at this unseemly time of year.

Damage estimated at nearly $300 was done to icehouses of the Quinebaug Lake Ice Company at the lake during the storm Wednesday night. The furious gale that blew as a feature of the storm ripped roof covering placed on two of the ice houses only a few weeks ago as cleanly as though cut with a knife, whipped it loose and tossed it about as a plaything of the storm but most of it was ruined. The houses that lost this new protective covering are about 40 by 60 feet. The covering was securely fastened, too, being nailed at inch intervals.

A representative of the company said that on the day the storm started there was 5 inches of ice on the lake. Thursday morning this ice had entirely disappeared under the lashings of the storm and the lake on Friday was as open as on a day in June.

A heavy percentage of the borough's ice supply comes from this lake. It is not unlikely that a season's supply may yet be obtained there, for harvesting has been done at the lake in February and even as late as March. Last winter offered opportunity for getting unlimited ice on this lake in March, but the supply had been housed since early January.

Verification was not possible here Friday afternoon, owing to the absence from town of officials of the company who may be in a position to talk on the subject, but it is stated on what appears to be reliable authority that Roland H. Ballou, who has been vice president of the Manhasset Manufacturing Company of Putnam, manufacturers of tire fabric, has become general sales manager for the Connecticut Mills Company of Danielson and that he is to become a vice president and director of the Danielson concern. He succeeds R. J. Caldwell, who since the early development of the company has been in charge of the sales end as well as occupying a high official position in the organization.

From such information as was available here Friday it appears that the action through which it is reported Mr. Ballou succeeded Mr. Caldwell was taken at a recent meeting in New York. Rumor says, too, that Mr. Caldwell was not agreeable to the change, which may be the means of bringing on a fight for control of the company, which may be achieved, it has been suggested, by obtaining possession of the majority of the shares of the common stock. This suggestion is at least given some credence by the fact that holders here of the common stock have within a few days received bids for their holdings from a New York brokerage house. The price offered for class A common was $3.50 per share. It didn't tempt anyone, insofar has been learned. The par on this stock is $10. The suggestion that there may be a contest for control likely will cause holders of this issue of Connecticut Mills stock to cling to it for the highet prices that a contest for control would practically guarantee. It has not paid any dividends for more than three years, has hit what has been generally regarded as low, and in numbers of cases has been practically charged off by some holders. In view of this fact, they feel now that they can hold it longer for a bit of speculation.

Mr. Ballou is an able and experienced man in the tire fabric field. He is one of those chiefly credited with the building up of the Manhassett company at Putnam.

He had much to do with the purchase of the original plant, since largely expanded, in Putnam, and with financing the concern. He was treasurer and general manager of the compay in its early years and later became vice-president.

His coming to the Connecticut mills is regarded in circles where the change was discussed Friday as a great advantage to the local concern. It is understood Mr. Ballou will maintain offices in Providence.

Leslie Downs, Killingly High school student and member of the football team, was one of those who took chances Thursday afternoon when the effort was being made to recover the body of John J. Lyons, Jr., drowned in a small pond at Dayville.

Radio fans are well pleased ever the fact that they were able to get good results with their sets during the wild storm of Wednesday night. Concerts came through from distant points, some operators say, as clearly as though the night was as fine as ever.

W. I. Bullard, of Boston, arrived here Friday evening to spend a part of the week end in town and give attention to business matters.

Danielson and other communities of the town of Killingly will be included in the canvass that will be undertaken to raise $7500 toward the cost of the newly acquired Salvation army building in Putnam.

Opinion seemed to be unanimous Friday that the first charity ball given here by Putnam lodge of Elks was a delightful event and one of the finest affairs of the kind held here in years.

Mrs. Hazel Briere has been elected president of the Woman's auxiliary of the American legion. Mrs. Yvonne Burton is vice-president, Mrs. Kathleen Beaney secretary, Miss Idella Rapp, treasurer, Miss L. Beeney historian and Miss Anna Gates sergeant at arms.

The storm was not responsible for the big clock at the Danielson Trust Company building stopping late Wednesday night. Unfamiliarity with the winding apparatus was the cause and the clock merely ran down.

Two weeks from today the groundhog is supposed to make his appearance and, with the weather as an aid, forecast whether the backbone of winter is broken—or whether this particular winter ever had a backbone.

Grand chiefs of the Order of Red Men will make an official visitation this (Saturday) evening to Wappaquasset Tribe, No. 63, of this city and will officiate at the installation ceremonies of the officers of the Putnam organization. In connection with the installation there is to be a social session and a program of entertainment. Refreshments are to be served.

Preparations are under way for the annual Valentine tea given by the Woman's Board in the interest of the Day Kimball hospital, held each winter for many years past. Mrs. A. V. Frost has been named chairman of the committee that will have general supervision of the arrangements. The event is to be held in Odd Fellows' Hall. A supper will be served from 5.30 to 7.30 and there will be dancing in the evening.

Special committees named to deal with the various activities incident to arranging for the event are: Tickets, Mrs. George Twigg and Miss Emma Roberts; fancy work, Mrs. George Sampson of Woodstock, Mrs. Sydney W. Bard of Brooklyn, Miss Sarah Crosby of Thompson and Mrs. A. Newton Vaughn of Putnam; program committee, Mrs. S. Nikoloff; flowers, Mrs. Herbert W. Bowen, Woodstock; food table, Mrs. William Van der Laan, Pomfret; candy, Mrs. L. L. Lerillard, Pomfret; cafeteria, Mrs. William Richardson, Mrs. Edward H. Burt, Mrs. John Bates.

Tea will be served by Miss Ellen Wheelock, Mrs. Ernest C. Morse, Mrs. Herbert J. Smith, Mrs. Silas M. Wheelock, of Putnam, and Mrs. John E. Young of Danielson.

Dancing will be under the direction of Mrs. Louis M. Ream of Thompson.

Something of the history of how Mr. Barlow Diamond happened to be in this territory in September 1922, when he and a companion, Harry Evers, threatened with revolvers Woodstock men who ordered them away from an orchard at the Gardner Sumner place, has been made known, incident to consideration of Diamond's case this week in New York, where he is facing indictment for first degree murder as the result of the killing in November of two West End bank messengers, who were robbed of $40,000 in cash they were carrying by a gang of which Diamond and his brother, Joseph, are accused of being members. It never has been definitely claimed that they actually did the shooting.

County Investigator William E. Jackson of Willimantic and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of Killingly uncovered interesting information relative to Barlow Diamond, when they were working on the case that grew out of the Woodstock episode.

From what these officers learned Evers was little more than a dupe of Diamond's on the expedition into this county. Prior to coming here at Labor day time in 1922, Evers was employed in a garage at Brooklyn, N. Y. The week end before Labor Day Diamond happened to be at the garage when the manager of it, who was going to his summer place in the Adirondacks for the holiday, said to Evers "take a car and come up and spend Sunday and Monday with me".

Diamond overheard this and said to Evers, "take him up on that and I will go along with you."

So the stage was set for getting out of New York for the holiday period. But Evers did not realize what a bargain he had entered into. Instead of heading for the Adirondacks as he supposed he found himself en route with Diamond and a load of booze in Connecticut and in due time the liquor was delivered in a town not distant from Putnam.

The whiskey running, however, is only an incident of the trip. There were bigger things in Diamond's mind, it appears. He wanted to go to Colchester on what appeared to be a very important and urgent mission, and there he went, Evers and the car with him.

At Colchester he made inquiries as to where a certain man lived—a former New York pal of his—and succeeded in locating this man's place, in a somewhat lonely neighborhood. From a story that Evers later told officers and which was checked up in a large measure by statements made by the wife of the Colchester man that Diamond was seeking out it is learned that when the car was stopped opposite the house to be visited, Diamond issued certain instructions to Evers. The story is that Diamond told Evers to keep the motor of the car running "for when I come out, I'm coming in a hurry!" With that he left the car and with a revolver in each hand stalked toward the house. He remained within a considerable time and when he came out was engaged in a hot argument with the woman of the house, and she was furious.

Diamond had met with disappointment. The man he was seeking was not at home—fortunately for him—but was away working in a garage at a summer resort somewhere along Providence river.

The Colchester woman later talked freely with the Windham county officers, who sought her out to verify Evers' story and what she said as to what occurred at her home was the same as the narrative by Evers.

Why Diamond should have sought out his former New York friend under such hostile circumstances, or what there was between them has not been revealed, but it is of special interest now, in view of the new difficulty in which Diamond finds himself—a difficulty in which he may have to face trial for his life.

Compensation Commissioner George B. Chandler, of Rocky Hill, is coming here on the evening of January 28 to address the members of the Chamber of Commerce at the Putnam inn, it was announced Friday. The subject of Mr. Chandler's address is not known here yet.

Because some who have enjoyed the privilege of skating there have ignored signs and other warnings against throwing stones, cigar stubs, cigarettes and other material on the surface of Perry's pond, there is a possibility, it was stated Friday, that the pond may be closed to skaters. It was made available through the activity and generosity of Putnam lodge of Elks. Ice from this pond is harvested, and it was only under certain conditions that it was made available for skating. Now a few threaten by their disregard for good behavior and good form to bring about the closing of the pond, action that may have to be taken even though with regret.

James H. Converse, who has a farm in the Sawyer district of this town, reports having seen four robins at his place Thursday.

John Moss will be the speaker when the Men's Forum meets Sunday noon. His subject will be cotton manufacturing

Of special interest to Putnam is the story that Roland H. Ballou, vice-president of the Manhasset Manufacturing company of this city is going with the Connecticut Mills of Danielson as general sales manager and that he may become a director and vice-president of that big concern, which manufactures tire fabric.

In a card of thanks which Ralph J. Sabin has caused to be published in appreciation of what was done by volunteers who worked to save the house at what is known as the Webber place, owned by Mr. Sabin in Pomfret, when the barn burned recently, there is included the comment. "The loss of the barn would be very slight if Volstead or Mortlake had been in it." It may be explained that Mortlake is the pen name of a political writer whose matter appears in a publication here. Mr. Sabin is one of the best known residents of Pomfret.

G. M. Durand, who has been in business in the northern section of the city for a score of years, has retired and the business is now being conducted by his son, Omer Durand.

Mrs. Edgar M. Warner, chairman of the Putnam town school committee, is to be one of the speakers at New Haven February 7 at a meeting of the Connecticut School Superintendents' Association

WESTERLY

The session of Third district court lasted all Friday morning. Clerk M. Walter Flynn read the following docket: New writs, Antonio Pancera vs. William F. Louden, continued to Jan. 25th; Anna M. Ledestri et al, vs. Delia Richards, continued to Jan. 25; Capitol Pants vs. Louis Alberts, continued two weeks. Civil Docket—Cluett Peabody, Inc. vs. Louis Alberts, continued one week; George W. Woodward vs. H. M. Green, continued one week; Philip Goldberg vs. Antonio Antoch, continued one week; Rebecca and Louis Deutch vs. Edith and Louis Thomas, one week; Margaret Burdick vs. Alamedia Varian, one week; Portage Tire & Rubber Co., vs. Westerly Motors, Inc., one week; Whitin Machine Co. vs. William McKenzie, one week; Salvatore Sposato vs. J. T. Haas, two weeks; Superior Arc Lighting company vs Antonio Filicette, one week; Edward J. Reguci vs. Gaetano Grispino ready; Westerly Furniture company vs. Frank Chimento, two weeks; Superior Arc Lighting company vs. Louis Deutch, one week; Angelo Parrone vs. Louis Marchese, ready; Lajyard Anthony vs. Calvert, two weeks; Atlantic Carbonic Co. vs. Grover King, Feb. 1; Antonio Grasso vs. Flore, two weeks; C. H. Conway vs Thomas Ewell, attorney's motion to assign.

Judge Michael J. Turano came in at 9.40 and called the following cases: State, Thomas E. Brown, chief of police, complainant, vs. Frank Diganci, passed. State; Thomas E. Brown, chief of police, complainant, vs. Joseph Gabriele. The defendant was charged with having in his possession unlawfully, liquors containing alcohol more than one-half of one per cent. When asked to plead the defendant said that he sold cider and the court told him that he was not charged with having cider and finally he entered a plea of guilty. Town Solicitor Ferguson stated that the premises at 87 Oak street were searched and 79 bottles of beer were found which contained alcohol 4.27 per cent by volume and 5.64 by weight. Men were found there drinking, also in an intoxicated condition. Judge Turano sentenced defendant to pay a fine of $75 and costs, the defendant saying "Good enough, that's all!"

Case of State vs. Barney Fain was called and passed temporarily.

Judge Turano asked if there was anyone to claim 79 pint bottles of beer, a pint bottle of cider and a pint of cider in a two-quart jar found on the Gabriele premises on Jan. 18th there being none, they were ordered forfeited to the state.

In the case of the state vs. Edwin Shaw, the latter was charged by Thomas E. Brown, chief of police, with having in his possession Jan. 10th intoxicating liquors. The defendant plead not guilty and he was held in $200 bail and the case continued to Jan. 25th for trial. Isadore Ribner, whom the defendant had for a bondsman only held realty in Connecticut, so a Rhode Island real estate holder had to be secured.

Civil cases were excused to 11 o'clock.

George W. Maine, employed in a Norwich store, was presented on the complaint of Wanton Edwards, town sergeant of the town of Hopkinton, for neglect to provide for the support of his wife and four children since the 16th day of Nov. 1923.

Mildred L. Maine, of the town of Hopkinton, testified that she was the wife of George W. Maine, having married him Nov. 17, 1917. She has four children from 6 to 2 years of age; her husband left her Oct. 10th with nothing at all. She saw him Oc. 14th and he seemed able to work and Jan. 10th was working in Greenville, Conn. She said she had been supported by the town of Hopkinton and that she took in washing and pulled lace to contribute to the support of herself and children. Her husband is a spinner, capable of making $30 to $40 a week and she did not know why he should not contribute to his family's support.

Amos L. Kenyon, overseer of the poor of the town of Hopkinton, testified that Mrs. Maine lived between Hope Valley and Rockville and that he had been there two or three times and had provided her with wood and milk, also furnished $10 for wood and milk.

George W. Maine, who conducted his own case, asked witness if he went into the house, and found that he did.

William Lloyd Kay, constable of the town of Hopkinton, testified that he visited Norwich in search of Maine and finding him learned from the defendant's own word that he had worked steadily since his departure from Hopkinton, when he deserted his family. Wanton E. Edwards, town sergeant of Hopkinton, testified to Maine's leaving his family.

George W. Maine, the defendant, on the witness stand said that March 11, 1923, when he was told by his wife to "Get out" he did so. When on a previous occasion he was in court, arrangements were made for him to give his wife $10 a week and that after he went to Norwich he said he was unable to continue the payment and told his wife to come to Norwich and he would provide her a home, as he said he could not continue the $10 payment. Maine said his wife said "Give me $10 or nothing." He said he had but $5.50 left after paying expenses and if his wife brought the children to Norwich he would support them.

Under questioning Maine said he did not own the automobiles in which he drove on several occasions to Hope Valley—the last time he went he drove a Norwich woman's car and one that he owned he sold, a Maxwell 1916, for $10 to Percy Barber. He had also driven other cars. Witness on stand wore a "diamond" ring—the "gift" of a Norwich woman—a different one from the auto owner. Questioned as to what he had contributed to his wife and family's support it was found to be mostly nothing. Further questioning about his sincerity in getting a Norwich home Maine said that he hired a tenement at 602 North Main street, from Agent F. W. Hill, at $15 a month. Witness said he had also written his wife to come to Norwich as all he was earning was $18 a week and "his cigarettes" and that he worked for W. A. Maine. Maine said his own witness had failed to appear in the court room.

Mrs. Maine was again placed on the stand and testified that last Sunday her husband had visited her home, forcing his way in in spite of two closed doors; he struck her twice, saying he would ruin her reputation if she appeared in court against him and she'd never live to go on the stand again. "Didn't you strike me on the ear?" said Maine. "I might have pushed you on the shoulder" was the reply. Right here Judge Turano said he had heard enough of the striking business. "I gave you $12 one time," said Maine. "You never gave me $12 in your life," was the reply. Maine said that a car he had telephoned to have registered was the property of his brother and that the diamond ring was the gift of one of his old lady customers for a Christmas present.

Right here Judge Turano had something to say.

"It is most apparent to me that you have done almost nothing to support your wife and children. You will have to decide between two things, support your wife and children, or go to jail. I have a good mind to give you a jail sentence now, but that will not help your family!"

As noted in the New London news of The Bulletin Friday, at a special session of Stonington town court on Thursday morning, Harvey Kenyon, George Lewis, and Fred Sodey were presented by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna on a complaint, charging theft of a Chevrolet car No. XE348, the property of George O. Murphey on Tuesday evening from the front of his garage in Pawcatuck. Appearing against them was State Policeman Walter Bahr, of the Centerbrook barracks. Judge William A. Wilcox found them probably guilty and bound them over to the next session of the superior court for New London county and to stand committed in default of $1,000 bonds. The costs in the case amounted to $72.28. The men were taken to jail by State Policeman Bahr, Patrolmen Connors and McMahon of Pawcatuck.

William B. B. Mitchell of Norwich was in Westerly Thursday evening.

After receiving medical attention at a hospital in Providence, where she went last Sunday, Mrs. Sophie Stoddard of Westerly is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Kate A. Thomas of Taunton, Mass.

Benjamin H. Tourtelotte of Franklin, Mass., has been a visitor the past week in Westerly, where he formerly resided.

William Mitchell of Westerly was a business caller in Providence Friday.

Arthur Whitehead returned to Pawtucket Friday morning after visiting in Westerly Thursday evening.

Robert M. Carr was in Providence on business Friday.

Chester M. Aldrich returned to Pawtucket R. I. Friday morning after a visit in Westerly Thursday.

C. Palmer Chapman of Avondale was in Providence Friday.

Miss Phoebe Langworthy of Ashaway was in Westerly Thursday noon on route to Providence.

A case which should receive the attention of the cruelty to animals officials was one reported recently when a horse was turned into the lots on Brown's Plain, so called, south of Pendleton Hill, and allowed to die there from exposure and starvation.

J. W. Whitaker has returned to his home in Westerly after several weeks' visit in England, returning to this country on the White Star steamship Cedric, which sailed Jan. 5th.

PLAINFIELD

Grange Hall was well filled when the officers of the year were installed Tuesday evening. Mrs. Clinton Frink had charge of the installation and was assisted by Mrs. Milo Appley. There were many complimentary words spoken by visitors present for the excellent work. After the new officers had taken their places, William F. Hall, master of the grange, gave a brief and interesting report of the state meeting held at Hartford. Visitors were present from the granges at Norwich, Canterbury Ekonk and Putnam. Mrs. Richardson, worthy lecturer of the Norwich grange responded with interesting remarks, as did others. Some of these who addressed the grange were Milo Appley, Edward Hall and Mr. Richardson of Norwich. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. George H. Dawley being in charge.

Mrs. Herbert Smith is confined to her home, with a grip cold.

Thelma Wilde, the one year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilde, suffering with an acute attack of appendicitis, is reported as somewhat improved.

Mrs. Harold Trainor has been visiting at the home of Turner Greene. Mrs. Trainor is to make her home in Northboro, Mass.

Edward Duffy has moved into his new house, located this side of Bishop's crossing.

Mrs. Wallace Payne of Jewett City was a visitor Friday at the home of her parents

Main street in Central Village was nearly blocked, Thursday evening by the automobiles of the men attending the annual installation at Protection Lodge. Ernest Wilde, Noble Grand. In the absence of the regular pianist, Dr. Arthur A. Chase was at the piano. It was an evening of splendid fellowship at the close of which refreshments were served, in charge of Fred D. Lyon, assisted by Clarence Winsor, Henry Betterman, George Dawley and Edward Henderson. A special feature of the evening was a fine musical program by the Krause Orchestra of Plainfield. A large delegation of Odd Fellows came down from Danielson, the hall being crowded with lodge men.

Last Sunday evening at the Congregational church, the pastor spoke on "The Man Without a Chance", Mrs. Arthur Moffitt gave a beautiful violin solo.

Harold Randell of Buckport, Me., has been visiting his father, Henry Randell. Harold Randell is employed in the United States Forestry service and has just been called to Arizona.

The steamer Silverado, which sailed from San Francisco January 13, in ballast and carrying merchandise, is afire in No. 1 hold, five miles from Willapa Harbor, off the southwestern Washington coast.

FOR FATHER'S COUGH

January is usually one of the coldest months and brings its share of coughs, colds and hoarseness. Take FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND at the first sign of a cough or cold, as it loosens the phlegm and quickly brings relief to the inflamed membranes of the throat. "YOUR HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND has done wonders for my father, who had an awful cough. He is feeling fine now," writes Nicolasa Gonzales, Cuero, Texas. Lee & Osgood Co.

The Day of the Knight is here!

238% Sales Increase!

One thing sure—It takes a wonderful motor car to make the brilliant record Willys-Knight made in 1923. It certainly shows that folks are out for the biggest value they can get—and bound and determined to get it.

People are turning to the Knight for its beautiful coachwork, its luxurious comfort, its distinction, its great strength—but mainly and mostly for the many incomparable benefits of the wonderful Willys-knight sleeve-valve engine. The famous engine that actually grows quieter, smoother and more powerful in use!

Here is thrice welcome freedom from all valve-grinding and carbon-cleaning—and other common disadvantages of ordinary poppet-valve engines. Willys-Knight owners report 50,000 miles and more without need of fussing or tinkering with the engine.

Any car that leaps ahead 238% in one year strongly invites looking into!

TIME CONGRESS GOT BUSY.

When Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania declined to submit the plan of Governor Pinchot for federal legislation relative to the coal industry it was not because he was opposed to legislation upon such a subject but because he considered that he could not support certain features of that particular bill. Just what they were he didn't point out, but there can be no mistake about any insistence that may be made in behalf of coal legislation at this session of congress.

So fortunate have the consumers of coal been this winter that one hardly dares to refer to the mildness of the winter for fear that it will have an adverse effect thereon. There has been no danger of a shortage since the agreement and higher prices went into effect, and there are good supplies on hand at those points where drops in the price of anthracite are being announced. But that doesn't settle the matter for good and all. It simply means that there is peace between the miner and the operator and that, with the mild winter, has prevented any hardships through a shortage. The agreement will not last forever, and in the coming spring the bituminous field is threatened with strike trouble unless new demands are granted.

Such a strike might not have its effects upon the householders' coal supply, but it would have its handicaps for industry and when industry is affected it means that the public is bound to be in many ways.

Clearly the time for action is before another strike opens. It has been set forth as the result of the federal inquiry what is needed in the way of federal legislation to give that protection to the public to which it is entitled. If it is a complicated matter the greater is the reason for giving it early attention and tackling it with a view to getting somewhere. Probably congress cannot overcome all the evils but it is time it showed its interest in doing what it can and what has been called for. It is time the country was protected against the yearly troubles over the fuel supply.

OVERLOADING BRIDGES.

Long since the necessity of limiting the loads that can be carried on certain bridges has become necessary. Even though they were constructed to carry anything that might be hauled over the road at the time of their construction, there are bridges which today could not begin to bear the weight of such loads as would be thrown upon them if there were no limitations.

We have gone from the days when the load was measured by what horses might haul to those where great trucks are carrying more than many box cars. Naturally the bridges which were not built for any such loads cannot stand them, and in view of the disposition to take chances, when no one is looking, the wonder is that more bridges do not crumple under their loads than do.

The wisdom of restricting the loads to be carried on the bridges is emphasized by the collapsing of a bridge near Washington where a three and a half ton truck had attempted to cross a bridge which was limited to a three ton load. It must have been apparent to the driver what he was doing, quite the same as it is to the engineer who runs past his signals, but the risk seemed preferable to taking some other route.

As new bridges are constructed it can be expected that they will be built on heavier lines and strong enough to carry greater loads. That is demanded in these days of greatly increased transportation by trucks over improved highways. The fact is that the bridge is a vital part of every improved highway and must be in keeping with the rest of the roadway as to sustaining loads. There is an excellent probability that the wholesale replacement of bridges throughout the country will not be undertaken in an effort to encourage the heavily loaded motor trucks. When they become unsafe for ordinary travel they will be reconstructed on different lines, but until that time comes it must be expected that they will be allowed to serve their usefulness, and until they are replaced safety directs that due respect be paid to their condition and the limits of weight which surveys show should not be exceeded.

STRAIGHTENING OUT MEMEL.

For the purpose of bringing about an adjustment of the situation in and over Memel, the league of nations has sought an American, for chairman of the commission that will dig into the effect and endeavor to produce a solution, and Norman H. Davis, an ex-under-secretary of state under President Wilson, has started abroad.

This is an after-the-war development, resulting from the internation alising of the city of Memel and a small amount of adjoining territory by the terms of the Versailles treaty. This was done for the purpose of insuring to Poland and Lithuania an outlet to the sea for their commerce, which would not be subject to the control of Germany. Memel having been a German city on the Baltic at the mouth of the Neiman river.

Things went along fairly well under a high commissioner from France, who had French troops to aid him in keeping Germany from regaining control. This continued until last year when an army of Lithuanian irregulars took Memel from the French. Lithuania is close by and the irregulars were undoubtedly encouraged in their undertaking by the acts of the Poles in the taking of the city of Vilna. It was not a situation that was accepted without protest, but such arrangements as were made to have the territory governed by Lithuanians and Germans failed. Poland was not satisfied and the outcome is that the entire matter has been referred to the league of nations for adjustment.

That the attempt should be made to settle the difficulties without bloodshed is commendable. Just what success the commission will have cannot be told. It undertakes a task that has its complications. Whether it can deal with the matter through a liberal use of common sense and leave all satisfied remains to be seen. It cannot be regarded as an enviable task, and yet if success crowns the efforts it means all the more credit for those who are involved.

PROTESTING MAH JONG.

The protest that has arisen against the playing of mah jong on the ground that it is the chief gambling game of China and it is possible to lose a million dollars a night, is not likely to get very far.

It can be expected that there will be those in this country, the same as there are those in China, who will play mah jong for money, but that doesn't mean that all who indulge in the playing of the game will even think of such a thing. The fact is that those who want to gamble are not going to be restricted by the suppression of such a game. There are too many other games and ways in which to gamble to permit any such thought to be entertained. There isn't much in the way of innocent games but what can be turned into gambling devices if there is a disposition to do so.

There is a long list of games that provide indoor pastimes for many people who have no thought of playing for stakes. They enjoy an evening of fun and the introduction of mah jong simply means that those who would otherwise be playing some of the other games are for the time being at least turning to the new game for diversion. Because there is much gambling in China and because the Chinese employ mah jong extensively for this purpose doesn't mean that this country is going to follow suit or that any temptation is being placed in the way of that large army of game players who do not gamble with the gambling games already at hand. Because it is a gambling game doesn't mean that it cannot be played for fun without becoming tainted. The wave of popularity regarding such things is bound to rise and fall.

EDWARD G. RIGGS.

One who was widely known in newspaper circles for many years has passed in the death of Edward Riggs. He had grown old in the business in comparison with many others.

Mr. Riggs was one who radiated enthusiasm. He was an optimist of the first water and for years on the old New York Sun was political editor which brought him in touch with many famous men. Perhaps few realized that it was Edward Riggs who was responsible for terming the place in the old Fifth Avenue hotel where Thomas C. Platt used to smoke his after dinner cigar who dubbed it the Amen Corner, and yet that term is a familiar one, far and wide.

The deceased was a political writer who dealt not solely with New York affairs, but was equally well versed in national politics and became one whose information from Washington was widely read as he observed developments and recorded the events. For three decades he was the political authority on the old New York Sun.

Publicity was his bent and when the Sun disappeared as a morning paper he became executive secretary for the president of the New Haven road, a position which he has since remained in and handled with remarkable success, while still keeping in touch with his wide circle of acquaintances. Thus with his publicity work he was in the harness until his last sickness and by his death a highly capable and popular writer has been removed, one of the many products of Charles Dana.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

In view of the frightful slaughter of human lives on the highways by motor vehicles of all kinds, the suggestion has been made—and it certainly is a timely one—that parallel with all state roads sidewalks shall be constructed for pedestrian use. Let frequent signs be posted to keep pedestrians constantly mindful that the main road is exclusively for vehicles, that walking along the motor highway will not be tolerated, and that foot passengers can use the highway for crossing only. When one crosses the road at right angles or even obliquely there is little danger of accident, because he can see both ways. Accidents mostly come from machines in the rear when one jumps the wrong way. Very likely this new provision will not obviate all accidents to foot passengers, but the tendency will be to greatly lessen them. Such a sidewalk will add much to the ease and comfort of both parties.

There are in existence a great many panaceas for the betterment of workingmen. Some of them are plausible, and others have neither rhyme nor reason. But once in a while a level-headed man writes something on the subject that is worth noting. The other day I ran across the following: "The worker must learn to give an honest day's work. Without this an honest day's pay does not benefit him. No one can take out of a job more than he puts into it without hurting himself. This kind of action is hurting millions of workers right now. The higher cost of everything a working man buys is accounted for, in part, by the fact that he and thousands of his fellows took out of their job more than they put into it. If every dollar of wages got a dollar of work, other things being equal, the dollar would continue to buy a dollar's worth of stuff." There's nothing unreasonable about that.

"Public opinion is an opinion that the public doesn't know it has until it reads about it in the morning newspaper editorial." It strikes the writer that is not only a unique, but perfectly sane, way of stating a downright fact. Of all the visionary, intangible things on this earth, I believe that so-called "public opinion" heads the list. Whose opinion is public opinion? When we use the term just how much of the general public do we have in mind? Is it the opinion of the United States as a whole? If so the expression is an absurdity because the United States as a whole never had an opinion on anything. The state of Connecticut never had one and the same opinion on anything "in the heavens above or the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth." The smaller the unit, the more pronounced is the clique, and that means the greater the variety of opinions. Call the people together to discuss in open forum a community problem and you will simply repeat the tower of Babel in all its glory.

It seems to the writer that there is one angle of approach to the undertaker's calling that is not rated at its true value, and that is, we do not really appreciate his work of disposing of so many undesirables. We must not forget that bad people have a habit of dying just as well as good, and this illustrates a great natural law that loss in one direction is balanced by gain in another. We bemoan the loss of Mr. So-and-So, he was such a good man. What will church and state do without him? I will admit that his going has made an irreparable loss. No other man, however good, can exactly fit into his place. It was with sorrow that we saw the undertaker's outfit before his door. But how about Mr. Other Man, who for years made it simply hell for his poor wife and helpless children. This fellow never missed a chance to give the fair name of his town a black eye. When the undertaker took him in charge there were no tears in our eyes, if there were they were crocodile's tears. Yes, we must have undertaking establishments just as much as street cleaning departments.

In the economic world the greatest need is and always has been that of production. In the minds of many it is the leading problem of civilization. Take our own country that has grown to be the greatest general producer in the world. In the plainest possible terms we eat, wear and otherwise use, considerably more than we produce. This in spite of the fact that our workmen are, on the whole, "the most efficient in the world." According to available statistics, the average total production per year in the United States is $60,000,000,000. If this vast sum represented in commodity value was equally distributed among our population, it would be about $600 for every man, woman and child. At the present high cost of living that "would not be sufficient to support our people in health, comfort and decency." To say the least we need to add 25 per cent. to our present production to amply meet our needs. It is easy to see that we live "from hand to mouth."

Every person has the right to construct his own religious belief, and everyone should insist on the right of exercising this privilege. The relations subsisting between man and his God are purely a personal matter and no third party has any right to interfere. Any human being clearly oversteps his rights when he attempts to cram his belief down another man's throat, and the acceptance of such treatment is the acknowledgment of servitude. "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." The most contemptible business in this world is heresy hunting. It is the outburst of the old pagan desire to burn men at the stake, and to otherwise torture them because they dare to exercise their God-given faculty of thinking for themselves. The liberty of free speech and thought is inalienable and when men surrender it they become vassels. Nothing can be farther removed from the spirit of the Man of Nazareth than the attempt to drive "men into outer darkness because they dare to think".

One's heart goes out in real sympathy to the movement that has arisen here in New England among judges, public officials, business men, ministers and others, "calling upon individuals and organizations to arouse sentiment in support of better law enforcement and more severe penalties." Interest has been awakened in the meeting of the citizenship conference for New England to be held in Boston, January 20-22. Evidence comes from all quarters of the United States that the execution of law is much weaker than behooves a great nation like ours. The criminal classes are showing a boldness that is positively alarming. Had crimes in all their various features been met with timely and vigorous justice that monstrosity known as the Ku Klux Klan could not possibly have existed. Laxity of law enforcement paved the way for this organization.

Is there not a tendency to make statements so extravagant that the line between them and downright falsehood is so thin as to be practically invisible? For instance a voice has been crying out from the conservative south saying that "nine-tenths of all the ministers in the Middle Atlantic states and New England have sold their souls for a mess of pottage." This is vastly more than extravagance. It is doubtless true that even more than nine-tenths of the above mentioned states utterly repudiate the harsh, crude notions of the "fundamentalists". But the writer indignantly repels the imputation that "nine-tenths" or even one-tenth of these ministers "have sold their spiritual birthright for a mess of pottage." They do think for themselves and they are not afraid of genuine scholarship.

Hammond Advocates Early Action By Congress On Coal.

Are we facing another strike in the spring?

Rumors persist that on April 1, when the existing agreement between the operators and the miners in the bituminous fields expires, the country will be plunged into a disastrous labor war with all its resultant injury to business and prosperity, writes E. F. Roberts in the Washington Star.

Can this possible catastrophe be averted by government action? For an answer to that question I went to John Hays Hammond, chairman of the federal coal commission and America's greatest mining expert.

Mr. Hammond believes that prompt action by congress in carrying out at least some of the recommendations of the coal commission would go a long way toward preventing a strike if it did not remove the possibility entirely.

"I don't know whether there will be a strike or not," said Mr. Hammond, "but there is no doubt that both sides are today like two armed camps looking for trouble. A strike may be precipitated by extravagant demands on the part of the miners, but if that calamity does happen the operators cannot escape their share of the blame. When the coal commission intervened last year and succeeded in having an agreement signed the miners were willing to make it for two years but the operators absolutely refused to sign for longer than twelve months. If they had been more reasonable then we would have no strike talk now."

"Admitting the possibility of a strike, what can the government do?" I asked.

The first thing to be done and a step which should be taken at once is the establishment of a permanent board of inquiry as a division of the interstate commerce commission as was recommended by our commission. By April 1, when the existing agreement between the miners and operators expires, this board can be in full possession of all the necessary facts up to date, and if a strike were called, could place the responsibility where it belonged and the public would do the rest. Congress should also at once authorise the president to take over the mines in an emergency, as was also recommended in the report of the commission. But that would be a step to be taken only in a very great emergency such as when a strike was prolonged to the extent that the great industries of the country were threatened with serious injury through a coal shortage."

"Should the government take over the mines how would they operate them?"

"Not by soldiers or by any kind of forced labor," replied Mr. Hammond emphatically. "Our commission reported against government ownership or government operation, and I am personally decidedly opposed to either. A situation might arise where operation of the mines by the government was of vital concern to our industrial life, but in such case I believe that all the government should do would be to establish a fair wage scale and invite those who wished to work to do so, guaranteeing them full protection. To attempt to force men to work is repugnant to American principles, and has never proved successful in any country."

Except in the case of such an emergency as you have mentioned you do not believe them in direct action by the government?"

"I don't believe it is necessary in the case of an ordinary strike. Government interference with business is always a dangerous thing. What the government could and should do is to see that the public gets the facts that would be one of the most important functions of the permanent board which we have recommended. If the American people know where to place the blame for a strike they can bring to bear on the offending side the most irresistible power in the world—public opinion. Neither operators nor miners could long resist that pressure.

"There is another thing which the government could and should do for the protection of the public against the so-called 'fireproof' coal which is often dumped on the market during a strike. One way to stop that practice would be for the interstate commerce commission to have inspectors at the mines who would refuse transportation to coal that was not properly graded. The state governments could also have inspectors at their borders if necessary."

I asked Mr. Hammond if it was true, as frequently charged, that the miners were infected by bolshevism.

"There are a good many communists in the miners' ranks," he replied thoughtfully, "and they are by no means confined to the mines of foreign birth either. Many of the communist leaders are native Americans, although it is true that their teachings spread easiest among the foreign element.

"Do you include John L. Lewis among the radical leaders," I asked.

"Most certainly not. The radicals are trying their best to get rid of Lewis and I believe that he is doing everything possible to drive them out of the ranks of his organization just as Gompers is trying to do in the American Federation of Labor. In my work with the Civic Federation I was much in contact with a number of the labor leaders, and I have long been satisfied that labor unions are here to stay. I have no hesitation in saying that it is the part of wisdom for employers to back men of the type of Gompers and Lewis instead of letting union organizations get into the hands of men like Bill Hayward and Howarth, the communist leader among the Kansas miners."

I asked Mr. Hammond to sum up for me what he regarded as the accomplishment of the federal coal commission.

"Well," he said with a smile, "if you are asking me to answer our critics I will have to be excused. Personally I feel satisfied with the president's statement in his message to congress that our report was the best ever made on the subject. The trouble with a good many criticisms that have been made is that they are based on ignorance of what our commission was. We were blamed, for instance, for not preventing the strike in the anthracite field, but we were absolutely without authority to do anything of the kind. We were strictly a fact-finding body, and I believe that our report contains the greatest amount of data that has ever been collected in the coal industry. That report gives a foundation of solid facts on which the government can now proceed if it so wishes.

"As a matter of fact, I do not believe that abuses in the coal industry can be ended by outside interference. Reform in the coal industry must come and the one way to start is to give the American people the facts. That is what our commission has done. As far as definite action went we did intervene, and successfully, in the bituminous field and brought about an agreement which prevented a market scare and stabilized prices. That action alone saved the government in its purchase of coal much more than the $600,000 which was spent by the commission."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Elihu Thomson, who has received the Lord Kelvin medal from the British Engineering societies for eminence in engineering achievement, is a famous inventor and consulting engineer and a former president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is the first man in the United States to be given the Lord Kelvin medal, and the second person in the world to be given that honor. Previous awards and decorations from the French government, the medal of the Royal Society of London, and Rumson medal and the first Edison medal had established precedents in the way of recognition of his high place as an electrician and inventor. Professor Thomson is a native of England, who, coming to the United States early in his career, attended the Philadelphia public schools. He then became a teacher of chemistry and mechanics, meanwhile attracting attention by producing new devices and by his writings on electricity. Of late years he has been consulting engineer of the world's largest electrical company.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Happiness and Joy.

Remember that happiness is one thing, and joy, which we often confuse with it, another. We are apt to take these words that differ, like fancy and imagination, merriment and gladness, and use them indiscriminately in our talk. But joy is a serious, sober, inward thing. I question if any but God can create joy. It springs from the depths of this mysterious soul which only the finger of deity can touch.

True joy is often far too deep for laughter; but often it is not too deep for tears. But happiness is that which happens to us. It lights on us from without. Joy rises in the soul like a spring of water. Happiness comes like a swallow to the eaves. Joy grows from a hidden seed planted within; happiness meets us like music, like a friend. Hence to create joy is the great science of God; but to foster happiness may be the art of man.

And this is what the professor says of it: "It is the most beautiful and the most difficult of the fine arts." And after all, if the greatness of an art somewhat depends on the kind of material the artist works in, there may be no exaggeration in his words. For sound is mysterious, and color is wonderful, but the human heart is more wonderful than both. And it is this material of the heart I work in, whenever I try to make another happy.

Of course, in this gentle art of giving happiness we are really fellow workers with God. The longer we live, the more convinced we are that God is at infinite pains to make us happy. Now in the divine exercise of this fine art this strikes me, that it is not by rare things, but by common and simple things that our Father in Heaven makes His children happy. Can you tell me some of the rare gifts of God? Well, genius is one, high talent is another, the power of embodying thought in poetry and exquisite beauty, these are God's rarer gifts. But I have never heard that the possession of these gifts carried the certainty of happiness along with them.

No, on the contrary, genius is notoriously unhappy; the exquisite sensitiveness of the poetic nature is jarred where you and I should feel no misery; and the tragedies of the beautiful women of the world are, perhaps, the saddest stories of all history. Rare gifts are needed, the world could not live without them. But it is not rare gifts that make men happy.

It is the common and simple and universal gifts; it is health, and the glance of sunshine in the morning; it is fresh air; it is the friend, the lover; it is the kindliness that meets us on the journey; it may be only a word, a smile, a look—it is these common and every day and simple things, all coming to us from God according to my gospel—it is these and not any rarity of blessing that are God's gentle art of making happy.

"My God, the spring of all my joys,
The life of my delights,
The glory of my brightest days,
And comfort of my nights."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognised by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking, according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. —(Adv.)

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

Contributions to the United States, any state, territory or political subdivision thereof—city, town, county, or hamlet—or to the District of Columbia for exclusively public purposes are deductible from gross income to an extent not in excess of 15 per cent. of the taxpayer's net income, computed without the benefit of this deduction.

The value of real estate presented to a city to be maintained perpetually as a public park is an allowable deduction. Subscriptions by citizens to a fund raised for the purpose of inducing an industrial plant to locate in their city would not be allowable deductions.

Deductions, limited as above, are also allowable for contributions to corporations, community chests, funds or foundations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes, including posts of the American legion, or the women's auxiliary units thereof, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, and the special fund for vocational rehabilitation.

Every church constitutes a religious corporation or organization for the purpose of this deduction. Donations to missionary funds, church building, pew rents, and assessments and dues paid to churches are deductible.

Deductions for contributions to political campaign purposes are not allowable. Amounts spent for lobbying purposes, the promotion or defeat of legislation, and for propaganda purposes, including advertising other than trade advertising, are not deductible.

Deductions may not be made for gift of alms to an individual for the relief of poverty or distress, but if made to an organization of the kind described above may be deducted even though the organization distributes its fund among such beneficiaries. Deductible contributions have been construed to mean money or property. The value of services to the organizations mentioned is not allowed as a deduction.

Stories That Recall Others

Was It a Laughing Matter?

Dorothy, age 7, recently with two of her elders was a visitor at the home of Mrs. X. When the little girl saw her friend a few days later she said:

"When we left your house the other day one of my aunts said to the other, 'Isn't Mrs. X a pretty woman?' and do you know, I just had to laugh."

Piff, Puff

William, aged nine, is very enthusiastic about his school and is much enamoured with his teacher and manlike is observant of other women teachers.

He came home from school the other day and reported as follows: "Mother, one teacher at our school puffs all at once for the whole day, but my teacher puffs and powders every little while, but she's mighty bright and I believe she has run away from home to make a living because she is all the time watching for somebody."

Coal has been found in Ireland. A Coal island two shafts 1,000 feet deep have been sunk into ten seams of coal averaging three feet in thickness. It is estimated that 200,000,000 tons are there.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Better than a mustard plaster

POETRY

Attainment

Not long ere we shall know—
When these few years
Of toil and pain and woe
Have spent their tears;

When grim, unsparing Fate
Has graved our fame
Upon a stone—a date,
An empty name;

A memory held an hour
In sacred trust—
To fade as fades the flower,
And fall to dust;

When passions, hopes and dreams,
Alike are fled,
And all of us that seems
Is with the dead;

When out of time and space,
At last made whole,
We meet not face to face
But soul to soul,

Our dawning lives made bright
As sun-rimmed snow
In the eternal light—
Then we shall know.
—Owen A. Hagen in Boston Transcript.

The Bewildered Guest

I was not asked if I should like to come,
I have not seen my host here since I came,
Or had a word of welcome in his name;
Some say that we shall never see him, and some
That we shall see him elsewhere, and then know
Why we are bid. How long I am to stay
I have not the least notion. None they say,
Was ever told when he should come or go.
But every now and then there bursts upon
The song and mirth a lamentable noise,
A sound of shrieks and sobs that strikes our joys.
Dumb in our breasts; and then some one is gone.
They say we'll meet him. None knows how or when.
We know we shall not meet him here again.

William Dean Howells.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Mrs. Jazz—And here's Marion's new piano. Wouldn't you just love to try something on it?

Next door neighbor (grimly)—I certainly would. Only somebody has borrowed it to split some kindling.—American Legion Weekly.

Mrs. Newrich—What is that white cross on your coat for, John?

Newrich—"It's in case the press take our pictures. 'Aven't you noticed it's those marked with a cross that gets their names printed under the pictures—Boston Transcript.

Irish Barrister (addressing the bench)—Your honor, I shall first absolutely prove to the jury that the prisoner could not have committed the crime with which he is charged. If that does not convince the jury, I shall show that he was insane when he committed it. If that fails, I shall prove an alibi—Prarie Farmer.

Gather what you will, but look to your storage facilities.

Two tricks are better than a dozen fizzles.

Futility is trying to sell permanent waves to a bald-headed man.

In a crowd dressed up, a simply gowned girl sure does shine.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"And if I do consent to lend you this money," said the rich man, "how am I to know whether I shall ever get it back?" "Oh, but I promise on the word of a gentleman," said the other. "Very well, then Come to my flat this evening and bring the gentleman with you."—Tid-Bits, London.

One thousand young buffaloes will be taken from the Wainwright (Alberta) herd, and released in the region in which wood buffaloes are found. This is necessary because of the increasing size of the Wainwright herd.

By developing electric light to an intensity one-fourth that of the sun's rays, experimenters have been able to make flowers bloom at a predetermined time, and to mature vegetables in from two to three weeks' less time than normally elapses between planting and ripening.

Two senate committees hearing evidence on weighty public matters were disturbed and forced to remain idle when a gray squirrel became entangled in an electric fuse in the Capitol at Washington. Long stretches of corridors and many inside rooms were thrown into complete darkness for more than an hour.

Chinese in its spoken form is a simpler language than even English. There are none of the terrors of comjugation, declension or the inflections that mark European languages. Western children born in China with equal opportunities of hearing Chinese spoken in the home learn Chinese first because it is easier. In a year of earnest study a good foundation can be laid. Knowledge of the new Chinese alphabet enables the beginner to use the characters without the aid of oral instruction. It is thus possible for the student after a start to carry on his own study after a start has been made with an instructor.

BEFORE BABIES WERE BORN

Mrs. Oswald Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Girardville, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my last two babies came. It keeps me in perfect health and I am on my feet getting meals and doing all my housework until an hour before the baby is born. A friend told me to take it and I have used ten bottles since I heard about it. I recommend the Vegetable Compound whenever I can. Just yesterday a friend was telling me how miserable she felt, and I said, 'If you start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's you will feel fine.' Now she is taking it."—Mrs. P. J. OSWALD, Jr., 408 West Ogden St., Girardville, Pa.

Mrs. Nicola Paluzzi Says

Mishawaka, Indiana.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness before my babies were born. I was weak and tired out all the time and it helped me. When I had inward inflammation the doctor treated me, but did not help me, so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Senative Wash and it helped me at once."—Mrs. NICOLA PALUZZI, 415 E. Broadway, Mishawaka, Indiana.

OBITUARY.

Grant Coddington Swan.

Following an illness of over a year the life of Grant Coddington Swan came to a close Friday, Jan. 11 in Monrovia, Cal. Mr. Swan was born 30 years ago in St. Paul, Minn., the son of the late William M. and Minnie P. Swan. He had lived in both Norwich Town and Preston. A few years ago he enlisted in the U. S. army and served three years. Immediately thereafter he joined the United States navy and served four years. After leaving the navy he went west. For a while he lived in Tucson, Arizona. Three years ago he married Miss Elise S. Hoffman of Tucson, Ariz. Surviving him besides his wife are a sister, Mrs. Everett D. Benjamin of Preston City and a brother, William A. Swan of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Burial is to take place in Monrovia, California.

Mrs. George D. Coit

The death of Frances Henrietta (Dana) Coit, widow of George D. Coit, occurred suddenly Friday morning at her home, 19 Broad St. She had been in failing health since the death of her son, James Dana Coit, June 8, 1923, but she had attended the annual meeting of Park Congregational curch Thursday evening.

Mrs. Coit was born in New Haven, July 24, 1846, daughter of Prof. James D. and Henrietta (Silliman) Dana, of that city. She had four children, George Grosvenor, born Sept. 29, 1873, died Oct. 4, 1885; a son born Nov. 4, 1875, died Nov. 7, 1875; Helen Grosvenor, born Feb. 9, 1879, died Jan. 27, 1880; and James Dana, born Dec. 8, 1880, died June 8, 1923. Her husband who was long treasurer of the Chelsea Savings bank, died in Norwich Oct. 4, 1906

Mrs. Coit was widely known in this section of the state and had for many years taken an active interest in Park church, of which she had been a member for years. She had been president of the parish house association, a leader in the missions department of the church, and was president of the United Workers of Norwich from 1910 to 1921. In her death a host of friends are left to mourn her loss, and her many kindly acts will long be remembered by the community.

Mrs. Coit is survived by a brother and a sister of New Haven, and a grand daughter, Miss Frances Dana Coit of Norwich.

At a special meeting of the executive committee of the United Workers in January 1521, the following minutes were adopted:

In view of the retirement of Mrs. George D. Coit from the office of president of the United Workers after 40 years of continuous service in various official positions as: secretary and treasurer of the Rock Nook Children's Home department, from January 1881 to July 1890; as assistant treasurer of the United Workers from July 1890 to January 1891; as treasurer from January 1891 to January 1908; as vice president from January 1908 to January 1909; as first vice president from January 1909 to January 1910 and as president from January 1910 to January 1921, be it resolved: That we hereby express our regret at the retirement of Mrs. Coit and our high appreciation of her long continued and valuable services realising that the work of the association has been widely extended under her guidance, always in the spirit of its founders. At this time she was made honorary vice president.

Andrew Rossmark

After a short illness the life of Andrew Rossmark of Fox Hill, East Side came to a close at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at his home.

Mr. Rossmark was born in Baltimore, 51 years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rossmark, being a descendent of one of the oldest families of Baltimore, his great grandfather having settled in Baltimore shortly after the Revolutionary War having come to this country from Paris, France, where he was born of German parentage. He also built the earliest brewery in the United States.

Mr. Rossmark came to Norwich when about 14 years of age and had lived on the East Side since that time. For many years he had been in the ice business but of recent years had been engaged in farming.

Surviving him besides his wife is one daughter, Miss Mary Rossmark of Norwich and a sister, Mrs. Rolls H. Harris of Broadway; also other relatives.

Mr. Rossmark was a member of the Sons of Herman and of Ionic Camp, No. 7694, Modern Woodmen of America.

Vogalid-Jeanaret Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Augustus Jeaneret of Providence announce the marriage of their daughter, Reita May, to Enoch Martin Vogalid on Wednesday, Jan. 9, at Cocoa, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Vogalid will be at home after January 19 at the Kanzami apartments at Miami Beach, Fla. Mrs. Vogalid is a granddaughter of Mrs Albert E. Jeaneret of Washington avenue, Westerly, and made many acquaintances during her visit here last summer.

Unclaimed Letters

Unclaimed letters in the Norwich, Conn., post office for the week ending January 19, 1924:

GRANTS RECEIVER AUTHORITY TO CUT OFF EAST LYME TROLLEY

Authority to abandon another section of what once comprised the Shore Line Electric Railway was granted to Receiver Robert W. Perkins Friday by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court here. The section to be abandoned is the East Lyme division, upon which the receiver had an application before the court. Attorney C. B. Whittlesey represents the receiver in court and told Judge Brown that the first year this division was in operation it cost $7,000. At that time the cars were run to Crescent Beach. Then the run was shortened and on this shorter run the loss on operation was $4,000 in a year. After that the court gave permission to stop the run at Flanders Corner, but even here a loss was shown. From October 1 to Jan. 1, 1924, motor buses were put on the line, but these failed to make money for the company. The receiver has had several offers to sell the busses and he wants to do so and junk the trolley line. This permission was given by the order which the court directed should be entered.

The motion for an order requiring the plaintiff's attorney to comply with an order of the court of Dec. 26, 1923, in the case of Callahan vs. Farley was denied by Judge Brown, he claiming that the plaintiff had complied with the order sufficiently. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney Arthur Keefe while the defendant was represented by Attorney Gilman.

In the case of Alton T. Miner vs. Erick Ryan, et al., Judge Brown granted judgment of foreclosure for $662.16 and set the time as the second Monday in February, Feb. 11. Mr. Miner and William E. Pattison, building inspector of New London, testified as to the mortgages on the property and other incumbrances.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED, ONE DECISION RESERVED

Judge Allyn L. Brown granted two divorces in the superior court here Friday morning and reserved decision after hearing the evidence in another case on the uncontested list.

Frieda Gley Fitzpatrick of Stonington was granted divorce from Oswald R. Fitzpatrick, formerly of Meriden, now of parts unknown. She was also given the custody of an 11-year-old child. The wife testified that her marriage took place Jan. 18, 1913, and that her husband deserted her in April 1913 and she has not seen him since.

Otillia Mansfield MacInness of this city secured divorce from John N. MacInness of New Britain on the ground of desertion on March 1, 1915. They were married Feb. 11, 1904. There are two children which the husband supports and has cared for since their separation. She has been working in the American Woolen plant in Norwich and has supported herself since 1915. The wife testified that her husband left her because she had signified her intention of going to work in order to straighten out the family finances. This she claimed was the reason for his leaving.

Judge Brown reserved decision after hearing the evidence in the petition of Agnes R. Quinn vs. Frank B. Quinn. Mrs. Quinn, whose maiden name was Agnes Rebecca Gill of Jewett City, testified that she married Frank B. Quinn in Stonington August 12, 1922, and that immediately after her marriage she boarded in New London for a time, returning to her parents in Jewett City in September, 1922. Here her husband used to come to see her until last spring when his mother came to her parents' home, while her husband was there, and notified her that he was married and that he had not obtained a divorce. The wife had believed he had obtained the divorce before she married him. Violet Gill, a sister, and Anna Peterson, both of Jewett City, told of what they knew of the wife's married life.

Other cases on the list which were not heard were Clara D. Nichols vs. William J. Nichols, Albert E. Lazaro Jr., vs. Zettie X. Lazaro, Lois I. Bell vs Marvin O. Bell.

MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR NORWICH GOLF CLUB

That the Norwich Golf club has passed through the most successful year in its history was indicated in the report of Secretary and Treasurer Grosvenor Ely made Friday afternoon at the annual meeting of the club held in the office of Joseph C. Worth in the Thayer building.

The report of Treasurer Ely showed that the total business of the club during 1923 was over $21,000, while the restaurant connected with the club had a business of over $3,000 for the year. The report also showed that the membership of the club has increased during the year, now totaling 337.

One pat of the epot thart was perhaps the most interesting had to do with the money taken in from transient players. In 1923 $1,980 was collected from transient players, thus proving that the course at the Norwich Golf club is liked by both local and out of town players. The money taken in was more than in any previous year. It is also an indication that the game of golf is increasing in popularity in Norwich and in time will tend to bring an increased membership to the club.

The election of three governors for terms of three years took place at the meeting as follows: Russell A. Clapp, Jr., Frank P. Welsh and Grosvenor Ely. Other governors holding over in office for 1924 will be C. Royce Boss, Willis Austin, William G. Park, Edward L. Hall, Joseph C. Worth and W. B. Hoggartt.

At a subsequent meeting of the board of governors the following officers were elected for 1924, President, C. Royce Boss; vice president, Willis Austin; secretary and treasurer, Joseph C. Worth.

A vote of thanks was tendered the officers of 1923 for their untiring work which aided greatly in making the year the best in the history of the club.

The officers of last year were C. Royce Boss, president; William G. Park, vice president; and Grosvenor Ely, secretary and treasurer.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR TRIAL IN SUPERIOR COURT

The following assignments for the superior court, Judge Allyn L. Brown presiding, have been made:

CHRIST CHURCH ORGANIST GOING TO DETROIT

Ernest M. Ibbotson, who has been organist and choirmaster at Christ Episcopal church for several years, is to resign to accept the position of organist in one of the largest churches in Detroit. The congregation of the Norwich church has been very well satisfied with Mr. Ibbotson's work while here and will regret his leaving, but the opportunity afforded him in Detroit is too advantageous to be declined.

Predicts Rain Instead of Snow.

The same type of weather that has so far been experienced this winter, with rain where snow would normally be expected, is to continue through the rest of the winter season, according to the prediction made by a Norwich weather prophet Friday.

SUSSMAN MUST PAY $5,000 FOR THE DEATH OF HIS FATHER

Brother sued brother and obtained damages for the death of their father in an automobile accident, by a Supreme Court jury verdict Thursday at White Plains, N. Y., with a $5,000 award in favor of Harris Sussman, against Julius Sussman of Kew Garden, N. Y., formerly of Norwich.

Harris Sussman sued as administrator of the estate of his father, Samuel Sussman, 73, a retired resident of North Sixth avenue, Mount Vernon, N. Y. According to the attorney for Harris, Julius Sussman was driving several members of his family, including his father, from Mount Vernon to Norwich, Conn., July 23, 1921, to attend a family reunion. At New Haven he turned the wheel over to his wife, Irene, who was found at the trial to have driven the motor car at an excessive speed, over the protests of the other passengers, including the father.

At Westbrook, Conn., the automobile hit a curve and went into a heap of sand. Mrs. Sussman's husband, Julius, who sat alongside, seized the wheel and turned the car suddenly back into the roadway, causing it to turn over. The father was so badly injured that he died three days later in the New London Hospital. The witnesses for the plaintiff were the widow, another son, Maxwell Sussman and a daughter, Etta Sussman.

The attorney argued that it was the duty of Harris Sussman as administrator to enforce liability against his brother, who was charged with negligence, and Justice Seeger, before whom the action was tried, decided that it was a claim in behalf of the estate which required judicial determination.

STATE MASTER PAINTERS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Criticism directed against paint jobbers for alleged unfairness in the sale of materials was brought out at the afternoon session of the Master Painters and Decorators' convention at Hartford Thursday afternoon.

The question of protection of master painters in the purchase of materials from both jobbers and manufacturers, but especially from jobbers, caused considerable discussion.

The contention of the painters was that the jobber showed price preference to house owners and sold them materials at the same rate and in many cases at lower rates than the painters themselves received.

It was voted that the matter be brought up at the next international convention.

Officers elected and installed were: President, D. H. MacKenzie of Bridgeport; first vice president, E. W. Nelson of Hartford; second vice president, D. I. Chapman of New Haven; secretary and treasurer, O. V. Marsh of Hartford; trustee for three years, Walter Newton of Greenwich; executive board representative, E. M. Walsh of New Haven.

Neil M. Muirhead, a former president of the society, was installing officer.

It was voted that the convention next year be held in New Britain.

RUM RUNNER COLUMBIA SLIDES INTO DEEP WATER

The rum runner Columbia which was wrecked on Fisher's Island several weeks ago slid off the ledge into deeper water in the recent storm and Capt. Peckham of the coast guard station was of the opinion that the storm of Thursday night would break up the remaining portion of the hull. The craft has held together well, which shows her to have been a well built one. The sea ran high all day Wednesday on the south shore of Fisher's Island.

Talk on Thrift at Commercial School

By request of the principal, a brief talk on "thrift" was given Friday morning by General Secretary Hill of the local Y. M. C. A. at the Commercial school.

Among other things the speaker said: I suppose during the last 20 years enough money has been wasted in Norwich to have built a half dozen school buildings. I found in the dictionary that one meaning of "thrift" is "vigorous growth, as of a plant."

It is very important to practice in developing the body; Theodore Roosevelt is a shining example of this thought. We should also practice thrift in our studies: in our mental development; we should continue to grow knowledge. I pity the boy or girl who ignore, or neglect to take due notice of what their instructors teach them; the boy or girl who fails to be thrifty in the acquiring of knowledge will lag behind in the activities of life. Then we should as boys and girls practice thrift at home; we should grow daily in usefulness in the home. While the meaning of thrift is not confined to the saving of money, this is a very important part of it; you will be surprised at the amount your small saving will amount to if you keep at it. The wise boy and girl is thrifty in putting a little in the bank, for the proverbial "rainy day." I urge you not only to be thrifty in saving, but be thrifty in giving, for if we fail to give to worthy institutions and to needy individuals, we lose many of the sweet experiences of life: some one has said that "each soul grows rich by giving" and this is very true. Such men as Huyler, the candy maker, and Colgate, the soap maker, early formed the habit of giving at least a tenth of every dollar to others, and God wonderfully prospered them. May I urge you then, to be thrifty in the development of the body, God has given you; that you practice thrift in your studies, in preparation for your life work; that you see to it that you grow more useful daily in service in the home life, and that you follow the practice of saving a certain part of all the money you get and that you remember that there is great opportunity to be thrifty in giving to others."

FUNERAL.

Mrs. Aurelia Sutliff Lyon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Aurelia Sutliff Lyon were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home, No. 44 Perkins avenue, many relatives and friends attending. There were beautiful floral tributes, testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends.

The service was conducted by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of the United Congregational church. Burial was in the family plot in Yantic cemetery where Rev. Mr. Abbott read the committal service. The bearers were Albert S. Comstock, Herbert W. Gallup, John Sherman and John E. Fanning.

Arrangements were by Henry Allen & Son company.

Miss Hannah B. Witter.

Funeral services for Miss Hannah B. Witter were held Friday afternoon from No. 33 Penobscot street, relatives and friends attending from out of town. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The service was in charge of Rev. Gurdon L. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, and during the service Charles D. Geer sang, Jesus, Lover of My Soul.

Burial was in the family plot in Avery cemetery, Preston, where Rev Mr. Bailey conducted a committal service. The bearers were John Trankla, D. W. Avery, Herbert L. Yerrington and Charles D. Geer.

Arrangements were by C. A. Geer.

R. I. RED HEN LAYS 43 DAYS WITHOUT SKIP

Rhode Island Red No. 506 has laid straight from December 2 to January 13, forty-three days without a miss. This does not break the Storrs record for consecutive laying but it is a continuous performance that is seldom seen in mid-winter. In the 11th week Wyandottes and Reds again stayed at the top. D. O. Witmer's pen of White Wyandottes from Joplin, Mo., was first for the week with a score of 57 eggs. Fernside Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Attleboro, Mass., was second best for the week with a total of 55 eggs. Harvey V. Byerly's White Wyandottes from Sharpeville, Pa., and two pens of Leghorns entered by F. M. Johnson of Waldoboro, Maine, and C. T. Darby of North Branch, N. J., all tied for third place with 53 eggs each. Two pens of Leghorns owned by Mountain Meadow Farm at West Rutland, Vt., and L. V. Steelman of State College, Pa., tied for fourth place with 46 eggs each.

The depression that prevailed during the ninth and tenth weeks is apparently past and the trend of egg production is again upward. In the eleventh week the total lay for all pens was 3119 eggs or a yield of nearly 45 per cent. This means a gain of 104 eggs over the previous week and 788 eggs better than for the corresponding week last year. According to all the dope, the trend of production should be upward from this time on to the middle of May, when most flocks reach the top, and begin gradually to slow down from that time on to the end of the hen year.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets, compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

FALSIFICATION OF BIRTH RECORD IS CHARGED

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 18.—Mrs Peach Winstone Miller, under arrest in Southbridge for the local police, is charged with falsification of a birth record. The police say that she is too ill to be brought to this city now and therefore her arraignment was deferred for at least two weeks. The child involved was brought here last night by a policewoman who has been investigating the case and was placed temporarily in the city hospital. The police say that the story told by Mrs. Peach Miller is essentially correct in the main. She told the policewoman that she was the victim of an attack while alone in the garage of her father-in-law in Southbridge just prior to the birth of her twins. The record show that Armond Lizott was convicted of this crime, which was one of attempted murder, and that in the attack the woman was knocked unconscious.

GREATEST AMONG EVILS OF MOVING PICTURES

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18—Repeal of the motion picture censorship law in New York state sought in the democratic administration, will not furnish solution of the problem of objectionable films, the state motion picture commission declared today in its annual report to Governor Smith.

Greatest among the evils attending exhibition of motion pictures, the commission believes, is the display of pictures which show methods of committing crime and escaping punishment.

Misrepresentation of American home life, with lavish display of luxuries possessed by persons living in immoral relationships, is one of the sharpest criticisms of the modern day film, the commission declares, and furnishes excellent reasons for strict regulation by a state or national agency.

GREB RETAINS MIDDLEWEIGHT CROWN IN BATTLE WITH WILSON

The champion carried the fight all through the fifteen rounds and the decision met with the approval of the spectators that filled the garden. Greb, contrary to his usual method, fought at long range during the early rounds and appeared to be as effective at this style of the game as he was with his milling, mauling tactics in the latter part of the fight.

Wilson's best punch was a left hook to the body which he landed occasionally. Greb was in good condition and when he was going at top speed, he ran rings around the boy from whom he won the title at the Polo grounds last summer. Wilson's left eye was cut in the latter part of the fight and it was swelling shut at the end.

At times both men had to be cautioned by the referee for holding and clinching. Greb weighed 158 1-2 pounds and Wilson 158 1-2.

In the semi-final, Jack McAuliffe, second, of Detroit, and Tiny Jim Herman, of Omaha, bantamweights, bouged a six-round draw. The results of the preliminaries follow:

Dave McGill, the Irish light heavyweight, won the judges' decision over Leo Gates of New York, in six rounds.

Joe Stoessel, New York heavyweight, knocked out Jim Hibbard, one of Luis Firpo's victims, in the second round of a four-round match.

The Fight in Detail.

In the first round Greb jumped to the attack, landing a swinging left to the body. They worked at long range with little effect. Greb kept hooking the left to Wilson's body and Wilson was unable to land a blow.

Round two—They engaged in an exchange of body punching at close quarters. Greb missed a long hook and was sent to the ropes from a stiff left to the stomach. He recovered quickly, however, and they began slugging. Greb was hitting often but his blows did not seem to hurt.

Round three—Greb swung a right to Wilson's stomach during a heavy slugging engagement. Wilson retaliated with a shaking hook to the jaw. After a bit of milling around Wilson crossed a right to Greb's jaw and Greb stayed away for the rest of the round.

Round four—Wilson rolled Greb with two swinging rights to the body and a left hook to the stomach. They fell into half a dozen clinches after missing punches and when the referee sauntered Greb to open up Wilson walked to the middle of the ring and said "Let's fight." But the round ended.

Round five—Wilson led another attack to the body. Wilson was landing oftener now. Did best pending straight lefts into Greb's stomach. Greb began holding. Greb danced around and started a swinging attack but Wilson evaded the hardest swings.

Round six—They mauled each other around but neither was damaged. Wilson sunk a left into the stomach that made Greb dance around. Greb rocked Wilson's head with straight rights. Wilson came back with a two-fisted attack to the body that forced Greb to the ropes.

Round seven—Both missed left punches and once Wilson turned all the way around lost Greb and started towards the side of the ring for him making the crowd roar. Greb turned Johnny around again with a hard right to the jaw. They exchanged swinging rights to the body and then at close quarters chopped at each other's jaws.

Round eight—Greb sunk a few rights to head and body. Wilson's head rocked from the impact of straight lefts. Greb was on the offensive. Right uppercuts at close quarters had Wilson's head bobbing up and down. Greb swung a hard right to the stomach as the bell rang.

Round nine—There was a lot of wild swinging by both men. Wilson jarred Greb with a right to the jaw and Greb came back with heavy rights to the body. Greb was landing heavily to head and body with his rights.

Round ten—They milled around for at least a minute before either landed a blow. Greb then swung another right to the body. Greb was now dancing all about his opponent and began swinging punches from any angle. Greb turned Wilson completely around with a chop on the jaw and Wilson was bewildered when the bell rang.

Round eleven—Greb danced around and about Wilson and at times went around so fast that he hit Wilson three and four times before the challenger could find him. Wilson sent in an occasional hard left to the body. Wilson's left eye was closing from a swinging right.

Round twelve—There was hardly any action to speak of. Wilson was caring about his injured eye and kept stabbing left at long range. Greb landed a left hook to the jaw as the round ended.

Round thirteen—Greb flung lefts at Wilson's head. Wilson countered with short punches to the body. Greb kept slamming a right to the body. There was a lot of clinching and the latter part of the round was slow.

Round fourteen—Greb kept shooting the right and it was doing great work for him. Greb started mauling at close quarters and Wilson's mouth bled. A right uppercut shook Wilson to his heels.

Round fifteen—Greb slammed a right to the jaw. Wilson coming back with shaking left to the chin. Greb drove Wilson to the ropes with a swinging attack to the body. There was a lot of head to head mauling which seemed to be an even exchange to the end of the fight ended.

SHOCKER WITHDRAWS HIS FREE AGENT PLEA

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Settlement of the case involving Urban Shocker, star pitcher of the St. Louis Browns, who today withdrew his plea before Commissioner Landis that he be declared a free agent, removes a serious problem which would have otherwise confronted the major league club owners, it was stated in baseball circles tonight.

The baseball world was watching the case closely, as it affected one of the basic principles of the game—the right of a club to discipline its players. Shocker, who had contended that his rights of action had been infringed upon by the refusal of the St. Louis club to allow him to take his wife on the last eastern trip of the 1923 season, appeared before Commissioner Landis and asked that the case be settled. Shocker explained that the situation had been satisfactorily adjusted.

Just what the terms of the settlement were, were not revealed. When Shocker refused to accompany the club on the last trip, he was suspended and fined $1,000. Whether the full amount of the fine was returned to Shocker, Commissioner Landis would not say. It was understood, however, that a satisfactory financial settlement had been reached and that Shocker also received back salary due him.

The case was adjusted largely through the efforts of Bob Quinn, president of the Boston club, who was secretary of the Browns at the time Shocker was disciplined. Quinn, it is understood, arranged the meeting between Shocker and Commissioner Landis, which resulted in the case being dropped.

Commissioner Landis tonight refused to comment on the case, aside from saying "an agreement was reached between Shocker and the St. Louis club and at the request of the player the case was dropped."

OLYMPIC SWIMMING TRY-OUTS IN JUNE

New York, Jan. 19.—The final men's Olympic swimming try-outs will be held June 5, 6 and 7, instead of June 12 and 14 in the Broad Ripple pool at Indianapolis, the Amateur Athletic union announced today. The change was made because the original dates would not give the swimmers sufficient time to arrange for departure on the American, which will sail with the Olympic team on June 16.

The re-arranged try-out program, as suggested by Indianapolis members of the national swimming committee, includes the 100 and 1,500 metre events, fancy style, and springboard dive, on June 5; and 400 metres, free style, and 100 metres, back stroke, on June 6; the 200 metres, both free style and back stroke, relay trials and plain and fancy high diving on June 7.

"Y" SENIORS LOSE CLOSE GAME TO STONINGTON

By the close score of 20 to 21 the Y. M. C. A. Senior basketball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Stonington quintette last night. The locals were much handicapped by the small court as well as the rough and ready type of game that they were forced to play, and the spectators were given forty minutes of real tussling, much to the delight of many. The Stoningtons have a team of excellent players and coached under official rules should prove a real drawing card. The Stonington boys are booked to play a return game at Norwich during the month of February. The Seniors were represented last night by Bosch, Charnetski, Williams, Harris, Grebe and Finlayson.

OLYMPIC RESULTS TO BE SENT OUT FROM EIFFEL TOWER

Paris, Jan. 19.—The results of the Olympic winter sports competition at Chamonix will be made known to the world by the latest and most modern methods. Eleven minutes will be devoted daily by the Eiffel tower broadcasting station for announcing the results, and at night a full summary will be given. Two other powerful stations also will give the results. A special corps of interpreters will be employed.

PITCHERS OF PHILLIES TO REPORT FEB. 24TH

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—Manager Arthur Fletcher of the Philadelphia National league club, said today that he had ordered all battery men to report at the spring training camp at Leesburg, Fla., by February 24. The other players will arrive there March 1. Fletcher said he wanted the pitchers and catchers to have at least a week's preliminary workout.

Celtics Beat Seconds.

The Taftville Celtics defeated the Battery B Seconds in the second game of a five-game series, played Friday night at the state armory, 17 to 13. Phaneuf starred for the Celtics. The passwork of the remainder of the team was also a feature. Lightning Fenton played a flashy game. The summary:

Giants Buy Baldwin.

New York, Jan. 19.—Purchase by the New York Giants from the Newark club of Howard E. Baldwin, considered one of the best pitchers in the International league was announced today. The deal had been pending for two weeks. It was understood a cash payment was made, but the amount was not revealed.

Harvard Beats Brown.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 19.—Harvard defeated the Brown university basketball team, 41 to 27, here tonight. Superior passing, coupled with a strong five-man offense featured Harvard's games. Smith, 135-pound Harvard forward, scored eight goals from the floor. Captain Gordon tallied six times. Chaffee starred for Brown.

Eastern Schedule Rejected.

New Haven, Jan. 19.—The Eastern league schedule as presented before the special meeting of the Eastern league club owners today was rejected. The meeting adjourned without further action as to the preparation of a new schedule. George Weiss, owner of the New Haven club, did not attend today's meeting.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE REFUSES TO LET MRS. MOLLA MALLORY COMPETE

New York, Jan. 19.—(By The A. P.)—Mrs. Molla Mallory, seven times national women's tennis champion, will not represent the United States in the Olympic tennis competition at Paris next July. Hope that the former titleholder, would be able to compete for America, despite the fact that she represented her native Norway in the 1912 Olympics, was abandoned today when the United States Lawn Tennis association was officially notified that the international Olympics committee had declared Mrs. Mallory ineligible to play for this country.

At the same time, the U. S. L. T. A. was informed that the international committee holds Mrs. Mallory eligible to compete again for Norway and it is understood that country has invited Mrs. Mallory to carry the colors of her native land once more.

Mrs. Mallory was quoted recently as saying she would compete for Norway if ineligible to represent the United States, but it was said today she had not decided definitely what course to follow, in addition, there is a possibility that her present status as an American citizen may prevent her entry as a Norwegian competitor at Paris.

The international Olympic committee's final ruling in Mrs. Mallory's case was based upon the provision in its rules which prohibits an athlete who has once represented a country in Olympic competition from ever playing for any other nation. As Molla Bjurstedt, she finished third in the women's singles at the Stockholm Olympics in 1912, but American tennis officials sought to have a special ruling made in her case. It was felt that since Mrs. Mallory has made her home in this country for nearly ten years, become a citizen by marriage and gained international fame through her tennis exploits here, she qualified as a typical American representative and that the barrier in the Olympic rules was not intended to apply in such an instance.

The decision of the international Olympic committee is not expected to affect the plans of the U. S. L. T. A. for Mrs. Mallory to compete as a member of the American women's team in the international cup matches with British women in England in June and also in the Wimbledon championship. This team probably will sail about the first of June and in addition to Mrs. Mallory is expected to include Helen Wills, national champion; Eleanor Goss, and Mrs. George W. Wightman, donor of the trophy bearing her name which will be at stake in the international contest.

LOCAL GOLFERS TAKING UP WINTER PRACTICE

The new golf school that George Falconer, professional at the Norwich Golf club, is to conduct this winter is an innovation in the eastern part of the state and is attracting the attention of the golfing fraternity. Golf schools are common in the large cities but this is the first time that such a venture has been made in Norwich.

Mr. Falconer has two rooms fitted up in the Disco building and the golfer gets almost the same conditions as in the out-door game with the exception that he cannot see his drive sail down the fairway and feel that exultation of a feat well done. But for real practice in putting and driving, chipping and putting a back spin on the ball the new arrangement is perfect. One room has been fitted up for a putting green and is as near like the real velvet green as it is artificially possible to make it. The other room is fitted with a large net and is used for driving and iron shots. There is a tee from which the players drive into a canvas back-stop. They can put the full power into the drive and develope their accuracy which will help them when they get out on the golf course. Mashie and other iron shots are made from a fibre mat which is almost the same as real turf.

Many of the local players have tried out the arrangement and say that it will most certainly improve their game and keep them in trim for the coming season.

NO LEAGUE POLITICS IN BOSTON DEAL

Chicago, Jan. 19.—The charge of league politics in connection with the recent deal between the Boston and Cleveland American league clubs was branded as untrue tonight by President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox, who stopped here enroute to Columbus, Ohio.

"League politics had nothing to do with our deal," Mr. Quinn said. "There has been considerable talk about 'gentlemen's agreement' and the like between major league clubs, but as far as the Boston club is concerned, we have no gentlemen's agreement with any club.

"The time has come when players are so scarce that no club will permit any player to get away from it, providing that the club believes that the player, upon whom waivers are asked, will benefit the club.

"Any waivers are asked on any player, and we believe that the player will help us, we are not going to permit him to get away from us. I firmly believe that all the other clubs are taking the same attitude."

President Quinn said he expected to have one of the best clubs in the league next season. He was highly elated over the big deal, in which seven players were involved, and said he was not yet through, as he was looking for a good pitcher or two and any other players which will make his club a contender.

SPORT NOTES

Duffy Lewis, in signing to manage Salt Lake City for 1924, had broken a record. He is the first man to last more than two seasons in the Mormon city.

University of Illinois golfers received major 'I's and sweaters for winning this year's western conference golf championship. It was the first time the award was made golf players.

Joe Dugan is putting in the winter as an automobile salesman in New York. Poe's great work against the Giants made him a big favorite in Gotham and he is capitalizing on his reputation.

Sports at Princeton last season showed a loss of $17,000, despite the large revenue received during the 1922-23 football season from big games with Harvard, Yale and Chicago.

Bryan Downey of Cleveland, who legitimately won the middleweight title from Johnny Wilson, only to be disqualified by a hand-picked referee for a foul which nobody saw, is on the down grade. Downey met Harry Greb, the new champion, in a recent bout, and was battered from post to post.

University of Oregon at Eugene has been asked by the Meiji university of Japan to visit the Orient and play them a series of baseball games. The Meiji nine is the champion team of the flowery kingdom by recent victories over Waseda and Keio in collegiate tests. The Meiji players will in turn come to Eugene for a series of games.

Little chance has any of Connie Mack's recruits of breaking into a job in the outfield with the A's next season. Connie figures his outerworks will consist of Simmons, Miller, Strand and Welsh. Miller and Welsh are two holdovers from the 1923 season. This will make the Athletic outfield the most unique of any club in either major league. It will not have a single left-handed hitter. Three fly chasers hit right-handed.

Coach Joe Wright of the University of Pennsylvania rowing squad will endeavor to secure big, rangy men for this year's varsity eight-oared shell crew. Penn as well as the U. S. Navy and Syracuse have already announced their intention of striving for the honor of representing the United States in the Olympic regatta. The Navy is present Olympic champions.

In 1883 the Boston club of the National league won every game it played against the Philadelphia club, 14 in all. In 1885, the Chicago and Buffalo teams of the National league played 16 games and the Buffalo team failed to win a game. Clarkson, pitching for Chicago, won 10 of them.

22.3 PERCENT. INCREASE IN LIFE INSURANCE IN 1923

New York, Jan. 18.—A combined report of new business done by forty leading life insurance companies in 1923, showing an increase of 22.3 per cent. over 1922 in new insurance acquired and actually pair for by American people, was today forwarded by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents to the department of commerce at Washington. The report also showed that the 1923 new business production was 17 per cent. greater than that of 1920, the previous record year.

On the basis of the new business production of the forty companies, which have in force 77 per cent. of the total legal reserve life insurance in the United States. The association estimated that the total of new insurance, including revivals, increases and dividend additions produced by all companies in the country amounted in 1923 to $11,954,000,000 an increase of $2,179,000,000 over the new business production of all companies in 1922.

New life insurance actually paid for reported by the forty leading companies, with exclusion of revivals, increases and dividend additions, was $7,528,000,000 in 1923, $6,401,000,000 in 1922, $5,687,000,000 in 1921 and $6,617,000,000 in 1920.

Will She Be The "Madonna?"

Princess Norina Matchabelli, known on the stage as Maria Carmi. The Princess is said to be Lady Diana Manner's rival for the role of "Madonna" in the forthcoming productions of "The Miracle." Lady Diana was signed for the role by Morris Gest while the Florentine princess was signed by Max Reinhardt.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Rescuing the Maiden.

Now let me see. In the last story, Little Jack Rabbit had just come out of his room in the wicked Lord's castle to ask the little bird to rescue the captive maiden.

"Sh-h-h-h-!" whispered the pretty bird, "don't make noise."

"I'll keep quiet," answered the little rabbit.

"Open the door of my cage," whispered the little bird. "And follow me to the top of the castle." Then, up the winding stairs she fluttered.

"There on the wall hangs the key to the room. I will fly around to the window and whisper through the bars to the maiden that you will open the door."

The little rabbit, all trembling, took down the key and waited quietly by the door. Pretty soon he heard the little bird chirp through the keyhole, "Unlock the door." The next moment he turned the key. There stood the lovely maiden, her cheeks pale as white roses and her eyes filled with tears.

"Dearest me," whispered the poor little rabbit. "Will we be able to creep down the stairs and past all the retainers of the wicked Lord who are hanging round the castle.

"We must find a way," chirped the little bird, and she hopped out on a stout vine which climbed up and above the window. Suddenly, as if by magic little steps grew out of the woody part of the vine.

"Come," said the Bird, turning to the maiden. "Step out on this wonderful vine ladder which grows right up to the window-sill. Do you suppose you can climb down without falling?"

For answer the lovely maiden bravely stepped over the sill and commenced to climb down, the little rabbit following carefully and at last they reached the courtyard. But, oh dear me! Not far away lay a sentinel, sound asleep.

"I must get Dapple Gray," whispered the bunny boy.

"Wait a minute," answered the little bird, and she flew away. In a few moments, she returned carrying a flower in her bill.

"'Tis the Magic Sleep Flower," she explained, "I will place it close to the sleeping sentinel. He will not awake until someone takes it away."

Hopping to the stable, the little bunny mounted his faithful four-footed friend. Then the lovely maiden climbed up behind him, and the castle gates opened of themselves at the little bird's magic words:

"Open, open, gate to me.
And let the captive maid go free!"

And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Norwich experienced below zero weather 50 years ago this week. The river was frozen as far as New London and fine sleighing was enjoyed.

Items of interest a half century ago taken in part from the files of the Bulletin of 1874 are as follows:

Monday, Jan. 12, 1874—The attendance at the Central Baptist church and Preston Chapel Sunday school was larger yesterday than ever before, the number at the former place being 339. The records for the past year of this school gave an average attendance of 261. Five hundred and 17 names were registered upon the books, making a net gain of 100 over the report of last year. The collections were about $450 for the two Sunday schools. It was noticed as a remarkable fact in the report of the librarian that out of 700 volumes in the library placed in circulation during the year, only one was unaccounted for.

The Hon. William A. Buckingham was last Wednesday elected a vice president of the New England Historic Genealogical society at Boston.

Tuesday, Jan. 13, 1874—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Norwich Mutual Insurance Co., held yesterday afternoon at the office of Henry Bill, H. G. Tracy was appointed secretary. The following directors were elected to fill the vacancies made by the retiring officers whose terms of office have expired, and the same officers were elected: J. T. Wait, Z. R. Robbins and John Grace. E. D. Roath and Gardner Thurston were chosen auditors.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the First National bank was held yesterday morning the following persons being reappointed directors: L. W. Carroll, Samuel C. Morgan, Leonard Ballou, Jeremiah Halsey, Amos W. Prentice, Samuel R. Case, John A. Morgan, John Bacheider, John Bradbury. L. W. Carroll was appointed president and Lewis A. Hyde cashier for the ensuing year.

We learn that J. T. Clarke and wife, Miss Sturtevant and Miss Guild of this city were present in full dress at the hop at the Sturtevant House, New York last night.

The report of the condition of the Shetucket National bank of Norwich as made by J. L. Devotion, cashier, shows the resources of the institution to be $243,847.25.

The report of the condition of the Thames National bank as given by E. M. Gibbs shows the total resources of the institution to be $2,527,547.87.

Wednesday, Jan. 14, 1874—The Greeneville Fire department are taking steps to fit up their engine house in a manner that shall vie with the best appointed rooms in the town. They intend to furnish the upper part with an arched ceiling, folding doors and to enlarge and beautify it in every way possible. The company will provide the furniture.

Stockholders of the Thames National Bank have elected the following officers: Franklin Nichols, president; E. N. Gibbs, cashier; directors, Franklin Nichols, Ebenezer Learned, Alfred A. Young, James L. Hubbard, I. M. Buckingham, L. F. S. Foster, J. Lloyd Greene, Lorenzo Blackstone, T. P. Norton, W. G. Johnston, H. H. Osgood, John Mitchell, Charles Bard.

The Hook and Ladder Co., gave a successful ball last evening at Breed hall. The ball was a complete success and a fine musical program was given by C. W. Tubbs.

Thursday, Jan. 15, 1874—The annual meeting of the Norwich & Worcester Railroad was held Wednesday at Natural History hall, Worcester, the president, A. F. Smith of Norwich in the chair. Eight directors were elected, 8,930 shares being represented in the ballot: directors, A. F. Smith, John F. Slater, Norwich; F. H. Durie, George W. Bill, Charles W. Smith, Worcester; Robert Bayard, New York; William F. Weld, Boston; Edward L. Davis, Worcester.

The report of the First National Bank of Norwich as presented by Lewis A. Hyde, cashier, shows the resources of this institution to be $1,167,828.93.

Capt. George A. Sydleman of Norwich has carried the mail to Poquetannock and back for over 12 years, without missing a single trip, many times in the winter season being obliged to break the path himself. Persistency is a jewel.

Several citizens are protesting the proposed change which will allow the hackmen to once again make their rendezvous at the Wauregan. Since they have been forbidden to hang out there conditions have improved and it is hoped that the situation may remain unchanged.

Friday, Jan. 16, 1874—The lovers of blood and thunder, red lights and saltpeter, gathered in forces in Breed hall last night to see the sights and hear the music of the western plains and the largest audience that has appeared at any entertainment this season was present. The attraction was Buffalo Bill and his company. "Wild Bill" Hickok, a born plainsman and William F. Cody, better known as Buffalo Bill, with Texas Jack, provided the greater part of the entertainment and the ballet dancing of Mlle. Morlacchi was given with a skill and finish that is rarely afforded outside a New York theatre.

John Leighton, portrait painter, has just completed an excellent and exceedingly fine likeness in oil of W. H. Covey, foreman of The Bulletin composing room. The picture is on exhibition in the window of Martin's music store and is well worth a look.

At the annual meeting of Independence Hose Co., No. 6, held Wednesday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Foreman, John P. Murphy; first assistant, John Donahue; second assistant, W. W. Ives; secretary and treasurer, A. W. Gibbs.

There were 227 marriages, 523 births and 654 deaths in the town of Norwich for the past year as reported by David Young, town registrar.

Saturday, Jan. 17, 1874—Yesterday was the coldest day of the season. The highest flight of the mercury was not far above zero. The river is frozen as far as New London, and the City of Norwich, because of the ice was unable to make her trip yesterday. The sleighing was magnificent and cutters of every description flew thickly in all directions. The advent of the sleighing season as usual has provided smashups, the public sleigh on the Norwich Town route capsizing twice Thursday, the occupants enjoying the youthful sport of a frolic in the snow.

The third annual coterrie of the Norwich Sailing club was given last evening in Breed hall and another leaf was added to the wreath of success which the band have twined for themselves on many similar occasions on shore and on sea. The two bands, Miller's and Tubb's, which provided continuous music, were one of the features of the evening.

ENJOYED A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

"I wish to say that FOLEY PILLS worked O. K. on me in a couple of hours and the pains left me at once. I took a couple of them in the afternoon and went to bed and had a good night's sleep and have slept good ever since," writes Gon Thiel, 118 E. Columbia St., Fort Wayne, Indiana. FOLEY PILLS are a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys and will increase their activity. Refuse substitutes. - Lee & Osgood Co.

WILLINGTON

Walter Gahan, state road superintendent, has gone to Chicago for a week, with Highway Commissioner McDonald, and a party of engineers, to attend the convention of Road Builders of America.

Frank Pelikan has given up carpenter work for the winter and is at home.

Ernest Wraight has purchased a fox terrier that is also a rat terrier. Mr. Wraight showed 14 immense rats which the dog caught in one night.

Dwight Gardner of Rockville visited his home on the Hill Tuesday.

Howard Bligh has been under treatment for a severe cold.

Norman Bligh accompanied his brother, Howard Bligh, to Hartford, Wednesday. On their return they found the road obstructed by fallen trees. The rain and wind storm was not as severe here.

Thursday morning Charles Lyon, mail carrier on Route 1, appeared with a government delivery wagon and horse. The wagon is green and white and bears the inscription "U. S. Mail, R. F. D.," with a flag beneath.

The back roads are in very poor condition.

Pussy willows are coming to life with their attractive gray fur, and are used for table decorations.

Rev. Mr. Gates, Baptist district pastor for Connecticut, is to preach next Sunday.

The Columbine club met Saturday afternoon at the church for a rehearsal of their play, The Voice of Authority, which will be given in February. Mrs. G. V. Smith is director.

Miss Hazel Amidon, a student at Windham high school, Willimantic, is home ill with mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hak and Tony Hak have gone to Florida to spend the winter. Michael Soukup will have charge of the button factory.

Howard Pratt left Saturday for Florida where he will build a house for Anton Hak.

Monday Mrs. Walter Gahan's school was closed, as she visited schools in her work as supervisor of music. She was accompanied by her pupils, Susie Cavar, Alice Luchart, and the twins, Mike and John Cavar, who assisted with the singing.

One of George V. Smith's registered Jersey cows gave birth to twin calves Friday night. They were purchased by Wayne Morse, of Mansfield Center, formerly of Killington Hill.

The big moving vans that came for the goods of Rev. W. V. Allen, Friday, were stalled six hours in front of the house. W. C. Ruby, with his truck jacks, and cables, pulled the trucks to the road. The vans, with five men had been on the road since 2 o'clock in the morning, and left after five in the afternoon.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Aid society Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Ida Brown was appointed president for the remainder of the year, to succeed Mrs. Allen, who has left town. There is to be a social January 25, with games and refreshments.

LEBANON

Rev. Mr. Brown preached a fine sermon at the Baptist church Sunday morning. The C. E. meeting in the evening was led by Joseph Aspinall. The following officers were elected for the Y. P. S. C. E.: President, Henry Aspinall; vice president, Miss Flora Bruce; secretary, Miss Cora Chappell; treasurer, Abraham Aspinall; organists, Miss Flora Bruce and Miss Cora Chappell.

The funeral of A. C. Martin was held from his home, Wednesday at 1 p. m. Rev. John Knott of Chaplin officiated. There were beautiful flowers.

Rickenbacker

A • CAR • WORTHY • OF • ITS • NAME

Remember—

Rickenbacker Told You So!

Just so you will fix the fact in your own mind for future reference and guidance;

—so you will, in the future, value Rickenbacker's advice at its true worth, and heed our timely warnings;

—so you will, in short, come to realize that Rickenbacker engineering is as sound as it is progressive;

—and finally, so you will know that in selecting a Rickenbacker you are always getting a car that is at least a year in advance of the rank and file of cars in engineering improvements, in body styles, finish and appointments;

—to the end that your annual depreciation will be the minimum and resale value of your car the maximum;.

We are constrained to remind you that just six months ago, (July 1st, to be exact), Rickenbacker proclaimed to the world that, within a year, 4-Wheel Brakes would be universal.

Several makers openly took issue with us.

Not only was every effort made to discredit our assertion and discount the superiority of 4-Wheel Brakes, but to prove that Rickenbacker was wrong both in pioneering this great improvement, and in taking such a definite stand on the subject.

We were certain, however, that future events would prove the accuracy of our assertion.

We knew we were right—and feared not to go ahead.

Only six months later—January 5th to 12th—the New York Automobile Show was a sensational vindication of the Rickenbacker policy.

In almost every exhibit in that great show was an endorsement of Rickenbacker judgment—frank recognition of Rickenbacker leadership.

The evidence was so conclusive as to leave no room for doubt—4-Wheel Brakes have conquered apathetic prejudice and active opposition.

Not only have they proven necessary, but actually indispensable for safe driving in present-day traffic conditions.

Informed buyers now insist—and will continue more than ever to insist—that all four wheels be equipped with first-class brakes.

Eventually this insistence will be for fully enclosed, internal expanding brakes, too.

33—over 50%—makers exhibited cars in which 4-Wheel Brakes were an outstanding feature.

This was in response to insistent demands of buyers as expressed through salesmen and dealers.

The buyer, having once experienced the greater safety and efficiency of this fundamental improvement, said "I want that!"

And when an American buyer demands, the maker has no option—he must comply.

Today, the buyer is repeating those words so often and so emphatically, every maker must accede—or pay the penalty.

"Has this car 4-Wheel Brakes?"

That was the first question you heard when you stopped at any exhibit in the Auto Show.

And the next question generally was, "Are they internal expanding brakes mechanically operated?"

But, several other innovations and improvements that were emphasized by several makers as new in this show—but which you saw in the first Rickenbacker Six—also indicated the impress of this product on the entire industry.

11 Cars now boast "vibrationless motors." And it is interesting to note the several expedients applied in efforts to emulate the results of Rickenbacker's "Tandem Fly Wheel."

9 Cars emphasized "deeper frames"—though none as yet, approaches the eight (8") inch dimensions of the Rickenbacker "Double Depth" frame.

6 Cars showed springs set nearer the ends of the rear axle—nearer the point of contact between tire and road. This is one of the features of Rickenbacker "Cradle" spring suspension.

There are several other points, however, that are still to be found only in this car.

9 Cars have "Air Cleaners" of one kind or another—in emulation of Rickenbacker's provision for "protecting the lungs of the motor."

Fully 75% of all makers now feature steel disc wheels—first announced as standard on the first Rickenbacker Six.

5 Cars feature ball bearings in steering spindles—all of these are much higher priced cars than Rickenbacker, by the way.

5 Cars show the commutator located above motor, away from dirt, water and oil. This also you first saw in the Rickenbacker Six.

And yet—while "imitation is the sincerest form of flattery," and we heartily acknowledge the implied compliment—

We cannot but derive still more satisfaction from the fact that, while each of several have emulated Rickenbacker in one or two features, none so far, has combined all those superiorities in one product as you find them in the Rickenbacker Six.

Of course, everyone looked to this exhibit to sound the keynote for the new year.

Nor was any disappointed.

Rickenbacker ran true to form by setting a new standard of values with several refinements and the unprecedented equipment at the new price.

When you had visited this exhibit, the term "fully equipped" had acquired a new meaning.

For Rickenbacker showed, for the first time in the world's history, standard models at standard prices, so completely equipped as to leave the new owner "Nothing Else to Buy."

Rickenbacker models this year are equipped with all those safety devices and conveniences which the seasoned motorist considers essential, and for which, heretofore, you have paid extra.

Not only the customary speedometer, ammeter, voltmeter, pilot light, oil gauge and switch-lock on the instrument board;—

But also transmission lock, Folberth wind-shield cleaner, combination vanity and smoking case, motor meter, motor meter wings, motor meter lock, shock absorbers and bumpers, both front and rear.

The open models—Sport Phaeton and Sport Roadster—also have beveled plate-glass wind wings.

All models are equipped with drum tire-covers with lettered warning "4-Wheel Brakes," which is for the benefit of the man behind, and which never fails to give the Rickenbacker man right of way. This is Rickenbacker's interpretation of the term "fully equipped" as exemplified in these latest models.

Here is established not only a new standard of values, but a new code of business ethics.

For the first time, you saw an automobile in which the customer's needs and desires were considered paramount.

This is another Rickenbacker departure from former rules that will revolutionize sales practice.

"Nothing Else to Buy" is today the exclusive slogan of the Rickenbacker salesman—even as "4-Wheel Brakes" was his clarion cry six months ago.

Buyers will no longer accept as "fully equipped" a car that lacks any essential for ideal driving under any conditions of weather or traffic congestion.

Having seen the new Rickenbacker models; having yourself experienced the wonderful performance of the 4-Wheel Brakes, the luxury of a vibrationless motor, and the thrill of handling this car;—

Having seen what constitutes "complete equipment" according to the new Rickenbacker standard;—

And when you consider that all this is included in the new "delivered" price, you will be at a loss to understand how it is possible to produce so much for so little money.

We hope you will see all the others before you see the Rickenbacker—for only by direct comparison can you appreciate the amazing difference in quality, performance and value.

For, none other shows the same startling ac-celeration coupled with equally surprising de-celeration.

None other possesses "vim, vigor and vitality" to compare with this world-famous Rickenbacker Six.

None other can perform so sensationally and yet prove as sturdy and durable in everyday hard service.

In those qualities that lend a thrill as well as luxury to motoring, this Rickenbacker Six is still supreme.

In advanced engineering, Rickenbacker is the outstanding leader. In style, the fashion plate. In Pride of Ownership—unique.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, Jan. 12.—Stock prices pursued an uneven course in today's relatively quiet market, fluctuations generally being of a narrow character. Bear traders renewed their attacks on such speculative favorites as Baldwin, American Can and Studebaker, but they encountered strong support just below yesterday's closing levels and met with little success.

Some of today's selling is reported to have been inspired by the market letters of some of the larger commission houses predicting that the market was entering a trading area, pending more definite indications of the trend of spring business and urging a reduction of long commitments in some of the issues which have registered sharp gains in the last two months. Professional traders, wintering in Florida, also were reported to be heavy sellers of stocks in the last few days.

Special strength developed, however, in various sections of the list. It was particularly pronounced in such issues as Lehigh Valley, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Mallinson Silk, Air Reduction, Brooklyn Union Gas, New York Dock preferred and Woolworth, which closed 1 3-4 to 4 points above yesterday's quotations. A bullish demonstration in corn products sent that stock up to 161 1-2, the highest ever recorded, but it fell back later to 160 1-4, up 1-2 on the day.

Weekly mercantile reviews reported further irregularity in business. Some encouragement was derived by bull operators from the further improvement in the reserve ratios of the local federal reserve bank and the system as a whole, and the increase in car loadings for the first week in January over the week before.

Steel shares held relatively steady on reports that the Bethlehem corporation was planning to start four more furnaces and the publication of a preliminary earnings report of the Inland Steel company showing earnings of over $5,500,000 on the common stock in 1923, or more than $4 a share. Announcement was made during the day that the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe company had ordered 60,000 tons of pig iron, stock of that company closing a point higher.

Strength of Pittsburgh & West Virginia was associated with reports of its possible requisition by New York Central, but these lacked official confirmation. Lehigh Valley was again active, the "rights" being admitted to trading on the New York curb and selling between 33 and 29 1-2. St. Paul issues yielded slightly on profit-taking.

Further reactions took place in the foreign exchanges, due to selling abroad which apparently was inspired by political developments in Great Britain. Demand sterling dropped to $4.23 and then rallied nearly a cent while French francs were as low as 4.53 cents and then recovered back several points. Local foreign exchange dealers reported that the buying of francs at the lower levels came from banks with French government connections.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 per cent. The time money and commercial paper markets were dull with no change in rates.

BOND MARKET

New York, Jan. 18.—Foreign financing occupied the spotlight in today's bond market. Successful offering of the $40,000,000 Argentine loan was followed by the inauguration of negotiations for a huge Japanese reconstruction loan and the announcement that the government of Newfoundland had sold a small bond issue to local bankers. While admitting that Japanese financing was under way, bankers said no agreement had been reached on the amount of the loan or the possible offering price.

Trading in listed bonds slowed down today and the price trend was lower for the first time since the recent upward movement set in. French issues yielded fractionally in sympathy with the hesitancy of exchange rates, and recessions also took place in other forign govrnment issues, including the Serbian 8s, Netherland 6s and Argentine 7s.

The entire railroad list was subject to profit-taking, with resultant losses in Missouri Pacific 6s and 4s, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4 1-2s, St. Paul 4s, Denver & Rio Grande consolidated 4s, Great Northern 5 1-2s and New Haven convertible 6s. New Haven Franc 7s, however, on which the rate was increased when the issue was extended, made a substantial gain.

While profit-taking also extended to public utility and industrial issues, strong spots in these llats included Milwaukee Electric railway 5s, Kansas City Power & Light 5s, Virginia-Carolina Chemical 7 1-2s with Warrants and American Water Works 5s. U S. government and treasury issues were firm.

CURB MARKET

New York, Jan. 18.—Speculative interest in today's irregular curb market was divided between the oil and industrial shares. Lehigh Valley Coal "rights" were admitted to trading on a "when issued" basis, opening at 33, sagging to 29 1-2 and then rallying to 31 1-4. Lehigh Valley Coal certificates ranged from 31 to 33. The "rights" represent the privilege to subscribe to coal stock at the price of $1 a share on the basis of share for share for holdings of Lehigh Valley railroad stock.

Standard Oil of Kentucky was the outstanding strong spot of the oil group, jumping 5 1-2 points to 118. Cities Service, Prairie Oil & Gas and Prairie Pipe each moved up about a point.

Radio stocks were the active features of the industrial list, Dubilier touching a new high at 14 5-8 and Radio Corporation common improved 1-8 on a turnover of more than 22,000 shares. Revival of activity in Ward Baking shares sent the A stock up 4 points to 60 while the B stock closed unchanged at 19 -8 after touching 20 1-4. Gold Dust dropped nearly 2 points and Durant Motors, 1, but Glen Alden Coal moved up 1 3-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Corn, wheat and oats all underwent a setback in price today, affected a good deal by assertions that farmers were more inclined to sell their corn than has recently been the case. Corn closed heavy, 3-8 @1-2 to 7-8c lower, May 7 3-4 to 78 3-4@7-8c, with wheat weak at 1-2 to 3-4@7-8c decline, May 1.08 1-4 to 1.08 1-4@3-8 and July 1.06 7-8, oats 1.08 to 1-4c off, and provisions unchanged to 10@12c down.

Reports that country offerings of corn were freer had a bearish influence from the outset in the corn market, and were supplemented by gossip that shippers here were buying back corn from the east in settlement. Whatever loosening up there may have been on the part of rural holders of corn, though, the bulk of the grain thus obtained was for outside markets, very little appearing to have been bought for Chicago. However, general demand for corn apparently was without the aggressive character which has recently been in veidence, and considerable selling here resulted from alk of expected larger receipts next week.

Delines in the value of wheat were due to reported large wheat shipments from Argentina and Australia, as well as to sympathy with the corn market and to industrial unrest in England. Although indications pointed to a reduction on Monday in the United States visible supply total wheat like corn closed at virtually the day's bottom figures. Reports of more snow covering for winter wheat were an offset for predictions of sub-zero weather tomorrow.

Oats were depressed by further selling on the part of elevators.

Breaks in the price of hogs pulled down provisions.

BANQUET WITH NOTHING BUT CONNECTICUT PRODUCTS

The feature of the day's program of the state board of agriculture on Thursday, Jan. 24, and the feature of the Union Agricultural meeting, which will be held at the Hotel Garde at Hartford, next week from Tuesday to Saturday, inclusive, in lieu of the annual Connecticut Winter Exposition which is to be omitted in 1924, will be a union agricultural banquet at the hotel at 6 o'clock.

People who attend the banquet, and it will include members of the five state associations which are cooperating in the union meeting, will eat nothing but Connecticut food products. There will be no lack of delicacies nor any restrictions to the menu, because this state raises almost everything in the line of necessary and frilly food products. The state board of agriculture calls it "The State of Diversified Agriculture."

At the banquet the commissioners of agriculture of New York and Massachusetts will speak, as will other experts.

EVERY MOMENT A THRILL!

Arthur Stringer's story of Canada's northern-most frontier is a gripping narrative.

You will see the glittering carnival of Quebec's winter sport season—then the scene shifts to a lawless settlement buried in the snow lands of the Far North—a breath-taking aeroplane dash across the mountains—a terrifying blizzard—hand-to-hand battles with outlaws—a girl trapped in a band of lustful half-breeds—and other big moments.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Be A Man

It's a mighty good thing while you're running life's race
Just to pause, as you go, and come face to face
With your conscience, and ask it a question or two;
For it's right you should know what your life means to you.

Have you done things worth while, have you drifted along,
Have you filled it with sighs, have you filled it with song?
Have you helped when you should, have you tried to do right,
Have you struggled for good, or just fought for might?

Have you given your hand to some fellow in need,
Have you sneered at the man who was not of your creed
Have you been open-hearted and ready to do,
Have you tried to be just, have you tried to be true?

Oh, it's easy to preach and its easy to tell
Of the other chap's faults—but our own faults, as well!
We are cowards at times and the truth you will find
Is a thing we dislike, for it's rather unkind.

But the past, let it rest. Give a thought to today,
And tomorrow, as well, for the time's growing gray;
Do the thing that you should, do the things that you can,
Crown your life with your deeds—be a red-blooded man!

The Best of Life

Let me but live my life from year to year,
With forward face and unrelenting soul
Not hastening to new turning from the goal,
Nor mourning things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils; but with a whole
And happy heart, that pays its toll
To youth and age, and travels on with cheer.
So let the way wind up the hill and down,
Through rough and smooth, the journey will be joy
I shall grow old, but never lose life's zest
Because the road's last turn will be the best.

WRITE OFTEN FOR OUR CORNER

Dear Editor and Sisters: As this is the beginning of another year I will do my little bit in sending in a few lines. First I want to thank Corner Member for the beautiful calendar which I received and I appreciate it very much. One of the sisters said she had it hanging where she could see it often as a reminder to write often for our Corner, and I think if we all should try and have that our motto through the coming year there would not be room for those big ads which have appeared on our Corner page in the past year. I think they mar our Corner and indicate to others that we are getting to be slackers. So as we look at our calendars let us all try and do our best this year and make it the best yet. I, for one, am not an expert letter writer, but will try and help the others. If we only send some little new ideas in doing or of making things it will help. I think as one of the sisters said last week that if we only sent in one recipe when we write it would help new beginners as well as some others, for who is there of us who don't like to try new recipes? I do for one, and there is not a week but what I try some of the recipes which the sisters send in and have had the best of luck with what I have tried. And now here is perhaps something that some have never tried. When thickening gravy to prevent it lumping, stir a good pinch of salt into the flour before putting the wetting in.

Now for a happy and prosperous year to you all is the wish from

C. E. S.

A RESOLUTION FOR THE YEAR

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank all the sisters sending me cards for Christmas. I will not take time to mention each name as it would take too much space. I had forty cards and booklets.

I also want to thank the member of the Corner for the pretty little calendar. I was pleased to be remembered.

Calla Lily: It does not look as though your book was coming very fast. It must be taking it's time.

Scottie: Had you come over Sunday you could have had a piece of my lemon pie, made from a lemon of my own raising. The larger lemon is still on the tree and it has grown since you saw it.

I think it would be nice to take for our resolution for the coming year, "Be not weary in well doing." I am sure we always are pleased, when some one does something nice for us. Why not try to do something which will please others?

Best wishes for another happy year for all the sisters of the Social Corner.

WONDERS OF AMERICA

Dear Corner Members: Here I come for another chat on paper. I wish to thank a Social Corner member for a pretty little calendar. What a job she must have getting so many ready for New Years!

I wonder how many of the Corner members, know the great wonders of America. For the benefit of those who don't I am sending in a list.

Yosemite Valley, California, 57 miles from Coulterville. A valley from 1 to 10 miles long and about one mile wide, has very steep slopes about 3500 feet high, has a perpendicular precipice 3089 feet high, a rock almost perpendicular 3576 feet high; and waterfalls from 768 to 1,000 feet high.

Niagara Falls, a sheet of water three quarters of a mile wide with a fall of 176 feet.

Natural Bridge over Cedar Creek in Virginia.

New York and Brooklyn Bridge.

Croton Aqueduct in New York.

Washington Monument, Washington, D. C., 555 feet high.

City Hall, Philadelphia, Pa., said to be the largest park in the world.

Central Park in New York City.

Bartholdi Statue of Liberty, New York harbor.

Gettysburg Battlefield, Gettysburg, Pa.

Luray Caverns, Luray, Va.

Yellowstone national park, lying chiefly in northwestern Wyoming, and to a small extent in Idaho and Montana.

Lake Superior, which is 350 miles long and 160 miles wide.

The Mississippi river, whose length for ordinary large steamships is 2161 miles, but small steamers ascend 650 miles further. The Mississippi river and its tributaries is estimated to possess 15,500 miles of navigable waters, or about two thirds the distance around the world.

This may be of some help to those in school.

CRIMSON RAMBLER

MEMORIES OF BYGONE DAYS

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Corner: I have been think of writing the Corner and doing my bit to help along the good page. The letters telling of by gone days stir memories that are fond to me, so will write about some of them.

When I was a small child my mother kept sheep and would take the wool that was cut from them and have it carded into rolls and she would spin it. How many times have I seen her pull out the wool and the big wheel would whirr and buss as it flew round. I used to love to sit by her side and watch her work for being the youngest child was with my mother a good deal. My brothers went in the woods and got green thorns for the mill for they used them in those days to pin the rolls or some things. I was so young I don't just remember how they were used but remember his getting them. Then the cheese making was always interesting to me. Mother would put the whey from the milk in a cloth to drain, then put in a vat or frame and press. Then every twenty-four hours or so she would turn it, and trim the edges, put the cheese cloth on, etc. It would be some time before it was ripened and ready to eat. But how good the home made cheese did taste. Sometimes she would make sage cheese. I remember the old sage bed in the garden where the sage grew to be used in many ways such as "sage tea" for sickness also for the sausages and cheese. Quite a number of herbs were gathered for winter use.

On the house where I was born there was a stone over the door with the following verse carved in it:

"In George the Third's most gracious reign.

Not liberty and property and no excise,

God bless our king and make him wise."

Some wanted to buy it for a relic but my father didn't care to have it taken down.

As one of the sisters said, times are different. When I was young the small girls used to help mother in many little ways, some learning to knit when quite young and in my play time I used to study the different flowers, go out by the brook and watch the small fish and take snakes and play I had an umbrella.

Sometimes I would go with my father and brothers to set traps and dead-falls. He used tanned woodchuck skins braided for whips and eel skins for lines. I was a small girl when the Civil War broke out and four of my brothers went to the war. My grandfather was wounded in the war of 1812. A splinter from a rail that was hit by a shell hit him in the leg.

Well I have written enough for this time and will close with best wishes for all the sisters and wish a prosperous year to the editor and each sister.

CRICKET

GINGERBREAD AND SPICE COOKIES

Dear Corner Sisters: What a fine day this is! I agree with Granger, I read the letters many times. There is a place in my desk where each Corner sheet is put away for future reading.

Blue Bird: Why don't you write a letter for our Corner? Have you flown away with so much music? Here are some good recipes that some of the sisters may not have tried.

Ginger Bread: 1-2 cup sugar filled with molasses, 1-2 cup lard or drippings. Fill the cup with boiling water, 1-2 teaspoon of ginger 1-2 teaspoon of cinnamon. A little salt if fresh lard is used. Flour to thicken with one teaspoon of soda sifted in it. Put in a large shallow pan and bake. A thin frosting may be used made of confectionery sugar and sweet milk, any flavor or spice desired.

Swedish Spice Cookies: 1 cup butter 1 cup sugar, 1 cup sour cream, yolk of four eggs, 2 cups syrup, 1 teaspoon carbonate of potash, grated rind of one orange, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, flour to roll out. Mix in order given and bake. Sift spices and carbonate of potash with flour. The carbonate of potash can be purchased at the drug store and in buying a dime's worth, you have enough to last a lifetime. The cookies will last indefinitely.

WINNIE

TRY TO UNDERSTAND PEOPLE BETTER.

Social Corner Sisters: While only a small part of the Social Corner (although larger in statue) it made me proud of Club No. 2 to think that our work brought sunshine in different corners of our city to shut-ins and through donations.

To Mrs. Jesse Rogers: Club No. 2's donation wasn't one-fourth as great as our appreciation of the Ladies' Aid of the Leffingwell church for letting the Social Corner have it for a picnic. We wish you ladies all success in your church work this year of 1924.

Red Rose: Your idea is a good one. I try in my small way to do a kindness every time I can, but I like the old motto our old volunteer hook and ladder truck used to have and I quote it when I do things quietly as I used to to mother when living—take this mother and say nothing. She would say, "Let me tell your sisters." I would say, "If you do I'll stop, for I'm the old hook and ladder—"Deeds, Not Words."

I think the telling spoils the whole thing. I love to be called stingy. You have people guessing does she give or don't she give? Let someone else answer "if" they can knowingly. I find the great trouble in our home towns is that people think they know each other's business better than they do themselves and it gives an awful impression. It bars them from fraternal societies if they want to join them and then when they are better acquainted they are sorry for what was done.

Why not this new year try to understand the people we meet before we judge them. Have a little more charity and less malice.

Paula: Send me your address and when son makes his next [illegible]

LIFE OF TODAY AND YESTERDAY.

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: It is quite a while since the last time I wrote so I will try it again. It seems nice to see the Corner page so much more interesting and so many more letters.

I am trying to give my opinion of the life of today and yesterday.

Home life of today is different than what it used to be. Modern improvements have made the homes more comfortable but how many stop to realize it! Years ago families had their oil lamps, candles, fireplace, rough made houses, and yet how much happier they were than most people of today.

Now we have electric lights, steam heat, comfortably furnished houses and we think nothing of it. The attractions of today in the outside world are drawing the members of our families further away from each other. Theatres, dances, cabarets, poolrooms and such places are taking away many children from their firesides at home to lead them on the dangerous paths.

Children used to be content to stay at home with father and mother, but now sister must go to the dance with her beau and brother promised his pals to go to that poker game and the poor parents stay home, not realizing where and how their children find amusement.

In other ways, where has a child a chance when mother and father go out in the evenings and the children are left to amuse themselves the easiest way possible, such as going to the theatres late at night and out with rough company and vulgar crowds.

People of former days never thought of letting the young folks go out to any of their social sports without chaperones, as they do now.

What are the young folks of tomorrow coming to?

Here is wishing you all a happy and a prosperous New Year.

SWEET SIXTEEN.

GREETINGS AND THANKS FROM NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

Dear Social Corner Members: To one and all who sent me Christmas greetings, wedding congratulations, and birthday greetings, also New Year wishes, please accept my sincere thanks, not forgetting many thanks to the member for dainty calendar. Like Theoda's, it was the right one, at the right time, and you couldn't have known the very scene if you had done it yourself.

What a pleasure it was to get all those good wishes in the mail.

January 9th at Franklin hall will ever be a red letter day, in my life, for it proved to be a real reception for me, and it was just a jolly time from start to finish.

The secret is out now and you all understand why my pen has been so still in your direction, but you can prepare as usual, for two or three letters to follow this, because if I hold a "street fair" or "winter carnival" it will need to be heralded about in time.

Wandering Jew: Of course I looked for you Sunday. You know you said you'd be over if Who's Who was here. They were, but you weren't.

Sorepta: So glad you could meet with us, and also bring your daughter along last week.

Saliva: Hope you are feeling better these days.

Twice Twenty: It proved true. "Sometime you'd understand" why shopping and shopping they go. I couldn't come back by bus, and advertise "bunnits," etc.

Flower Lover: Your letter much appreciated. Sure will see you some day. Will answer later.

Best wishes for 1924.

NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

A WAY TO COOK LIVER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I know I wrote recently but I feel I must write again to thank all those who so kindly sent me birthday cards.

They were all lovely and I enjoyed reading the various verses and hope all the good wishes they contained may come true.

Wonder if any of the sisters care for liver?

I didn't until I began fixing it a new way. It is really good and as you all know as low price a meat as one can get.

First, take bacon and fry it out in the usual way. Take the bacon out and fry one liver next, then take that out and fry a good panful of onions. Then pack them all in again, first the liver, bacon over that, and cover with the onions. Put a tiny bit of water in, put on a cover and set on the back of the stove to simmer for an hour or so. I know you will like it.

Again thanking Olga, Chelsea, Lonesome Pine, True Blue, I. J. B., Black-Eyed Susie, Bachelor Maid, Theoda and Keziah Doolittle for my beautiful cards, and hoping to see you all again next month.

I remain as ever,

TRIPLETS (Jan. 7).

GREETINGS FROM RHODY

Dear Editor and Sisters: I spent a very pleasant Thanksgiving in Connecticut and Christmas in Rhode Island.

Kitty Lou Sorry I didn't get down to see you.

Dorinda How are you? Hope father and mother are better.

Joan: I am wondering who you are. C. J. Winters was an intimate friend of my father.

Norwich is my old home. I lived there over 30 years.

Hope every one had pleasant holidays.

Best wishes for you all.

RHODY LOUISE

GREETINGS FROM ANNA MELL

Dear Corner Sisters: I thank the Corner member for a lovely calendar I received. I have it hung up where I can see it often. I also thank every one who sent me Christmas and New Year cards. I received 78 in all. Am glad to see the Corner letters increasing. Since the holidays are past people have more time perhaps for letter writing.

Lucy Acorn: Where art thou? Think your pen must be getting rusty by this time.

Hope to hear Dom Pedro is improving. I also extend my sympathy to all who are sick or in sorrow and a new year's greeting to all, from

ANNA MELL (Apr. 14)

MENDING AND THE LACK OF IT

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Just a few suggestions in regard to the necessity of mending. So many people who say they never waste time in mending are speaking in the attitude of a false pride.

Perhaps those who have more dollars than sense, can afford to discard clothing and every household effect that may need a little repair to prolong its use. But we who were not born with a silver spoon in our mouths must be particular to take that "stitch in time which saves nine." Hosiery is a good example and attracts our attention following the laundry if not sooner. If the mending is neglected before further use then the stockings are soon ready for the rag bag and business will increase at the hosiery department in the local stores. How deplorable to see children with their little coats lacking a button, aside from the inconvenience.

It only takes a few minutes of time with a needle and thread to replace many deficiencies and results are very gratifying to the wearer, if not to the casual observer. I feel sorry for little children especially those who attend school, whose clothing shows the lack of mending. In many cases it is the willful neglect, not the lack of time. All allowances can be made for illness and many hindrances that come to each and every housewife and mother, but it does not continue always for there is such a thing as "making time." I have heard some women express themselves that they did not care how their personal appearance was around the house, but they did like to look "just so" when out on the street or in public places.

Yes, and they live up to it; you step into their homes, a few minutes some morning and what kind of an apron have they got on? How about the hem on the bottom of her dress skirt? Are there a few stitches needed to keep it in its place? The need of simple mending, or replacing appears on every hand. It comes not only to the attention of woman, but also to the men. What looks worse than a gate hanging on one hinge or the post that supports the rural mail box lapped over on one side? Some times we see a stepping left on the roof of a house top, where it has been used in repairing the chimney or for re-shingling. Why has it not been removed? All credit due to the mending in this case, but why not complete the job? We can only conclude our subject by saying, some will and some won't. It's the way of the world, some save and some spend, but a credit to those that will mend.

Thanks to Social Corner Member for a pretty calendar. Best wishes to all.

JENNIE.

A STRAIGHTENING OUT PARTY

Dear Social Corner Folks: I think it was so nice of Flower Lover to write a letter just because I asked her to and now we must watch for the better one she is to give us soon. If you could see her plants, such beautiful begonias and ferns, you would know she made no mistake in choosing her pen name. I fully intended to write myself last week but "Uno and Duo" how easy it is to put off the things we are not actually obliged to do. Possibly some who have recently joined us know how it has been, but "better late than never." Welcome, sisters, to the Corner and, of course, to Club No. 4.

The Last Rose of Summer spent Thursday evening with me and we had the jolliest time imaginable. I am wondering if Anne D or Roberta heard us. I am sure Neighbor Eveready's ears burned and Neighbor Eveready's sister's, too. By borrowing the local papers and looking over the back numbers of The Bulletin we finally got things straightened out to our satisfaction and to my surprise. I had supposed the two were real sisters. Well, I wish the bride much happiness and her sister many happy returns of the 18th. If Last Rose of summer had not disposed of the "old one horse shay" we might make a birthday call.

I was glad to see letters from Rural Delivery and Crimson Rambler. I think the brother will agree with me that we do not need to go to California this winter. I received a little jar of "bottled sunshine fruit and flowers" from Corona at Christmas time. Now, I wish to thank A Social Corner Member for my pretty little calendar. It is nice to be remembered in this way each year. My thanks, also, to the sisters who remembered me during the holiday season.

I believe we have a historian and if Viola decides to leap this year, she must let us know about it, that the happy event may be properly recorded. There is a call for recipes again and I will send one that Happy Go Lucky makes when I am away.

Loaf Cake One and one-half cups sugar, three-fourths cup butter, one cup milk, two and one-half cups flour, one tea spoon baking powder, two eggs.

PRIMROSE.

FINE JANUARY MEETING.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I wish to thank Social Corner Member for pretty calendar received. It is nice to be remembered.

We had a very pleasant meeting on January 2d at the Buckingham Memorial with 90 present. Was glad to see so many that are usually there, but missed a few. Scottie is an ideal hostess and, with her helpers, served a fine dinner. Then there were readings and music.

Betty Brown: Think you must have had a fall. Can sympathize with you as am just recovering from one. Will say to you, as they did to me, "Where did you get it?? We cannot get anything." Hope to see you at our next meeting, with or without bugs.

Joan: Was pleased to see you, though it was a cold day.

Theoda: Was glad you could meet with us, and hope to see you Feb. 6.

Comfort: Hadn't seen you for some time. It will be early for your garden, so come next time.

A happy New Year and best wishes for all members of Social Corner clubs.

WURDY BELLE.

APPROVES IDEA OF FOUR LETTERS A YEAR

Dear Cornerites: What a nice time we had Jan. 2! There was quite a large company. I knew very few of them. Was glad to see you Theoda, didn't see any chips though and could use them these days if I had them.

I also wish to thank a social corner member for my calendar. It was very pretty, [illegible] view which one think of the "Good Old Summertime."

Betsey Trotwood: Glad things are going so well with you and yours. Think of you so much.

Aunty No. 1: Am planning for you to be at the club the 29th. Hope it will not be a bad day.

Dorinda: Good idea for each to write four times a year. See that you do it. The page is certainly growing the past few weeks. Let us keep it full.

Malvina: Why not write?

Whirlwind: You have my sympathy, also the others who have lost dear ones.

GRACE

MAKING HISTORY.

Dear Editor and Sister of the Social Corner: I was very much pleased with the calendar that someone from the Corner sent me and I thank the giver many times.

There is a new book out, The Covered Wagon, which is of much interest just now. It is a story of '49, when men took their families across the wilderness, in order that they might try to find a fortune in the new part of the country. It is a great story of adventure, and is interesting to compare with the way the people today go in the automobile, or the modern scoot-cart. We hear people say, "those were days when history was being made." These days in which we live history is being made also, but we cannot get far enough away from them to appreciate them.

My Christmas presents call for a number of letters of thanks. I am making the list shorter day by day, but have not reached Necia yet. Her turn next.

Chub: Thank you very much for the card.

A happy New Year to all,

BETSY BRAY

THINGS THAT APPEAL TO STUDENT

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: I am late I know but I would like to wish you all a happy and prosperous New Year. I say prosperous for I know from experience if we are prosperous we will be happy.

I also want to thank the sisters who remembered me with post cards and booklets during the holidays. Some of those verses were beautiful say husband's father lives with us and he also enjoyed reading them over and over. You see, dear sister, you hit two birds with one stone and I want to thank you for him and I also want to thank the two sisters who sent me calendars. I know White Clover sent one but the other is a mystery. Who ever it was must know my life for when I looked at the picture I said to myself, that is my life. There are pictures that mean so much and pictures that mean so little. Sometimes from a very small picture a long story can be told if we look at it carefully.

The same from this little calendar, "A Woman Walking Down a County Road Alone." This is the way I have felt so many times in life—that I was alone. Although I am married and I have a family, the things I love and enjoy my husband doesn't care for. I love the beauties of this old world. I like to take walks along country roads and look at the trees and wild flowers which grow along the road and listen to the birds. I like to have plants and flowers growing around my house. Sometimes when I see a pretty blossom I say out loud, "Oh, you pretty pretty posie." And I am very fond of reading. I like to read the newspaper and know what others are doing. I like to peek at politics occasionally and form ideas of my own, which some men think women should keep out of. And I am very fond of pictures. I like to study them and like fancy work of all kinds although I don't have time to do most of it now.

I like to go to the country fairs just to see the good things. I like to go to the Social Corner to meet the good women. So you see dear sisters, how this little calendar represents me.

Little Sister: I want to say you are speaking the truth when you say "each heart knoweth its own bitterness." As perhaps you know the Little "Rosebud" of my family was taken away just before Christmas three years ago. And it has been just awful to me to say merry Christmas since. But I say it to make others happy as I know I must bear my own burden.

Bonie: You have my sympathy. You, too, lost a dear one.

Amy: Received your invitation and thank you. I was sick with grippe and could not come.

Red Rose: How are you? Have not seen you since I came and stayed so long.

Nannie Lou: Hope by this time you are feeling better.

Red Clover: Where are you keeping yourself? I always look when I pass by but I never see you.

Mittie: I hope next month I will be able to go with you.

A Flower Lover: As you say you have 17 different kinds of begonias, will you tell me what to do for mine? It is a large plant and the leaves are all dropping off and it seems wilted at times.

STUDENT.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Dear Sisters: I am sending a few recipes this week in response to the recent calls.

Steamed Graham Bread: 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 cup sweet milk, 1 cup graham flour, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, one half teaspoon of soda.

Turn into a buttered, loaf-shaped dish and steam for an hour. One half cup of raisins and currants may be added if desired.

By adding these with spices this same recipe makes a good pudding.

Soft Molasses Cookies: 2 cups of brown molasses, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup butter milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sausage fat, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon ginger and dissolve 2 teaspoons soda in 2 tablespoons warm water. Mix all together with flour to make very stiff

My boys love these cookies for lunch.

Baked Coon: Wash and clean coon leaving all fat on. Place in roaster with no water. Be sure and have a self basting roaster, as that keeps the steam in.

Bake in hot oven two hours, then add a little salt, a little black pepper, a little water and nearly a cup of cream. Cook 30 minutes longer then make a thickened gravy.

KITTY LOU

SEVERAL PATTERNS OFFERED.

Dear Social Corner: I saw Aunty's wish for bedquilt patterns. I have several pretty ones. There is a double T or four T in a block. The T's are dark, the rest of the block light. Others are a basket with a handle, a basket of autumn leaves, a fruit basket with handle, also a basket of fruit without a handle, and a pattern I do not know the name of. It uses up small odd pieces. Another block is seven inches square of two colors, light and dark. It starts with a square in the center and the rest is half squares. It is put together with plain blocks the size of the pieced blocks. It is very pretty and easy to piece. If you think you would like these I will be glad to let you have the patterns. If you attend the Social Corner in Willimantic I could bring them to you. Or you can write to me.

I was surprised to see a letter from Dew Kist. I thought she had dropped out for sure. And Midget, I think sure did get frightened, so she thought she had better get busy and write.

Eveready's Sister, I think, ought to have given us just a hint of what was happening, but never mind as we all enjoy such surprises.

As this letter is getting rather lengthy will say good-bye.

DOUBLE FUCHSIA.

HUMAN VULTURES.

Dear Social Corner: First, I want to thank the member who sent me the calendar. It is just the right size for my desk. It must be a kind heart that prompts you to send these little remembrances to the members.

Joan: I am glad you liked my little sketch and will send another when I have time to typewrite it. I am afraid if I sent it in my own handwriting our editor would think someone's chickens had been scratching for worms and left the worms.

If our editor will be patient with me I will give another little talk about gossips for it seems to me they cause more real sorrow than any other one class of people. I think I am right in likening these creatures to a flock of vultures; for as the vultures hover around a dying man, waiting to pick his bones so these human vultures tear a person's reputation to pieces.

Gossip No. 1 says to Gossip No. 2, "What do you think! I saw Mrs. J riding out with Mr. S and he is a married man. Isn't it awful? You bet I'll never go into her house again."

Gossip No. 2 says to Gossip No. 3: "Say, did you hear about Mrs. J. and Mr. S? They were out together the other night and his wife is awful mad. Isn't it terrible the awful things people will do? I wouldn't be seen speaking to her."

Gossip No. 3 says to anyone who will listen to her, "Oh, I have just heard the awfullest scandal. Mrs. J and Mr. S went away together the other night and his wife is going to have them arrested and get a divorce."

Oh, ye virtuous women??? How we can rend and tear and hurt! You human vultures, how you will go over and there and gather up little ravelings of gossip and put them together and make a big skein of them to put around your neighbor's neck to hang her by him.

I know a woman who has gotten herself much talked about because of this kind of people she has hanging around her house and because she is a poor housekeeper but I never knew this woman to turn anyone in distress away from her door. If they have no other place to go she will manage some way to find them a place to sleep and enough to eat until they get on their feet again. She is not rich in worldly goods and has had some very hard times, herself, but she always has a word of cheer and encouragement for the deviltors of life and naturally they go to see her. Never mind if she is slack, his big, warm heart is in the right place. When the time comes for her to give an account of the talents and opportunities with which she was born I would rather be in her shoes than in the shoes of the one who keeps her house so spotless she would not let one of these people in distress into her house for fear they might dirty her floor or the neighbors might see something.

I know another woman who quite innocently went to an entertainment with a married man. She would not have gone if certain facts had not been misrepresented to her. But when she arrived at the place she realized her indiscretion. However, she was plucky and braved it out and let him walk home with her, only a short distance, rather than create a scene. As it happened his wife was a sensible woman and understood and did not care and most of the neighbors understood. But her neighborhood, like most small country neighborhoods has its human vultures who do not have much to do but watch and listen and go about gathering up their little ravelings.

COLD SPELL IN THE SOUTH

Dear Editor of the Corner: I send thanks to the Social Corner member who sent me such a lovely calendar again. You must be the same one for I compared writings on the others and they are the same. Thank you very much.

From the papers I see that the winter has set in. Am sorry for those who must be shut in from now till spring. We had our first cold spell last Saturday night and Sunday. But it's gone now and the weather is warmer. Today it has rained quite a bit, but it is not cold.

The oranges in the groves are just right red and gold. Many are falling from being too ripe. I have some of a kind I never heard of at home. They are the tangerines. Of course those who have been to Florida know of these. But for those who haven't they are of the same color as oranges and have a thin peel and easily separated in sections when you peel them. Hotels and restaurants use a great many for they can make salads that look so much better.

Will write more later for my paper has given out. Luck and good wishes to all from

E. M. R. C. P. (May 7.)

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER.

Dear Editor of the Social Corner: Am a subscriber of your worthy paper and would like to join your Social Corner. Will take for pen name

APRIL FLOWER 1880.

OATMEAL COOKIES.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: First of all I wish to thank the one who sent me the lovely calendar; also True Blue and Sylvia for the beautiful cards. Have enjoyed meeting with you all at the Buckingham. Thanks to Bumblebee for transportating me from time to time. I was glad to see so many at the opening meeting of the new year.

Queen Elizabeth: We enjoyed our visit with you and Nespa very much.

I certainly am a lover of plants, and flowers. I have a cactus with several blossoms, also geraniums, and begonias which are a comfort to me through the winter months.

Have found another use for newspapers. My friend, Esmeralda, came to tea and the first thing I knew she had a newspaper, using it for a napkin. Saves washing and ironing, you see, "never too old to learn."

Oatmeal Cookies: Two cups oatmeal (uncooked), one cup sugar, two eggs, two-thirds cup shortening, one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon of soda, two cups flour, or more, sweet milk enough to make stiff batter. Drop from spoon on well greased pan far apart.

Best wishes for the Corner.

U. C. E.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I have been interested in the Social Corner for several years and have finally decided I would like to be one among you, and perhaps a few thoughts from my pen may help some other friend along life's high way.

Here are a few lines taken from a "Good Cheer" calendar which I will pass on to you, as we all want to start the New Year right.

"It takes so little to make us glad
Just a cheering clasp of a friendly hand,
Just a word from one who can understand:
We finish the task we long had planned
And we lose the doubt and fear we had—
So little it takes to make us glad."

Wishing you all a very prosperous New Year, I will take for my pen name

MAYFLOWER

MIGHT AS WELL SPEAK WELL OF IT.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Good morning! How are you all this lovely morning? We are having some lovely weather. We might as well speak well of it when we can for the weather has so much laid up against it. If we do not feel just right we say it must be the weather and sometimes if we plan to go somewhere and do not go we say it was the weather. The weather is as much talked about as anything else.

I wish to thank Social Corner Member for the calendar received. I think it is lovely.

A happy New Year to all.

SISTER READY.

WHO CAN ANSWER THESE WANTS?

Dear Social Sisters: Of course I have got your paper for years. My folks and their folks have always lived in Connecticut until five years ago when I went house keeping for myself in the state of Massachusetts and of course I have since got the paper. Some times I do not get it, and I feel lost without it. It is the only thing that kept me from being home sick, and of course the Social Corner page interests me so much. I have got so many of my recipes and other good hints which a young housekeeper needs and now I am coming for help which I hope will benefit many others as well as myself.

Will some one please explain how muslin flowers are dressed and how to take the set? They say it is wonderful for T. B. as it contains turpentine which is very healing, also what is good for an asthmatic cough?

I would like to have recipes for cream pie and a good plain loaf cake; also a molasses cake recipe.

Dear Sisters, do not think me too forward for my first visit. Trusting to hear from some one soon I am with thanks in advance will sign myself

CONNECTICUT GIRL.

FINE TIME AT CLUB NO. 4

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I will with the greatest pleasure now I write about the last gathering of our Social Corner Club No. 4, for we all enjoyed it so much that those who could not be there should hear about it.

The year certainly started off well and if there is anything in a good beginning the Social Corner will have a prosperous year. I cannot say too much about the social time as many good ideas were exchanged about dress-making, fancy work, cooking and caring for the children.

After being out for the day, and hearing so much of interest, it seems to brighten up the home and makes your work go better for many days.

Now for the dinner, for we must not forget the inner man. The baked beans were unusually good, and the macaroni! Well, now you should have been there.

The hostess, C. H. S., brought a big chicken pie which was delicious and the cakes and pies were just dito. When the dexology is sung I always think of Aunt Mary, as she was the one that proposed it. What a pretty memorial it is to her! How many thousands of people have lived and not left so much after them.

In the afternoon a short business meeting was held which in spite of the efforts of the members was not wholly satisfactory.

As an honored guests Neighbor Eveready a bride of three weeks was with us. She very generously gave us a piece of her wedding cake, which was very nice.

Hope all the sisters had good dreams that night.

Student: Thank you very much for kind remembrances.

I thank the sister for the pretty calendar. I appreciate it very much.

I extend my sympathy to all who are sick or in sorrow.

Dew Kist: I do hope you will be able to attend one of the meetings as I know you surely will enjoy it.

MARIGOLD

TWO FINE CAKE RECIPES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I have been confined to my home for months, but am now getting better. I think of you and can hardly wait for Saturday's Bulletin. I enjoy reading all the letters.

Kitty Lou was a neighbor of mine at one time. Her mother and I were very dear friends.

I want to thank the members who sent me a beautiful calendar, January first, also the sisters for numerous cards received during my long sickness. Now that I am able to sit up and can read to feed health I will try and do my bit, for the dear old Corner.

Delicate Cake: Two cups of sugar, ½ cup of butter, ½ cups sweet milk, whites of 5 eggs, 3 cups of flour, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon soda, flavor with lemon.

Gold Cake, very good: One cup of sugar, ½ cup butter, ½ cup cold water, 1½ cups flour, the yolks of four eggs, flavor with vanille.

Happy New Year to all.

ONONDAGUE 1902.

HOW TO COOK A CHEAP PIECE OF MEAT

Dear Social Corner Friends: The third week of 1924 is now with us and it is surely time I acknowledged the Christmas and New Year cards that were sent me. Also I want to thank the one who remembered me with the pretty calendar. I have it hung in a room I use daily. It was a treat to think so many of the circle thought of me as I did not expect it, being a member only a little over a year. I do not have much of interest to write just at this time but will send this recipe of how I cook a cheap piece of meat.

I get two or three pounds of lean beef, cut it up in two or three inch squares, fry out a little suet in the bottom of the kettle you wish to cook it in. Skim out the suet when you have all the fat you want, and put in meat, fry that brown, stirring it once in a while to prevent burning, cover well with water and cook slowly three hours. When partly done put in as many onions as you like and cook with it. If the onions are small I boil them whole. Season with salt and pepper and serve with potatoes and any other vegetable you like. We think it is quite tasty.

Twice Twenty: Do not be discouraged.

ANNE D

MAKE IT BANNER YEAR FOR SMILING

Dear Editor and Sister of the Social Corner: Not knowing to whom I am indebted for the nice calendar will say many thanks for same.

Our page has so many interesting letters by those who seem to know just what to say and how to say it, that I have been silent. Our last gathering was a success with our Social sister C. H. S. to manage it with her years of experience in Christ. The smiling faces are good for us too.

We hope the bride has years of happiness as she surely is deserving of much credit for her faithfulness to her friends in the past.

Hulda: We are sorry to hear your brother is in the hospital as it takes the pleasure from your mothers trip. The most of us have trouble in some form.

Amy: You just get well soon and be among us again.

There may be some young house keepers that do not know by putting a tablespoonful of vinegar in the boiling water that eggs are dropped in will prevent them spreading around or sticking to the pan. Let's make this the banner year for smiling.

PREPAREDNESS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Just a few lines I want to thank one of the members of the Corner for the pretty calendar received. I came across this little poem the other day and thought I would pass it along. As quite a few of the sisters go out and spend the day they can take it with them and be prepared for storms. It is entitled Preparedness and is by Frances E. Gale.

On the journey of life there is bound to be rain:
With shadows and darkness each mortal must cope:
So, this being true, don't forget or disdain
Your flashlight of Faith and umbrella of Hope.

Alaska with an area of one-third greater than the Atlantic states, has no more white residents than there are office workers in one of several skyscraper buildings of New York city.

NEW LONDON'S THREE HIGH SCHOOLS REQUIRE A TOTAL BUDGET OF $98,502

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Jan. 19.—Edward Foley, the young man who was charged with the theft of money from the office of the Capitol theatre, escaped the penalty for his foolish offense today, as the theatre management would not appear to prosecute him. Foley was accused when a detective who was expert in the finger print method of detection came here and made an investigation. Foley confessed that he was guilty. He says he has learned the lesson and that he will never be mixed up in such a scrape again. He was released from custody this morning.

Signs warning automobile drivers to operate their machines slowly have been placed on Montauk avenue, north and south of the Nameaug school. The signs give the information that a school is close at hand and tell the drivers of machines to be cautious in approaching the building.

Thomas Occhilani, a contractor, drove his truck against another automobile yesterday and to have sustained some damage. The brake on the Occhilani machine had become defective, but the fact was not known till the accident occurred. Mr. Occhilani offered to pay all the expense attending the repair of the machine he damaged and he arranged for the work being done to the extent of $9.75. So Occhilani was not presented today.

A most remarkable escape from drowning was recorded this week when an Ocean avenue woman returned from the theatre with her son. The automobile in which the couple rode from the theatre was driven into the yard at the lower end of the avenue where Alewife cove runs in the rear of the premises and behind a garage. The auto was stopped and the son got out when the machine was close to the garage; leaving his mother seated in the car till he should unfasten the doors of the building that the automobile might enter. When the son closed the door the automobile started down the grade headed for the shore at a pace that bade fair to carry the machine past the garage and overboard. Fortunately one forward wheel of the car struck a large stone and diverted the course of the car, but not till the vehicle reached the bank of the cove. There the auto hung with a rear and forward wheel hanging over the solid earth. The mother was speechless when her son came to the door of the car and opening it fairly carried his mother to safety.

Silas Maxson, Jr., has sold a house and lot on Evergreen avenue to Reuben A. and Irene W. Patterson.

James M. Graves has sold a building lot at the corner of Nameaug avenue and Thatcher street, to Leroy P. and May E. C. Gracey.

Ray Leeds and Samuel P. Johnson have sold a house and lot on Ann street to Kenneth H. Holmes.

Mary Vera, administratrix of the estate of Manuel Vera, has sold a building lot on a new street, off Vauxhall street, to Frances L. Hamilton.

The funeral of John J., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Loftus, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of his parents, 17 Cole street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of H. Hartt Hilliar, whose sudden death occurred at his home, Niantic, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. H. C. Johnson, rector of St. John's Episcopal church of Niantic. Members of Niantic lodge, I. O. O. F., of which order Mr. Hilliar had been a member a long time were bearers. Burial was in the family plot in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Frank Cremen returned to her home on Tenth street today after having been under treatment at Home Memorial hospital sometime.

At the January meeting of the Central Waterford Parent-Teachers' association, held this evening in the auditorium of the New Columbia school, the meeting was addressed by P. LeRoy Harwood of the New London Board of Education. Mr. Harwood's subject was "School Changes Since Franklin". The discourse of Mr. Harwood proved interesting and instructive. Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

The U. S. S. submarine S-48 arrived in port today from Portsmouth, where the craft has been undergoing repairs several weeks. The undersea boat will remain in port until next Monday when she will leave for Culebra to join the submarine base fleet which left this port early in the month.

Mrs. Michael Spillane, of 22 Park Road, Hartford, is seeking the whereabouts of her son, John J. Spillane, 13, who disappeared from home recently and she has requested the New London authorities to assist her. The boy described as about 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighing about 150 pounds. He has reddish hair, fair complexion, somewhat freckled and wears shell glasses. When the youth appeared from home he wore a dark overcoat and a cap of the salt and pepper material.

The weekly lecture at the Federal street synagogue tonight was Moses' Song, Exodus xv, and was given by Meyer Peskoff.

It was a pastime of youthe possessed of diamond rings some time ago to display the quality of their diamonds by disfiguring plate glass windows with them, but this sort of amusement had apparently gone out of style until last night. Today William Kaplan, proprietor of a shoe store at 579 Main street, reported to the police that last night one of the show windows of his store was badly scratched and from the nature of the scratches it would appear that the disfigurement was the work of a diamond wearer as the scratches are more like those resulting from a diamond than from a sharp instrument such as a glass-cutter.

The mild weather that has prevailed through the winter thus far has been the cause of many owners of cottages at Ocean Beach to defer moving to their city residences and as a result the shore resort has many year-round residents this winter. While many of the cottages are not supplied with steam heat, most of them are provided with good sized fireplaces and cottages are able to keep their homes comfortably heated throughout the day and night.

At the home of Miss Catherine A. Birmingham, 111 Vauxhall street last evening, a farewell party was given for Mrs. Forest O. Mavis (Grace S. Beebe) of East Lyme, who is to leave early in February for Columbus, Ohio to join her husband who is located there.

Patrolman John Hogan in making his rounds in the Pequot section late last night discovered a bursted water pipe on Crocker street, the broken supply pipe allowing quantities of water to be emptied into the street. This morning the water and sewer department was notified of the break and a repair gang was dispatched to the place, making repairs.

John Radiker and Miss Annie Carlson, both of Niantic, were married last evening, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride and being performed by Rev. George W. Potter, pastor of Niantic Methodist Episcopal church in the presence of relatives and friends. P. C. Capsopoulos was best man and Miss Vera Smith attended the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Radiker are en route to St. Petersburg, Fla., where they intend to make their homes until spring, when they will return to Niantic.

Building Inspector Benjamin R. Linicus has issued three building permits the past few days, the petitioners anticipating beginning work on their properties at once. Those to whom the permits were granted and the nature of the work to be performed, are: H. B. Todd, frame garage, 95 Oneco avenue; W. R. Golding, 227 Pequot avenue, veranda and remodelling; J. W. Bliven, 15 Lincoln avenue, addition to store house.

At a meeting of the board of school visitors held yesterday afternoon at the Mariners' Savings bank, budgets for the three high schools of the city were approved, the budgets having been submitted by City Manager William A. Holt after they had been approved and found correct by Superintendent of Schools Warren A. Hanson. The total amount of money needed for the support of the three schools is $98,502. Of this amout $38,009 is wanted for Bulkeley High school, $34,000 for Chapman Tech and $26,493 by Williams Memorial Institute.

Police Sergeant and Mrs. James D. Gaffeney are in Jersey City, N. J., called there because of the death of a relative.

Work has been started on the removal of the Patterson building at 78 State street, damaged Christmas morning by a fire. Carpenters are engaged dismantling the structure, which was condemned by Inspector of Buildings Benjamin R. Linicus and later ordered torn down by the city council. A new and modern structure will be erected in the place of the building being removed and it is probable that it will be ready for occupancy early in the summer. The new structure will be either three or four stories in height and will be constructed for office purposes on the upper floors the ground floor to be occupied by the owners.

Thomas Occholini, of 4 Chelsea St., who was arrested by Patrolman Cavanaugh yesterday afternoon, charged with violation of the automobile laws in operating a commercial truck that was not equipped properly with brakes, was not prosecuted in the police court this morning, being discharged without being presented in court. Occhilini was taken into custody following the automobile he was operating and a machine, owned and operated by George E. Broughton of Westerly being in collision on Main street. Both cars were damaged. Patrolman Cavanaugh was near when the accident occurred and his investigation revealed that Occhilini's car was equipped with defective brakes for the car could not be properly controlled.

The local Chamber of Commerce, estimating that $360,000 annual goes out of New London for goods purchased in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and other large cities, makes a direct appeal to New Londoners to do their trading at home.

The chamber's figures are especially interesting in view of the Trade at Home day tomorrow which is incorporated in the National Thrift Week program.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

The weather chart of Friday night showed high barometric pressure over the Atlantic states with the chest of maximum pressure off the Middle Atlantic coast.

It also showed high and rising pressure over the northwestern states and low pressure along the north central border and over the southern Rocky Mountain region. This pressure distribution has been attended by a continuation of cold weather over the northwestern states by moderate temperature in the eastern and southern states and west of the Rocky mountains and by a decided rise in temperature in the southern plain states. The great central valleys and the region of the Great Lakes.

In New England and New York the weather will be cloudy and slightly warmer Saturday with possibly light snow or rain Saturday night and fair and colder weather on Sunday.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate south and southwest weather partly cloudy Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate south and southwest and weather cloudy Saturday.

TAFTVILLE

Thursday afternoon, three youngsters of the village went swimming at the old swimming hole near the dam. They had a fire built on the bank to keep warm when they came out of the water. It is several years since anyone in this vicinity took to bathing in the river on January 17th.

The members of Troop 2, Boy Scouts have formed a basketball team and meet regular for practice.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. Richard R. Graham, rector of Christ Episcopal church, accompanied by members of the vested choir of that church, is to have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

Mrs. George A. Peck was the hostess Thursday, when the Birthday Club was entertained at an all-day gathering, at her home on Otrobando avenue. At noon, Mrs. Peck served a delicious chicken dinner. Her guests were Mrs. William White of Leffingwell and Mrs. Wellington Minor of Norwich Town.

The next meeting of the club will take place at Mrs. Miner's home on Washington's birthday.

There was a large attendance of relatives and family friends at the Sacred Heart church Friday morning at 7.30, when the pastor, Rev. Charles W. Brennan, celebrated a month's mind requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Donald Dowdall. The organist, Miss Elizabeth A. Malone, was in charge of the music and Miss Mary Buckley sang the solos in the mass.

A. E. and Y. Number Plates.

The names of the holders of the first 25 registration numbers of the series carrying the prefixes A, E and Y were announced by the state motor vehicle department Friday. These numbers and other small-figure numbers of the letter series were allotted by the department by a drawing in which applications received prior to December 1 competed, in cases where better series numbers or lower plain numbers than those held in 1923 were asked for.

Motor vehicles bearing markers with the prefixes A, E and Y will be seen most frequently in New Haven county, as the plates of these types are being distributed exclusively from the New Haven branch office of the department.

Pay Extra For Tax Tardiness

Sixteen people, all tardy personal tax payers, twelve of whom were women voters, appeared in police court Friday morning and it cost $6 each t oequars their bill.

One man appeared charged with intoxication and paid $12.50 to the court.

NORWICH WORLD WAR VETERANS FORM ANTI-BONUS ORGANIZATION

A group of able-bodied veterans of the World War, representing both the army and navy, Friday night formed a Norwich unit of the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League, a national organization, with headquarters in New York City. After a discussion of the purposes of the organization, in which it was evident that those present favored a vigorous and intensive campaign of popular education as to the dangers in legislation that will provide a bonus for able-bodied veterans of the war, it was decided to request all able bodied ex-service men who are interested in seeing their disabled comrades receive the maximum benefits to request enrollment blanks from either Russell A. Clapp, Jr., or Meredith Lee, both ex-service men, who head the local unit. Mr. Clapp saved two years with the French and American air service and Mr. Lee also saw foreign service in the air service.

It was also decided to advise the public that this organization is not a club, has no rooms and there are no dues and no assessments. It is simply a movement to record sentiment of those who actually served during the war against a general bonus for able bodied veterans but favoring the cause of the incapicitated.

In discussing the proposed local activities of the unit Mr. Clapp said Friday evening:

"In organizing a Norwich Unit of the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League we have had the single purpose of aiding in a nationwide effort to arouse the public to the necessity of concentrating the resources of the government upon the aid of those of our fellow veterans who were disabled as a result of their services in the war. We have absolutely no political or other ends to serve, but shall exert every effort in our power to promote legislation that will provide the best of care for the real sufferers of the war.

"The activity and assertiveness of an organized minority among veterans of the world war, who, by their insistence upon legislation providing for a bonus for able-bodied veterans will endanger the greater claims of disabled veterans to the utmost aid from the government. We desire that the public of Norwich should be fully informed of the stupendous cost of a bonus for able-bodied veterans; of the great burden of taxation that it will inevitably mean; of the consequent drag upon the nation's industrial life; and the continuence of a disturbed economic situation in the country. All of these are factors which certainly impair the revenue-raising possibilities of the national treasury and it is obvious that when that condition exists the facilities for taking the best care of disabled veterans are endangered.

"The activities of the Norwich Unit of the League will not, however, be of a merely negative character, or that of merely setting up a counter-agitation to that of the bonus advocates. While we will of course do our full part in the national work of the league we will locally undertake to see that established governmental agencies within our sphere of activity for the care and relief of disabled veterans shall function one hundred per cent. efficiently and that disabled veterans get the full benefit of such agencies, inadequate though they be as yet.

"Our first work, however, will be to recruit to our membership here in Norwich every able-bodied World War veteran in the community who is in sympathy with our aims and purposes.

Further information and enrollment blanks may be obtained from myself or Meredith Lee, our executive secretary.

The inspiration for this entire movement lies in the fact that loyalty and service to ones country cannot be bought from any real American who clearly sees the issue. Our service cannot be put upon a wage basis—it would shatter every proud tradition we possess. We must clear the path for maximum help to those who gave more than we—the able-bodied—gave.

The enrollment blank contains the following statement:

Although I am whole-heartedly in favor of legislation which will provide in the most liberal manner for the generous care and compensation of every disabled world war vetean, I am strongly opposed, as a matter of principle and good citizenship, to the granting of a federal bonus to the able-bodied ex-service men. I therefore wish to be enrolled as a member of the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus League.

TRINITY EPISCOPAL MEN ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Men's club of Trinity Episcopal church on Thursday evening, George A. Finn was elected president for the ensuing twelve months. The several committee reports showed the club to be in a flourishing condition and to have had a most successful year under the leadership of President William H. Harder. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, George A. Finn; vice president, Leslie L. Brewer; secretary, Percival W. Chapman; treasurer, A. P. Williams; executive committee, William H. Harder, Rev. J Eldred Brown, Henry F. Parker.

Following the election the retiring president, William H. Harder, gave a brief address and there was an address by the incoming president, George A. Finn. Rev. J. Eldred Brown conducted the literary programme which was in the form of a conference on Missions. Refreshments of ice cream and wafers were served after the conference.

MILD WINTER VINDICATES THE SHAGBARK SIGN

A Norwich weather prophet, who last fall predicted the open winter that has so far been the good luck of this section of the country, reminded a friend of his Friday that his forecast was pretty close to the truth. The secret, he said, lay in the weather sign that he always watched and which had proved infallible for years. This is the abundance of scarcity of shagbarks.

The shagbark weather sharp says that when there is plenty of these nuts we are sure to have a hard winter; but when there are few, we may certainly expect little snow. The theory is that when nature provides but few shagbarks for the squirrels to store away, she compensates by holding back the snow in order that there may be plenty of open ground for the active little creatures to forage around on after their needed rations.

Universalist Young People's Week.

Young People's Week will be observed from January 27th at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist. New members will be received into the union on Sunday evening and the program provides an occasion for every evening of the week ensuing, including a banquet for Monday evening, a social party for Friday evening. The union will conduct the service of morning worship at the church on Sunday morning, the 27th.

NO DEFENSE TESTIMONY IN DR. GASSON CASE

The state closed its testimony against Dr. Charles A. Gasson late Friday afternoon in the superior court here and the defendant's attorneys at once rested their case, without introducing any witnesses or testimony in the trial of the doctor for preforming illegal operations on women at his home at Waterford.

Judge C. L. Avery announced that he would hear the arguments and get the case to the jury Saturday. Attorneys Warren Burrows and Thomas E. Troland for the state and C. C. Morgan and Clayton B. Smith for the accused were satisfied to argue Saturday morning that they thought they would not take the two hours which would be alloted to each side.

The larger part of the afternoon session of court was taken up by Dr. Harry M. Lee of New London in explaining, at the request of the attorneys for the state the use of instruments and medicine found when officers raided Dr. Gasson's home. Henry McDonald, Jr. a chemist of the state department of health, testified to his analysis of the contents of some bottles from the Gasson office.

When court opened in the morning, officers from the state police barracks at Groton brought into the court room several leather bags and a big cardboard box, from which there were later taken and put in as exhibits in the case a number of surgical instruments and bottles.

County investigator William Lewis identified these articles as what had been seized when he and other officers raided the Dr. Gasson house and office.

Sergt. Alfred N. Gorgas, in charge of the state barracks at Groton, was next called and told of assisting in the raid on Dr. Gasson's house and of finding Miss Kroupa in bed. He tried to arouse her but she appeared in a stupor so he got Dr. Gasson who aroused her. The girl said that she was there for treatment.

The witness told of securing a warrant and going to the place a few days later but was unable to find the accused On Nov. 27, Sergeant Gorgas said that he arrested Dr. Gasson at the Cushman cottage at Eastern Point. When he got to the cottage, Sergeant Gorgas said that Dr. Gasson was lying on a cot and he said: "For the Lord's sake when is this going to end?" and the witness replied: "When you behave yourself." The witness also identified the instruments and medicine which had been introduced as evidence.

County Investigator Lewis was again recalled and identified several bottles of medicine.

Dr. Walter L. Douglass of this city testified to having visited Dr. Gasson's house in Waterford and to finding Agnes Finnegan there He said that he examined her briefly but she would not submit to a long examination. He said that she was sick, pale and emaciated as a woman would appear who had undergone an illegal operation.

SHETUCKET LODGE ENJOYS MOCK TRIAL BEGINNING

One of the largest attendances in recent months at Shetucket lodge, No. 37, I. O. O. F., enjoyed the regular meeting this week at Odd Fellows hall. The meeting was opened by Noble Grand Walter Kelly and considerable routine business was transacted after which the members and many guests from lodges in Norwich and elsewhere in eastern Connecticut were entertained by the story of the second chapter in the Adventures of Tom, the Towhead. These chapters are being given at each meeting by one of the members of the lodge and afford no little amusement.

The main attraction of the evening came when Judge Edward Kinney rapped for order in the court and called for the first case of the evening. Constable Howard Bishop presented Edward Smith who was held without bail on a charge of bootlegging. Prosecuting Attorney Frank G. Smith and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney John J. Parsons with Clerk Walter McNeely represented the court.

With all the eloquence of the men of that profession Attorneys Archie Perry and Harry N. Howard for the prisoner argued his case before the judge and when court closed for the night it seemed likely from evidence submitted that their client stood a fair chance of gaining his freedom. Prosecuting Attorney Smith, however, has a lot of evidence to present at the next session and feels that the prisoner's guilt will be established. He will present the evidence next Tuesday evening.

On January 29th the judge will make his charge and the prisoner receive the verdict. As this is a banner night open house will be held for members, their wives and sweethearts. After the mock trial refreshments will be served and a social time enjoyed.

TALK ON TRIP ABROAD TO PARK CHURCH FEDERATION

The regular meeting of the Women's Federation and Parish House Department of Park Congregational church was held in the parlors of the Hugh Henry Osgood memorial on Friday afternoon, with Mrs. Frederic W. Cary the newly-elected president, in the chair.

Following the devotional exercises and the reading of reports the president made a short address as follows:

"Before we begin our program this afternoon I want to thank the members of the federation for the trust and confidence they have shown in electing me to the presidency. I realize that it is an honor to have been so chosen and I assure you I will try and serve you to the best of my ability, but I humbly despeak your co-operation and indulgence. I will gladly welcome suggestions and criticisms of any kind, knowing they will be given in the best interests of the federation.

It is with a different feeling from that which I had hoped to have that I extend greetings to you at this, our first meeting of 1924, for I realize as a ship putting out to sea without her captain. I know that it is the sentiment of each member of the federation, that in the death of Mrs. H. T. Arnold, each has lost a true friend.

Mrs. Arnold was the first president of the federation, and it was under her guiding hand, and loving and tactful manner that many of the rough places were made smooth—and it is to her untiring efforts and unselfish labors, that she has left us a well organized society. Each one must assume the responsibility to uphold the high standard which she has set, and in so doing we will be honoring one whose memory will always be an influence for good, and a desire to help others as her life was. I am sorry to be the bearer of sad news, for I have to announce the death of another valued member of the church and federation, for Mrs. George D. Colt passed away very suddenly this morning.

As a tribute to both Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Colt, the president read a verse of the familiar poem by James Whitcomb Riley, beginning, "I cannot say and I will not say that they are dead. They are just away!"

Miss Louise C. Howe then took charge of the program, and announced the song A Tree written by Joyce Kilmer, which was sympathetically sung by Mrs. W. Clayton Burgy, accompanied by Mrs. Charles A. Saxton, this was followed by birthday, by Woodman.

The subject for the afternoon was a talk by Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn on Some Features of a Recent Trip Abroad. Mrs. Vaughn opened her talk with a brief description of the church at Assisi, wholly devoted to the history of St. Francis. The church is unique in construction, as there is an upper church, built above a lower one and beneath all is the crypt containing the body of St. Francis. The lower church is famous for its frescoes by Giotto and the frescoes in the upper church are by Cimabue; views of these were shown.

From Italy the trip was made to Switzerland through the St. Gotthardt tunnel to Andermath which is famous both as a winter and summer resort, thence over the Furker Pass, 9000 feet high, which runs between the Matterhorn and the Furkerhorn. Built in 1867 it is a marvelous feat of engineering, with seven zigzags between the Rhone glacier and Glitsch. Wonderful views are to be seen with the giant mountains rising on every side, and the road overhanging sheer precipices.

Many views were shown of the trip from Interlaken up the Jungfrau and down to Griendelwald and then along the shores of Lake Lucerne.

The most unusual experience was the opportunitity to witness the festivities connected with the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the accession of Queen Wilhelmina to the throne of Holland. As it is the Queen's color, orange predominated everywhere in the decorations and thirty million electric lights with orange colored globes were used throughout the country, making the trees appear as if laden with oranges. They were fortunate to find seats in the church where the Queen, the Prince Consorto, Queen Mother and Princess Juliana with the court attended the services and three sermons were preached in honor of the occasion. The streets were filled with people from the provinces wearing their quaint and picturesque costumes and carrying yellow flowers in honor of their Queen. Pictures of the Queen's palace, the "House in the Wood," and the paintings by Rubens and his pupils, which decorate the rooms where the first peace conference was held in 1898, were followed by a description of the wonderful peace palace in which every nation contributed some of the materials, columns, tapestries or art treasures.

Out of the ordinary route of travel was a trip to the Isle of Wight where they made their headquarters at Ventnor. This town is built on the steep hillside like an amphitheatre, so every house has a view of the sea. A drive through the country will the picturesque, thatched roof cottages, to St. Catherine's light house, on the most southerly cape, with its 15,000,000 candle-power light, which can be seen from the shores of France, then to the ruins of Carisbrooke Castle, where Charles I was imprisoned, and probably referred to in Marmion and which, with the exception of Windsor Castle, is the most perfect Norman architecture in existence. Were entertainingly described and made vivid by pictures. A description of the church of St. Boniface, where Swinburne is buried, and of the simple, stately Osborne House, the home of Queen Victoria, which was presented to the government by King Edward, as a home for convalescent officers closed the entertaining talk for Osborne House, situated in two thousand acres of water-front, was their last view of England.

Mrs. Burry then entertained with a Shepherdess Song of the 13th century, followed by The Angel Cake, as encore, which was quite apropos as it was followed immediately by ten, served by the committee. Miss Hannah Crowell, chairman, with Williams, Miss Bill, Mrs. C. W. Prentice, Mrs. H. A. Tirrell, Miss Minnie Palmer, Mrs. E. J. Graham and Miss Virginia Smith, with Mrs. L. O. Smith and Mrs. Cyrus Woodman at the tea table.

American Legion Plans Active Season

The regular meeting of Robert O Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, was held Friday evening at the legion rooms on Main street with Commander Herman A. Bruckner in the chair. Considerable routine business was transacted after which a social time was enjoyed and refreshments served.

The entertainment committee of the legion is working out plans for future activities and it is expected that 1924 will be a busy one in legion history in Norwich.

Family Proved Its Worth

"I have three children" said Mrs. Clair Gurney of Belfast, Me., "and all our family have proved the worth of Father John's Medicine. My husband has taken it with good results and we have given it to the baby to build up her strength and it helps her very much."

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Uncas Lodge, No. 11 was held Monday night at Odd Fellows hall with Noble Grand Herbert Spencer in the chair. There was a good attendance at the meeting and considerable routine business was transacted. Announcement was made that Shetucket lodge was to start the mock trial on Tuesday evening and a number of members attended.

District Deputy Grand Master John Amburn made two official visits to lodges in Eastern Connecticut during the week. On Monday evening he went to Jewett City where he installed the officers of Reliance Lodge of that city and on Thursday evening to Willimantic with his staff to install officers in Obwebetuck Lodge, No. 16. Social times and refreshments were enjoyed after both meetings. A number of Odd Fellows accompanied the Grand Master on his visits to outside lodges.

Canton Oneco, No. 3, P. M., met in regular session Thursday evening Captain Charles A. Hagberg in the chair, and following the transaction of routine business the election of officers was held resulting as follows: Captain, Frank Q. Smith; Lieutenant, Fred V. Amburn; Ensign, William Hopkins; Clerk, Luther G. Andrews; Accountant, James A. Mallett.

The newly elected officers are to be installed after their commissions have been confirmed, the work to be done by District Deputy Grand Master John Amburn and staff.

Plans are being made to have refreshments and a social time following this meeting and it is expected that the attendance will be large.

Members of Palmyra Encampment, No. 3, are looking forward to next Thursday evening when Chief Patriarch William Frohmander has promised several surprises. The Royal Purple Degree will be worked on a class of five candidates on that evening by Grand Master Amburn and staff.

A new feature for the encampment, has been promised and this will be taken care of by Captain William Amburn and staff. A banquet will be served following the meeting and notices have been sent to all members to attend the big time. The members of Howe Rebekah Lodge, No. 21, are to serve the banquet.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY.

Members of R. E. Hourigan Auxiliary enjoyed a social evening Tuesday at the Veterans of Foreign Wars' headquarters in the Venice building. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Rose Becker, the new president, and several new members were taken into the auxiliary.

Whist was played, first prize going to Mrs. Mary T. Hull, second to Mrs. Anna Hoeck and consolation to Mrs. E. J. Hull. Refreshments of fancy cookies and ice cream were served, the evening being a most enjoyable one for everyone.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The semi-monthly meeting of Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Tuesday evening, at Buckingham Memorial had an attendance of 24, including Past Department Commander Orrin M. Price. The meeting was opened by the new president, Mrs. Genie Evans, Mrs. Carrie Prentice was nominated as third council, and installed by the Past Department President, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury.

The advisory committee for the coming year comprises, Past Department Commander Orrin M. Price, Comrades James McKee and John Irish. The relief committee for the year, with the president, Mrs. Genie Evans, ex-officio, includes Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, Mrs. Lena Pukallus, Mrs. Lillian Brewster and Mrs. Mary Adams.

The flower committee is made up of the three council members, Mrs. Annie B. Turner; Mrs. Lena Pukallus, Mrs. Carrie Prentice; and the visiting committee is Mrs. Alice Brinkman, Miss Lilie Wolf, Mrs. Hattie Parsons and Miss Emma Lasthus.

Committee appointed to serve for three months are: Supper, Mrs. Florence M. Dean, Mrs. Cora Bothans, Mrs. Ada Revells, Miss Alice Curran and Mrs. Lena O'Brien; entertainment, Mrs. Annie B. Turner, Mrs. Alice Brayman, Mrs. Elisabeth Mackey, Mrs. Maud Moody and Miss Ethel MacDougal. The tent sent out twelve baskets during the Christmas season, to comrades, also widows of the G. A. R.

At this meeting a note was read thanking the tent for flowers sent Mrs. Marietta A. Wright, past department president of the Woman's Relief Corps. The meeting closed in the usual form, with salute to the flag.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

Mercier Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, has its new standing committees all formed and members of the assembly are enthusiastically working on various plans for the coming year. There is to be a meeting of the Choral club on Monday evening which new members are welcome to attend. The new social committee has its first meeting on Wednesday evening while other committees are busily at work. The members of the dance committee will also meet on Monday evening to arrange their plans.

ODD LADIES, M. U.

Loyal Victory Lodge, No. 4, met Thursday evening in Steiner's Hall with Noble Grand Grace Shaw presiding. There was a well attended meeting and much business was transacted. On February 7 a good time with refreshments is being looked forward to. The social committee looks forward to a busy six months as it is planning to hold a series of whist with H. H. Osgood lodge, the first to be held in March.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The regular weekly meeting of the millinery class of Division No. 15, Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H., was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jeremiah Sheridan of Prospect street. After the meeting a social hour followed and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

The members find this a very enjoyable way of combining business with pleasure, having already started work on their spring millinery. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank J. Murtha on North Main street.

MODERN WOODMEN.

Ionic Camp, 7694, Modern Woodmen of America, held its regular meeting in Steiner hall Tuesday evening. Venerable Consul Henry Greiner presiding. There was a large attendance. The usual business of the camp was transacted and satisfactory reports of committees for last year were received. The new officers for the ensuing year were installed by William N. Sandberg, clerk of the camp. The officers installed were: Venerable consul, George Shafer; adviser, Frank Beckman; banker, William J. Sandfield; clerk, William N. Sandberg; escort, Joseph Rogalski; watchman, William Barwell; sentry, Ernest Whittey; trustees, C. J. Downes, A. J. Turner and William Barwell.

After the meeting the Foresters team had an interesting drill and ritualistic work. There are several new candidates to be initiated into the camp at the next meeting. Chief Forester Albert J. Turner is supervising the work of the degree team, and expects to put on some good work in the future.

RED MEN.

Sachem George Farrell presided over the regular meeting of Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, Wednesday night in the tribe rooms in Steiner's hall and a number of brother warriors were present from Nonowantuck tribe of New London.

Following the transaction of routine business the chiefs of the lodge were raised by Deputy Great Sachem Benjamin Rose and Acting Great Chiefs Clark, Hopkins and Thompson of New London. The chiefs raised were sachems, George Farrell; senior Sagamore, Clyde Whitman; junior Sagamore, Raymond Harris; prophet, Fred F. Nowatzky; chief of records, Dr. R. R. Kinkead; collector of wampum, Daniel F. Deane; keeper of wampum, Joseph A. George; guard of the wigwam, D. J. Deane; guard of the forest, Adelard Gaucher.

Deputy Rose also congratulated the members of the activities of the tribe for the year and upon the increase in membership during the last six moons. The tribe looks forward to a successful year in 1924.

Following the meeting a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the feast committee.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The George S. Hull lodge, K. of P., gave a turkey supper at Grange hall, Lebanon, Thursday evening to the members and their families. The committee in charge comprised C. Henry Briggs, W. F. Clark and C. A. Perkins. About sixty were present to enjoy the supper.

Judge George E. Briggs had charge of the entertainment which opened with the singing of patriotic songs by all. Other numbers on the programme were: Piano selection by Miss Elinor Burgess; recitation by Miss Lena Levitt; piano duet, by Miss Vera Briggs and Miss Ruby Sweet; recitation, by Hermon Spencer.

After remarks by Chancellor Commander R. V. Taylor and K. F. Bishop the balance of the evening was given over to dancing, with music by the Foster-Lillie orchestra.

WINNER OF BOK PEACE AWARD TO BE ANNOUNCED FEBRUARY 4

At a Meeting in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia—Presentation of the $50,000 Will Be Made by Former Ambassador Davis—Announcement Also Will Be Made of the Returns of the Referendum Now Being Taken on the Winning Plan.

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—The identity of the author of the winning plan of the American peace award will be revealed at a meeting in the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, on the night of February 4. The Philadelphia Forum announced tonight. The winner will be on the stage to receive the $50,000 which, under the conditions of the awarded created by Edward W. Bok, is to be given to the author whose plan was selected by the jury of award.

Mr. Bok is one of the organizers of the Philadelphia Forum, the aim of which is an amplification of the university extension idea adapted to the modern conception of a forum. Seeking to present a well rounded program of civic interests.

The presentation of the $50 000 will be made by yJohn W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain, a member of the policy committee of the American peace award. According to the announcement, George W. Norris, president of the Philadelphia Forum, will present Melville E. Stone, counsellor of the Associated Press, and member of the policy committee, as chairman of the meeting.

Announcement will be made of the returns of the referendum now being taken on the winning plan and there will be several other addresses delivered.

Members of the policy comitte and thry of award will be presented and representatives of the ninety-odd organizations which form the cooperating council of the American peace award active in the referendum have been invited to attend.

The conditions governing the award provide for the payment of a second $50,000 "if and when the plan passes the senate, or if and when the jury of award decides that an adequate degree of popular support has been demonstrated for it."

LIQUOR RAIDS RESUMED BY THE KU KLUX KLAN

Marion, Ill., Jan. 20—Liquor raids in Williamson County were resumed this morning by 500 members of the Ku Klux Klan led by S. Glenn Young dry worker, in which sixty alleged bootleggers were captured and seven stills reported found.

Shrouded in secrecy the raids that took ten hours to complete, were over before Major Omar J. McMarkin, reconnaissance officer of the Illinois national guard and the county sheriff's office, had learned of them.

The raiders met at 2 a. m., this morning in West Frankfort, it is reported, where they were sworn in as special deputies and then divided into teams of three each and given the names and locations of suspected bootleggers. This information was provided by S. Glenn Young who asserts that 75 warrants were issued by state authorities and the raids were conducted without a shot fired or a blow struck.

"It is the first of the renewed raids," Young said, "that will complete the cleanup of Williamson county."

"We will make no promises," he told M. C. McMackin and Chief Deputy Sheriff John Layman when he met them in Herrin later and they asked him if he intended to raid Herrin. "If the chief of police cannot enforce the law in Herrin, we will help him."

CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY OF BOK PEACE AWARD

Washington, Jan. 20—The Bok peace award and the Russian situation will be the outstanding subjects of inquiry by congressional committees this week. Other questions to be considered will include the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, Muscle Shoals, railroad and farm relief legislation and tax reduction.

Edward W. Bok, of Philadelphia, will appear tomorrow before a special senate committee to explain his $100,000 award for the best world peace plan. His examination will be conducted by Senator Reed of Missouri, author of the resolution directing an investigation of the Russian policy of the American government and the action of congress on revenue and other measures.

Opening its investigation of the Russian question a senate foreign relations sub-committee will hear state department officials, who will be questioned particularly as to the basis of the non-recognition policy of the administration. The sub-committee has before it the resolution of its chairman, Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, proposing a senate declaration in favor of the recognition of the present Russian soviet government.

After public hearings the commission voted 4 to 2 that the rate application was for penalty purposes and could not be disturbed by the commission. Chairman Marvin and Commissioners Burgess, Glassie and Lewis voted affirmatively and vice-chairman Culbertson and Commissioner Costigan dissented.

9-YEAR-OLD GIRL ATTEMPTED TO RESCUE DROWNING BOY

East Weymouth Mass. Jan. 20—When Toubier Russell, aged 9, of this town broke through the ice, of Crest lake today, his companion, Vera Virta, also aged 9, dove into the water and attempted to rescue the boy Unable to keep her grip on him, she clung to the edge of the ice until Albert Goldsmith, who heard her screams broke the ice and swam to her. He was unable to force his way back to shore and held to the ice. Both Goldsmith and the girl were rescued by special officer William Tirrell.

When the girl revived a half hour after being brought to shore, she told of her companion to whose rescue she had gone. His body was later recovered.

LOST LIFE IN ATTEMPT TO RESCUE PLAYMATE

Woburn, Mass Jan. 20.—William Petrillo, aged 6, lost his life today when he attempted to rescue his playmate, Arthur Breen, aged 8, who had broken through the ice at Cranburry pond. The boy died in an ambulance soon after he and Breen were brought from the water by two older boys, Albert Petrillo, three years his brother's senior, was also rescued after he had attempted to go to the aid of the younger boys.

Whately, Mass., Jan. 20—Ruth Dickinson, 3 1-2 year old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Dickinson, was drowned in an ice pond in the rear of her home late today. The body was found in shallow water at the edge of the pond, into which she had fallen while at play.

Some people are always looking for trouble so as to make an excuse.

ANTI-DRY CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN WASHINGTON TODAY

Washington, Jan. 20.—A "face the facts" conference will be held here tomorrow under the auspices of the association against the Prohibition amendment, which asserts that dry enforcement has broken down.

More than a thousand delegates are expected to attend the conference and among those to speak are Charles S. Wood, superintendent of the Pennsylvania division of the association; Mrs. W. W. Montgomery, Jr., of the Pennsylvania Molly Pitcher Club; Randolph W. Childs of Philadelphia, Frank W. Russell, president of the Moderation League of Manitoba, Captain William L. Fish, secretary of the New Jersey division of the association; Nathan Matthews of the Constitutional Liberty League of Massachusetts; Austen G. Fox of the Moderation League of New York, Representative Voight, republican, Wisconsin; and Matthew Woll of Chicago, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

Representative Hill, republican, Maryland, will be toastmaster at a banquet tomorrow night, at which Senator Mayard, democrat, Delaware and Senator Bruce, democrat, Maryland, are prominent among the scheduls speakers.

The proceedings although directed against prohibition, will be strictly "dry" G. C. Hinckley, national secretary of the association, declared today. "Hip-pocket flask accessories also are barred," he said, "and prohibition agents and others will please accept this as an advance warning."

THE IRISH FREE STATE DISCOURAGES CONTRIBUTIONS

Dublin, Jan. 20 (By the A. P.)—The Irish Free State government looks with confidence to the Irish abroad to abstain from supporting by sympathy or subscriptions of funds any elements of disruption or disunion which still may exist, according to President Cosgrave, who has issued a statement in consequence of the appeal made in the United States and Australia by the supporters of Eamon De Valera.

Mr. Cosgrave says that ostensibly the funds solicited by the opponents of the Free State government are for the purpose of relieving distress in Ireland, particularly among the dependents of prisoners held by the national government. Inquiries, he declares, have reached him from abroad asking whether the appeal if necessary, and if it is approved by the Free State authorities.

Mr. Cosgrave's view is that the appeal is unnecessary and that government approval will not be forthcoming because the so-called "Irish republican prisoners' dependents fund" is much more "an irregular" institution, and any subscriptions would be misapplied so as by irregular propagandists into evidence of hostility toward the established government while any funds distributed by the organization would be taken as payment for the destructive work done in Ireland and encouragement of renewed destruction.

MEXICAN GUNBOAT BRAVO IN PORT AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, Jan. 20.—Contrary to reports last night from Tampico that Obregon military authorities had been informed officially of the sailing from Galveston of the gunboat Bravo, accompanied by six destroyers and airplanes. The Bravo still remains in port here.

GREEK CABINET TO REPORT FAVORABLE FOR REPUBLIC

Athens, Jan. 20—(By the A. P.)—The Greek cabinet, according to the Athens papers, has decided to report to the national assembly recommendations virtually favoring a republic. The cabinet, it is asserted, is opposed to a monarchial regime, which it holds is the cause of all evils in the country.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Rumania Reassures Great Britain

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 20—Rumania has assured Great Britain that a proposed French credit of 100,000,000 francs will not prejudice Rumania's financial obligations to Great Britain, according to the local newspapers. The Rumanian government's assurance was in reply to a recent note fro mthe British government.

Name of Trotzky Cheered.

Moscow, Jan. 20.—The name of Leon Trotzky, the soviet war minister, was greeted today with cheering at the opening session of the All-Russian soviets. In the election of a president, however, Premier Lenine, Leo Kameneff, M. Zinovieff, M. Kalenin, M. Stalin and M. Bucharin, all received more votes than Trotzky who ranked seventh in a list of forty-seven.

CRUISER RICHMOND IS AT ANCHOR OFF VERA CRUZ

Washington, Jan. 20.—The United States cruiser Richmond lay off Vera Cruz tonight in silent but emphatic warning that Mexican revolutionists must not interfere with American vessels in the attempted blockade of Tampico harbor.

The cruiser Omaha and six destroyers, accompanied by the repair ship Prometheus, are hurrying northward from Canal Zone waters to add by strength of numbers to the determination that American commerce is to be protected in southern waters.

Arrival of the Richmond off Vera Cruz was reported during the night. She is to take aboard first of all 278 men of the cruiser Tacoma which ran aground on Blanquita's reef last week, and who were landed on Tuxpam soil.

At no time has any administration official gone further than to say that vessels had been ordered to Vera Cruz. In the case of the Richmond, it has been added that she would take aboard the men from the Tacoma who were put ashore immediately after the wreck. It has also been said informally, that no orders hadbeen given for any of the eight warships now assembling at Vera Cruz to proceed to Tampico or any other port.

Unquestionably, Administration officials feel considerable relief in having received word of the arrival of Admiral Magruder aboard the Richmond at Vera Cruz. Not only has the predicament of the men of the Tacoma involved some embarrassment in dealing with the blockade problem, but the navy department has had occasion to feel anxiety in regard to the plight of Captain Sparrow and the small detachments of his crew which remained with him aboard the Tacoma.

Should rebel vessels actually intercept and attempt to employ force against any commercial ship flying the American flag there is ever reason to believe that Admiral Magruder is in possession of instructions from Washington which give him wide discretionary powers to deal with the situation. It would take him only a brief time to reach Tampico.

There is still much hope here that events will not culminate in any necessity for the employment of force off even for the sending of armed vessels to Tampico. The action of the Washington administration in ordering the naval demonstration at Vera Cruza instead of directing the ships to proceed directly to Tampico is significant of the lengths to which President Coolidge and his cabinet advisers are willing to go in seeking to avoid any clash with the Mexican rebel forces.

MEXICAN TROOPS ARE PASSING THROUGH U. S.

Naco, Ariz., Jan. 20—(By the A. P.)—More than 1,500 Mexican federal troops crossed the boundary from Mexico into the United States here today and entrained for El Paso, Texas, where they will re-enter Mexico at Juarez. The troops train left here at 2:15 p. m., and was expected to reach El Paso about 7 o'clock this evening.

Governor Hunt of Arizona gave his approval and acting Governor T. W. Davidson, of Texas, after at first refusing on the ground that there might be trouble between Mexican factions on the American border, later agreed to the proposal, with the understanding that the United States government would assume all responsibility.

There was no demonstration. Fifteen hundred Mayo Indians made up the command. Hundreds of citizens gathered to watch the troops cross the international border here. General Jesus Maria Aguierre in charge hoped to effect a crossing of the border at El Paso, Texas, tonight under cover of darkness.

In their trip to Juarez, the Mexican soldiers will cross portions of the states of Arizona and New Mexico. The troopers eventually will be sent to Jalisco, Colima where the forces of President Obregon are battling to quell the revolution.

A special train of the El Paso and Southwestern railway carried the troops and United States immigration guards will accompany them to El Paso.

Passage of the Mexican soldiers into the United States was accomplished in the presence of United States immigration authorities who inspected each Mexican soldier as he crossed the line.

Mexican officials announced 500 additional troopers will arrive in Naco from Southern Sonora in a day or two. But the exact time of the arrival was uncertain, they said.

LATEST REPORTS OF HOSTILITIES IN MEXICO

Mexico City, Jan. 20 (By the A. P.)—General Francisco Urbalejo yesterday recaptured San Marcos from the rebels, after having inflicted severe punishment upon them. The rebels, about 1,500 in number, were commanded by Antonio Villareal Loyo and Vicente Lopez.

Urbalejo mobilized cavalry forces from Epeaca and started for San Marcos, where the rebels occupied strong positions. The battle lasted several hours. The rebels finally fled, leaving behind two trains made up of numerous box and passenger cars. The report of the victory was brought from Puebla by an aviator who took part in the bombing of the rebels during the fighting.

The Tehuacan sector is reported quiet, with the enemy withdrawing owing to the approach of large contingents under Generals Almazan, Martines and Topete. Telegraphic communication with Tehuacan has been resumed. Senor Serrano has ordered the forces of the garrison of the capital and of important towns to give protection against bandits.

Orders for a decisive advance by the federal troops against the position of General Enrique Estrada were issued by President Obregon at midnight last night.

$68.37 Tax Average For Every Person

National, State, County and City Governments Collected $7,433,081,000 in 1922.

Washington, Jan. 20—An average of $68.37 for every man, woman and child in the United States was collected in taxes in 1922 by the national, state, county and city governments and all other civil divisions having power to levy and collect taxes. Taxes collected in that year amounted to $7,433,081,000, the census bureau announced today.

Taxes collected by the federal government in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1922, amounted to $3,204,183,000 which was almost five times the amount collected in 1912.

The per capita amount of the government's taxes was $29.47.

The sources from which the federal government's taxes came were: Customs duties $562,189,000; income and profits taxes $1,691,090,000, other miscellaneous internal revenue taxes $935,699,000; tax on circulation of national banks $4,804,000 and federal reserve franchise taxes $10,851,000.

Taxes collected by other than the federal government totalled $4,228,948,000, or an average of $38.90 for each person. General property taxes were $3,329,350,000 or 78.7 per cent. of the total. Special taxes, including inheritance, income, etc., contributed $258,034,000; poll taxes $29,190,000, licenses and permits $408,597,000, and special assessments $203,747,000.

The state governments collected $367,468,000 in taxes, an increase of 141 per cent.; cities and other incorporated places collected $1,627,339,000, an increase of about 80 per cent.; townships collected $151,318,000 school districts $738,483,000, and all other civil divisions $102,969,000.

HOUSE COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER INCOME TAX

Washington, Jan. 20.—Rates to govern the federal income tax of 14,000 000 persons will enter the first process of formulation when the house ways and means committee resumes consideration of the revenue bill to be reported to the house by Feb. 11.

The major section of the bill containing all the tax rate features will come up in executive session of the committee after a week of public hearings devoted to requests of various interests for changes in both income and special tax rates and after a month of consideration of the administration's plans for the measure.

Regardless of the action of the committee, Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, served notice that he would insist upon his bill as against the rules has made it possible to revise rates decided on in committee.

Mr. Garner said today that the treasury had failed to show where his plan would not raise sufficient revenue, and, replying to Secretary Melon's characterization of his program as "a political makeshift," he said he would seek "a reduction in the tax burdens of the masses, regardless of how such a move may be characterized."

Commenting on Mr. Mellon's description of his bill as "obviously insincere," Representative Garner said that "if the secretary had to go to the people every two years for confirmation of his actions not only would his sincerity be questioned but his judgment."

FOUR-FIFTHS DECREASE IN DAMAGE BY FOREST FIRES

Hartford, Jan. 20.—During the calendar year 1923 the number of forest fires in Connecticut was cut one third, the area burned was cut three fourths and the damage resulting from fires was decreased more than four fifths. There were 708 fires, compared with 1137 in 1922; 20,904 acres were burned, compared with 83,120; and $78,366 damage was done, compared with $443,366.

The great increase in efficiency displayed last year by State Forester Austin F. Hawes' department is also shown by comparisons with the average of a fourten year period. The average number of fires per year was 842; last year there were 708. The average acreage burned was 39,359 last year 20,904. The average damage done was $152 613,78; last year it was $78,366. Fires decreased one eight in number, almost one half in acreage, and the same amount in damag done.

PHILA. STATION HOUSES CROWDED WITH PRISONERS

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—Station houses were crowded tonight with prisoners taken in the second 48-hour drive of Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler, director of public safety, to clean up the city. In his latest offensive, which ended at noon today, a total of 1045 persons were arrested in approximately 700 raids made by the police and prohibition agents. Saloons, pool and billiard rooms, gambling establishments and disorderly houses were visited. A half dozen speakeasies, also included in the roundup, yielded several stills and some prisoners. Many arrests were made for corner lounging. Most of the prisoners were held for hearings before magistrates tomorrow.

The new fleet of armored banditchasing automobiles and scores of motorcycles patrolled the streets today. On board each unit were men picked after tests at pistol ranges who had shown themselves to be "dead-shots." No holdups or robberies had been reported at a late hour tonight.

3,000 CASES OF LIQUOR AND TUGBOAT SEIZED

New York, Jan. 20—Three thousand cases of whiskey, gin and champagne valued at $200,000; an ocean going tug boat, valued at $50,000 and six men were seized early today by Officers of the police boat Manhattan after a battle in New York harbor that continued up the North River to the foot of Chambers street. No one was wounded in the exchange of shots and police found that the boat, The Capital, No. 1, had been captured twice before.

BRIDGEPORT PRAISED FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

Bridgeport, Jan. 20—Declaring that Bridgeport in particular and Connecticut in General, are setting an example to the whole Union in law enforcement, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel to the Anti-Saloon league, speaking at the United Church here today, urged still greater enforcement and still more powerful laws giving greater power to the courts and the police to seize and destroy liquor.

Weekly Review of Business and Finance

Cotton an Exception of General Firmness in Commodity Prices.

New York, Jan. 20.—(By the A. P.)—With the special factors introduced in the financial markets by the year end losing force, more attention was paid in business quarters during the last week to industrial news. That from the steel trade was encouraging. While the mild winter may be hard on certain trades, such as clothing, it is helping to sustain an unusually high level of building operations. The demand for structural steel is strong and promises to continue so for some months to come.

Automobile production also is holding up well. The results of the New York show are stated to have been encouraging and makers are increasing their production schedules, which already were high. Another 4,000,000 car year is anticipated and there even is talk in some quarters of an output of 5,000,000 cars.

An additional branch of industry which is contributing to increased activity in steel is oil. Oil country goods are now in better demand and this pickup coincided with rising prices for both crude oil and gasoline.

Taking the steel industry as a whole plants are now operating at 75 per cent., of capacity. The leading interest has attained an 85 per cent. rate. Demand during December exceeded expectations and that so far in January is as good as the previous month's. Prices are firm. Pig iron has had another burst of activity which has lifted quotations slightly. Shading of prices in certain lines of steel products has disappeared and some advances have taken place.

Cotton has furnished a striking exception to a rule of general firmness in commodity prices. A rather sharp break here carried the spot to a level over 4 cents below the December high and one which was in fact, below anything since early in November. The census bureau's report showed that December exports were unusually large, reaching 645,000 bales, and that domestic consumption was larger than the trade expected—amounting to 461,000 bales. Nevertheless, the spot demand now is light and this, with reports of further curtailments and with European uncertainties, weakened the position of the market. Trade buying disappeared and discouraged speculators for the rise sold out. The principal futures dropped well below 33 cents.

Money remained easy. The federal reserve statements disclosed a remarkable contraction the volume of credit which is being extended. The volume of interest bearing paper which these banks now hold is less than at any time since the war expansion began; it is $134,000 000 smaller than a year ago. In the same period circulation has fallen $172,000,000. As reserves have increased some $56,000,000 it will b seen that member banks must be well supplied with funds of their own.

A break in French francs which carried them off to a new low of 4.27 cents was the feature of the foreign exchange market. The decline occurred principally on the foreign markets and was accentuated by the discusions of French budgetary troubles.

GOSSIP OF PARLIAMENTARY SITUATION IN ENGLAND

London, Jan. 20.—(By the A. P.)—So far as Winston Spencer Churchill's broadside may have been expected to influence the actual parliamentary situation, it has completely miscarried.

Mr. Churchill's proposal is that parliament proceed with consideration of the address and later send to the crown a reply, which if it expressed want of confidence in the government should also record its repudiation of socialism.

Similar attacks on labor by Mr Churchill during the general elections only resulted in leaving him without a seat in the house of commons, he being badly defeated by a strong advocate of a capital levy. The present prospect is that before midnight tomorrow the non-confidence amendment, introduced by John Robert Clynes, will be voted by a substantial majority.

King George has always treated the labor leaders with fine courtesy and never displayed the slightest trace of the political partiality or strong personal likes and dislikes which characterized the late Queen Victoria's dealings with her ministers. Hence, there is not the slightest reason to suppose that the king will depart in any way from the constitutional practice, but will call upon Ramsay MacDonald to form a government.

PRESIDENT OF ALBION COLLEGE TO ANSWER CHARGES

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 20—John W. Laird, president of Albion College, Albion, Michigan, who is to appear at Detroit tomorrow before the trustees of the institution to answer a charge lodged against him by the student body, was prominent in various phases of student activities during his undergraduate days at the college of liberal arts, Syracuse University, from which he was graduated with the class of 1909.

One charge against President Laird relates to an honorary degree from Syracuse University students claiming he posed as recipient of such degree. Dr. Frank Smalley, vice chancellor emeritus of Syracuse University, stated today he distinctly recalls President Laird. He said there might be some truth in the assertion of President Laird with regard to bestowal of an honorary degree by the late chancellor James R. Day, that he remembers distinctly the Albion College head as having been considered for the degree of bachelor of divinity.

ACCIDENT AT ATHLETIC MEET IN BROOKLYN, N. Y.

New York, Jan. 20.—Thirty-one boys who were taken to hospitals yesterday after they had been thrown to the floor of the Thirteenth Coast Defense armory in Brooklyn when a balcony railing gave way at an indoor track meet appeared on the road to recovery today. About 300 boys fell when the crash came, but only 60 were injured seriously enough to receive medical aid, while only 31 were taken to hospitals.

A number of investigations were started today to fix responsibility for the accident. At the hospitals today it was asserted all would recover.

Barthou, president of the reparation commission.

Mr. McKenna arrived in Paris this evening. The other members of the committee are Mario Alberti, Italy, director of the Banque De Paris et Pays-Bas, representing France.

Mr. Robinson has been in Paris during the past six weeks studying the data and files of the reparation commission and is prepared to begin real work as soon as the official addresses are exchanged.

Premier Poincare in addressing parliament on Friday referred at length and hopefully to the work of the two expert committees. "In my mind," said the premier, "the work of the committee constitutes the first step toward a general settlement of the reparation question." Respecting the second committee, M. Poincare said:

"It will study ways and means to bring back to Germany escaped capital. Perhaps it will given even ourselves indications and advise which will be useful to regulate and settle the question which I discussed with the finance committee of the chamber of deputies this morning." M. Poincare Friday had a three hour session with the finance committee concerning ways and means to halt the depreciation in the value of the franc. During which the exportation of French capital was mentioned as one of the causes for the depreciation.

Tomorrow afternoon the Dawes committee will hear Dr. Schact, president of the reichsbank who will be accompanied by Herr Meyer, president of the war burdens commission, who will be ready to answer all questions pertaining to Germany's finances, especially regarding the circulation of currency. Dr. Karl Bergmann, former under secretary of the German treasury and who is familiar in reparation circles is expected to arrive in Paris on Wednesday.

TWO ESKIMOS TO BE HANGED FOR MURDER

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 20—The final chapter of an Arctic feud, caused by the desire of a white man to marry an eskimo maiden, will be written in the picturesque barracks of the Royal Canadian mounted police at Herschell Island on February 1, On that date Alik Omiak and Eskimo Tetamangma, of the uncivilized copper Eskimo tribe of Prince Albert Sound, will be hanged for the killing of Corporal Doak of the R. C. M. P., and Otto Binder, a trader of Coronation Gulf.

Binder, in his quest for the treasurs of the north, met and loved a girl who already was betrothed to a member of her tribe. But the adventurous white man had made his friends among the people and the tribe was divided as to who should win the hand of the daughter of the arctic. Bitter feeling grew into hatred and tragedy was the result. Besides the two white men several Esquimaux were killed, including a four year girl who was stranged to death after her parents had been murdered, the tribe not wanting a charge upon their hands.

Corporal Doak was killed by Omiak whom he had arrested for his part in the feud.

CARPET TACK REMOVED FROM AN INFANT'S LUNG

Philadelphia, Jan. 20.—A carpet tack was removed today from the lung of eight-months-old Cletus Moore, of St. Louis, and there is every indication that the baby will completely recover.

Dr. Chevalier Jackson, who performed the operation at the University of Pennsylvania hospital, said that unless unexpected complications developed the baby would be restored hale and hearty to its parents in about a week.

Dr. Jackson, whose fame in such cases is nation-wide, used a bronchoscope of his own invention to remove the foreign body.

TWO BROTHERS DROWNED IN RESERVOIR IN BETHEL

Bethel, Jan. 20.—Alfred Erickson, 12, and his brother, Clifford, 10, were drowned in the reservoir today when the thin ice gave under their weight.

Peted Todd, who was fishing some distance from where the boys were skating, and who was the only other person on the pond, stated that he saw one of the boys fall through the ice and the other going to the aid of his brother met with the same fate. By the time Todd had reached the place they had disappeared. State police and Bethel authorities dragged the reservoir and recovered the bodies early tonight.

CHARGED WITH THE MURDER OF HER HUSBAND

Rutland, Vt., Jan. 20—Held in a hospital here in the same unconscious condition in which she was found in her home in Wallingford early Saturday near the dead body of her husband, Deputy Sheriff Allen A. Leonard, who had been shot to death, Mrs. Carrie Leonard was tonight placed under arrest on a charge of murder. The complaint was issued by state's attorney Charles E. Novak.

An autopsy revealed that a single bullet wound in the back of the head had caused Leonard's death, a revolver, with one shell empty was found beside the body. Mrs. Leonard who had summoned a doctor was found in the room in a state of stupor, bearing no marks of injury, physicians said. They found no evidence that she had taken a drug and were at loss to explain her condition.

State's attorney Novak tonight expressed the belief that the revolver found beside the body was the property of Mrs. Leonard. The deputy sheriff's revolver was found in his automobile. After visiting the scene of the tragedy, he said that the shot which caused Leonard's death had been fired from inside the house.

Mrs. Leonard's condition today was such that physicians declined to allow the authorities to see her.

The police were told by neighbors that Mrs. Leonard, who was married to the deputy sheriff after he was divorced from his first wife, had quarrelled frequently with her husband over his alleged attentions to other women.

DECISION BY TARIFF COMMISSION REVERSED

Washington, Jan. 20—Attorney General Daugherty has reversed the tariff commission in its first report to the President under flexible provisions of the tariff act.

In an opinion sent to the White House, Mr. Daugherty has ruled that the commission's construction of the section laying import duties on logs of cedar, fir, spruce and western hemlock was incorrect. The president has returned the commission's report, with the opinion to the commission with instructions to "proceed in accordance therewith."

The commission's action which was overturned by the department justice, was taken late in August upon the application of log buying interests of the Pacific northwest which sought a reduction of the full 50 per cent. permitted by the flexible provisions in the rate of $1 a thousand board feet on logs of the species mentioned. The law provides that the duty shall not apply if the nation, province or political sub-division from which the commodity is imported has imposed any restriction on its exportation within twelve months.

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT THROUGH THE RIGHT LUNG

Torrington, Conn., Jan. 20—William Whalen, 14, was shot through the right lung and is in a critical condition in a hospital here as the result of an accidental shooting by his 13 year old friend, Robert Keeley. The Keeley boy is said to have pointed a revolver at Whalen, demanding that he raise his hands. Not knowing that the gun was loaded Keeley pulled the trigger three times discharging one cartridge. Keeley is not being held.

INFANT WAS FATALLY BURNED IN PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 20—Robert Godfrey, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Godfrey, died today as a result of burns received when his clothes caught fire from contact with flaming grease on the kitchen stove.

OBITUARY.

William C. Sharpe.

Seymour, Conn., Jan. 20.—In less than a week from the time that he turned over the reins of the Saymour Record, which he published for 53 years, William C. Sharpe, 84, died at the home of his daughter here tonight. Mr. Sharpe was known as the dean of Connecticut's publishers and was the oldest member of the Connecticut Editorial association. He founded the Seymour Record in 1871 after resigning as head of Derby's public school system.

He was born in Southford, Conn., Oct. 3, 1839, and was educated in Seymour, spending his early years as a teacher. He disposed of the newspaper Monday to Charles R. Baker, of the South Norwalk Evening Sentinel. The following day he took to his bed.

The funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Clara Wakeman

Coscob, Conn., Jan. 20—Miss Clara Wakeman, 66, designer and painter, died at Toussaint farm here today. Miss Wakeman was the eldest daughter of the late Thaddeus Burr Wakeman, lawyer and essayist and Emily Ingham Wakeman, active in pioneering the movement for equal suffrage.

Miss Wakeman was a graduate of the Arts Students' league of New York and was instructor in drawing and painting at the Liberal University of Oregon. She had studied in France and her orange lustre ware was exhibited throughout this country. She is survived by Mrs. Emily Wakeman Hartley, of Stamford and Elbert Wakeman, of Oyster Bay and Maryland.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Of Killingly interest is the fact that the body of Joseph Maturin was exhumed from a grave in St. Mary's cemetery, at Putnam, at the week end, that an autopsy might be performed to determine whether he died of disease of whether death was due to the results of an accident in which he was injured at Dayville many months ago while employed as a laborer on construction work under way in that village.

Maturin's death occurred the past week. While he had been in poor health for a long time, he was able to be at church in Putnam a week ago Sunday and his death came as a surprise to the members of his family and his friends. He left his wife and six children.

Dr. Gordon Russsell, Jr., performed the autopsy. It is understood that the present investigation is with a view to determining compensation allowance for the family of the deceased.

Attorney Louis A. Woisard has been appointed personal tax collector, to succeed George A. Williams, whose term has expired. Attorney Woisard is a republican and his appointment to be personal tax collector is generally regarded among those who keep tabs on things political as forecasting his nomination next fall as the republican candidate for town tax collector. Last fall Mr. Williams, who was town tax collector for several years, was defeated for re-election by James R. Walsh, the first democrat to hold his present office in the town of Killingly for time out of memory.

The democrats will renominate him next fall, and with the excellent record he is making as tax collector is looked upon to give any candidates named in opposition a great battle for victory at the polls.

The plant of the Banigan Manufacturing company at Elmville—known locally as the Cat Hollow mill—has been sold to Roscoe W. Wilbur, of Hubbardston, Mass., and a business that will engage in the manufacture of nails and possibly other hardware supplies is to be established there.

The Banigan plant was badly damaged by fire during December, practically all the main part of the mill excepting the walls being consumed by flames that raged for hours. Members of the Danielson fire department, battling for half a night against the fire, succeeded in preserving almost intact that end of the plant near the power house.

It is understood that the new concern will start business in this part of the building and eventually rebuild the mill, with which there is a good water power.

R. D. Banigan said at the week end that he likely will remain in Danielson, but made no announcement as to his future activities in the manufacturing line.

The fact that the damaged mill is again to be the center of manufacturing activity is very good news to the people of Killingly. There has been an industry of some kind at Cat Hollow for well over a century. Various textile and foundry operations have been carried on there since the days when Killingly was young and now there is promise that business will continue to go on there for many more years.

Saturday morning, the funeral of John J. Lyons, Jr., who was drowned Thursday afternoon in a small pond just north of the carhouse of the Connecticut Company, at Dayville, was held from the home of his parents on Otis street in that village, with a high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ignatius Kost was celebrant of the mass. The bearers were Walter Casey, Walter Rumrill, Christopher Brennan, Henry Russell, Thomas Ryan and John Rol. The body was entombed at St. Joseph's cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The funeral of Omar Deloge, who died in Putnam following a surgical operation, was held from his home on Furnace street with services at St. James' church at 8 o'clock. Rev. F. X. Richards was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery at Wauregan, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. J. C. Mathieu, pastor of the Sacred Heart church. The bearers were six brothers of the deceased—Frederick, Clement, John, Henry, Joseph and David Deloge. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

Though not unacquainted with St. James' parish and himself not unknown to the parishioners, Rev. Joseph Deschaud, M. S., the new pastor, took occasion at the masses Sunday morning to say a few words to the congregations relative to his taking up the duties of the pastorate in Danielson and along the line of the co-operation that he anticipates will exist between himself and the people of the church, as always has existed during the quarter of a century that priests of the Missionary Order of LaSalette have been in charge of St. James' and have done such in amazing amount of good for its material development and spiritual advancement. Fr. Deschaud is a capable administrator and under his pastorate, one of the promised important achievements will be the construction of the new St. James' parochial school, for which a fund, started by Rev. John Rodix, M. S., is growing month by month.

The announcement that the Connecticut company is to advance its fare rates on the local division, as well as on other lines throughout the state, during the coming month, has caused no more than a ripple of interest here. It is generally recognized that the trolley company is entitled to a fair return for the service rendered the public and on the investment that the corporation represents. The advance is so slight that it will be felt but little in this territory. For instance, a ride to Putnam will cost, under the new tariff, only 3 1-2 cents more than the present charge. Tokens, in use on the road, now cost 7 1-2 cents each. Under the new arrangement the charge for them will be 3 1-3 cents. In other words, they will sell at three for 25 cents.

There were no arrests here over the week end, and police said Sunday that the period had been exceptionally quiet, with nothing of special interest to them transpiring.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week will bring the mid-year examinations for the students at the Killingly High school.

Pension claims are being passed upon at Washington with record speed these days if the case of C. B. Montgomery of Oneco, is to be regarded as a criterion. Only 13 days elapsed between Mr. Montgomery's claim for an increase of pension and his obtaining a reply from Senator George P. McLean that the claim had been considered, approved and placed in a new classification with an additional allowance of $6 per month.

January of 1924 continued to string out its record of being regarded as a near-springlike month on Sunday by maintaining the temperature above the freezing point during practically all of the day.

On a date later in the town of Sterling evidence will be taken in a justice's court pertaining to a divorce action brought by William N. Sweet of Reno, Nevada, formerly of Sterling, against Grace A. Sweet. The plaintiff will be represented by counsel, but will not appear personally. A divorce action involving this couple was tried in the superior court for this county some time since. Mr. Sweet has been in Nevada for a considerable period.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bodo are to make their home in Norwich, which Mr. Bodo, who has had experience in the grocery business, is to assume the management of a chain store.

William A. Stillman of Pawcatuck was a visitor with friends in Danielson over Sunday.

Since taking office Tax Collector James R. Walsh has collected upwards of $5,500 in back taxes.

Killingly High school's basketball team has two games scheduled for this week. Tourtellotte High school is scheduled to be here Wednesday and Killingly to play at Putnam on Friday of this week.

If one heeds the advice of motorists who have ventured into such territory, drivers will not get off state highways these days unless they are willing to take the chance of being mired and paying the cost of getting hauled onto solid ground again.

The annual report of Rev. Ignatius Kost of Dayville, shows St. Joseph's parish, of which he is the head, in flourishing condition. The parish includes Dayville and the missions of Goodyear, Attawaugan and Ballouville, where there is a church. It numbers about 2,000 souls.

The Reading Circle ists meet today (Monday), with Mrs. C. C. Greene.

PUTNAM

Just before 8 o'clock Sunday morning, the death ocurred at the institution of Miss Katherine Burns, 34, one of the staff of nurses at the Day Kimball hospital. Miss burns became ill last Sunday evening. She had spent the evening with friends and appeared as well as usual at dinner. Upon returning to the hospital she complained of not feeling well. Her condition grew more serious during Monday and Tuesday morning she underwent a srgical operation. Her condition had been critical during the week. Nevertheless, announcement of her death came as a great shock to all who knew her here.

Miss Burns was a graduate of the Worcester City Hospital, in 1916, and had been at the Day Kimball hospital since 1917. She was of an exceedingly cheerful disposition and had many friends during the time she had been engaged in her profession in this city. Miss Burns was a daughter of Patrick Burns, of Worcester, to which city her body was taken. Her mother has been dead several years. She leaves besides her father, a sister, Miss Gertrude Burns, also a graduate nurse, and two brothers, John and Andrew.

The body of Joseph Mathurin, whose funeral was held in St Mary's church, Friday morning, burial being in St. Mary's cemetery, was exhumed Saturday afternon and is being held at local undertaking rooms where an autopsy will be performed upon the arrival of Dr. Gordon Russell, Jr., of Hartford. The purpose of the autopsy is to determine whether the man's widow is entitled to compensation, for his death, or whether death was due to disease and not from an injury received some weeks ago.

Mathurin was working on a job in Dayville when a particle of concrete lodged in his eye. It gave him considerable trouble and he was unable to work. He was up and about although not feeling very well and suffering what they thought to be rheumatic pains. Last week he was seen on the street and said he was improving. Sunday he attended church where he collapsed in his pew, and had to be taken to his home. He grew rapidly worse, his brain apparently became effected and he finally lapsed into unconsciousness. Death came last Wednesday morning.

When the question of compensation arose the widow gave permission for the exhuming of the body and the autopsy. Mrs. Mathurin, whose home is on Powhattan street, is left with six small children and without substantial means. As the question of whether she is entitled to compensation involves $8000 the mater is an important one to the family.

Noble Hall and Delia Garceau Ratte were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, by Attorney Howard G. Bradford acting as a justice of the peace. Both are well known in Putnam. Both have been married before. Mrs. Hall's mother lives in Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will live on a farm on the road to Putnam Heights.

Joe the Turk, well known Salvation Army worker, was in Putnam Saturday night and Sunday conducting the meetings at the Salvation Army barracks on Pomfret Street. Joe has been in the service 40 years and has been in jail fiftytwo times in this country and once in Turkey. During his stay here he gave lectures and concerts.

Joe is a staff captain in the Salvation Army and appears at all times in full Turkish costume. He plays the saxaphone, clarinet, cornet and Turkish drum. He played all of these instruments in the concerts he gave here also told of the barbarous and murderous Turk and how he butchers, massacres, and tortures the Armenians. He brought with him a two-edged sword, such as is mentioned in the Bible, which he acquired while in Turkey during his recent European tour. Large gatherings greeted the Army worker, who has been in Putnam once befor.

As far as can be learnd the first Mah Jong party to be held in Putnam was that given recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Mann, Grove Street, when their daughter, Miss Edna Mann entertained two tables in honor of Miss Clara Maertens and Miss Margaret Maertens, of Providence.

Mrs. Guy Baker is visiting her parents in South Braintree, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ainley and James Fraiser and daughter Miss Margaret Frazier, were in Worcester, Sunday, to attend a banquet of locomotive engineers.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce have purchased from Charles Seder, a cottage on School street, which they will occupy the first of Februayr.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diamond have as guests their daughter, Mrs. Charles Jacobsen and their granddaughter, Bella Gloria Jacobsen of Norwich.

Mrs. Jack Lachiance and two children of Hartford, have been the guests of Mrs. Lachance's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brownville.

Mrs. Hattie Ros, entertained members of the W. C. T. U., Friday afternoon.

There has been a persistent rumor that the Manhasset mill would close Saturday on indefinitely. This rumor was dispelled by one in close touch with the mill's affairs who said that the plant would be operated at least two weeks, and possibly longer.

The Thompson Sunday School has elected officers as follows: Superintendent, R. A. Dunning; assistant superintendent, Dyer S. Elliott; secretary and treasurer, Winthrop Ballard; Marion Erickson; cradle roll, Mrs. Winthrop Ballard, Mrs. D. S. Elliott; Mrs. S. T. Livingstone; home department, William Leake, Mrs. H. M. Elliott.

At the Howe-Marot school at Thompson, Miss Marot is giving a talk on Current Events to extend over ten Monday afternoons.

Radio fans had their ears covered with radio receivers Friday night and went to bed knowing the outcome of the Greb-Wilson fight at Madison Square Garden, N. Y. The fight was broadcasted round by round, and before the final announcement was made it was evident that Greb would retain his title.

The situation of the Manhasset Manufacturing Company is of the greatest concern to Putnam business interests and there is an underlying feeling that it is time the business interests of the city take a hand and if possible shape the future of this city's manufacturing industries, so that Putnam will be benifited. Just how this can be done is a problem. The thought is generally expressed that if the city industries could be concentrated so that men who live in Putnam and have the interests of the city at heart as well as the industry that they represent, there would be more confidence of the citizens and local money might thereby be attracted.

The welfare of Putnam depends upon the operation of its factories. It is first of all a manufacturing city and at present the outlook is not bright.

The plants are here, the water power is here, the city is a railroad center and it only needs that the mills be operating on a firm, conservative plan to make Putnam a thriving manufacturing city.

With the withdrawal of the Nightingale-Morse interests from the city, and the Manhaset Manufacturing Company in the hands of receivers, it canot be said that Putnam is at present in a prosperous condition. Offsetting this is the removal to Putnam from Rhode Island of the Adams Manufacturing Company, now running one of the mills acquired from the Nightingale-Morse interests, and the assurance that the largest of this company's mills, purchased by the H. K. H. Silk Company, will son be in operation as one of the largest silk mills in the country.

If the H. K. H. Silk Co., abandons the several smaller factories they now ocupy to house the Putnam division of the concern under one roof, this will leave two and possibly three empty factories to attract new industries to Putnam. Such properties canot long stand idle and when the time arrives that they are available for new industries, the Putnam Chamber of Commerce will have opportunity to go into the market and offer excellent manufacturing sites as an inducement to the new industries to locate in Putnam.

Those taking an optimistic view believe that the city will work itself out of its present manufacturing depression, but that in order to facilitate this and shorten the time in which the wheels begin to hum, giving employment to the idle and attracting new families to Putnam, the citizens must take an interest in the business affairs of their home city. Talking pessimistically and doing nothing will accomplish nothing. A united Putnam with progressive action is what is being sought by a number of the leading business men.

Police Officer George H. Champlin arrested Sunday two intoxicated individuals; the first arrest was in response to a telephone call, when he visited Central Park and took into custody at 8:10 Sunday morning Homer Carron. The second arrest was also in response to a telephone call when he went to John street and placed under arrest William Keenan.

The men were presented at a special session of the Third district court Sunday night on a charge of intoxication, were found guilty and each was sentenced to pay a fine of $2 and costs amounting in all to $5.86, which was paid.

Chief of the Fire Department of Pawcatuck Pierce Morrison has wanted a demonstration of what a fire pump would be able to accomplish on Hinckley Hill and he had been assured of this by Fire Chief George Egger of Westerly with the Ahrens-Fox Engine in the Westerly district. Sunday morning the mild temperature afforded an excellent opportunity for the test. Westerly pump was taken to the West Side hill where a hydrant of the Westerly Water Works, shows a pressure of twenty-five pounds, which will send a fire hose stream about two stories. The pump was connected to the hydrant and a nozzle pressure of from a hundred and fifty to a hundred and sixty pounds was obtained and even with the stream against the wind reached an altitude of nearly four stories. Both Fire Chiefs Morrison and Egger expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied with the result obtained. It is also with a sense of satisfaction that residents of localities about Westerly on the higher elevations can know that ample protection is furnished them with the equipment of the fire department.

Mrs. George F. Barbour of Avondale, state regent of the Rhode Island Daughters of the American Revolution reported increase in state membership, at the meeting held on Thursday afternoon, at the Providence Biltmore. The Rhode Island Daughters now number 1311.

David A. Tongren of Norwich was the purchaser of the property of Angelo and Mary Delgrosso at 53 Liberty street, which was sold by Eugene B. Pendleton, for $2,098.87 Saturday afternoon, by, court order, to satisfy the lien on the property of a Norwich Lumber Co.

The South County Rod and Gun Club held its annual meeting Friday evening at the Elm Tree Inn on the West Side, when 75 members of the club were present. Officers were elected as follows: President, Earl M. Palmer; vice president, Fred Reithel; treasurer, H. Russell Burdick; corresponding secretary, George H. Bray; financial secretary, George E. Leonard. A committee for a club banquet, of which George A. Dolan is chairman, consists of Charles A. Morgan, Farquhar Smith, Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, and H. Russell Burdick. George A. Dolan was endorsed by the club for appointment by the governor, with the advice and consent of the Rhode Island senate, for a three year term beginning January 31, 1924, as a member of the commission of Inland Fisheries. Also it, was voted to request the members of the Rhode Island General Assembly to have the fee for a license for fresh water fishing increased to fifty cents, the present license fee being twenty-five cents; the secretary was instructed to notify legislative members and have them urge its passage.

Farquhar Smith of Westerly has received a commission as Rhode Island state representative of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists, from the president of the association in Detroit, Mich.

Word received from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fontana, who have been visiting in Barre, Vt., on their way to Canada, is to the effect that the weather they are experiencing in that land of snow and winter sports is similar to the spring-like weather here.

SERVICE to the PUBLIC

This is the dominating note in the symphony of this great and rapidly growing institution and its staff.

With this idea in mind this bank has just installed the largest and finest privately-owned clock in Windham County.

Benjamin Franklin said: "As thou art not sure of a minute, waste not an hour." That we may be able to help you to conserve your time, this bank has purchased this magnificent timepiece.

It will serve to emphasize, morever, the fact that each minute recorded by this big clock means added income to savings depositors in this institution where 4½ Per Cent. is paid from the first of every month. Savings deposited before the fifth of any month draw interest from the first of that month.

We would like this big clock to be a symbol to the people of the community of this bank's broad, sound-minded helpfulness—to typify an institution where co-operation, efficiency and courtesy are at your command.

Our facilities are as numerous as our desire to serve is broad. Checking accounts are solicited, savings are encouraged, safety deposit customers are astonished at the conveniences and security, and we are always pleased to be of service to investors, look after trust matters, attend to collections, foreign exchange, credits and all the multitudinous details of modern finance.

ABOUT THE BIG CLOCK

Mahogany, plate and leaded glass and copper used in its construction; height, 16 ft. 6 in.; 3 ft. square; four dials, each 24 in. square. Operated by electricity from a master clock in main banking room; manufactured and accuracy guaranteed by O. E. McClintock Co., of Minneapolis.

THE CITIZENSHIP CONFERENCE.

Because law enforcement in this state was far from what it should have been, Chief Justice Wheeler called the situation to the attention of the authorities of the various counties in such a manner that a marked improvement in the administration of the dry law resulted. It is not to be supposed that it has brought about an elimination of the violations or entirely removed a certain laxness in enforcement, but there is a decided change for the better. The chief justice rose magnificently to his task and brought about a greater respect for the law.

There is the same purpose behind the New England citizenship conference now in session at Boston. Its aim is to create, strengthen and voice public sentiment for obedience to law and for stricter enforcement, especially of the eighteenth amendment and if it can accomplish the awakening of the conscience of New England and bring the group of states to show a greater respect for law it will have accomplished not only its object, but a laudable and much needed service.

When law enforcement falls down in any particular direction, when authorities fail to do their duty, when justices and courts fail to cooperate, there is a serious situation. Not only is there less respect for a particular law, but all laws suffer to a greater or less degree.

Opinions may differ in regard to laws, whether they should have been enacted or not, but inasmuch as they have been put on the statute books it is to be expected that they will be respected until repealed, and particularly so when there are deliberate and organized efforts to break them. And the repealing of the laws should be accomplished in the established manner, rather than through the laxity of officials, justices or courts.

Public sentiment as manifested through the conference now in session may be able to accomplish much and it is quite clear to the occasional as well as the constant observer that there is need for all the effort that can be put forth in behalf of law enforcement.

OUR MEXICAN ATTITUDE.

When the Obregon government asked the United States for permission to send such of its troops as were needed across our territory, in order that they might be made available in putting down the rebellion, it was endeavoring to bring further support to the constitutional government of that country. The appeal was received in recognition thereof, and the favorable reply to the petition, approved by the governors of the three states through which the Mexican troops will go, means that the United States is following up the logical steps already taken regarding the Mexican government.

Permitting Mexican troops to fly over American territory in order that they may be sent from one point in Mexico to another in the quickest time does not by any means establish a precedent. It is what was done during the rebellion headed by Orozco when President Taft was chief executive and it was again done during the Wilson administration when Villa was making trouble below the Rio Grande. It didn't make the revolutionary leaders particularly friendly toward the United States but it was action that was to be expected in behalf of constitutional government and constitutional methods, even though discouraging to those who were unwilling to abide by such.

That the Obregon government is certain to be the gainer by the attitude which has been taken by his country is evident. The fact is that if this government should do otherwise, even though it did not take sides with the rebels, it would simply be playing into the revolutionists' hands, for whatever we refused to do for the Obregon government would mean just that much benefit for the rebels. They gain every time the Obregon government is unable to remove a handicap, and thus far the lack of arms and ammunition and the proper railroad facilities have been handicaps which this government have helped Obregon to remove. We stand firmly in both instances behind a constitutional government.

POINCARE UNCHANGED.

Whether Premier Poincare of France was talking for home consumption solely, or whether he is determined to stick to his position let come what may, will be disclosed in time. There is no doubt about the fact that he has doggedly stuck to the demands that Germany must pay in accord with the treaty terms. He has reiterated his position in that respect and continues to do so. Furthermore, at a time when the government has gone on record for heavy taxation in order to meet the present situation, bring the franc back and balance the budget, Premier Poincare emphatically declares that France is going to stay in the Ruhr.

At the same time the special committee named by the reparations commission has gotten down to business in so far as to determine, in the capacity of experts, what Germany's capacity to pay actually is, what is necessary to get Germany back onto its feet in order that it can pay, and as a part of that change what is the proper course for Germany to take to reestablish its currency system. What this committee is going to advocate time alone can tell. There may be surmises as to what its recommendations will be, but so far as any report is concerned it will be some time before they will be made known.

Premier Poincare doesn't say that he will repudiate any such recommendations as they may make. Naturally he is going to wait and see what they are and what effect they have upon the reparation commission. It is too soon to offer an opinion on a plan which was put forth by France, and which it might be expected to uphold as it works out in its various stages.

Poincare is standing by his guns. Possibly he expects the commission to find that Germany's capacity to pay is just as great as it has been rated outside that country. At any rate he has not as yet shown any disposition to weaken. His attitude toward Germany, and its conduct since the treaty was signed, remains unaltered, and can be expected to until he is convinced to the contrary.

NEW ENGLAND COAL.

In the endeavor to get relief from coal shortages, coal strikes and the coal monopolies of Pennsylvania much stress has been laid upon the use of substitutes for anthracite in this part of the country. In addition there are the statements that the anthracite production is not keeping pace with the demands and New England suffers.

In the use of substitutes attention must turn to the "smokeless" volative bituminous coal, which fortunately isn't all produced in one state, and a plea that may have a most important effect is that which was recently made to the interstate commerce commission by which lower freight rates were sought on coal between West Virginia and New England points. West Virginia produces the bituminous that makes a good substitute for anthracite. It produces it at a figure that would bring much relief but for the fact that transportation charges are so large.

Naturally Pennsylvania will not be anxious to lose its coal business and will be eager to furnish the low-volatile bituminous in supplying demands, but New England has had its experience with Pennsylvania and it is properly anxious that it should not be confined to the production of any one state for its fuel. Lowered freight rates from West Virginia would give it the needed protection, and it might deal with the situation in such a manner that the once utilized advantage of the water facilities for getting its fuel might return.

Too much emphasis cannot be laid upon the fuel problem of New England, and such action as the interstate commerce commission takes upon the petition will be awaited with interest.

THE THIN ICE TOLL.

Six boys broke through the ice while skating at Thompsonville, this state, on Friday and had narrow escapes before being rescued. Their ages were from 9 to 13.

At Norwood, Mass., on the same day, the bodies of two boys who had been missing from home since the day previous were found in a pond. They had ventured on thin ice and broken through.

A six-year-old ventured on thin ice Friday at Fitchburg and was drowned in spite of the efforts to rescue him.

At Worcester, Saturday, three boys were crossing a pond when they broke through the thin ice and were drowned. Their ages were 9 to 13.

At Fitchburg on Saturday two boys were drowned while running benders, and a third had a narrow escape in his endeavor to rescue them.

Eight deaths in two days within a restricted territory indicates the heavy penalty that is being paid this winter because of the unwillingness to remain off of thin ice. Conditions have not been such as to create safe conditions for skating on ponds where the water is deep enough to cause drowning. Unfortunately that hasn't been recognized to such an extent that the skaters have kept off of the ponds. Many have, of course, because of a recognized need for caution, but those who like to tempt fate, those who are eager to do stunts and stump the other fellow, have found all the danger they could reasonably expect on the ponds and rivers this winter. And the saddest part of it all is that there has been such a needless increase in the death lists.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is no question but what the Shenandoah got an unexpected lot of good advertising.

During Thrift week there's a chance to call attention to the practice of wasting time.

January half gone and only six more weeks to spring with the day's length steadily increasing.

Probably you are prepared to predict how the coal strike will end if one is called for the first of April.

It doesn't appear that Chicago has grown tired of conventions but that conventions have grown tired of Chicago's practices.

The man on the corner says: What has become of the old fashioned girls who would have laughed at the thought of powdering their noses?

Dr. Murphree doesn't expect anything to come of the candidacy for which he has been picked by Colonel Bryan, but he will probably appreciate the advertising.

Think of a shakeup in the New York police force! Only recently it was declared by the commissioner to be perfect and crime conditions there were mostly imaginary.

Some of the congressmen may tell the president what he ought to do to pacify some of their number but they are not trying to suggest anything for the welfare of the public.

The explanation of the American Bar association that the British lines underbid the American lines and showed more interest in carrying the association members to England in July doesn't jibe with the claim that the American lines offered to meet the terms of any other line.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Milk bottles should always be washed on the outside before putting them in the refrigerator.

While roasting meat turn with a spoon instead of a fork, as the latter pierces the meat and lets the juice out.

Wall paper may be cleaned if it is not too badly soiled by rubbing the surface lightly with cotton batting.

If you wish to straighten whalebone, soak it in warm water until it is pliable, then press with a warm iron.

The marks on paint made by scratching matches there, may be removed by rubbing them with a cut lemon.

A leak in a porcelain wash bowl may be mended temporarily with tallow from a candle until the plumber can fix it permanently.

All packages in your closets and storage rooms whose contents are not self-evident should be labeled. It saves time and insures neatness.

In buying sheets be sure that you get them long and wide enough. A sheet should be at least two and three-quarter yards long, and three is even better.

When running curtains on a rod try putting the finger of an old kid glove over which a thimble has been placed. There will then be no risk of tearing the curtains.

Several thicknesses of newspaper laid between the bedspring and mattress are equal in warmth to another mattress.

Combs should not be washed. Clean them by passing a soft cloth between the teeth.

If furniture is scratched, mix together equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine and paint over the scratches. As soon as they disappear rub briskly with a soft cloth.

To clean white enamel furniture wash it with warm soapy water, wipe as dry as possible, then polish with a dry cloth, upon which a little whiting has been sprinkled.

To clean white felt or velvet hats mix one-half cup of borax, one-half cup of cornmeal and one-half cup of flour and rub this well into the hat. Let it stand that way a day or two before brushing it off.

GIVES BETTER FLAVOR.

It is a common error to consider that the more butter there is in mashed potatoes the richer and tastier they are. Too much makes them flavorless. A little hot milk, put into the pan when the potatoes have been lightly and thoroughly mashed and mixed with pepper and salt, and a very little bit of butter introduced just before serving, makes the dish all that is desirable.

SUGAR IN VEGETABLES.

It may be useful to the cook to know that French cooks add a teaspoon of sugar to each quart of water in which peas, marrows, and other green vegetables are cooked. This brings out the flavor of the vegetable and is very agreeable, especially in very young peas, which the French cook serves, pods and all, with cream.

BEATING EGGS.

Eggs, for custards and puddings that are required to be smooth and creamy rather than light, should be beaten with horizontal strokes so as not to take in too much air. A spoonful of water will prevent them from becoming too frothy.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

In cases of roughened skin and chafing no better ointments can be recommended than boracic or zinc, either of which should be mixed with equal quantities of pure white vaseline.

Bicarbonate of soda is excellent for cases of flatulence and is most conveniently stored in five-grain tablets. For an attack of wind in a child of six months or more, dissolve one tablet in a teaspoonful of dill water and add two teaspoonfuls of hot water.

There are a few things, and unfortunately only a very few things, that can be done to thick ankles to make them thin. One is to reduce all over if the body is too fleshy, for extra layers of flesh have an unfortunate habit of collecting over the abdomen and over the ankles. A general reduction will cause this extra flesh to be reabsorbed and the ankles, as well as the whole body, will become slimmer.

When you manicure first shape the nails to a becoming rounded oval or slightly pointed oval by using a long flexible steel file. Clean under them and soak them in warm soapy water. Clean them again, smoothing down the rough places with emery paper and bleaching all stains with lemon juice. Then rub your cream well into the edges and over the entire surface of the nail, as soon as you have trimmed the cuticle around the edge.

COVER AND SCORE PAD.

A thoughtful hostess knows that for good bridge morale the right kind of table cover is necessary, so she gets a square piece of black satin and borders it with inch wide gold metallic ribbon, with a luxurious tassel at each corner, which gives it weight and balance. The border is put on with liquid glue, a thin line spread along each edge of the ribbon, applied a few inches at a time and allowed to "set" before the surfaces are joined. Use only the best quality liquid glue.

A score pad to match the table cover is made by covering an ordinary pad with black satin ribbon, bordered with narrow gold metallic ribbon. All of the work is done with the best quality liquid glue. Material required: Five-eighths yard of 5 1-2-inch ribbon for cover, two yards of one-half-inch ribbon for border.

FOR PICTURE MOUNTS.

Many good pictures have been spoiled by poor or careless mounting. It should be remembered that the mount forms the setting for your picture. Some thought must be given, therefore, to its selection, both as to color, shade and size.

A good deal of time and thought have been given by manufacturers to the production of harmonious and appropriate mountings for all classes of work. Fortunately, therefore, the danger of inappropriate selection is largely minimized.

One of the first things to consider is color. The color of the mount must harmonize with the tone of the print. Black and white prints should not be mounted on brown or any of the warmer shades select rather one of the soft grays, black or white. Where the print contains very strong highlights, a pure white mount may be used, but when the tones are subdued the use of gray is advised, as the strong white would degrade the highlights of your soft print. Black mounts may be used with prints containing deep shadows, for the same reason. With warm-toned prints, such as sepias, browns, and dark purples, the various shades of brown, green and even subdued reds may be used to advantage.

TO FRESHEN FURNITURE.

To remove the dirt and smoke from furniture wash with a soft cloth dipped in equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine. Polish with dry cloth. This will not injure the finish on your furniture and will brighten it up wonderfully.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Creme taffeta trimmed in peasant embroidery in red and green, and bordered with bands of kolinsky. A bright colored ribbon hangs from the decolletage at the front.

Black velvet fashions a gown showing V's to the waistline at front, back and sides. A side drapery lined with silver cloth forms the semblance of a train.

A bouffant evening gown of heavy white brocade with large silver motifs, has as its only ornament a huge rose-colored velvet poinsettia.

Another straw hat is fashioned of tiny triangular motifs of alternating straw and tapestry embroidery in Chinese red shades.

A green velvet evening wrap collared in fur shows inverted U-shaped spaces filled in with green metal brocade.

Bright silver embroidery in an all-over patern on white satin fashions a front-draped evening gown.

A black velvet frock of bouffant type has a silver lace bertha in drop-shoulder effect and a panel insert of silver lace at the front of the skirts.

Velvet slippers appear more and more frequently.

Very flat caracul makes an addition to the tailored suit in two curved and shaped peplums about the hips, the severe shawl collar repeating the fur.

A clever bandeau is formed of tiny green ostrich feathers in flat effect caught into a silver band.

IN BLACK AND WHITE.

White silk crepe braided with black figures composes a becoming sports dress. The cuffs on the short sleeves, the collar, belt and pockets are of white with a band of black moire ribbon down the center, and the loosely knotted tie is of the ribbon.

Imported satin nightgowns, -several in turquoise blue, include only the simplest of sleeveless styles, made with straight yokes of wide cream lace, trimmed with tight little nosegays of exquisite ribbon flowers in peach, blue, and a dozen delicate shades, with and without streamers. In some of them the shoulder straps are three narrow peach color ribbons, and others have inch-wide straps that tie in soft bows and fall in sashes to the waist.

NEW SASH EFFECT.

A Dresden taffeta dance frock in changeable lavender with rose-purple flowers has an unusual and interesting hip sash combination of terrapin brown velvet and rose taffeta ribbon. The rose ribbon is gathered in long tabs to the short velvet streamers, and the ends are cut round.

GIVES COLOR TOUCH.

White dotted swiss for adults as well as children is among the good sellers this season. Ribbon sashes, corsages, cobochons or flowers of ribbon that can be pinned on by a hidden safety pin make the most effective trimmings for such dresses. The ribbon gives the color touch without which no dress is complete and plays up the sheerness and weave of the dotted swiss.

RENOVATING HINTS.

To remove marks made on a leather chair by the head and arms, boil half a pint of linseed oil, let it stand until nearly cold and stir in a half-pint of vinegar (cider) until it is well mixed. It may then be bottled. Pour a few drops on a piece of flannel and apply it to the leather, then polish with a soft dust cloth.

To remove smoke marks from ceilings, mix a thick paste of starch and water and with a clean flannel spread it over the mark. Allow to get thoroughly dry, then brush off with a soft brush, and the marks will have disappeared.

In cleaning a frying pan do not scrape it with a knife, for afterward the pan will be more liable to "catch." Boil out the pan with hot soda water and, if necessary, scour with fine sand.

A mattress should be thoroughly brushed and beaten with a flat rattan beater at least once a month. By turning it every few days the wear will be more evenly distributed.

VARIETY IN TIES.

Seldom have ties appeared in such a versatile and effective assortment in feminine wardrobes. From the narrow little black grosgrain bow and streamer under the white organdy collar of a black silk day frock to the tie in brilliant plaids that has a looped passageway around the back of the neck and down the side front to the skirt hem there are ties to add interest to any daytime outfit. The owner of a white silk broadcloth overblouse with the convertible collar enjoys having two or three ties to suit her hats and moods. One is of very narrow red velvet ribbon that swings down quite low before it ties in a prim little bow without streamers. Another one is of five inch brilliantly figured ribbon that is gathered on to a large clasp at each end, like fur clasps, and snaps together in the front below the waist line. A biege flannel Palm Beach frock has ties and pocket handkerchiefs to match — green moire ribbon with a green print pongee kerchief, narrow carnelian red satin ribbon with a polka dot handkerchief.

HIDDEN POWDER CASE.

A charming orchid dance frock has a large rose at the left hip made of purple velvet ribbon with little loops of silver ribbon in the center. Beneath this innocent appearing blossom is an ordinary small coin purse of kid, with a metal clasp, in which the debutante carries a tiny puff and mirror to use for recouping her complexion in an emergency.

FOR SPORTS WEAR.

Among the advance Palm Beach modes is the smart sports bandeau in a variety of interesting plain and braided ribbon styles. These becoming and useful costume accessories are flexible and snap in place, so that they fit the head comfortably

IN THREE STRANDS.

Three strands of beads are worn about the neck at present, the longest strand being of only medium length. In two strands the beads are very large, but the third is likely to be made up of small unit-seed pearls being often used.

RECIPES

Welsh Rabbit With French Toast—Prepare slices of bread one inch thick and dip in mixture of milk and beaten egg. Fry until golden brown. After removing the toast add one-half cup of onions, one-half cup of water, to the pan and cook until water evaporates and onions are soft. Now add a tablespoon of butter and one-half pound of grated cheese. Cook slowly until cheese melts, then lift on prepared French toast and dust with paprika and serve.

For peach shortcake make a rich biscuit and cut the biscuit with a large cookie cutter and then roll about one-half inch thick. Bake in hot oven for eighteen minutes. Split and butter while hot and then fill with crushed and sweetened fruit and serve with cream or thin custard sauce.

Coddled Apples—Wash, pare and core apples. They may be left whole or cut into halves or quarters. Make a sirup, using one-third as much sugar as water. Corn sirup may be used in place of part of the sugar. Drop the apple into the boiling sirup and cook gently until transparent. The apple should retain its shape during cooking, hence it is better to cook only a few pieces in the sirup at one time. A slice of lemon or a stick of cinnamon may be cooked with the apples. If apples used have a pretty red color a very attractive dish may be made by cooking the apples with the skin on.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS

Deductions for taxes form a considerable item in the returns of many taxpayers. Such items includs taxes on personal property and real estate, whether business or residential. Taxes assessed against local benefits, such as street paving or drainage, which tend to increase the value of the property assessed, are not deductible, since they are the cost of a permanent improvement.

The federal income tax may not be deducted. Other federal taxes, however, are deductible; for example, the special taxes of oleomargarine dealers, proprietors of theatres, pool rooms, bowling alleys, custom house brokers, and stockbrokers. Customs duties paid by a person on articles which he imports for his own use are deductible. Sales taxes paid by manufacturers of automobiles, candy, pleasure boats, works of art, carpets, trunks, jewelry, etc., may not be deducted by such manufacturers, unless included in gross income for the year. A purchaser of such articles can not deduct the taxes as they are levied against the manufacturer and not the purchaser.

Automobile license fees are regarded as taxes, and the amount thereof may be deducted. Admission taxes are deductible, but the taxpayer must show that account has been kept of the amount paid during the year. Mere guesswork will not be accepted.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Though still in his early forties, Sir Josiah C. Stamp, one of Britain's representatives on the commission of experts appointed to determine to what extent Germany is able to meet the Allied claims for reparations, has had a career marked by long series of brilliant successes and important positions. In England he is recognized as a leading authority on economics and statistics. For three years, until he resigned in 1919, he was assistant secretary to the Board of Inland Revenue, and in that capacity was chief adviser to the Chancellor of the Exchequer—the power behind the holder of the national purse. Sir Josiah entered the British civil service in 1896, and for some years has been an examiner in economics, political science and statistics for the great univesity of Cambridge, London and Glasgow.

MRS. HARRIET A. ROGERS CELEBRATES 81ST BIRTHDAY

Although over four score years of age, Mrs. Rogers is enjoying good health and takes interest in present day happenings. For some years she has been unable to get out much but she takes delight in having her old friends visit her.

Among those visiting the residence of Mrs. Rogers for the day were her sons, Alfred H. Rogers and family of Worcester, Mass., Jabez W. Rogers and family of New London and Herbert H. Rogers of Norwich. Cards were received extending congratulations on her birthday from a son, Earl W. Rogers of Shelby, Mont., and a daughter, Miss Martha H. Rogers, of New London, who were unable to come to Norwich. Her brother, Washington Holt and his daughter, Miss Hattie Holt, also called during the day.

Many cards were received bearing well wishes for many more happy years of life.

Mrs. Rogers was born in Norwich on January 20, 1843, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holt, and has always lived here where her friends are many.

PUBLIC COOPERATES LITTLE IN ENFORCING DRY LAW SAYS HURLEY

We have the enforcement of the Volstead act very well in hand, said Robert T. Hurley, of Hartford, superintendent of the Connecticut state police department, in an address before a fair sized audience at the Sunday evening service at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Hurley said there was a decided lack of cooperation on the part of the general public regarding the enforcement of the dry law.

Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of the church led the service. He offered prayer and the scripture selection was from the first epistle of Peter. Mr. Hurley, who was accompanied by Chief George Linton of the Norwich police department, was introduced by Rev. Mr. Graham. Mr. Hurley spoke on the topic The Criminal Situation in Connecticut, and in opening his address said he would endeavor to tell of some of the activities in 1923 for the purpose of taking care of criminal matters in the rural district of the state, and spoke of the various responsibilities given the state police department by the different legislatures since that time.

In the last twenty years the department has grown from a handful of men to its present strength of 80 men. Mr. Hurley spoke of the recent organization of the department and told of the establishment of the several police barracks, including the Danielson and Groton barracks in different sections of the state, as an aid in prompt investigations and enforcement of the laws.

Regarding the activities of the department Mr. Hurley said that the state police have recovered property of various kinds, including stolen automobiles to the value of $250,000, and have seized $250,000 worth of liquor since the advent of the prohibition law. We have the Volstead act in hand very well, he said, and went on to intimate that there is very little cooperation on the part of the general public. According to what the superintendent said the public in general takes but little interest in the enforcement of the dry law or in giving assistance to the police in its enforcement. He said that it was hard to get people to testify in liquor cases and that things seem to be getting to the point where people are afraid of one another.

He spoke of the criminal acts committed by feeble minded persons. Describing one case in particular in the western part of the state Mr. Hurley told of the burning down of a house by a feeble minded youth and of the one of the finding of the charred bodies of the occupants after the fire. Some little time before the tragedy Mr. Hurley said he asked one of the men of the town how long they were going to tolerate the feeble minded youth. Why, he is quite harmless, was the answer. We have a lot of fun with him at the store every night.

Mr. Hurley told of the great fire loss each year in the country and of the thousands of houses, stores, buildings and schools that are burned, and said in substance that much of the fire loss was due to negligence and carelessness, as well as criminals. The people are traveling along the line of least resistance, he said. We are all more or less negligent and indifferent.

In closing Mr. Hurley read a short paper dealing with the basis of criminal acts in which he pointed out the various ages in the life of the youth during which he is apt to turn to crime through environment, etc.

The meeting closed with benediction pronounced by Rev. M. Graham.

OVER 200 MEMBERS ATTEND ROSARY SOCIETY MEETING

Over 200 of the 225 members of the Rosary Society of St. Patrick's church attended the annual meeting, held Sunday afternoon in the society room in the basement chapel. The president, Mrs. John A. Moran presided. The rector, Rev. M. H. May, addressed the assemblage, praising the zeal and activity of the organization during the past year.

Mrs. Moran having declined reelection after three years of efficient service, Miss Annie G. Staaten was the choice for that office. Mrs. Jeremiah Lynch was elected vice president and Mrs. Thomas J. O'Neill, secretary. The treasurer is Father May.

The society decided to donate a votive stand for St. Anne's shrine. Plans were made for the annual whist party.

Once each month Father May offers the holy sacrifice of the mass for all members of this society, living and dead.

LIBRARY FOR HAMPTON IS NOW ASSURED

The people of the town of Hampton are elated over the gift of a public library by the late Austin Barclay Fletcher, of New York. About twenty years ago, Miss Eliza Durkee, of Hampton, aunt of Mr. Fletcher left some money, the interest of which was to be used in the purchase of books. This inspired Mr. Fletcher to purchase at a cost of $5,000 the Greenslit property, next to the Congregational Church, for the use of the library. Later the furnishings and equipment cost him another $5,000. After the death of Mr. Fletcher the outcome of this property was left uncertain, but advice from his lawyer announces the gift.

Now, books on history, travel, religion, science and biography may be found upon the shelves and some of the current magazines upon the reading room table. Mrs. Walter Hoffman is the librarian.

FOUND HIS MOTHER UNCONSCIOUS FROM SHOCK

Mrs. Joseph King of 3 High street was found unconscious from a shock on the floor of her home late Sunday afternoon by her son, Charles J. King of 46 Spring street, when he went to the house to see his mother.

Mr. King had gone to his mother's house, as was his usual daily custom, but she did not answer when he rang the bell. Going to another door, he was able to look into the house where he could see his mother lying on the floor of one of the rooms. He entered by kicking the door in and found that she was unconscious. A doctor was summoned and Mrs. King was taken to the Backus hospital where her condition remained critical up to an early hour this (Monday) morning.

SKIDDING MOTORCYCLE RUNS INTO AUTOMOBILE

A Chevrolet coupe belonging to Joseph Lahn, while parked on Laurel Hill avenue near Center street after midnight Saturday, was struck and damaged by a motorcycle driven by Orrin Harris of R. F. D. 6, Preston. The Harris motorcycle caught in the car track and shot over into the automobile before it could be controlled.

The automobile had a mudguard and the gas tank damaged and the glass in a door broken. The sidecar on the motorcycle was damaged, a wheel was broken and the handle bars were twisted, according to the report that was made to the police department.

EX-GOVERNOR WALLER NEAR THE END OF HIS LIFE

New London, Jan. 20.—Former Governor Thomas M. Waller was hardly expected to live out the night, according to attending physicians. Mr. Waller, whose condition became critical a few days ago, is unable to take nourishment and has lost the use of his limbs, the doctors stated tonight. He is 85 years old.

Street Needs Electric Light

For the past few days, since the severe storm of last week, there has been no electric light on Maple street between West Main and Asylum streets. The pole which carried the electric light was blown over by the high wind and another close by was blown over until it leaned at a dangerous angle. Both poles have been replaced by new ones and it is expected that the light will be placed in position shortly.

McLean-Murray Wedding

A Hartford physician, Dr. John J. McLean, will take as his bride this (Monday) morning Miss Nora C. Murray of this city. He was in the medical division of the naval reserves during the World war.

Automobile Struck Dog

An automobile driven by John Gaffney of the Norwich state hospital was reported Saturday night to the police to have struck a dog on Laurel Hill avenue, belonging to Robert Sample, but the dog was not killed.

TIME LIMIT FOR ALIENS WHO SERVED IN WAR

The United States commissioner of immigration at Washington has issued a warning through the deputy clerk of the United States commissioner's office at Hartford that March 9 is the last day on which aliens who served in the army or navy during the war can become naturalized without having to wait for many formalities customary in ordinary cases and without the payment of the $4 filing fee.

A special act of congress approved July 19, 1919, authorized naturalization of World war veterans who were honorably discharged without complying with many of the usual requirements such as the declaration of intention, proof of five years' residence in this country and the payment of a fee. The act was to be in effect only one year after the return of all American soldiers from France and the last soldiers came home home March 3, 1923. After March 3 of this year veterans will have to comply with the usual rules. Those who have not taken advantage of this law and taken out their papers are urged to get in touch with the immigration examiner nearest them.

BOZRAH JEWISH WOMEN COUNCIL'S THIRD ANNIVERSARY

At the third anniversary celebration of the Bozrah section of the Council of Jewish Women held Saturday in Palmer hall, Fitchville, the members and their families had a most enjoyable time. The program opened when the president, Mrs. Nathan Gilman addressed the council women, expressing her hope that the splendid work of the council would be continued in the future in order that faith and humanity may be sustained. She also outlined the admirable achievements of the council in its three years' life which were made possible by being thus organized. The feature of the evening was a delightful little play entitled. Three Per Cent. or Ellis Island, which was given by the children of the members in a very satisfactory manner. The accompaniments were played by Miss Mary Bentley who also very capably rendered some oriental selections. Miss Jennie Vachs who directed and coached the play is deserving of a great deal of credit for making such a success. Following the play, sandwiches, cake, ice cream and other sweets were served.

MEDALS FOR FOUR YEARS' SERVICE IN WAR ZONE

Thomas W. Norris, steward at the Elks club, has just received the British war medal and the mercantile marine war medal that he is entitled to wear for his four years' service, 1914-1918, aboard ship in the war zone. One is of bronze and the other of silver and each has the appropriate colored ribbons attached.

A certificate and receipt accompanying the medals states that they are awarded by His Majesty, the King, for services in the mercantile marine during hostilities, and are issued through the British board of trade, marine department, war medal branch, Cornwall House, Stamford, S. E. 1.

Mr. Norris made as many as sixteen trips through the war zone at the perilous period when the German submarines were most active and effective. The ships he was on made voyages between Liverpool, Southampton, Havre, Genoa, Buenos Aires, and other places, traveling in convoys with not a light showing at night.

OBITUARY

Anderson Oliver Martin.

(Contributed)

Anderson Oliver Martin passed away at his home in the town of Lebanon, this state, January 18, 1924, the funeral having been held the 16th.

Mr. Martin, who was in his seventy-third year, was born the eldest son of William and Mary Champlin Martin. His boyhood days were spent in the old home town, when, upon attaining his majority, he entered a mercantile pursuit, locating at Norwich. After a few years of business life at Norwich, Mr. Martin removed to Staten Island, N. Y., where he was associated with an uncle, John Martin, for quite a number of years, and, finally, returned to the old homestead where he passed away.

Mr. Martin was a man of sterling worth, of strong convictions and of a pleasing personality. His capacity, as a friend, surmounted all else, in that the friendship was always kind, gentle and far reaching. Those who knew him best, those who can recognise the nature and the character of the man, are the ones who will recognise, also, their great loss in a larger measure.

Mr. Martin was twice married, therefore, leaves a family bereft of husband, father, brother, friend.

Mrs. Avery Ames Stanton.

Laura Caroline Gallup Stanton, widow of Avery Ames Stanton, Esq., went to the fulness of a rich reward on Sunday, Jan. 20th, at the homestead at Ekonk. She was the daughter of Squire Benjamin Gallup and Caroline Kinney Gallup.

One who knew her well says:

"In these days when 'careers' claim so much of our thought, and when we fancy that the word is of one day, we pass lightly over the lives of the past generation for we do not understand them. Here was a woman who in her school days showed signs of literary power, and who in her riper years expressed a thought with splendid clarity, and who liked ever to turn a pretty sentence. Of course 'writing' was one of the few eminently respectable things a woman could do sixty-five years ago. She could write. She might have a career. She had a career. One morning a young schoolmaster, Avery Stanton, became principal of the school she was attending. Straightway when he looked at his prettiest and brightest pupil he fell in love, and presently she, too, knew that she loved the teacher. Thus began her career, and a worthy and noble career it has been. What a wife she has been! What a mother she has been! It might have been of her that the writer of proverbs was telling: "the heart of her husband doth safely trust her," "and he praiseth her," and "her children arise up, and call her blessed." Her career of loving and mothering, of "helpmeeting," and of training her children was one of those dear adventures which perpetuate our finer sentiment and bequeath our richer attributes."

MRS. AVERY A. STANTON

She was the mother of eight children, all of them survive her. They are Walter A. of Danielson, John B. of Norwich, Benjamin G. of Attleboro, Mass., W. Edwin of Hartford, Rev. Albert H. of Jersey City, N. J., Annette, the wife of Lawrence B. Jerome of Uncasville, Ella C., wife of Rev. M. Joseph Twomey, D. D., of Newark, N. J., Lottie E., wife of Carl D. Gallup of Ekonk.

There are twelve grandchildren: Grace and Methel, daughters of Walter A.; Avery and Marcia, children of John B.; Benjamin and Lawrence Jerome, sons of Annette; Edwin and Harwood, sons of W. Edwin; Stanton, Donald, Laura and Charlotte, children of Lottie E.

With all the cares which naturally come with so large a family she found time to read good books, to continue old friendships, to be a good neighbor, and to serve in the church of Christ, for many years an active member of the Voluntown Baptist church. She was a charter member of the Ekonk Grange, No. 89.

She was sweet of spirit, kind in judgment, deep in faith. They say "She is dead." No, she simply fell on sleep, to awake in His likeness.

Howard Eggleston

After an illness of about one week with pneumonia the life of Howard Eggleston, aged 3 years, came to a close Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Albert Eggleston at Montville.

He is survived by his mother, a widow. His father, Albert Eggleston, died August 1, 1921. There are also brothers and sisters. The boy was a pupil in the Montville grade school and was popular among his classmates.

Peter Maniaty.

Peter Maniaty, who has been employed at the Chelsea Lunch restaurant as a cook, died early Sunday morning in this city. Mr. Maniaty was born in Greece 38 years ago and had come to this country where for many years he was resident on

HORNSBY SAYS HE WILL PLAY WITH CARDINALS DURING THE COMING SEASON

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 20—All doubt relative to Rogers Hornsby's play was removed today when the king bee batter of the National league announced that he would not only play with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1924, but would also train with the club at Bradentown. Two months ago Hornsby said he intended to play but would not report for spring training.

Hornsby added that he wanted it known, however, that he is playing with the Cardinals because of his three year boldover contract and not because his differences with the Cardinal officials have been settled. He says the breach between President Readon and Manager Rickey, of the Cardinals and himself is just as wide as it was when he was suspended and fined last September.

Despite this difference Hornsby says he will strive to the utmost to play the game to the best of his ability. "I owe this to the fans, fellow players and my contract," he explained.

POSSIBILITY HORNSBY MIGHT BE TRADED TO BRAVES

New York, Jan. 20. (By the A. P.)—The possibility of a deal by which the Boston Nationals might obtain Rogers Hornsby, great St. Louis second baseman, was discussed during the week-end conference here between Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, and owners of the Braves, it was revealed tonight by Emil E. Fuchs, vice-president of the Boston club.

Mr. Fuchs, who, with President Christy Mathewson, represented the Boston club in the conference, emphasized that no basis of agreement was reached. While admitting that Hornsby, for whom several major league clubs have bid in the past few years, would be a welcome addition to the Braves' infield, he deprecated the possibility that his club could make Rickey an offer attractive enough to obtain the champion National league batsman.

"We discussed a possible Hornsby deal, among other things," admitted Mr. Fuchs, "but nothing definite has developed as yet or is likely to before a week or two. I can't go into any details as to what we had to offer and so far as Hornsby is concerned. I regard it as extremely doubtful that we can get him. Rickey is not anxious to part with him and I believe is unlikely to stay with St. Louis."

Reports from time to time that the Cardinals had put Hornsby on the market were the outgrowth of reported differences he has had with Rickey.

Rickey left New York last night presumably for St. Louis, but yesterday he was quoted as saying he would not part with Hornsby.

Reports that Rickey also planned to open Hornsby negotiations with the Giants, who made a $300,000 offer for him in 1920, also failed of substantiation tonight. It was said he held no conference with Giant officials on any deal.

Apart from Hornsby, it was reported the Braves might arrange a deal to obtain Jeff Pfeffer, veteran Cardinal pitcher, who is understood to be on the market. Mr. Fuchs admitted that Pfeffer was mentioned in his conference with Rickey but said nothing definite had been done.

OPENING GAMES NAMED FOR NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, Jan. 20.—Opening games in the 1924 National league race on April 15 will find Boston at Philadelphia, Brooklyn at New York, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Chicago at St. Louis, it was announced tonight by John A. Heydler, president of the senior league.

The schedule, which has been completed except for a few minor details, will close on September 30, Mr. Heydler said. This is ten days earlier than the 1923 closing and one of the earliest on record for the full 154 game schedule. It was decided upon to afford more favorable world's series weather, avoid conflict with college football games and because of the proximity of the presidential election.

Clubs which play away from home on the opening day will start their home stands April 24. In New York, with the Giants playing in Brooklyn, this will avoid conflict with the American league opening which occurs at the Yankee stadium on April 23.

LICKLEIDER WINS 25-MILE DIRT TRACK AUTO RACE

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 20.—Fred Lecklieider, of Dayton, Ohio, won the feature 25 mile event of a dirt track automobile race program which marked the opening of the new Ascot Speedway here today, covering 18 laps of the scheduled forty on the 0-3 mile oval in 11 minutes and 34 seconds.

Fred Horey, of St. Paul, Minn., American dirt track champion, finished second, and Arthur Davidson of Indianapolis came in third. The race was stopped after the eighteenth lap on account of dust.

Fred Luelling of San Luis Obispo, Calif., was fourth; Harry Hooker of Los Angeles fifth and Ralph de Palma, internationally famous board and dirt track driver, sixth.

OFFER $15,000 FOR DUNDEE-KAPLAN BOUT

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 20.—An offer of $15,000 has been made to Jimmy Johnston, manager of Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, for a 15-round title match here with Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn., by Promoter Bennie Franklin, of the Olympic Athletic club, it was announced today. Kaplan's manager has already agreed to terms for the bout, which would be staged May 28.

ALEXANDER WINS TWO TRAPSHOOTING EVENTS

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran star twirler of the Chicago Cubs, demonstrated his ability as a marksman yesterday by topping the shooters at the traps here by winning two events and finishing third in another.

He won the 75 target distance handicap and the 25 target event, shattering seventy "birds" in the first shoot and cracking twenty-five straight in another event. He finished third in the doubles event.

NATIONAL BOXING BODY STARTS CONVENTION TODAY

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 20—The advance guard of members were arriving tonight for the opening of the annual meeting of the national boxing commission here tomorrow. The commission is composed of officials representing nineteen states where legalized boxing is in effect.

A number of matters of importance to the boxing game are expected to be discussed and possibly subjected to definite action by the commission during the three day meeting.

Reports in advance that feasibility of creating a commissioner of boxing, whose duties in connection with pugilistic affairs would correspond to those of K. M. Landis as commissioner of baseball was to be given consideration, at least by the commission, has aroused interest. In this connection intimations have been given that William Muldoon, former chairman of the New York state boxing commission had been given favorable consideration for the post in event the national commission should act favorably on a proposal to create a boxing commissioner.

Another matter, which, it is understood is to be discussed is that of fixing a flat rate of pay for headliner bouts on boxing cards. Such cards, it was pointed out, would have a far reaching effect on the boxing game.

Election of officers is scheduled for Wednesday, the closing day of the commission meeting. Richard Burke of the New Orleans is chairman of the commission.

HOPPE AND SCHAEFER START TITLE MATCH TONIGHT

Chicago, Jan. 20—Willie Hoppe, champion of New York and Jake Schaefer San Francisco, are to meet here tomorrow night in a 1500 point challenge match for the world's 18.2 balkline billiard championship. It will be the third meeting in as many seasons. The match will continue for three nights, blocks of 500 points to be played each night.

Since 1911 Hoppe has a single exception was held the 18.2 title. In 1911 Koji Yamada, of Japan, defeated him by three points at the New York tournament. It was not until 1921 at Chicago that Hoppe was again defeated. Jake Schaefer did it winning 400 to 16 and averaging 66.66. They tied for first place and Schaefer won again 500 to 345 averaging 53.33 as against 50.2 for Hoppe. Hoppe challenged and was defeated by Schaefer 1500 to 1,446 so that Schaefer has a record of three consecutive wins.

In the 1924 tournament in New York, Hoppe won five straight including a 500 to 283 win over Schaefer. In the subsequent challenge match at New York, Hoppe won 1500 to 1431. The 1923 tournament at New York ended in a tie between Hoppe and Welker Cochran, Los Angeles, but Hoppe defeated Schaefer in this tournament 500 to 447.

Although Schaefer has administered three straight defeats to Hoppe the champion has a like number on Schaefer to his credit.

Both players are here and have performed well in practice. Conceded to be "the two masters" billiard enthusiasts here anticipate some brilliant playing and do not think it impossible that new records will be made.

JAPAN'S TENNIS CHAMP COMING TO AMERICA

New York, Jan. 20—Takeo Harado, new tennis champion of Japan, plans to come to the United States this spring and play in a number of tournaments leading up to his probable participation in the Davis cup contests as a representative of the Oriental nation.

His was revealed today by Zenzo Shimizu captain and star of the 1923 Japanese Davis cup team who said Harada would come here primarily to study in an American University. Shimizu and Masamosuke Fukada, former Japanese champion, who also was a member of his country's 1923 Davis cup team. Both now live in New York and will be available for international competition again this year.

Harada is heralded as one of the best net prospects developed in Japan in several years.

O'HARA PURCHASES BRIDGEPORT E. L. FRANCHISE

Bridgeport, Jan. 20—Jack O'Hara of Springfield, purchased the Bridgeport Eastern league baseball franchise together with a syndicate of Springfield men from the American Chain company. The deal was completed here this afternoon and although the purchase price was not divulged it was rumored to be over $15,000.

O'Hara is a former Eastern league manager. He piloted the Lawrence club in 1916. Springfield in 1917 and 1918 and the pennant winning Pittsfield team in 1919. He managed a semi-pro team composed of Holy Cross stars at Windsor Locks, Conn., last season.

O'Hara announced that he would manage the Bridgeport club.

STAFFORD SPRINGS TO PLAY AT TAFTVILLE TUESDAY

The fast Stafford Springs team will clash with the Army-Navy club on Tuesday evening at Parish hall. The Stafford Springs team is a fast combination and has been playing a fast court game during the season. In the Stafford Springs lineup will be Joe Belair, a former member of the Army-Navy quintet.

SUB BASE FIVE TRIMS BATTERY E TEAM, 46 TO 29

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, Jan. 20.—Nearly a thousand basketball fans crowded the state armory on Dixon street Saturday night to witness the basketball game between the Battery E, 243rd Field Artillery Five and the fast New London Submarine Base team, resulting in a score of 46 to 29 in favor of the sub players. The Battery men were generally outclassed by their speedy opponents who seemed to have no difficulty in making the baskets when the opportunity presented, nevertheless and put up a plucky game. Scoring and put up a plucky game. Scoring at the first stages of the game was rather slow, the marked difference bteween the two teams seeming to be that when a sub player shot for a goal the basket was made while the local boys would shoot time and again with a rather lower average of baskets caged. For the visitors, Kehoe, for the short time that he was in the game put up a fine exhibition of basketball playing. Some of the Westerly players caged the ball on long shots among them being Plympton and Stenhouse, the latter carrying the ball down the hall and making the basket, (undoubtedly due to his excellent training as a soccer player). Coach D. Harold Rogers called but one double foul when the Battery player Shortman completed the throw from the foul line, his opponent losing out on the free throw.

On next Saturday evening attendance records at the state armory will go by the board for the Battery team has as its opponents the speedy Manchester Red Men team, which has the reputation of cleaning up the basketball teams in their neck of the woods. This game will be played for the Hiker Memorial and the Battery B men are glad to make this contribution for their share in the Hiker Drive.

PLAINFIELD HAS EASY TIME WITH LOOM CITY FIVE

In a one-sided game of basketball the Plainfield quintet had an easy time defeating the Loom City five of Rockville on the Plainfield court, by the score of 32 to 13, on Friday evening.

The game was hard fought by both teams and at times roughness prevailed.

The game started off in whirlwind fashion and several minutes of play had elapsed before Belair scored the first point on a free try. After this the result of the game was never in doubt, the score at half time being 16 to 3 in Plainfield's favor.

Belair was the leading point getter for Plainfield with 6 field goals and one foul, closely followed by R. Benjamin with 4 goals from the floor.

In the preliminary game the Buddies defeated the E. F. A. team of Arctic by the score of 34 to 17.

BUSINESS MEN'S VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE OPENS WEDNESDAY

The men's Y. M. C. A. championship volleyball league is slated to start Wednesday night of this week, and it is expected that there will be some lively volleyball when the "Fore" start with their competition. Seven fifty men have signed up for teams which will compete Wednesday in conjunction with the Mebs and Y Seniors basketball game. The league games will be held several Wednesday nights each month, and run through a period of three months. A handsome trophy cup has been contributed by Dr. C. R. Chamberlain to be awarded to the winners of the league.

INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE HAS BEEN CALLED OFF

Owing to the lack of interest on the part of some of the teams in the indoor baseball league it has been found advisable to call off the proposed league for the remainder of the winter. It is understood that the Combat Train at a recent meeting voted against going into the league and will devote their attention to volleyball among teams made up of service men. Other teams when informed that the Combat Train would not participate in a league stated that they were just as well pleased as they were not over anxious about continuing the games.

PHIL BIBEAULT'S TEAM AT TAFTVILLE TUESDAY

Phil Bibeault's bowling team will clash with Chip Dugas' All Stars at the Olympic Alleys in Taftville on Tuesday evening for a purse of $100. Bibeault's team will be Orsent, Lee, Light, Tartholoney, Gaines and Bibeault. The Taftville team will comprise Fred Aldi, Roy Fillmore, Chip Dugas and Mike Morin.

Speed Boys Defeat Battery Seconds

The Taftville Speedboys defeated Battery B Seconds in Parish Hall on Saturday by the score of 50 to 23. The Battery was strengthened by the addition of Perry Hollender who caged five baskets for the soldiers. Gauthier with 10 baskets led the scoring for the Speedboys. The guard work of both teams was good. Fenton played his usual game.

"Y" Swamps Jewett City

The Jewett City basketball team was defeated on the local court by the "Y" older boys team, Saturday night by the score of 42 to 3. Despite the wide variance of the score, both teams played a good game, the visitors lacking only a little more practice in order to make them a good junior team.

SPORT NOTES

Pigeon shooting became a fashionable sport in England about 1556.

In the United Kingdom there are forty licensed courses for horse racing.

The first book giving an account of the game of tennis was published in Venice in 1555.

Golf in evening dress is becoming popular in Paris, where one club has a covered practice-ground for members to use before and after dinner.

Lawn tennis has become so popular in England that the Lawn Tennis Association of that country made a profit of between $15,000 and $20,000 last season.

The initial steps have been taken at Dallas for the organization of a Texas State bowling association to supervise the interests of the sport throughout the Lone Star State.

Among the oldest pack of hounds in England are the Holcombe Harriers, to which King James I. gave permission to hunt three days a year forever in the royal manor of Tottington.

The game of football has penetrated to every quarter of the globe and its followers embrace men and women of every nationality and color, not forgetting the Japanese and Chinese.

The horse show to be held in Denver in connection with the Western Livestock Exposition the week of January 21 is a rather unusual one in that most of the horses come from long distances, often a thousand miles or more.

The 1924 schedule adopted by the Canadian Racing Association provides for a season of running meetings lasting practically six months, the time being divided about equally among the tracks at Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Windsor, Hamilton and Fort Erie.

The most famous racing trophy in England is the Ascot Gold Cup. It is now over a hundred and thirty years since the first award of this trophy. Nowadays the owner of the winning horse in this race is enriched by his success to the tune of nearly $20,000.

COLUMBIA LEADS INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL LEAGUE IN CLOSE RACE

New York, Jan. 20.—(By The A. P.)—Marked by unusually keen rivalry, the first two weeks of play in the Eastern Collegiate Basketball league have strengthened prospects of one of the most closely contested races in the cage circuit's history.

With two victories and one defeat, Columbia's speedy quintet holds undisputed leadership at present but on form displayed so far, as any one of the six teams has a chance to capture the championship crown now worn by Yale. Four of the entries are bunched behind Columbia, each with one defeat, while Princeton, beaten in its only start, brings up the rear.

Columbia got off to a flying start by taking Pennsylvania and Princeton into camp but met unexpected opposition from Dartmouth last night, losing on the Hanover court by a single point. Cornell, after conquering Dartmouth, dropped a close game last night to Yale, which showed improvement as a result of a line-up shift. The titleholders previously had lost their opening game to Pennsylvania.

Princeton plays in two games this week, the only ones on the league schedule. Yale invade Jungletown on Wednesday while the Tigers play Cornell at Ithaca on Saturday.

Individual honors to date are held by Faber, Columbia star, who has garnered 24 points in three games, three more than his nearest rival, Keenan of Pennsylvania, has collected in two contests. Two other Columbians, Strom and Lustig, are next with 15 and 14 points, respectively, while Capron, Cornell captain, is fifth with 13.

The team standing, showing point totals, follows:

College	W.	L.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.
Columbia	2	1	78	64
Cornell	1	1	36	34
Pennsylvania	1	1	48	47
Dartmouth	1	1	33	37
Yale	1	1	43	45
Princeton	0	1	34	32

NEW LONDON POLICE SEARCH FOR MEN WHO TRIED CHESTERFIELD ROBBERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 20.—Henry Drot who claims to reside in Indiana, was arrested this morning by Special Agent William Fink, of the Central Vermont railroad. Drot was locked up and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. The accused was taken into custody when a freight train arrived in the East New London yard, Drot being detected riding the bumpers.

Eddie Heinsky of 210 Bank street, who disappeared from his home yesterday, was found this morning by Patrolman Edward Daniels at the home of a companion, Charles Robinson, colored, of 14 Federal street, and was compelled to return to his home. A sister of the missing youth had requested the authorities to institute a search for her brother.

Personal Tax Collector Allen C. Richards has caused upwards of 2,000 persons liable to pay poll tax to receive bills, which call for a payment of $3 for each person liable. The notices this year were sent out a month earlier than a year ago and to date the city treasury has been enriched about $3,000, which represents the payment of the tax by about 1,000 persons.

For several weeks the police have been watching the house at No. 11 Church street, long considered a "black and tan joint," and last evening the place was raided. Six arrests were made, two of the prisoners being charged with conducting a disorderly house. They are Lonnie and Alice Marks, who claim to be husband and wife. The others taken into custody and who were charged with frequenting the place are Florence Thurston, Louise Fontaine, John Gillis and Peter Bachy. The frequenters were released upon furnishing a surety on their respective bonds of $50 for appearance in the police court Monday morning while Marks and his wife furnished a surety on their bonds of $200 each. About 10 o'clock Sergeant Charles Hammond, who was assigned to conduct the raid, with Patrolmen Braxton Hill, Carlos Selesnitsky and William Babcock, swooped down on the place and corraled the entire gang.

In an effort to speed along the work of removing the Patterson building on State street, gutted by fire several weeks ago and which was condemned by the city council, workmen are engaged throughout today loading teams with the charred wood and metal and carting the damaged material away.

Walter Banning of 71 Blackhall street, complained to the police Saturday evening that youths residing in the neighborhood were annoying Mrs. Banning. A few minutes following receiving the complaint, the police received another complaint from Mr. Banning that one of the youths had hurled a stone through a window. Before the police arrived the boys had disappeared.

The New London police were requested by the New Haven authorities Saturday night to be on the lookout for two automobiles, one a Chevrolet and the other a Ford, stolen from the latter city during the early evening.

Frederick Dimmock of Waterford, in passing through Ocean avenue late Saturday night observed two colored men acting suspiciously near the residence of Thomas W. Casey and notified the police. Patrolman George Perkins was assigned to the case, but a search of the vicinity of the Casey residence did not result in the locating of the suspicious characters.

An automobile operated by Mrs. Jennie Moshier, of 70 Garfield avenue, crashed through a window in the store of Frank Losacano, corner of Broad street and Connecticut avenue, Saturday afternoon. The machine, which was but slightly damaged, got beyond the control of Mrs. Moshier and climbing the curbing continued along the walk until it bumped into the building.

John Athalas, proprietor of a store at 56 Golden street, reported to the police Saturday that a revolver had been stolen from his place of business.

Miss Pauline Banta, of Shaw street, Ellsworth Bell, of Main street, Abraham Lahs of Maynard, Mass., and Leo Bingham of Hempstead street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Saturday.

The New London police believe that John J. Spillane, 13, son of Mrs. Michael Spillane of 33 Hartford road, Hartford, who is missing from home and whose mother, Mrs. Spillane, requested the local police to maintain a lookout for, was in New London two days recently. Captain Chase of the Salvation Army has reported to the police that Thursday night a boy answering Spillane's description stopped at the Army and Navy lodging house and the following day the same youth was observed walking in a easterly direction along the highway near Mystic.

Max Mescovits has sold a house and lot on School street to William D. Seagrave.

A young man named Faoux, residing at 205 Main street, has requested the police to aid him in the recovery of his bicycle, which was stolen from the corner of Main and Church streets Friday night.

A public service automobile, owned by Louis Ramistella, of Bank street, and operated by his brother, John Ramistella of Waterford, was damaged this afternoon when the machine struck a curbing while the operator was avoiding a collision with another car. Ramistella was on his way to Waterford and when the machine reached a point at the intersection of Willetts and Ocean avenues, an automobile appeared, headed in a southerly direction. Ramistella, in order to prevent a collision, turned his machine abruptly to the left, the forward wheels hitting the curbing with considerable force, enough so that one of the wheels was zipped from the axle and the machine was otherwise damaged.

A thief, probably of the juvenile type, operated among parked automobiles this afternoon for while one of the busses of the New London-Lyme line was parked on Water street, a thief entered the machine and stole a book of tickets, good between New London and Lyme. The operator of the bus, George Bruhm, discovered the theft when he returned to the automobile and reported it to the police. Sergeant Frank Howard was assigned to the case.

Mingo Bangs, a character well known to the police, was taken into custody this afternoon when he became helplessly intoxicated, from over-indulgence in hooch. Bangs was on Bank street and staggered to a doorway but fell headlong to the sidewalk and in a position where pedestrians were compelled to walk around him. Patrolmen John Courtney and William Corcoran happened along and Bangs was quickly hustled to a cell in the police station.

Members of the parish of the Second Congregational church have presented the Pastor Rev. J. Beveridge Lee an automobile of the sedan type.

John C. Chase, formerly of New London, now located in Derry, N. H., is spending a few days in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Willard of New York and Washington, have gone to Washington, summoned there by the serious illness of their daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kopp of Broad street will spend the remainder of the winter in Washington, having left by automobile several days ago.

The automobile owned and operated by E. J. Fitzgerald of 201 Montauk avenue, struck Donald Walker, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. William Walker of Allen street, Groton, Friday afternoon, when the boy ran in front of the machine on Thames St., the corner of Ledyard St., Groton. The boy sustained bruises, and a wound to his tongue, the latter injury being the result of the child biting it as he was struck.

Frank Newbury of Amity street and Mrs. Joseph Santangelo and infant of Bank street, patients at the Home Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Stephen M. Barlow, 40, a former resident of New London and son of the late General John W. and Hessie Birnie Barlow, died at Tampico, Mexico, the 13th inst. Mr. Barlow resided in New London until about five years ago.

A bulldog was run over and killed by an unidentified automobile at the corner of Bank and Shaw streets this evening. The driver of the automobile stopped his machine after the dog was killed and after viewing the dead dog, got back in the machine and drove away, leaving the dog in the highway. A witness of the accident informed the police that the registration of the car was N-1918.

The New London police and the state police were scouring the outlying districts tonight, in search of two young men and an automobile, the occupants of the machine having stolen an automobile tire and attempted to rob Leon Kozolsky, proprietor of an automobile supply station at Chesterfield of his money.

About 8.15 o'clock according to Kozolsky, the automobile, an old model Studebaker, appeared at the supply station and the two young men alighted seized a 32x4 Goodyear cord tire and put it in the car, after which the pair endeavored to relieve Kozolsky of his money. In this they were unsuccessful, Kozolsky communicated with the New London police as the machine was headed for New London. The local authorities informed the state police of what had occurred and officers of both departments were detailed on the case. The New London officers, Sergeant Hammond and Patrolman Ray went to the city line on the Hartford turnpike, where they waited for the appearance of the Studebaker machine, but the car failed to appear. The state police officers instituted their search along the turnpike, between Jefferson avenue and Chesterfield, but with out either car or the youths being apprehended. The registration of the car is said to be N-5666.

The cars of the Connecticut company contained poster announcements of the increase in fares to be put into effect the 10th of February. On that date tokens will be sold as they were several months ago, three for twenty-five cents, an increase of five-sixths of a cent per token, instead of at the rate of two for 15 cents.

The condition of Former Governor Thomas Mather Waller, critically ill at his home at Neptune Park, remains unchanged today, if anything is slightly worse than on Saturday. The patient had a poor night.

DR. W. L. HUBBELL'S HOUSE AT WATERFORD BURNED

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Jan. 20—Fire completely destroyed the residence of Dr. William L. Hubbell at Station 8, Waterford this evening and for a time several dwellings and barns adjoining the property, were threatened with a like fate. Because of a strong wind that fanned the flames to a furious height assistance was requested of the New London department. Chief Charles Rose and Deputy Chief Thomas Shipman responding with the Niagara Engine company and the C. L. Ockford and Northwest Hose companies.

The fire was discovered shortly before 9 o'clock, after the flames had broken through the roof. Because of the ferocity of the flames and the danger of destruction of adjacent buildings the New London department was asked for aid. With the arrival of the New London companies the efforts of the firemen were devoted to saving the adjoining buildings and in this they were successful, although several of the structures were badly scorched.

The Hubbell residence and its entire contents were destroyed, the loss of the physician being total, as there was no chance to save any of the effects.

ANNOUNCEMENTS AT THE STRAND

Mr. Walker himself, though a well liked for his portrayals in "Over the Hill," "Captain Flyby-Night" and other widely heralded films, undoubtedly does a bit of work in this latest vehicle which will be received enthusiastically the country over. As a paive, trusting, small town character, this popular star has been we cast, and the adventures of Thaddeus Plummer which he enacts should have wide appeal.

With Mr. Walter is the piquant Mildred June, who, after four years with Mack Sennett, recently blossomed out into heavier drama in "The Greatest Menace," "Rich Men's Wives" and "The Rosary." Mildred is a loveable little wisp of girlhood, and as Clara Ridder in "Fashionable Fakers," she uses her charm with powerful effect, both on the unsuspecting hero and the enslaved audience.

George Cowl, playing Creel, the quiet, suave malefactor of the piece, casts his deadly glances and performs his underhanded operations with impressive ease, and really portrays an extremely ominous villain, as he should. J. Farrell MacDonald, in the role of an Irish Turk, an excessively difficult piece of comic characterization, we should say, mixes his nationalities amusingly, thus accomplishing the seemingly impossible task of joining East and West.

Robert Bolder, a convincing character actor does masterful work as the old curio collector, and Lillian Lawrence, as an aristocratic society woman, casts around her such an undeniably frigid air that it can almost be felt from the film. As the Turkian brothers, dealers in rugs, George Rigas does a perfect dual role. Now at the Strand.

Short subjects include a Comedy and News.

AT THE BREED

The Canadian Rockies form the picturesque background of "Unseeing Eyes", the new Cosmopolitan picture which received its initial screening in Norwich at the Breed Theatre last night. The film, an adaptation of an Arthur Stringer story, is chock full of action, which reaches its climax in an airplane pursuit. It differs from other photoplays of the great outdoors in its careful direction and beautiful and effective staging. The pictures of the mountains lend a grandeur and impressiveness that assist immeasurably in the unfolding of the story.

The scenario was prepared by Bayard Veiller; it was directed by E. H. Griffith. Joseph Urban, noted scenic artist, made the settings.

The cast is a splendid one in every respect. Lionel Barrymore, who always adds distinction to any picture in which he appears, is featured in the leading role. Playing opposite him is Seena Owen, who is charming in the role of Miriam. Others in the cast are Louis Wolheim, a most picturesque and efficient villain; Gustav von Seyffertitz, Walter Miller, Helen Lindroth, Charles Beyer, Jack Johnston, Louis Deer, Frances Red Eagle, Paul Panzer and Dan Red Eagle.

"Unseeing Eyes", is produced on a magnificent scale that stirs the spectator. The snow scenes of the Northwest are alone worth going miles to see. The hills, evergreens, the open spaces are all thoroughly impressive in their beauty.

The story of Miriam Helston and Conrad Dean and their airplane flight across Canada to rescue her brother from a band of cutthroats, the subsequent perils which overtakes them in the heavy snows of the northwest, their struggle to reach the brother and the thrilling complications that result make the picture a stirring tale of adventure and romance. "Unseeing Eyes", is a production of unusual appeal, both scenically and dramatically.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news and an Educational comedy.

United Workers Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the United Workers in the Park church parish house tomorrow evening, at eight o'clock the speaker will be Dr. Frankwood E. Williams.

Dr. Williams served as resident physician at the State Psychopathic hospital, Ann Arbor, Michigan, as executive officer at the Boston Psychopathic hospital, and as medical director of Massachusetts society for Mental Hygiene, Boston. While in Boston held the chairmanship of the Massachusetts advisory prison commission.

During the World war, Dr. Williams served as vice chairman of the war work committee of the national committee for mental hygiene. He later accepted a commission with the rank of major in the medical corps of the U. S. army and served as the first assistant and acting chief of the division of neurology and psychiatry in the office of surgeon general, Washington, D. C. At present he is a lieutenant colonel in medical reserve corps.

TIMOTHY McGILLICUDDY DIES HERO'S DEATH, SAVING CHUM

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Jan. 20—Timothy McGillicuddy, 36, of 339 Ash street was drowned about 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning when he fell through thin ice on the Old Town Pond, in Mansfield Center, while attempting to save the life of his companion, Ernest Morse, who had just fallen into the pond. Morse narrowly escaped the fate which befell McGillicuddy, but was pulled back onto the ice by Ernest Becker of Jackson street this city, who was fishing on the pond when the two men broke through. McGillicuddy and Morse had gone out on the ice to fish and were about 150 feet from shore when the ice began to crack and broke, sending Morse down into the cold water. McGillicuddy ran to his companion's aid. It is said that he took off his coat and threw one end of it to Morse who was battling for his life. McGillicuddy also broke through, however, and disappeared under the ice. In the meantime, Ernest Becker, who had been fishing through the ice nearby, ran for assistance. With the aid of George Wyman a nearby resident and others, Morse was finally pulled out of the water, after a twenty minute battle. A search was then started for McGillicuddy but his body had floated under the ice and could not be found. The state police barracks in Stafford Springs were notified and Officer Harris Hulburt answered the summons. Grappling irons were secured at the local police station and the search for the body was started with the help of George Wyman, Ernest Dunham, Maurice Dunstan, Bert Hall, Clark H. Crane and Ex-Fire Chief Thomas Foley, of this city. About 12:30 the body was pulled out of the pond where the water was over twenty feet deep. The coroner, Dr. E. D. Converse, of West Willington was called and pronounced death due to accidental drowning and gave permission for removal of the body by Killourey Bros. McGillicuddy died a hero, having sacrificed his life to save that of his companion.

Morse was taken to his home, off of Ash street and had completely recovered later in the day.

Timothy McGillicuddy had a wide circle of friends in this city. He was a foreman in the dye house department of the American Thread Company plant. He is survived by his wife, Louis Hornberger McGillicuddy. He also leaves his father, Michael McGillicuddy of this city, a sister, Mrs. Charles Gormely also of Willimantic and a brother, Michael, Jr. of Hartford.

Jeremiah Haggerty of 60 Church street, forman of the switch crew of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad yard in this city was painfully injured shortly before noon Sunday when a 150-pound replacer dropped on his right thumb. Haggerty was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and it is believed that it will be necessary to remove the thumb.

Ninety-six teachers met at an all-day session, Saturday, at the assembly hall of the Willimantic State Normal school, the meeting being conducted by State Supervisor of Schools A. Wilson, Greene and Earle S. Russell.

Teachers came from Mansfield, Willington, Tolland, Ellington, Columbia, Franklin, Sprague, Hampton, Scotland, Coventry, and Ashford.

At 10 o'clock the morning program was opened with Morgan R. St. John, professor of music of the Normal school, directing a chorus of voices from the fifth grade of the Windham street school. Group meetings were held by the teachers, in charge of Supervisors Wilson and Greene. Before the closing of the forenoon session a general meeting was held and addresses were delivered, the principal speaker being State Director of Rural Education, N. Searle Light, of Hartford. A luncheon was served at noon in the Windham High school cafeteria.

The afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock and was devoted to brief talks. The subjects and speakers were: The School Lunch, Mrs. Ethel Reed; Drawing and Art, Joseph Wiseltier, state supervisor of drawing and art; Motivating Library Reading, Mrs. Belle H. Johnson, state supervisor of public libraries, Penmanship by Harry Houston of New Haven, state supervisor of penmanship.

While visiting at the home of his parents, at No. 99 Quercus Avenue, Willimantic Friday, Leo Coutu, 22 of Lowell, Mass., became suddenly insane and was committed to the state hospita lat Norwich Saturday. Coutu began to show signs of being demented Friday when he started to break up dishes and commit other irregularities. Members of the household kept vigil over him all through Friday night, but Saturday morning he showed no improvement and he was finally taken to the police station. Members of the family filed a request with the probate court for his removal to a hospital. He was examined by Doctors C. E. Simond and F. M. Smith who pronounced him of unsound mind. The commitment was grantad by the court and Coutu was taken to Norwich. Coutu's relatives have been living in this city for some time, but the young man has been employed in Lowell. They started Saturday that this was the first time that he had shown any signs of insanity.

A session of the juvenile court was held Saturday forenoon, in the patrolmen's room of the police station. Judge Frank H. Foss presided. Truant Officer J. B. Paulhus and Probation Officer S. Arnold Peckham were present with two boys, under 16. Evidence was introduced to the effect that the two lads, one a resident of the over-the-river section and another of Ives street, had been truants from school and besides staying out late nights had committed other misdemeanors. One of the boys had been sleeping in barns for several days, when arrested. The parents of the boys were called into the court and told that their childrens' actions must improve in th future or that the boys would be sent to reform school. The urchins were severely reprimanded by the court. The cases were then continued for two months.

Large tracts of standing timber were recently purchased by William F. Maine of Windham and son, Harold S. Maine of Pleasant street, this city, 80 acres of standing timber on land of the Wales estate near Staffordville and another extensive tract of timber from H. E. West near Stafford Springs have been bought. According to estimates the tracts will furnish over 1,000,000 feet of finished timber. Two saw mills have been installed on the first tract of timber and this week, twenty-seven men will be sent to work on the cutting job.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

AT THE PALACE

Coming to the Palace Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday is Kara the mystery man of India of whom newspapers throughout the United States have written columns about. That he will prove to be a sensation in Norwich is but putting it mildly if there is any question of any description you want answered no matter how baffling it may seem Kara will positively answer them. Every one is invited to bring their questions in a sealed envelope and leave same at the box office, Kara will answer all. Another act which is a feature act on any bill and who comes direct from the N. Y. Winter Garden in which he stars is Benjamin Franklin, This is positively Mr. Franklin's only vaudeville appearance and was only secured for Norwich at a fabulous salary. Too much cannot be said about his ability to entertain as the very fact, he is a star in such an organization as the N. Y. Winter Garden speaks volumes.

That you will see something out of the ordinary, we promise. The two Emigrants in "Just Over" offer a fine number, with their witty dialogues and many humorous situations.

Lee Stoddard styled The Human Phonograph has a very fine novelty offering and Miss Lucy Gillette and Co. with a juggling act considered to be the best in vaudeville completes one of the most entertaining vaudeville programs ever arranged for this popular playhouse. The feature picture is that great American epic The Courtship of Myles Standish.

Among the favorites of the screen, which one would ideally portray John Alden, the most famous lover in American history? Correct—Charles Ray. In the making of the tremendously big picture production, "The Courtship of Myles Standish", Ray makes an ideal John Alden and as he himself puts it "I lived the role." The star put his full spirit and energy into the exacting role and his work stands out as an exceptional bit of remarkable film acting.

Doubtless many of his admirers have had the wish that he might essay this charming character. They, and millions of others, are to be gratified, for Longfellow's beautiful poem of the heroic Pilgrim band has been made into a great photo-spectacle befitting its high place in our national life and literature. Charles Ray has done it himself at an expense of $300,000.

With all the force and charm of true history made visible, "The Courtship of Myles Standish" is to be seen at the Palace Theatre.

The picture is more than the romance, for it embraces in its sweep the whole adventure of the Pilgrims from a point on the Mayflower voyage through their battles with and triumph over advertsities to two years after the landing. All this was done after exhaustive research with careful attention to authentic facts.

Therefore, "The Courtship of Myles Standish" not only had all the elements of stirring entertainment but is a picture that all young America should see as a duty. It is said to make the Pilgrim adventure so vivid and their ideals so clear that no one can ever forget them.

BROADWAY THEATRE

A very fine program of B. F. Keith vaudeville is assured the patrons of the Broadway Theatre for the first half of this week.

A great surprise is due all who see the Riding Waltons, who have just completed a very successful European tour presenting A Cabaret on Horseback.

Other acts include The Gray Sisters in a miniature juvenile revue.

Tyler & St. Clair, the plank spankers with pep and personality.

Little Lord Roberts & Co., in a comedy novelty offering. Note this act has never played this city.

Barton & Young offer a comedy riot.

George Domeral & Myrtle Vail in Words and Music.

"A Lady of Quality," the famous classic by Frances Hodgson Burnett which has been read by millions and has its niche in the permanent hall of good literature, comes to the Broadway theatre today. Its cinema version is the result of several months of effort by Hobart Henley, featured director of the Universal Pictures Corporation, and a remarkable assemblage of players and staff assistants. Virginia Valli has the starring honors, aided by Milton Sills, Earle Fox, Bert Roach, Willard Louis, Alfred Manning and many other notable personages of the film world in support.

It is said that the modern playwrights and cinema writers were developing a new form of drama much more intense and thrilling than the older. This is only partially true, in the opinion of Henley, who found that the Burnet story had in it all the elements of excellent screen drama.

He gives proper credit to three master brains of the film-literary profession who arranged the sequence of the classical story in conformance with photoplay requirements. Any novel, for that matter, undergoes certain changes either in stage or screen transcription. The three who adapted and scenarized "A Lady of Quality" were Marion Fairfax, Marion Ainslee and Arthur Ripley.

Research for the production of "A Lady of Quality," in which Colonel Gordon McGee handled the costuming, occupied ninety days before filming began. In the opinion of many critics, however, this is the surest guarantee of the quality of a motion picture: that its authenticity in detail and atmosphere has been protected by careful research.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

The Chestnut Burr.

A wee little nut lay deep in its nest
Of satin and brown, the softest and best;
And slept and grew while its cradle rocked,
As it hung in the boughs that interlocked.

Now the house was small where the cradle lay,
As it swung in the winds by night and day;
For the thicket of underbrush fenced it round,
This tone little cot by the great sun browned.

This little nut grew, and ere long it found
There was work outside on the soft, green ground;
It must do its par tso the world might know
It had tried one little seed to sow.

And soon the house that had kept it warm
Was tossed about by the Autumn storm,
The stem was cracked, the old house fell,
And the chestnut burr was an empty shell.

But the little nut, as it waiting lay,
Dreamed a wonderful dream one day,
Of how it should break its coat of brown,
And live as a tree, to grow up and down.

Down to Sleep.

November woods are bare and still;
November days are clear and bright;
Each noon burns up the morning chill;
The morning's snow is gone by night,
Each day my steps grow slow, grow light,
As through the woods I reverently creep,
Watching all things lie "down to sleep."

I never knew before what beds,
Fragrant to smell and soft to touch,
The forest lifts and shapes and spreads;
I never knew before how much
Of human sound there is in such
Low tones as through the forest sweep,
When all wild things "lie down to sleep."

Each day I find new coverlids
Tucked in, and more sweet eyes shut tight;
Sometimes the viewless mother bids
Her ferns kneel down full in my sight;
I hear their chorus of "Good night";
And half I smile and half I weep,
Listening while they lie "down to sleep."

November woods are bare and still;
November days are bright and good;
Each noon burns up life's morning chill;
Lord night rests feet that long have stood;
Some warm, soft bed, in field or wood,
The mother will not fail to keep.
Where we can "lay us down to sleep."

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

The mastery of books will give you the mastery of the arts and sciences and the mastery of men. There was never a time when boys and girls thought more of their books than they do in this age. But it is also true that many boys and girls do not prize their books as much as they should.

There was a time when books were scarce and hard to get. They were mighty expensive, too, and a great many people could not afford them. If we go back in history far enough, there was a time where there were no books at all. Books in those days would have been of no use, anyway, because the people couldn't have read them if they had them. Gradually the people in the civilized world became educated in some degree and because they wanted other people to benefit by their experiences and discoveries, they left behind them the stories of their lives and accomplishments in writing.

As time went on people with the aid of these records and their own discoveries and inventions became more and more learned and the stories of their lives were left behind them in the form of books. So, today, we can trace back for many, many years, the progress of education, art, music, science and invention.

Books are books valuable to us, for without them we know little of the conditions that existed in the world hundreds of years ago and practically nothing of the lives and accomplishments of our ancestors. All that knowledge they gained through perseverance and hard work would be a closed door to us. There are good books and there are bad books. We should greatly prize our good books and shun the bad ones.

School books are the guides to knowledge and for this reason boys and girls should strive to master them. Don't let them master you. They are the keys of wisdom and pleasure and afford treasures to the mind which money cannot buy.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

The Value of Education.

Dear Uncle Jed: Education is the most important thing in the world. People would be wild if it wasn't for education. I enjoy school to study many different interesting studies or subjects. I also like to meet some of my faithful friends or playmates. Many children enjoy school. All do like school who think of success. The sun of success never shone on any pupil or person yet, who did not give his work first place. To reach success is to strive ahead. There's a time to study and time to play but do not play until your work is done. The student who gives up easily has a small chance of getting anywhere. A prospect turns a student down occassionally but don't allow that to discourage you. If you don't succeed the first time, try, try again. Prominent men do not think of quitting education, but keep pushing ahead, think that there is much to do. Giving up never entered their minds. That never-ceasing effort caused them to get ahead, and the achievement encouraged them to put forth even greater efforts right along. Reaching success will be possible for us only by constant effort.

Students cannot be cheated out of education in life unless they cheat themselves by wasting or side-stepping duties. Life has given people or students many opportunities but they have missed them by laziness. Be brave in the face of difficulties. Never become discouraged by temporary setbacks, but always have the backbone to keep trying and working with an unfailing determination to win.

Education is the pathway through life. I also enjoy school because of our faithful teacher, Mr. Lee, who tries to hlep us to be a success in our subjects, and tries in all ways to help us.

I attend the Gurleyville grammar school. I am in the eighth grade, and thirteen years old.

RICHARD SANGER, Age 13.
Eagleville.

Why I Like School.

Dear Uncle Jed: I will write on what I like best about school and why. There are eight kinds of studies, but the best I like is English. It teaches us many things.

First it teaches us to speak properly; second it teaches us to write proper sentences, and third it teaches us to speak before people. There are many other things English is good for.

Oftentimes we meet people and stop to talk with them. Every word they speak they stutter, until we are tired of hearing them talk, and try to walk away from them without hurting their feelings.

Another reason I like school is because my teacher teaches me many things. I am in the sixth grade and am eleven years old.

AGNES JOHNSON, Age 11.

What I Did Christmas.

Dear Uncle Jd: I am going to tell you how I spent my Christmas vacation.

Saturday morning before Christmas, I got up at half past seven. I went down stairs and saw my mother and sister getting breakfast. I asked my mother when we were going to get our Christmas tree. She said, "This afternoon." I helped them get breakfast ready. In the afternoon my sisters and I went to search for the Christmas tree.

The rest of the afternoon we were decorating the house for Christmas. On Monday we put the Christmas tree in the parlor. Christmas morning I awoke when my sister was saying "Merry Christmas." I dressed quickly and ran down stairs. I opened the door. My sisters drew back in surprise. One of my sisters handed us our presents.

ANGELINA FERRO, Age 12.
Jewett City.

School Life.

Dear Uncle Jed and the Wide-Awakes: The story that I am going to write is an original story of school life.

A grammar school education is very important. It helps to develop our minds for further studies, gives us an idea of the work, and also prepares for future life.

Reading and writing are the most important studies. We could hardly get along without them.

I like the diversions of our school best. When we have plays the teacher chooses the best pupils to take parts. This inspires us all to do good work. It would be very monotonous if we only had our daily lessons day after day without any diversion to look forward to.

When you meet with people you must be up-to-date so you can bring up interesting subjects. If we do our lessons properly we can always find a little time to ourselves.

ROSE DEUTSCH, Age 12.
Baltic.

My Christmas Vacation.

Dear Uncle Jd: I am going to tell you how I spent my Christmas vacation. Monday was a nice day but I did not feel well. My friends invited me to sleep at their house Christmas eve, but my mother didn't let me go.

At night my friends came to my house for me. Then my mother let me go. We went into the house, took off our wraps, and my friends showed me their Christmas tree. When I saw the tree I was quite surprised.

Christmas morning we went down stairs to see if we got anything for Christmas.

Tuesday was New Year's day. It was quite a windy day, and I thought I would not have a good time, but later in the day I went to my friends' house, and there I spent a happy time.

LEONORA PETLICKA, Age 10.

A Story About Cocoanuts.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the cocoanut that we see in the stores about Christmas time. It is the fruit of the cocoanut tree. The cocoanut tree is one of the best known, as well as the most useful of the palm trees.

The cocoa palm is found in nearly all tropical countries. It thrives best in sandy soil near the sea. The tree which is from one to two feet in diameter, grows to a height of from 60 to 100 feet.

Its leaves are eighteen to twenty feet long. It has a branchless trunk. The leaves are always at the top. From five to six new leaves grow every year. The old ones drop off.

MILDRED J. DOUDA, Age 9.

The American Indians.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you about Indians. The natives were first seen in America by Columbus. They were the Indians. They were of a copper color, black, course hair and high cheek bones.

Their food was corn, beans and squashes. They gathered wild berries, nuts and roots and they went hunting and fishing. They lived in tents, called wigwams, made of skins placed over poles. Other tribes made better homes.

ANTHONY F. DOUDA, Age 7.

The Indian Well.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write a few words about the Indian well. Many, many years ago, in Gurleyville, there use to live Indians. One thing they made for us is the Indian well, and another is the Indian cave.

The Indian well is in Mr. Dimock's woods, and the Indian cave is there also.

I sometimes think that the Indians used to sleep in this cave and think how they would light the fire right beside it. Perhaps the Indians used to drink out of this well. I am in the third grade and am nine years old.

NORMAN JOHNSON. Age 9.

Her First Letter.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide-Awake Circle. I am in the fifth rade. Our music teacher is making us memorize some songs. I think it very nice and not hard to do.

AGNES BERTHAUME, Age 11.

Our Farm.

Dear Uncle Jed: I live on a farm. I am seven miles from Willimantic, and about two and a quarter from Storrs college. I live less than a mile from the Gurleyville grammar school. I have one sister and one brother. My sister goes to Willimantic High school. My brother and I go to the Gurleyville grammar school. We have a very large school. There are 37 in it.

This year my brother and I had Flexible Flyer sleds for Christmas. We use them at home and at school, too.

HOLLIS WOOD, Age 9.

Only Six Years Old.

Dear Uncle Jed: We have exercises in our school and we do what our teacher tells us to do. I go after the milk for my mother. I go to school every day. I am six years old and I go to Gurleyville school.

VIOLA CADY, Age 6.

The Passing of 1923.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide-Awakes. I am writing a story about the conversation between the Old Year and the New Year.

"Old Year," cried a young voice from a distance, "how much longer are you going to stay on earth? You know I may not come down until you go away."

"Not very long my child," answered a weak voice. "I shall very soon go to join the years that have gone before me." "Well," said the young voice, "before you go, will you tell me how you have spent your life?" "I will have time to tell you only a few of my adventures," replied the Old Year. "When I arrived on earth, I was joyfully greeted and named 1923 A. D. I have done some good things, but I have also been guilty of some wrong things for which I am very sorry. For example, I have brought a terrible earthquake in Japan. I also saw President Harding die.

I do hope you will bless the earth with peace. He was about to tell some more of his story, when the pinging of distant bells was heard. He counted the strokes. There were just twelve. "Now," said he, turning toward the New Year," you may come down, for I am going away." The New Year did not wait to be told twice. In one jump he was on earth and greeted as the "Year 1924."

What I Suffered In Europe.

Dear Uncle Jed: As I have come to a country where I have enough food and don't suffer as I did in Europe, I will tell you how I suffered there. There were times that we didn't have anything to eat and not a drop of water. Food cost very high prices, but they would not pay the workman high prices so that they would be able to buy food. They would lock the yards and put policemen on watch and would not let you go down to buy anything. They would lock the water up and one couldn't even get a drink. You couldn't buy a pound of potatoes because it cost about a half a dollar and if you did buy you would buy frozen potatoes.

That is why so many people die in Europe. Every day you could see about twenty funerals going by. I hope the Wide-Awakes will enjoy reading my story.

BELLA SCHWARTZ, Age 14.

The Birth of Jesus.

Dear Uncle Jed: When Joseph and Mary went to Bethlehem there was no room in the inn for them. So they had to spend the night in a stable. While they were spending the night in the stable Jesus was born.

HENRIETTE DUPHILY, Age 8.
Norwich.

Jesus Born In Bethlehem.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written to the Wide-Awakes. One night while the three shepherds were watching their sheep, an angel came down and told them to follow the star which was shining in the east. They followed and it led to a manger. They saw little Jesus in a crib. An angel came and told the people in the village that Jesus was born. Then they each came with a little gift. So from that time the people give presents to each other on Christmas day.

ANDREW TOMASKOVIC.
Mansfield.

Gold.

Dear Uncle Jed: Gold is not only precious but beautiful. It is found almost everywhere. The water in the sea has more gold in it than has been taken out of the earth. Gold is in many kinds of rock, chiefly in quarts. Once in a while a great lump of gold is found. It is called a nugget. The gold that is found in rock is much smaller than that dug up from the ground. When gold is pure it is soft as lead. It cannot be made for coinage or made for jewelry until it is hardened by mixing with some other metal.

In 1904 Australasia mined the most gold in the world. United States mined nearly the same amount. There are many colors of gold as green, red, white and yellow. Eighteen karat fine gold has in it 18 parts of pure gold and six parts of other metals. Gold will not rust. It is one of the most lasting of all kinds of metals. The word "gold" is Anglo-Saxon.

ANNA BUGBEE, Age 12.
Jewett City.

Another New Member.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would like to be one of your Wide-Awake children, so I am going to write you a letter and tell you about my Christmas. I was invited to my grandmother's to dinner. After dinner we had a Christmas tree. The tree was small but loaded with presents for all. I received a great many gifts. Santa was very good to me. My cousin and I had a football together. I had an Eversharp pencil, two neckties, a sweater, a picture frame, two games, two handkerchiefs, three blouses and many other gifts. I hope you and all the Wide-Awakes had as merry a Christmas as I did. Our vacation is over but we enjoy going to school for we have nice times together at noon and recess. I wish you a happy New Year.

CHARLES A. COX, Age 8.
Lebanon.

In the Fall.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to the Wide-Awakes for a long while but have enjoyed the letters very much. I think the fall is the most pleasant season of the whole year. I like the color of the turning leaves as they twist about among the branches.

When the oats are being reaped it is always a sure sign "fall is near." In the fall when the fruits begin to get mellow and the birds are singing their last farewells it reminds me of the drawing near of Thanksgiving. The people who live in the south do not enjoy the change of weather from season to season.

When my grandfather and uncle reap the grains and the grass I enjoy watching the mowing machine cut the grass so slick and smooth. It is great fun to walk in the fields where the grass has just been cut and take the oats to make straws to sip the delicious cider.

When my cousin and I go together in the fields he always says, "This reminds me of the time when the Pilgrims thanked God for their golden harvests."

I sincerely wish that all the Wide-Awakes, including Uncle Jed, had a merry Christmas, and wish them a happy New Year.

MILDRED KINNE, Age 11.

Trip to Massachusetts.

Dear Uncle Jed: Last Sunday father took me to Massachusetts. On our way we saw a mother deer with her little one. They were shivering with cold. We did not see them long for they scampered into the woods. We got there at ten o'clock Sunday morning. My cousin and I went to the show in the afternoon. When we came home from the show, father said it was time to go home. I was glad to go home for I was tired. I told mother about all the fun we had. That night I went to bed very early and slept very good.

RENA GAUMOND, Age 11.

The Kitten and the Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a little kitten. Her name is Cathrine and she is six months old. I also have a dog. He is a watch dog. His name is Dick. He is two and a half years old. He is very pretty. He proteqts the little kitten and likes to do it. I have never seen them fighting. He is very gentle and playful.

When I go out he wants to follow me but I chase him back to watch the house and the kitten. One hot summer day I went out and took a walk. When I came home I found my cat purring. I thought the dog had bitten her. I didn't know what to think. At dinner time I went to give him his bone, but I looked and I looked, but couldn't find him. I later found out from my neighbor that he had gone away because he was tired of minding the kitten and the house. He was gone three days. I shall never forget that nice dog and his tricks. He could stand on his forefeet just like a man.

CELIA SILVERMAN, Age 10.
Norwich.

A Clever Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide-Awake circle. One day my father bought me a dog. He trained it to be a hunter. One day a lady came over to see my mother. She went to pick me up and the dog jumped for her. But he did not hurt her. I was about three years of age. I used to take him out and play with him. When I used to eat I would give him half of it. He would not let any boy touch me. My pet dog would not let my ferret alone when I brought him in the house. I hope some of the Wide-Awakes have a pet.

CELIA BARANSKI, Age 10.

A Queer Scholar.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written for a long time. I hope the Wide-Awakes will like my story. One frosty morning in December there appeared among the scholars a strange little fellow with a large head, great eyes, long straight hair, a very thin body, and legs that looked like reeds, they were so slender. He could not have been more than ten years of age, to judge by his size, though his face looked far older. His clothes were worn and patched, and altogether, he had the appearance of having been frost-bitten. When the master asked his name, the new comer answered, "Christopher Columbus Risdale," in a shrill, piping voice as queer as his weird and shrunken body.

RUTH BOSWORTH, Age 12.

Playing Hospital.

Dear Uncle Jed: One very warm afternoon we were playing hospital. We said our dolls were sick and made them stay in bed all afternoon. We didn't want to let them get up because we were afraid they would catch cold. When it was time for supper we brought them their food. I wonder if they do the same in real, big hospitals.

ANNA LAJEUNESSE, Age 12.

Pigeons Flew Away.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day while I was on my way to school I saw two pigeons in the street. I had a few peanuts and thought I would give them to them. They flew away when I threw the peanuts to them.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Starting A Show

"Good luck to you!" said the pretty bird when Little Jack Rabbit and the lovely maiden were safely outside the castle walls. "Take the road to your right," and away went Dapple Gray at a gallop.

By and by, as morning came, and all the little birds began to sing in the treesand the deer to run down to drink in the lake, a stately castle came in to view.

"There is my home, good, kind little bunny," said the lovely maiden.

Pretty soon Dapple Gray stopped at

At once the bear began to dance.

Doffing his feather cap, Little Jack Rabbit waited only long enough to tell the Lord of the castle, how he had rescued his daughter and then galloped away on his good little pony. E and by, after a while, he had anothe adventure. Near the roadside, a mi with a tame bear stood beneath a tre On seeing the bunny boy on Dappl Gray he began to laugh. "Ho, ho, Si Rabbit. You and I would make merry pair, traveling from town town, A fine show for all boys and girl Think of the pennies we could ge for you are a good rider, and my bea can perform many tricks.

"Very well," said Little Jack Rab bit to the man, "My pony and I wi join you, and, on reaching the fir town we will see what we can do.

So they all set out together, the ma leading the trained bear and the bunn boy on Dapple Gray. After a while and maybe a mile, they came to a li tle village in the middle of which w a park. Just then, all of the chil ren came running out of the scho house nearby.

"The circus has come to town! they shouted.

"Dance, Bruno!" said the man t the bear, and he commenced to play o a funny little fiddle.

At once the bear began to dan moving his head this way and tha the bells on his cap jingled to th music.

"Jingle bells and fiddle dee! dee. My dancing bear is a sight to see. He can dance on one leg at a tim Keeping step to my music's rh Fiddle dee dum and fiddle dee dum I would go miles such a sight to see.

"Hurrah!" cried all the little boy and girls, and in the next story yo shall hear what happened after that.
